THE WELLS FAMILY.

THE Wells, or Welles family, in England, is of very ancient origin, clearly traceable back, it is claimed, to the time of the Norman conquest. About 1635 several families of that name (which was then sometimes spelled Wells, but oftener Welles,) emigrated from England to Massachusetts. Some of these families remained in the eastern part of that state, others went to Rhode Island, others to Hartford and other towns in Connecticut, and still others to Hatfield and Hadley, in the western part of Massachusetts; so that we find at a very early day—before 1660—persons bearing that name in many towns of New England. It is probable that (1) Thomas Wells of Ipswich was the earliest emigrant of that name who settled in this country. He came as early as 1635, and, perhaps, a year earlier. Savage, in his Genealogical Dictionary of New England, states that he came in 1635, on the "Susan and Ellen," from London, with young Richard Saltonstall, when thirty years of age.

The following interesting article is copied from the New England Genealogical Register, Vol. 4, pages 11 and 12:

- 1 "THOMAS WELLS was one of the earliest English inhabitants of Ipswich. He took the Freeman's oath at Boston, May 7, 1637. He had a house lot granted to him in 1635, on the south side of the river, near where the Stone Bridge now is, and afterwards, in 1638, 'planting lands' near 'Heart-break Hill.' He probably came here from Essex, England, having had relatives at Colchester, in that county, at the time of his decease in 1666. He married Abigail, a daughter of William Warner, sister of Daniel and John Warner, all of them people of consideration among the first settlers. He left three sons, Nathaniel, the eldest, John and Thomas, and five daughters, Sarah Massie of Salem, Abigail Tredwell of Ipswich, Elizabeth, Hannah and Lydia. The last-named became Lydia Ropes before the decease of her mother in 1671. Nathaniel, the eldest son, with his wife, Lydia, continued to reside in Ipswich until after the decease of his mother, who bequeaths to him the 'flax now growing.' His father transferred to John, by a deed of gift, all his lands in Wells, Me., being about three hundred and fifty acres. To Thomas, the youngest son, the father, by his will, dated July 3, 1666, bequeaths two hundred and fifty pounds sterling, to be paid him 'when he come to the age of 22 years, 4 months and 10 days.' By the same instrument, it appears that he was born '11th 11th mo., 1646,' or January 11, 1647, of the present style. Why this precise period was fixed on for the payment of the legacy does not appear. Is it possible that the good Deacon could have dabbled in astrology? He also provides for the contingency of his son's 'goeing to the colledge,' and bequeaths to him 'all the books I bought for his use, and my phissic books, and the books called orthodox evangelist.' Two books which would probably come under the latter description, 'The Soul's Preparation for Christ,' and 'Parkins upon the Creed,' he had given to his daughters. From this bequest of 'phissic books,' the inference is drawn that he was a physician. The evidence is not quite conclusive, yet I know of no other. The books were appraised at £8 6s. 3d., a respectable medical library for those days. This was probably the Thomas Wells who, according to Farmer, was the first minister of Amesbury, ordained in 1672, and died July 10, 1734, aged eighty-six. If so, he was eighty-seven years and six months old at the time of his decease."

From the above, and from the will of Deacon Thomas' Wells of Ipswich, our first ancestor in America, and other evidence, it appears that he married Abigail, daughter of William Warner of Boxted, Essex Co., England. (See Warner 2.)

St. Botolphs Register, page 53, Colchester, Essex Co., England, has the following marriage record: "Thomas Wells of ———, single, and Abygall Warner of ———, single, the 23rd July, 1630."

The parishes or places to which they belong are illegible, but this is undoubtedly the record of the marriage of Deacon Thomas Wells. He probably came to America alone in order to acquaint himself with the condition of affairs in the new world before deciding to bring his family over. His impressions must have been favorable, for he soon became a freeman and received grants of land for a homestead, and had a house ready for his wife when, in 1637, she came to America with her father, William Warner, and her brothers, Daniel and John.

The Register of St. Botolphs, in Colchester, also contains the following record of a christening, which date would appear to prove it to be that of our first ancestor: "Thomas Wells, the son of Thos. Wells, the 11th of December, 1605."

DANIEL WELLS, JR.

WATERVILLE, ME., AND MILWAUKEE, WIS.

