PREFACE.

ful forms of literature, and there is no inherent reason why the history of a family should be less worthy of portrayal than the career of an individual. Doubtless family histories are too often mere genealogical compilations in which the dry statistics of births, marriages, and deaths are interspersed with pointless anecdotes and indiscriminate praise. Possibly the recent profusion of such works has created a prejudice against the entire class of writings to which they belong; and men of discretion and self-respect have, in truth, some reason for dreading the appearance of a history of their own family, lest it should prove to be little more than a monument of bad judgment and bad taste. And yet the fact remains, that when a name has been illustrated for many generations by those who have borne it, when the history of a family is the history of the great events and a portrayal of the shining virtues which have made mankind better and happier, then the natural pride which loves to pay a tribute to the living, and to preserve a memorial of the dead, may find becoming expression in a permanent form.

Such a history should be scrupulously accurate as regards names, dates, and relationships; but its integrity in a broader sense should be not less conspicuous. It should be, what too many similar compilations are not, a faithful record of virtues which have really existed, and of services and achievements which have actually been performed, and not a succession of glowing pages in which all degrees of merit are equalized on one broad stream of praise. Such a volume, the work of judgment, taste, and conscience, must have an undoubted claim upon those for whom it is primarily designed. Nor could it fail to find a cordial welcome in a larger circle; for the services and distinctions of an illustrious family can never be a matter of indifference to the world. Such a family is the Potter Family of America, and such a history it is the compiler's earnest purpose to produce.

The population which settled New England and made it prosperous and enlightened, A thousand panegyrics could not express a clearer and more comprewas of heroic stock. hensive conception of its quality than this single sentence, from the Rev. William Stoughton's installation sermon, in the year 1668: "God sifted a whole nation that He might send choice seed into the wilderness." Of such stock is the family to which this volume is dedicated, and in no other family have the devotion to principle, the self-reliance and the self-respect to which the nation owes its birth, found more ample illustration. It is somewhat surprising that this work has never been undertaken before, for worthy material exists in such abundance that the chief difficulty which the compiler must encounter is the necessity of compress-Since Robert Potter sailed from England, in 1634, and ing it within modest proportions. with his associates, gave to the settlement of Warwick, in Rhode Island, the name which it still bears, there has never been a period in the history of the country at which the descendants have not been conspicuous in commerce and legislation, in literature, arts and learning, at the bar and on the bench, in the councils and ministrations of the church, and, when their country needed them, upon the field of battle. They have continuously exemplified the virtues and the genius which founded and preserved the Republic, nor has the lapse of years wrought degeneration of the blood. From the Potter who sat on the Commission of the English Commons that condemned Charles I. in 1648, to the Potter who vindicated the honor of the Supreme Bench at the bar of the New York Legislature in 1870, the same lofty and invincible spirit has animated those who bear the name.

The origin of the family is lost in the twilight of mediæval England; but those who are curious in such matters may trace in the coat-of-arms its common descent with the Earls of Leicester, and the earliest records that exist testify to the esteem in which its representatives were held. In the long succession of generations it were doubtless possible to find unworthy sons. It is not given to all men to be great, and all men do not choose to be good. But the compiler of this history will be disappointed if it does not justify and stimulate an honest pride in the name of Potter among those who bear it; if it does not disclose in the lives of their ancestors and their brethren a constant exemplification of those qualities of mind and heart which dignify and best adorn humanity, and if the contemplation of such examples past and present does not encourage their imitation in the future.

INTRODUCTION.

REVIOUS to the year 1650 there had come to New England from Great Britain the following named Potters: In Massachusetts, Anthony Potter, Ipswich; Humphrey Potter, Salem; Inigo Potter, Charlestown; Nicholas Potter, Lynn; Robert Potter, Lynn (subsequently of Portsmouth, R. I.); Vincent Potter, Boston; and William Potter, of Braintree. In Rhode Island, George, Nathaniel, and Robert Potter, Portsmouth. In Connecticut, the brothers John and William Potter, who settled in the New Haven Plantation; and early in the next century the descendants of Martin Potter, of South Shields, England, were living in New London. In New Jersey, a John Potter lived in Princeton, who had come formerly from Ireland to South Carolina. In Pennsylvania, the ancestor of Major-General James Potter of Revolutionary fame, Matthew Potter in Philadelphia, and still later the descendants of George Potter, of Lancaster, England, had settled in Philadelphia.

Humphrey Potter, of Salem, Mass., had an only child, a daughter, named Ann, who married Anthony Needham. The father of Humphrey Potter was at one time Mayor of Coventry, in England.

Inigo Potter, of Charlestown, Mass., had, according to the records, six children,—three sons and three daughters. There are no records of the marriage of any of these children, or any notes concerning them, and it is probable that they did not live to maturity.

"Vincent Potter, of Boston, came in the 'Elizabeth and Ann' from London, 1635, aged twenty-one. Was next year a soldier at the Castle (Winthrop, II. 346). Went home 1639, same ship with Jno. Josselyn, and was afterwards convicted as a regicide."

"On the trial of King Charles for treason and murder, in January and February, 1648, the Commons in Parliament in England (under the assumption of authority) appointed a commission for the trial of the king for those offences. Charles was convicted and executed. Among these commissioners was Vincent Potter. In 1660 (12 Car. 11), Potter, and twenty-eight other commissioners, were indicted and tried as regicides, and all of them convicted, and most of them executed. Potter, with some twelve others, suffered imprisonment and confiscation of estates, but while suffering imprisonment under the provisions of a new statute of 12 Car. 2, Chaps. 11 and 36, he could not be executed without the consent of Parliament, which was never given, so he escaped." See 2 Vol. English State Trials, 302.

William Potter, of Braintree, Mass., came perhaps in the "Increase" from London, 1635, aged twenty-five, removed to Roxbury. He made his will 1654; no children named.

The family and name are doubtless of Norman origin. In Ferguson's "Teutonic Name-System, applied to the Family Names of France, England, and Germany," respecting the name Potter he says: "It has been remarked that names derived from trades are more common in France than in England. I should rather say that it is the termination in er which is more common, and that among a multitude of names with this termination, there are many which accidentally coincide with names of trades. . . . We have in almost all cases, both in French and English, names which contain the roots, and names which form other compounds. Regarded from this point of view, French and English names mutually throw great light upon each other. When I doubt whether Potter means a maker of pots, it very much strengthens my suspicion to find not only a French Pottier, but also Poterie, with a corroborative termination."

If the various families of Potters who settled in this country were connected at all, it was probably remotely in their ancestry in the mother country, coming as they did from widely remote localities. It may be, however, that the families of George, Nathaniel, and Robert Porter, of Portsmouth, R. I., were nearly related: it is easily inferred that such was the case, from various facts, but no records of such relationship have been discovered. It has also been stated by some historians that Anthony Potter, of Ipswich, was a son of the Robert Potter, of Lynn, who subsequently settled in Portsmouth, R. I. There does not seem to be any records to make this certain. The name Anthony was a family name, and suggests that his mother may have been an Anthony, as the families of Anthony and Potter were connected. Robert Potter's sister was the wife of John Anthony, etc. In 1834, eight of the name Potter had graduated at Yale, three at Harvard, and nine at other New England colleges. The census of 1774 shows in Rhode Island, Potters, 589 (probably many of these were slaves), in a total population of 54,460.

To make a record of the descendants of any one of these families to the present time, extending as it does over a period of more than two hundred and fifty years, and to make such a record tolerably complete, is a matter attended with much difficulty. As much as could be obtained from imperfect records, and that which has come from various other sources, are recorded. That the early settlers in many cases are not directly connected with English ancestry is readily explained by the experience of Samuel Gardner Drake, as given in his "Founders of New England":—

"Whoever goes to England expecting to find the genealogy of any particular family settled in America at an early date, is pretty sure, in at least nine cases out of ten, to meet with disappointment. The reason of this uncertainty is easily explained. In the first place, persons who emigrate are not often possessors of real estate, and hence deeds and wills seldom furnish indications referable to them; they leave no deeds or wills in the fatherland by which they can be traced. In the next place, very few emigants from England were landholders, for the reason that for ages little or no land has been for sale in quantities within the reach of persons of moderate estates. As the great body of emigrants to New England took no pains to transmit to their descendants any account of their ancestors, or even the places whence they came, it is pretty evident they had nothing to expect from the one, or any special regard for the other."

The tabular delineations of the genealogies are placed by themselves in the first part of the history of each family, unencumbered by any extraneous references.

Under the names of the parents are given the names of the children in each family, the place and date of birth, date of death, date of marriage, and the name and parentage of the wife or husband, with the year of birth and death. Each name is given a line by itself, and all names are numbered consecutively, the consecutive number being afterward affixed to the name wherever it reappears in the tables. To the name of each person whose line is followed any further is also added the number of the page on which his or her immediate descendants are recorded. An advantage of this system of tabulation is that all of the above-named particulars that are known concerning any individual may be seen at a glance, while the blank spaces left in the table show as plainly and concisely just what is lacking in the record. In these blank spaces the names or dates missing may be written, if they are ever discovered, or in the case of persons now living the record of the facts of marriage and death may be inserted as they occur.

Notes. - The Genealogical Tables are continued in this uniform manner throughout.