A COMPLETE record of the career of him whose name heads this sketch would involve a recital of all the leading events of the history of Milwaukee, where he has lived the past sixty-seven years. He was one of that band of hardy pioneers whose faith in the future of the Northwest nerved them to lay broad and deep the foundations of the city, and whose dauntless courage and sturdy enterprise have marked the progress of her remarkable growth. But his labors have not been limited to his own city; from early manhood his life has been one of unusual activity and enterprise and public spirit, and distinguished by that success which follows honorable, faithful and conscientious effort. He was born on July 16, 1808, at Waterville, Kennebec County, Maine, the son of Daniel Wells, a well-to-do farmer, who also owned and managed a custom carding and cloth-dressing mill. He inherited from his New England ancestry those qualities of industry, frugality and honesty which have characterized his life. He passed his boyhood with his father on the farm and in the mill, and went to school during the winters when opportunity offered. Before he was twenty years old he taught school two winters, devoting his spare time to the study of navigation. He was independent and ambitious, and always ready for a business venture.

In 1830 he invested his savings in a stock of apples, cider, butter, cheese, dry goods, etc., which he took to Magnolia, near St. Mark's, Florida, where a New England colony had settled. Going thence to Tallahassee he chanced to meet one Robert B. Kerr, who was a private tutor in the family of General Butler, Surveyor General of Florida. Mr. Kerr had been offered by General Butler a contract for surveying a large tract of government land in eastern Florida, but lack of money prevented his accepting. Ready for any honorable enterprise, Mr. Wells agreed to furnish the money needed, and disposing of his stock of goods at a handsome profit, he purchased the required outfit. The work of the survey began on December 25. Mr. Wells, making good use of his knowledge of navigation and mathematics, with the help of Mr. Kerr, became proficient in the science of surveying. The survey of some five hundred miles, for which they received four dollars per mile, was completed the latter part of March, 1831. The venture was a profitable one for Mr. Wells, although it cost him dearly, for he was sick several months with chills and fever, as a result of his hardships and exposure in the Florida swamps. In September, 1831, he engaged in business at Palmyra, Maine, having shipped thither a stock of goods which he purchased in Boston.

While at Palmyra he married Miss Marcia Bryant, daughter of Dr. Bezer Bryant, of North Anson, Somerset County, Maine, on November 23, 1831. He conducted his business with success until the spring of 1835. While a resident of Maine, Mr. Wells held the different offices of Justice of the Peace, Selectman, Town-Clerk, Assessor and Overseer of the Poor. It was at this time that he became so impressed with the possibilities of the West, that he went thither in company with Mr. Winthrop W. Gilman, also a native of Waterville. The following pertaining to this trip is from a letter published in the Waterville, Mail, August 21, 1885:

“Upon the arrival of the boat at Milwaukee, July 27, 1835, Wells left it and Gilman went on to Chicago, where he remained a short time; thence he returned to Maine. Previous to the arrival of the boat at Milwaukee, the two had formed an agreement for the joint investment of their money in lots and lands in what is now the eastern part of Wisconsin. To Wells was intrusted the business of making the investments; so Gilman turned over to him his money, amounting to $7,000. * * * The country between this place (Milwaukee) and Green Bay was heavily timbered, and when Wells made his first trip there on horseback through the pathless woods, he had to make it by the compass. Sometimes he would find an impassable swamp ahead. He would then withdraw and find a passage around the swamp. He carried all his own and Gilman’s money about his person.”

A letter written August 30, 1835, to a friend in Maine (Jacob Hazen Kimball), will best describe his impressions of the country:

GREEN BAY, August 30, 1835.

FRIEND KIMBALL:

The mail has just arrived and I am much disappointed in not getting a letter from you.

I returned last Friday from an exploring expedition through the country, having been out ten days, camping out nights. The country south of here is generally good, soil fully equal to that of New York. After leaving here my route was up Fox river some forty miles to Lake Winnebago. The land along the river has been considerably cultivated by the Indians (Stockbridges) who appear to be as well civilized as the whites and have good crops of wheat and corn growing. June 21st there was a frost damaging the corn, also August 23d which killed the vines.

After leaving the lake our course was easterly to the head waters of the Manitowoc river which we followed to its mouth, riding in its bed a good part of the way.

Some good farming lands on this river but not well watered. I traveled twenty miles in one direction without finding any brooks that contained water, their beds being all dry. Some good pine and mill sites, however, which I may possibly buy. I have purchased considerable real estate at Milwaukee, mostly village property.

The land about Milwaukee is the best in the territory, and as Milwaukee is the only harbor for some distance either way on the lake it must of necessity become a place of great importance. It is now laid out in lots for two miles north and south and one and a half miles east and west, which lots will, I think, sell immediately for from $100 to $1,000, and much money has been made speculating in lots already.

I think money can be made here in the lumbering business if one had capital, as all kinds of lumber sell readily and for high figures. The winter is the same here as in New England or nearly the same.

The settlers will all get their claims for $1.25 per acre, as it is considered very mean to bid against them; some of them have already sold their claims at high figures, in one case for $8,000. I have also entered a few lots of land at ten shillings per acre.

There is a mill at the mouth of the Menomonee owned by Farnsworth & Brush, which they wish to sell, together with a large quantity of pine land of the best quality, for $40,000; have been offered $30,000. But I must close this letter as the mail is about leaving.

Respectfully yours,

D. WELLS, JR.

“The public sale of government land in Wisconsin was held at Green Bay in August, 1835. This sale Mr. Wells attended and made some purchases. But the greater part of his purchases was made of private parties. His principal purchases were of lots and land here, though he bought some lands at Manitowoc. In some cases the whole purchase price was paid down. In others only a part of the purchase money was paid; the balance was on time and generally secured by mortgage. His whole purchases exceeded the joint funds of himself and Gilman. The next year he and Mr. Gilman made a division of the lots and lands purchased on their joint account.”

Returning to Palmyra, Mr. Wells arranged to move his effects to Milwaukee, to the great regret of his eastern friends, who regarded the departure from them of one who had been so public-spirited as little less than a public calamity; this sentiment was embodied in a set of resolutions, adopted at a mass-meeting of his fellow-citizens, expressing in heartfelt words their tender and high regard for him as a friend and a citizen. Accompanied by his wife he left his home in April, and arrived in Milwaukee on May 19, 1836.

He now turned his knowledge of surveying to good account in the young city, which was expanding in all directions, and soon became known as a trustworthy and enterprising citizen. Recognizing his abilities, Governor Henry Dodge, on August 2, 1836, appointed him Justice of the Peace for Milwaukee County, comprising what is now Milwaukee, Washington, Ozaukee, Jefferson, Racine, Walworth and Kenosha Counties. This was under the first organization of the Territory of Wisconsin, which took effect July 4, 1836. On March 13, 1837, he was elected a member of the Executive Committee of the Claim Organization, formed to protect the squatter until he could get title to his land from the Government. In 1838 he was made one of the Trustees for the East Side of Milwaukee, and on September 4th of that year was appointed Probate Judge. In 1841 he was elected one of Milwaukee's first Fire Wardens, his associates in office being Alexander Mitchell and Maurice Pixley. He rendered efficient service as Under-Sheriff in 1842, and on April 3d of that year was appointed Commissioner in Bankruptcy, and he held the office until the repeal of the bankrupt law. He also held the offices of County Supervisor and Town Surveyor.

In 1836 he made the first survey and plat of town lots on the South Side of Milwaukee, surveying then the tract known as Walker's Point Addition. He also surveyed and platted tracts in the First and Seventh Wards. But of all his varied services in those early days, that as a member of the Territorial Council to which he was elected in the fall of 1838, was, perhaps, the most marked. His colleague was Mr. William A. Prentiss. Their district comprised what is now Milwaukee, Waukesha, Ozaukee, Washington and Jefferson Counties. It was the first session of the legislature held at Madison, and in the absence of a State house, which was not yet ready for occupancy, the council convened in a dining-room of a hotel. The body was composed of men of ability, whose work was of lasting good to the State. The territory had theretofore been governed under the laws of Michigan and the special work of these legislators was to enact a code of laws suited to their own needs. Mr. Wells served on the Committees on Territorial Affairs, Finance, Ways and Means, Schools, Territorial Roads and Enrollment. His efforts were especially directed to secure measures beneficial to his own city, and among the important measures whose passage he secured was that authorizing his county to build a bridge across the Milwaukee river. The right to bridge a navigable stream was strenuously denied and much litigation ensued, but the enactment was fully sustained by the courts. He also secured the passage of a law, as a protection to actual settlers and against non-resident land-owners who had monopolized large tracts during the land excitement of 1836, for speculative purposes, to the effect that taxes should be assessed against the land alone and not against the improvements thereon. This law rendered necessary by the exigencies of the times remained in force until the Territory of Wisconsin became a State. This was probably the first law of the kind ever enacted, and though it disappeared with the circumstances that called it out, the idea is now adopted by certain advocates of reform in the principle of taxation. A similar law is now in force in Australia and is mentioned by Mr. Holden, Treasurer of South Australia, as coming from America and beginning "the record of new ideas in taxation." Another important service by Mr. Wells that should not be overlooked, was in preparing and securing the passage, through a legislature hostile to banking in any form, of the charter of the Wisconsin Marine and Fire Insurance Company. The strength and legal exactness of that document were fully tested in 1844, when the legislature tried in vain to repeal it. Although elected for four years, Mr. Wells resigned at the end of his fourth session, which closed August 14, 1840. His next public office was as Commissioner from Wisconsin to the World's Exposition, held in the Crystal Palace at London, in 1851; while abroad he visited Scotland, Ireland, France and other European countries, and returned home in March, 1852.