- 1 The figures to the left of the lines indicate the pages on which the descendants are recorded.
- ² The names of the children of each family.
- 8 Numbers for reference to each name.
- 4 Places and dates of births.
- ⁵ Dates of deaths.
- 6 Dates of marriages.
- 7 To whom married.
- 8 The year before the short dash is the year of birth; the year after, that of death.

 The numbers at the ends of the lines, indicating heads of families, refer to their direct ancestry family.

Part 1.—ANTHONY POTTER, OF IPSWICH, MASS., AND HIS DESCENDANTS.—Part 1.

ANTHONY POTTER, OF IPSWICH, MASS., AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

ANTHONY POTTER,¹ of Ipswich, Mass. The first record of him in this country was of Ipswich, 1648. His house was near the stone mill. It was built and first occupied by Major-General Daniel Denison. He afterward removed opposite the soldiers' monument, and about 1661, he built a "lean-to" on that site by permission of the town. This house has been removed within the past fifty years. His next-door neighbor north was Robert Dutch, who was scalped at Bloody Brook (Indian fight, 1675), and lived and came back to Ipswich, one of the "flower of Essex." Next door south was a tavern which still stands, kept two hundred years ago by John Sparks, Rogers, Smith, and in Revolutionary days, by Treadwell.

He and his wife Elizabeth (Whipple) Potter gave a silver cup to the church at Ipswich. Mr. Hammat, the historian, gives the inscription, A. P. and E. P. The tombstone of his wife at Ipswich reads: "Here lys burried Mrs. Elizabeth Potter, who died March ye 10, 1712, aged 83 years.

"A tender mother,
A prudent wife,
At God's command
Resigned her life."

Anthony Potter had a farm on the road to Salem, one of the best in the town. It was about a mile southwest of the village of Ipswich, and extended north to Ipswich River. He was a successful cultivator of fruit.

Captain Jesse Potter²⁶³ was born at Hamilton, Mass., Dec. 27, 1782. Captain Potter entered upon a seafaring life at the age of sixteen, and rose to the head of his honorable profession as soon as he had acquired the experience necessary to qualify him for that, especially in those days, responsible position. In 1829, while lying at the port of Matanzas, in command of the brig "Lion," of which he was then part owner, and which vessel was ready for sea, bound home to Salem, Mass., he was offered the command of the ship "Natches," whose captain was either deceased or too ill to proceed on the voyage, bound to Antwerp. Captain Potter took command of the "Natches," sending the brig "Lion" home in charge of the chief officer. This was Captain Potter's last voyage, for the "Natches" encountered a terrific gale in the British Channel, and although having a pilot on board, struck, during the night of Aug. 28, 1829, on the sands off Ostend, and went to pieces, the captain, pilot, and all hands being lost.

From the mass of correspondence, official documents, and other evidences of his business and social intercourse with foreign officials, and merchants and consuls, which Captain Potter left behind him, it is evident that he was a gentle man of high character, and of an affectionate and generous nature, and he was a good husband and father during the short period allotted to him in that relation in life.

George Allen Potter,²⁸¹ of New York, was born in Salem, Mass., Oct. 17, 1825. "He finished his school days at the English High School in Salem, Mass., in the year 1839, from which school his two elder brothers had graduated. After having been for a few months in the wholesale flour store of Captain Eben Dodge, he entered upon a seafaring life at the age of 'fourteen years or thereabouts, height four feet and seven inches, and weighing seventy-five pounds.' At the age of nineteen, he became second officer of an opium clipper on the coast of China, where he remained about ten years, during five of which he was captain, returning to this country in 1854, and after several voyages to China finally retired from the sea in January, 1860, since which he has been engaged in mercantile pursuits, using some of his leisure time in writing upon the subject of political economy, of which he has been a student for thirty years. He has written at various times for the press (not professionally), particularly for the New York Evening Post while the late William Cullen Bryant was its editor-in-chief. In 1868, his 'Manual of Currency' was published by Messrs. Hurd & Houghton. This was and is a strictly scientific work. It pointed out the scientific method of dealing with the bills of credit (paper money) commonly known as legal tenders or greenbacks; it also pointed out a just system of tariff legislation. While the work attracted the favorable attention of scientific men, it was not popular and had no effect on legislation. He has subsequently contributed three articles to the 'National Quarterly Review,' - one in March, 1877, entitled 'The Science of Political Economy'; one in January, 1879, entitled 'War Indebtment: its Limitations and Dangers'; one in October, 1880, entitled 'The Philosophy of the Civil War.' The first was an exposition of the science. second was an entirely original treatment of the subject discussed, which came near influencing legislation in Congress, and should have done so. The last was intended to show, and did show, that the Civil War was due to economic forces set in motion by Alexander Hamilton in establishing the United States Bank; that slavery was the proximate cause, or the pretext only; that the Creator of the material universe is the author and lawgiver of the social universe, and that in dealing with nations His offended majesty exacts the penalty of violated law."

J. a. Potter

Solomon Potter⁶²⁵ was born in Limebrook Parish, Ipswich, Mass., July 29, 1749, and died in Whitefield, Me., May 25, 1800. After his first marriage he removed to New Castle (now Alna) in the county of Lincoln, Me., and in 1782 he removed to Whitefield. Of his children and descendants, Captain Aaron Potter⁶²⁷ was a farmer, served in the War of 1812, captain of militia, and was stationed at Squam Island (now Westport), Me. Major Daniel Potter 628 was also a farmer, served in the War of 1812, major in the militia. Deacon John Potter, 634 known for more than fifty years as Deacon John Potter, was a farmer and dealer in live stock. In early life he became a member of the old Calvinist Baptist Church of Whitefield, Me., whose pastor was the Rev. Joseph Bailey, and was a deacon to the time of his death, a period of more than sixty years. He was not old enough to enlist in the War of 1812, but he, however, served in the war as substitute in another's place.

Daniel Potter, 1101 of Ipswich, Mass., born Jan. 24, 1698; died March, 1770. He lived upon the farm where his father and grandfather had lived, also worked at various mechanical occupations. He built ships, meeting-houses, steeples, or wooden clocks, as occasion offered; he was doubtless the first manufacturer of wooden clocks in New England. He built the "four squares" and steeples of the meeting-houses in Salem, Ipswich, Rowley, Haverhill, and Newbury. His son Anthony 1114 lived on his father's farm and died there. His son Daniel¹¹¹⁸ also lived and died upon the same farm. His son Richard 1119 married Lydia Averill, of Topsfield, Mass., and removed to Concord, N. H. His son Ephraim 1122 was a sailor, and when not at sea he worked at clock making; some of the first used in Concord, N. H., were his. He moved to Concord in 1779, and bought a farm joining that of his brother Richard.

Hon. Jacob Averill Potter 1212 was born in East Concord, N. H., July 22, 1798; died April 28, 1865. His parents, Joseph and Nancy (Drake) Potter, 1208 lived on a farm settled by their ancestors, situated on the south side of Oak Hill, between the villages of Loudon and East Concord, N. H. Here Judge Potter passed his youth, and in 1826 he settled on the east portion of the original farm, then jointly owned by himself and his brother, Thomas Drake Potter. 1211 He owed but little of his education to schools, excepting that which could be obtained during the winters in a district school, and a short term at Pembroke Academy, and for a time taught school in the country. Judge Potter invented a blind catch and fastener, and an instrument for "cutting profiles." This business he engaged in for several years. He also became a professional portrait painter. His picture of General Jonathan Eastman is in the Historical Rooms, Concord, N. H. Also engaged in various business enterprises, that of building a cotton mill at the east village, and the furnishing of brick for the State Lunatic Asylum in Concord, a product of his farm. He was honored by a number of town and city offices, - justice of the peace; selectman, and city councilman. He was especially interested in, and identified through life with, the growth of the east side of the river, its highways, railroad, church, and schools; was one of forty-four to organize the East Concord Congregational Church in 1841, and one of four to build it. He was appointed judge of the Court of Common Pleas in the county of Merrimack, Dec. 10, 1844, which office he resigned in 1853. Instrumental in the organization of the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company, located in Gilmanton, N. H., and one of its directors for several years. He died suddenly from a stroke of apoplexy.

Hon. CHANDLER EASTMAN POTTER¹²¹³ was born in East Concord, N. H., March 7, 1807, and died in Flint, Mich., Aug. 3, 1868.

"His childhood and early youth were spent at home on his father's farm, and in attending the district school, which was kept in a small school-house near by, about ten weeks in the year: While yet at home, curiosity led him to visit places far and near in the town which had any traditionary interest. He gathered all the stories that his grandfather and other old men in the neighborhood would relate about bears, wolves, and Indians. He explored the banks of the Merrimack River; scoured the plains; picked up Indian relics; and found, in repeated instances, the bones of Indians slain, as he believed, in the fight between the Mohawks and Penacooks. With this taste for the legendary and curious, he aspired to a higher education than the district school furnished. Accordingly, at the age of about eighteen, he went to the academy in Pembroke, then taught by Master John Vose, where he was fitted for college; entered at Dartmouth in 1827, and graduated in 1831. He paid his college bills chiefly by teaching school during vacations.