In his political affiliations, Mr. Wells was originally a Whig. After settling in Milwaukee the interests of the territory governed him in common with his associates, and little regard was had for party distinction prior to the organization of the State government. Since that event he has acted with the Democratic Party, though not always supporting their measures. He opposed the Kansas-Nebraska policy of his party, and during the War of the Rebellion was an earnest supporter of the Union cause. In 1852 he was elected, as against Mr. Durkee, the nominee of the Free-Soil Party, and Mr. Durand of the Whigs, to represent the First District of Wisconsin in the Thirty-third Congress which assembled on December 5, 1853. Here his course was characterized by devotion to the interests of his State which had received but little attention from the general Government, and while he made no pretensions as a public speaker, his influence in the committee-room was marked. The following were among the early measures introduced by him:

“A bill granting right-of-way and granting alternate sections of the public lands to the State of Wisconsin and its grantees and assigns, to aid in the construction of a railroad from Milwaukee to Prairie du Chien, on the Mississippi river.

“A bill giving the right-of-way and granting alternate sections of land to the State of Wisconsin and its grantees and assigns to further the construction of a certain railway therein specified.

“A bill giving right-of-way and granting alternate sections of public lands to the States of Michigan and Wisconsin and their grantees and assigns to further the construction of certain railroads therein specified.”

He also introduced a bill providing for the purchase of a site and the erection of a suitable building at Milwaukee for a postoffice and custom house, and secured an appropriation of fifty thousand dollars therefore which, at the next session, was increased by an additional appropriation of thirty-eight thousand dollars.

When, in 1891, the government made an appropriation for a new postoffice and a site further east on Wisconsin street was selected, Mr. Wells bought the land and old custom house which the city originally secured through his efforts and on that site has been erected the splendid office building which bears his name.

During the same session he introduced a resolution instructing the Committee on Postoffice and Post-roads to report a bill reducing ocean postage to a uniform rate of ten cents each on letters not exceeding one-half ounce in weight, and followed it by securing the passage of a joint resolution by the Wisconsin legislature, relating to cheap postage. He also introduced a measure relating to foreign and coasting trade on the northern and northeastern and northwestern frontiers. At the session of 1854 he introduced bills making appropriations for the improvement of Milwaukee, Racine and Kenosha harbors. In appreciation of his great service, he was re-elected to the Thirty-fourth Congress, which opened December 3, 1855. The candidates for Speaker of the House were William A. Richardson, Lewis D. Campbell, Humphrey Marshall and N. P. Banks. It was a close contest, and day after day passed without any choice being made; the difficulty arose from the fact that it required a majority vote to elect. Mr. Wells, having regard for the good of the whole country rather than the triumph of any party, went quietly to work among his friends, and secured eleven Democrats, beside himself, who were willing to vote for a plurality rule; such a rule was adopted on the 1st of February, 1856, after nearly two months of balloting, and, on the first ballot under that rule, Mr. Banks was elected. Mr. Wells' action in this matter won him the respect and confidence of the leaders in the House, and gave him great influence. Chiefly by his influence and efforts were secured the valuable land grants for railroads in Minnesota, in the Congress of 1855-57. At the end of his second term he declined to become a candidate again, though strongly urged to do so, feeling that his private affairs demanded his whole attention.