"After his graduation, he opened a select high school in Concord, and taught until his removal to Portsmouth, where he took charge of the High School. He was eminently successful, easily securing the affection and esteem of his pupils, and is gratefully remembered by many as a kind, faithful, efficient teacher. A strong love of antiquities and nature distinguished him from his fellow-men. He had a just, poetic perception. The dark rocks, the beautiful lakes, the legends of the red men, were the peaceful subjects he chose for his muse. He early manifested a love of nature and a thirst for knowledge. He was especially interested in the stories of heroic deeds and virtues of the great and good who had figured in the history of the world in the past, and early collected facts worthy to be remembered. He entertained profound respect and reverence for the patriots who fought and suffered in securing the liberties of our country. This sentiment of veneration for the founders of our institutions, thus early awakened, was a conspicuous element in his character, and had much to do in giving shape to his career in after life. He was also delighted in listening to accounts of the Indians who dwelt along the banks of the Merrimack. He often scoured the plains in the vicinity to gather the bones, arrows, implements, and other relics of the noble sons of the forest.

"In 1835, he was chosen representative to the Legislature from Portsmouth. On the Fourth of July of the same year he delivered an oration before the citizens of Portsmouth.

Hampshire," was an arduous labor; but he diligently parsued and succeeded in arresting from decay, and in disinterring from pay-rolls, old papers, and rubbish of antiquity, such a record as devoted labor might yield. This "Military History" extends from the first settlement in the Province, 1623, to the close of the war with Great Britain, in 1812. This work consists of two volumes, and embraces a detailed account of all the wars with the Indians in which the colonists were engaged. It also contains a full account of campaigns of the old French War; also those of the Revolutionary War, the War of 1812, and all other conflicts in which New Hampshire troops were engaged up to that period. The work, beside, contains a very large number of biographical sketches of the eminent men who have been connected with the military organizations of the State. By the patient and critical research of Colonel Potter, many interesting facts pertaining to the early history of the State are rescued from oblivion, and have been preserved for the benefit of coming generations.'

"He became corresponding member of the New England Historic Genealogical Society, March 24, 1855. In 1841, he was elected a member of the New Hampshire Historical Society, and was chosen one of the vice-presidents in 1852, in 1855, and 1857. In 1851, he delivered a valuable and interesting discourse before the society, upon the aborigines of the country, at the conclusion of which, on motion of Hon. Samuel D. Bell, a vote of thanks was extended to him. Subsequently he read several other interesting essays, one of which was upon the Penacook Indians. Beside these papers, he contributed one of the chapters to Colonel Schoolcraft's valuable history of the North American Indians. He left many unpublished manuscripts bearing upon the history of New Hampshire. It was his design to publish a full and complete history of the State, bringing it down to the present times.

"On Nov. 1, 1832, Colonel Potter married Clara Adela, daughter of John Underwood, Esq., of Portsmouth. She died at Manchester, March 19, 1854, aged fifty-one years. His second marriage, Nov. 11, 1856, was with Miss Frances Maria, daughter of General John McNeil,* of Hillsborough, distinguished as an officer of the army, and especially for his daring and bravery in the battles of Chippewa and Niagara, in 1814. After his marriage with Miss McNeil, Colonel Potter resided at Hillsborough, in the family mansion, the former residence of Governor Benjamin Pierce, and cultivated the farm."—From the New Hampshire Granite Monthly, 1883.

General Joseph Haydn Potter, ¹²²⁸ U. S. A., now on the retired list, was born at Concord, N. H., Oct. 12, 1822.

"He graduated at West Point Military Academy, July 1, 1843; was promoted in the army to brevet second lieutenant 1st Infantry, July 1, 1843; second lientenant 7th Infantry, Oct. 21, 1845; brevet first lieutenant, Sept. 23, 1846, for gallant and meritorious services in the battle of Monterey, Mexico; first lientenant 7th Infantry, Oct. 30, 1847; captain 7th Infantry, Jan. 9, 1856; colonel 12th New Hampshire Volunteers, Sept. 27, 1862; major 19th United States Infantry, July 4, 1863; brevet lieutenant-colonel, Dec. 13, 1863, for gallant and meritorious service at the battle of Fredericksburg, Va.; brevet colonel, May 3, 1864, for gallant and meritorious services at the battle of Chancellorsville, Va.; brevet brigadier-general United States Army, March 13, 1865, for gallant and meritorious services in the campaign terminating with the surrender of the Confederate Army under General R. E. Lee; brigadier-general United States Volunteers, May 1, 1865; mustered out of volunteer service, Jan. 15, 1866; lieutenant-colonel 30th Infantry, July 28, 1866.

"He served in garrison at Fort Des Moines, Ia., 1843-45, and Jefferson Barracks, Mo., 1845; in military occupation of Texas, 1845-46; in the war with Mexico, being engaged in the defence of Fort Brown, May 3-9, 1846; and battle of Monterey, September, 1846, where he was wounded in storming the enemy's works; on recruiting service, 1846-48; in the war with Mexico, 1848; in garrison at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., 1850; on frontier duty at Fort Gibson, I. T., 1850-53; Fort Smith, Ark., 1853-55; as adjutant 7th Infantry, Nov. 16, 1853, to January, 1856; on frontier duty at Fort Gibson, I. T., 1855-56; Fort Arbuckle, I. "He served during the Rebellion of the seceding States, 1862-66: in the Maryland campaign (Army of the Potomac), October-November, 1862, being engaged in the march to Falmouth, Va.; November, 1862, in the Rappahannock campaign (Army of the Potomac); December, 1862, to May, 1863, being engaged in the battle of Fredericksburg, Va.; Dec. 13, 1863, commanding a brigade; and battle of Chancellorsville, Va., May 2, 3, where he was severely wounded and captured; as prisoner of war, May 3 to October, 1863 (paroled May 17, 1863); on special duty, Oct. 18, 1863, to February, 1864; as assistant provost marshal general of Ohio, February to September, 1864; in command of brigade 18th Corps (Army of the James), Sept. 16 to Dec. 2, 1864, being in command of Bermuda One Hundred Front during the attack by the army on Fort Harrison, Sept. 29, 1864; in command of brigade of the 24th Army Corps, Dec. 2, 1864, to Jan. 16, 1865; as chief of staff of 24th Army Corps, Jan. 16 to July 10, 1865, being engaged in the attack on the rebel lines at Hatcher's Run and south of Petersburg, April 2, 1865, and pursuit of the rebel army, with several skirmishes, terminating with the capitulation of General Lee at Appoint Court House, April 9, 1865; awaiting orders, July 10, 1865, to Jan. 15, 1866; as superintendent of regimental recruiting service at Newport Barracks, Ky., Feb. 3, 1866, to Jan. 4, 1867; in command of regiment in the department of the Platte, Jan. 15, 1867."—Biographical Register of the U. S. M. A. at West Point.

^{*}General McNeil, son of Lieutenant John McNeil, of Hillsborough, married Elizabeth Andrews, the eldest daughter of the late Governor Benjamin Pierce, and sister of President Franklin Pierce. Their children were: (1) Lieutenant John W. S. McNeil, of the army, who fell, mortally wounded, in leading an attack upon an Indian camp in Florida, Sept. 10, 1837; (2) Elizabeth, who married Captain H. W. Benham, of the army; (3) Frances, who married Colonel Potter; (4) Benjamin Pierce, of the army, who died at Boston, June 12, 1853. General John McNeil died at Washington, D. C., Feb. 23, 1850, in the sixty-sixth year of his age. Mrs. McNeil died March, 1855.

"Since then he has been stationed at Fort Sedgwick, Col., Fort Sanders, Wyoming, Little Rock, Ark., and Fort Brown, Texas. Early in the administration of President Hayes, he was commissioned colonel of the 24th United States Infantry, and during that period of time he was commandant of the Soldiers' Home at Washington, D. C., and latterly he has been (and is) in command of Fort Supply, Indian Territory."

Judge ALVAH KIMBALL POTTER ¹²³⁷ was born in Concord, N. H., at the family homestead, on the thirty-first day of March, 1840.

Attended Appleton Academy at Mt. Vernon, N. H., where he fitted for college, 1855 to 1858. Entered Dartmouth College in 1858, but, on account of poor health, was absent most of the time till the spring of 1859. When the Civil War broke out he was desirous of entering the army. On account of the objections of his father, he remained in college till the beginning of the fall term, when he left and entered upon the recruiting service to raise a company for the 7th New Hampshire Volunteers. Was appointed first lieutenant in that regiment, and mustered into Company H, Nov. 12, 1861.

Was on duty with his regiment in Florida and South Carolina till, by reason of disease contracted there, he resigned in June, 1862, it being supposed he could not recover. He was wholly unable for duty till the summer of 1864, when he was appointed captain of Company A, 18th New Hampshire Volunteers. Colonel Putnam, of the 7th Regiment, had in the mean time asked the governor of New Hampshire for his reappointment in that regiment, but his health would not permit. He took out a battalion of six companies (of the 18th Regiment) to City Point, Va., in September, 1864. Was on duty at and near City Point, most of the time in command of the battalion, which was assigned to General Benham's provisional brigade, till February, 1865. Then was transferred to the command which was investing Petersburg, and was on duty there till that city surrendered, and then was guarding the South Side Railroad till Lee surrendered.

He was in the mean time promoted to major, and, by general orders of division commander (Third Division, 9th Army Corps), was recommended for brevet rank for "gallant and meritorious" conduct in the siege and capture of Petersburg.