Much as his time had been devoted to public matters, Mr. Wells' position and service as a business man and citizen of Milwaukee must not be overlooked. Through his early purchases of land he became one of the most extensive dealers in real estate, and was from an early day, a promoter of public improvements. In 1844 he built the present Kirby House, which was opened under the name of City Hotel, being the first brick hotel in the city. From 1847 to 1849 he was a member of the firm of Dousman & Wells, engaged in shipping and storage, and also in buying and selling grain and other farm products; during that time, in 1848, he was one of the organizers of the Madison, Watertown & Milwaukee Plank Road Company. From 1849 to 1856, associated with Mr. Horatio Hill, under the name of Wells & Hill, he conducted a large trade in grain and wool. Since 1847, when, in connection with Mr. Sinclair, he built the large lumber mill at Escanaba, Mich., he has held extensive interests in the lumber trade, and, besides his interest in this plant, he is at the present time (1902) a one-third owner in the N. Ludington Company; the Ludington, Wells & Van Schaick Company; the H. Whitbeck Company; the I. Stephenson Company; Peshtigo Lumber Company; Escanaba River Company; Menomonee Boom Company Paper Mill, and the Escanaba & Lake Superior Railway. In banking circles he has for many years been prominent. He was a stockholder and Director in the Wisconsin Marine and Fire Insurance Company until its reorganization under the State law; for many years President of the Green Bay Bank, he held the same office after that institution became the First National Bank of La Crosse. He was Vice-President of the old Board of Trade, during its short existence, and for many years has been a member of the Milwaukee Chamber of Commerce. He is now a Director of the Northwestern National Insurance Company. He has always favored all measures tending to the development of railroads in the Northwest. The Northern Pacific Railroad had no firmer friend than he, and as long ago as 1847, when a bill to incorporate the Milwaukee & Mississippi Railroad passed the Wisconsin legislature, he was named as one of the Commissioners therein. Laboring under the greatest obstacles, and in the face of countless discouragements, he with his associates accomplished results that entitle them to the highest distinction as public benefactors. He served in a like capacity in securing the Milwaukee & Watertown Railroad, which afterwards became the La Crosse Division of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. He was President of the La Crosse & Milwaukee Railroad and was also President and a Director of the Southern Minnesota and of the St. Paul & Minnesota Valley Railroads.

In Professor Sherman's Memorial to the late Dr. I. A. Lapham is printed a letter from Mr. Wells to Commissioner Holloway, showing his wide interest in subjects of benefit to the country:

MILWAUKEE, WIS., April 4, 1861.

SIR: During President Pierce's administration, and when the Hon. Charles Mason, of Iowa, was Commissioner of Patents, Mr. I. A. Lapham, of this city, suggested to the Commissioner and some members of the Committee on Agriculture, the importance of the grasses of the United States, and proposed to collect, catalogue and describe the various grasses, and embody the results in a report to be published in the Patent Office Report on Agriculture. The committee, at the time, reported favorably on the plan; an appropriation was made to defray the expenses of the person who should be appointed to this duty. At the request of the Commissioner and myself, Mr. Lapham went to Washington and, in fact, spent much time and no inconsiderable sum of money in gathering facts and matters for a preliminary report on the above subject.

As far as scientific attainments are concerned, it was admitted by every one that Mr. Lapham is amply competent to discharge the full duty of this service, but I regret to say the Secretary of the Interior thought he could not consistently appoint a person to so responsible and important an office whose political sentiments did not, in all respects, coincide with those of the party in power. By this, I think, a great wrong was done to Mr. Lapham, and the public at large lost the services of a public benefactor; for I fully believe there is no one product of the earth of so much value as the grasses.

I trust you will find it consistent with your duties to take up this matter, connected as it is with your branch of the government, and to appoint Mr. Lapham to a suitable position in the Agricultural Department of your Bureau, that he may be able to proceed with the investigation of this subject. There is no doubt as to his qualifications; he can furnish the amplest testimony from the best authorities in this department of science. Besides, I think Mr. Lapham has a just and valid claim on the government for the time and money he has expended in connection with this business. Judge Mason so stated to me, but said there were technical difficulties in the way of its payment; and up to this time he has received no compensation whatever.

Very respectfully,

DANIEL WELLS, JR.

HON. D. P. HOLLOWAY,

Commissioner of Patents,

Washington, D. C.

In 1876 Mr. Wells received a letter from Professor Sherman in which he said: "From many sources have been received letters from those to whom the Memorial was sent expressing their gratification. I really did not know that he (Mr. Lapham) was personally so highly esteemed as these letters show, and yours is the best of all."

In Vol. I, on page 31, of the History of Milwaukee, edited by Howard L. Conard, he says:

“Of the pioneers of '35 it may be said that they were, in the main, brave, hardy and intelligent, and they came here prepared to endure hardships, to suffer numerous privations, to overcome difficulties and to contribute their full share to the building up of a new commonwealth. Some of them were long-time residents of the city, and a few have acquired unusual distinction. Most conspicuous of them all, perhaps, is Daniel Wells, Jr., who at this time (1895) still lives to link the past with present history. Of New England origin and antecedents, he came west well equipped, so far as economic training and natural endowments were concerned, to participate in the development of a new country. Although he had not been liberally educated, his broad common sense, tact, sagacity and good judgment, commended him to the pioneers with whom he became associated, and he became at once conspicuous in the conduct of public affairs. He was identified with legislation of vast importance, as a member of the Territorial Council; served with distinction as a member of the National House of Representatives in later years, and has achieved unusual distinction as a business man and financier.”

WELLS BUILDING.

For many years Mr. Wells has declined to take public office of any kind, but his interest in the welfare of his city and State has not abated.

He was a prominent member of the Old Settlers' Club, and its Centennial President, and was among the first to organize the Pioneer Association. It is his pride to be numbered with this noble band of pioneers whose courage and devotion, together with their faith in its future, have done so much to make the wild territory which they first settled the rich and important State which it now is.

He is described in James Buck's History, as "tall and commanding; walks with a slow and measured step, never being in a hurry; voice soft and musical, speaks slowly and distinctly with the Yankee accent strong; is kindly in his manner; has few intimate friends; is very reticent with strangers; cautious of what he says and does; sees all that is going on around him and is seldom, if ever, deceived."

Though in his ninety-fourth year, his tall figure was familiar on the streets of Milwaukee in 1902, and on Friday, March 14th, he was last at the office to confer with Mr. Upham upon business, still keeping in touch with all details. Patiently filling his accustomed place in his home for three days more, the fourth (Tuesday), he passed in sleep, and at evening entered into the other life, gentle, brave and cheerful.

The mere enumeration of the many positions of honor and trust which Mr. Wells has held, is perhaps the most expressive testimonial to his ability and integrity and to the esteem in which he has long been held by his fellow-citizens that could be prepared.

THE BIGELOW FAMILY.

THE Bigelows came to Marlborough, Mass., from Watertown, Mass., between 1690 and 1700. This family was early in the country, and may be traced to a remote period in England, even to the reign of Henry III, when the name was written Baguley and was derived from the place where they dwelt. Richard was at that time Lord of Baguley and his descendants took the name of the place. In the reign of Henry VII, Ralph de Baguley was Lord of Ollerton Hall and died, 1540, leaving Randall and Nicholas. Randall died, 1556, and his sons, Philip and Robert, divided his estate. Robert died, 1582, leaving Randall and John, both of whom moved to Suffolk. Randall died, 1626, leaving two sons, Francis and John. Francis died, 1657, and gave by will a portion of his property to his brother John, then in New England.—Hudson's "History of Marlborough, Mass.," page 325.

This is the earliest marriage found in the town records. She died October 19, 1691, and he married, 2d, October 2, 1694, Sarah Bemis. He died July 14, 1703, aged 86. Inventory, £627 12s. "On the 5th of October, 1705, Mr. John Bigelow (15) of Marlborough, being then in Lancaster at the garrison house of Mr. Thomas Sawyer, was, with Mr. Sawyer and his son Elias, taken by the Indians and carried to Canada. Sawyer was a blacksmith and Bigelow was a carpenter, both ingenious mechanics. While they were at Montreal they turned their mechanical skill to good account. They proposed to the French Governor that, as there was no saw mill in Canada, they would build one, if he would procure their ransom. The offer was accepted; they fulfilled their engagement and, after some delay, they were permitted to return to their friends. Mr. Bigelow, as expressive of his happiness in having been restored to the bosom of his family, called his first daughter born to him after his return 'Comfort,' and the second, born about two years later, 'Freedom,' to manifest his preference for his then present condition over the hardships and fears of a state of captivity."—Hudson's "History of Marlborough, Mass.," page 106.

In February, 1637-8, he received land in the first division of Salisbury in 1640, '41, '42, '54. From the deposition of Smith and Pressey, it appears he visited England in 1650-1. His name heads the list of commoners after the minister in 1650; he paid the largest tax in 1652, and signed the petition of 1658. Maj. Robert and Mrs. Pike were first on the list of members of the Salisbury church in 1687, and he was the most prominent citizen of Salisbury during the last half of the Seventeenth Century. He was Major of the Old Norfolk Regiment May 31, 1670. He was very decided in his opinions, which were liberal, in advance of his time. He has been called "the moral and fearless hero of New England," "the first and strongest representative of the right of petition," the "power which squelched the witchcraft delusion," etc. The full record of his civil and military life may be found in the "New Puritan" (See M. THE WARNER FAMILY.

- 1 1 WILLIAM¹ WARNER, who came from England in 1637 and settled in Ipswich, Mass., brought with him two sons, John and Daniel, and one daughter, Abigail, who married Dea. Thomas Wells.

The family came from Boxted, Essex County, England, and the certificates of baptism of different members of the family are among the Boxted Parish records.