Was sent to Washington with his regiment in May, 1865, and was on duty at Georgetown and Washington, doing provost duty and guarding the assassins of President Lincoln in the prison at the foot of Four-and-one-half Street, till he was mustered out in June, 1865.

Studied law with Marshall & Chase at Concord, N. H., and with Boardman & Blodgett at Boston.

Practised law three years in Concord, and then removed to Niagara Falls in November, 1868, and was in business with C. H. Piper, forming the firm of Piper & Potter, attorneys.

In 1872, he formed a partnership with Hon. Timothy E. Ellsworth at Lockport, N. Y., under the firm name of Ellsworth & Potter, which continues to the time of this writing.

Was city counsel of Lockport two years; was elected county judge of Niagara County in 1883, and still holds that office.

PART 2.

GEORGE POTTER, OF PORTSMOUTH, R. I., AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

George Potter, of Portsmouth, R. I., in 1638 was admitted an inhabitant of the island of Aquidneck. April 30, 1639, he and twenty-eight others signed the following compact: "We whose names are underwritten do acknowledge ourselves the legal subjects of his Majesty King Charles, and in his name do hereby bind ourselves into a civil body politicke, unto his laws according to matters of Justice."

ABEL POTTER,² of Portsmouth, Providence, and Warwick, R. I.

"1646, Feb. 4. Whereas Nicholas Niles, father-in-law (i. e., step-father) of Abel Potter, hath bound him, the said Abel Potter, with Mr. William Baulstone, for the term of eighteen years, with the consent of the said Abel; for the better security of Mr. Baulstone, the town consenteth herein and approveth thereof.

"1664, Sept. 5. He and Nathaniel Potter confirmed a deed of eight acres, that was once in their fathers' possession, said deed having been made by Samuel Wilbur to John Tripp, shaft carpenter, 1663, May 7. (By 'fathers' possession,' the respective father of each was meant.)

"1667, May 3. Dartmouth, Mass. He bought of John Read, for £36, a right in Mashantatack.

"1671, Oct. 10. Providence. He and wife Rachel, of Mashantatack, sold sixty acres and commoning, situated near Pawtucket Falls, to Joseph Jenckes, said land belonging formerly to Rachel's grandfather, Ezekiel Holliman.

"1677, May 1. Freeman.

"1682, Oct. 6. He sold to Roger Burlingame half of a meadow, for £2.

"1687, Sept. 1. Taxed 4s.

"1692, Jan. 14. Will, proved 1692, March 9. Executrix, wife Rachel. To eldest son, George, sixty acres where he has made preparation for building, also a meadow adjoining, a heifer, iron pot already promised, and use of oxen and cart to do his work at such times as they may be conveniently spared, for three years, with liberty in orchard for his family's use, and to make and have three barrels of cider for seven years, he paying to daughter Mary, at eighteen years of age, £5. To wife Rachel, all the rest of lands, housing, orchard, etc., she dividing it amongst my children, according to her discr lon, provided always that all my children have part thereof, excepting George and Stephen. To youngest son, Stephen, at death of wife, all the homestead, house, orchard, etc., being fifty acres of land, he paying to sister Mary £5, within two years after possession. Sons Abel and Benjamin to pay their sister Mary, £5, within two years after they come of age.

"1724, Nov. 6. Will, proved 1721, Nov. 23. Widow Rachel, of Providence. Executors, two youngest sons Ichabod and Job Potter. To eldest son, John, 5s., and like amount to sons Abel, Benjamin, and Stephen. To daughter Mary Stone, a bed, warming-pan, and iron pot. To sons Ichabod and Job, all right and interest in lands at Mashantataek. To son Ichabod, a chest and iron trammel. To son Job, iron trammel and fire tongs. Inventory £14 19s."

— From Austin's Genealogical Dictionary of Rhode Island.

John Potter²¹ was born in Scituate, R. I. In early life he moved to Bennington, Vermont, and there married Miss Jemima Carpenter, who was also from Rhode Island. He was a soldier of the Revolution, and had an honorable record. After the war he took an active part in the political questions which agitated the country at that time. He was a warm personal friend of Aaron Burr up to the date of the discovery of his treachery, when Mr. Potter withdrew wholly from politics, having lost his confidence in the patriotism of men who made politics the business of life. He was widely known, and took a deep interest in public affairs, was a humane and generous friend, and very popular in the community among whom he lived.

He was accidentally killed near his farm in Hoosick, on the twenty-fourth day of June, 1806. Immediately after his death an imposing marble monument was erected upon the spot where the fatal event occurred. This was done at the public's expense as a mark of the high esteem in which he was held by all who knew him.

The monument stands on the side of the great highway leading from Pownall to Troy, in Rensselaer County, in the State of New York. The locality is known as "Potter's Hill," and a post-office is maintained near it by that title.