In 1637 the town of Ipswich granted William Warner "a house lot, one acre more or less, on the Mill St." He died probably before 1648, as John and Daniel were both assessed that year, but his name does not appear in the tax list. Sarah, the sister of William Warner, married, 1st, Richard Lumpkin, who died in 1642, and, 2d, Dea. Symonds Stone of Watertown, Middlesex, County. In her will, dated March 25, 1663, she mentions her kinsmen, John and Daniel Warner and Thomes Wells.

THE WARREN FAMILY.

- 1 1 JOHN¹ WARREN came to America in 1630, aged 45 years, and settled in Watertown, Mass.; was admitted freeman May 18, 1631; was selectman 1636 to '40. In 1635 he and Abraham Browne were appointed to lay out all highways and to see that they were repaired. In 1642 he owned land amounting to about 176 acres. October, 1651, he and Thomas Arnold were each fined 20 s. for an offense against the laws concerning baptism. March 14, 1658-9, he was to be warned for not attending public worship, but "Old Warren is not to be found in town." April 4, 1654, he was fined for neglect of public worship, 14 Sabbaths, each 5 s. = £3 10 s. May 27, 1661, the houses of old Warren and good man Hammond were ordered to be searched for Quakers. His wife, Margaret, died November 6, 1662, and he died December 13, 1667, aged 82 years. His will, dated November 30, proved December 17, 1667, mentions the following children, probably all born in England:

THE WHEELWRIGHT FAMILY.

- 1 1 JOHN¹ WHEELRIGHT, an American clergyman, born in Lincolnshire, England, in 1594, died in Salisbury, N. H., November 15, 1679. He was a graduate of Cambridge, and a classmate of Oliver Cromwell, and for some years a clergyman of the established church at Alford, near Boston, Lincolnshire; but in 1636, being driven from his church by Archbishop Laud, he emigrated to Boston in New England, where the same year he was chosen pastor of a branch of the Boston church in what is now Braintree. The celebrated Mrs. Anne Hutchinson was his sister-in-law, and he partook of her views. Differences of opinion led to personal animosities between him and Mr.

Wilson, the pastor of the Boston church; and the General Court in session of 1636-7 appointed a fast, partly to heal these dissensions. On this occasion Mr. Wheelright preached in Boston, and, as his enemies asserted (though the manuscript of the sermon, still in existence, does not justify the assertion), denounced the ministers and magistrates. The General Court pronounced him guilty of sedition and contempt, for which, after some months' delay, he was banished with his friends from the colony. In 1638 he formed a settlement on the banks of the Piscataqua, which he called Exeter. After a residence of five years here, the town was declared to be within the limits of Massachusetts, and he removed with a part of his church to Wells in the district of Maine. In 1644 a reconciliation took place between him and the colonial government of Massachusetts, in consequence of some acknowledgement on his part, and he returned to that colony in 1646, and settled in Hampton, where he remained eight years. In 1654 he published his "Vindication." About 1657 he went to England, where Cromwell received him cordially; but he returned in 1660, and settled as pastor in Salisbury, N. H.—Copied from “The New American Cyclopedia,” edited by George Ripley and Charles A. Dana, Vol. XVI.

Rev. John Wheelwright married, 1st, November 8, 1621, Marie Storre, who died in England; married, 2d, Mary Hutchinson, daughter of Edward and Susanna Hutchinson.

- 2 3 Died in 1700, SAMUEL² WHEELRIGHT, son of Rev. John Wheelright. He was one of the prominent men of the day in which he lived, having very early been called to public life. We must infer from this fact that he was endowed with an intellect superior to that of the generality of men. He came over to New England when an infant; and to Wells, when but six or seven years of age. Here he had no opportunity of attending school. The family moved to Hampton in 1645; afterwards, to Salisbury. The means for education in either of those places must have been very limited; so that his intellectual culture, whatever it was, was acquired from the instructions of his father. He probably came to Wells after he arrived at maturity, his father deeding to him one-half of his farm. When only thirty years old he was clerk of the writs and town clerk. These two offices appear to have been united into one, both in Maine and Massachusetts. He was town clerk twenty-nine years. In 1665 he was appointed lieutenant of the militia. But he does not seem to have been efficient as a military man, being much better fitted for civil life. In 1666 he was appointed Judge of the Inferior Court of Common Pleas. He was chosen County Treasurer in 1674, but declined taking that office; in 1676 he was again chosen by the people, and accepted the situation. In 1677 he was the Representative from York and Wells. In 1681 he was appointed by the king one of the Provincial Council. In 1695 Judge of the Court of Probate, and by William and Mary a Judge of the Court of Common Pleas. So that from the time he came to Wells till his death he was continually in the public service.

- 3 12 Died August 13, 1745, COLONEL JOHN³ WHEELRIGHT, son of Samuel. He was born of parents whose constitutions had been formed by continual contact with the hardships attendant upon frontier life, and educated under influences which trained both mind and body for any warfare. He was a man of war and a host within himself, and was therefore just the man for the times, sent into the world by Providence to assist in protecting the new settlements against the assaults of the French and Indians, and before the close of his life he came to be regarded as the bulwark of Maine against the attacks of its enemies.

He was Town Clerk forty years, also one of the selectmen. He was Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, Judge of Probate and one of the Councilors of the Province. In early manhood he was commissioned as a lieutenant of the militia, afterwards as captain, major and colonel. He was in the service as an officer under Major Convers; went to Pemaquid and Sheepscot, thence to Trebonit, and was afterwards stationed at Fort Mary on Saco river. The government relied upon him with great confidence. He was endowed with a brave and noble spirit, awake to all the interests of the Province as well as those of the town, and prepared for any sacrifice which might become necessary for the common cause. Two companies, under the command of Captains Cutter and Miller, were sent into Maine for operations in the eastern part of the Province. These companies he allowed to take possession of his house and use it for all purposes. The house, though a large one, did not answer their full purposes, and it was taken down by them with the intention of rebuilding; but, being called away and stationed at another place, it was left prostrate and no attempt at its restoration was ever made by the government, or remuneration offered for its destruction. The war with the Indians was renewed in 1704, and he was left to rebuild his garrison house at his own cost. This appropriation of his property by the government did not move him from his devotion to the public service. His patriotism was superior to all personal interests.

Being a judicious and energetic man, his aid was sought on all occasions by the people. When a young man he acquired the special friendship of Col. Church, from the confidence which he had in his fidelity to all authority which was committed to him, and when the people of Wells were shut up in the garrisons and were suffering much from the necessities of their condition, all means of obtaining supplies being cut off, Col. Church, at the request of Wheelright, obtained a contribution from all the churches in the Counties of Plymouth, Barnstable and Bristol for their benefit. These supplies were sent to Wheelright, Storer and John Littlefield to be appropriated as they should judge expedient.

He died August 13, 1745, aged 81 years. In his will, dated April 11, 1739, he says: "I commend my soul to God, my Creator, hoping for pardon of all my sins and everlasting salvation through the alone merits of Jesus Christ." He gives his wife Mary four or five acres at Little river, with the saw-mill and stream owned with John Wells; his household goods, stock of cattle of all kinds, negro or mulatto servants, money, etc.; legacies to his daughters, Mary Plaistead, Elizabeth Neumarch, Mary Moody and Sarah Jefferds; devises to his sons, John, Samuel, Jeremiah, Nathaniel; also to his "daughter, Esther Wheelright, if living in Canada, whom (he says) I have not heard from these many years, and hath been absent more than thirty years."

His daughter Esther, when only seven years of age, was captured by the Indians and taken to Canada. He made every effort to effect her exchange, but without avail. Some years later she was baptized into the Roman Catholic Church and was afterwards Sister Superior of the Ursuline Convent at Quebec.

THE WIGGLESWORTH FAMILY.

- 1 1 EDWARD' WIGGLESWORTH of New Haven, 1638; had come in August of that year, brought wife Esther, perhaps sister of Rev. John Rayner, and son Michael, born in England October 28, 1631, and taught his rudiments by the famous Ezekiel Cheever, Harvard College, 1651.

Was a man of good repute and comfortable estate; died October 1, 1653. Of his last sickness he gave account, stating his age 49 in a letter to John Winthrop, July 18, 1653. In his will, made six days before that letter, he names only children Michael and Abigail, to whom he gives £160 and £80, severally, but directs the her share be paid at 20 years of age, and all the residuary estate to wife Esther, who, though constituted executrix, was, with her daughter, committed to the son, then residing at Cambridge, studying for his profession and an officer of the college, with this injunction, "that he do endeavor, as far as he may with convenience, to have them near unto him, wherever it pleases God to cast him."

EXPLANATION,

UNDER every surname each individual is designated by a number. When the history of that individual is resumed, the number is also resumed in black face figures and the name printed in large capitals.

Small figures after a Christian name designate the generation.

Names placed in parentheses after an individual's surname indicate the ancestors of that individual.

Roman numbers are used to enumerate the children in each family.

A name printed in italics indicates that the line of descent is through that person.