Hon. Joseph S. Potter 145 was born in Baldwinsville, N. Y., on Feb. 8, 1822. At the age of seventeen years he, with the aid of Governor W. H. Seward, started a daily newspaper in the city of Albany. In 1840, at eighteen, he was associated with Duff Green in the publication of the Baltimore Pilot, which was the chief organ of the Harrison campaign. In 1851, he was elected by the Legislature of Massachusetts to the office of State printer; and in 1853, he was chosen by the Constitutional Convention of the State as printer, and was also elected to manage the verbatim reports of the proceedings of that body. These were published in three quarto volumes, and have ever since been regarded as models of style, accuracy, and typographic art. Mr. Potter possessed artistic and mechanical skill, and in 1860, just before the war, as a matter of pastime, invented a knitting machine, and the hosiery made upon it was adopted by the government as "army standard," and nine extensive manufactories, located in different States, were organized by him and put into active operation in a single year, and most of the hosiery for the Union armies was supplied by him. He was for many years a member of the board of selectmen of the town of Arlington, and was also many times elected to the House of Representatives and the Senate of Massachusetts. In 1875, he was appointed by President Grant to represent the government in the foreign service, and was accredited to the Kingdom of Wurtemberg, Germany, as consul. In 1880, he was transferred to the Kingdom of Prussia, and located in the centre of the great silk and iron industries of that part of the Empire.

Mr. Potter's services appear to have been so satisfactory to the United States government, and to the governments to which he was accredited, that his position has never been disturbed by the different administrations, Republican and Democratic, under which he has served, and is still serving in 1888. His numerous reports, which have covered a large number of subjects, have been regarded as among the most practical and useful transmitted to the Department of State, and many of them have been translated and published in the different languages of Europe and circulated as official documents. His experience in the public service at home and abroad has been varied, and embraces much interesting history.

Hon. Burton Willis Potter, M. A., 196 of Worcester, Mass., was born in Colesville, N. Y., Feb. 8, 1843. When he was about five years old, his parents moved to Hartwick, Otsego County, N. Y., where he lived with his parents, and occasionally working out for a few weeks or months. He attended the Cooperstown Seminary two terms. In the fall of 1862, he enlisted as a private in Company A of the Fourteenth Vermont Regiment, for nine months' service. This regiment helped to make up the Second Vermont Brigade, which, under General Stannard, made itself famous in resisting the charge of General Pickett's division at Gettysburg, July 3, 1863. He was made a corporal, and a sergeant, July 3, 1863, and mustered out as a sergeant, July 30, 1863. A few months after this he entered the Lawrence Academy at Groton, Mass. The following year he again enlisted in the one-hundred-day service in the Sixth Massachusetts Regiment. After serving out the time, he returned to his studies at the Lawrence Academy, where he graduated June 30, 1865. After this he studied in the university course at Williams College, and law with the Hon. William Lathrop, of Rockford, Ill., and Hon. George S. Boutwell, of Boston, Mass., and at Harvard Law School, Cambridge, Mass., where he graduated in 1868. While pursuing his studies, he taught school during vacations, - two district schools in Groton, Mass., and one term presided over Falmouth Academy, Kentucky.

He was admitted to the Worcester bar in 1868, since which time he has been actively engaged in the practice of his profession; has represented Worcester three times in the State Legislature, and is now one of the directors of the Worcester Free Public Library.

Mr. Potter is interested in agricultural matters, and has delivered many addresses before agricultural societies in different parts of Massachusetts. In 1885, he delivered an address before the State Board of Agriculture on "The Laws relative to Private and Public Roads," which was the basis of his work, "The Road and the Roadside," which has now reached its second edition. After the publication of this book, Williams College conferred upon Mr. Potter the degree of M. A. in recognition of his scholarship.

EPHRAIM POTTER ³¹³ and his brother George Potter ³⁰⁸ served through the Revolutionary War. George was a lieutenant, and at the close of the war among the captured horses there was a very fine one that had belonged to a British officer. A special order from General Washington gave to Lieutenant George Potter this horse, and his choice of any of the others, for his noble conduct during the war. Ephraim Potter settled in Oneida County, New York, where he resided a greater part of his life. Many of his descendants live in that part of the State, and for many years past a large number of his descendants have gathered in an annual reunion at the old homestead farm of John E. Potter, near Orwell, N. Y., and this year (1888) was the fifteenth celebration.

George Potter,⁵⁶¹ son of Ephraim, served in the War of 1812 till its close, and received an honorable discharge.

John E. Potter, 562 son of Ephraim Potter, worked in the building of the Erie Canal through Oneida County, and moved to Orwell, N. Y., at the age of twenty-one, guided by marked trees to his frontier home ten miles from Post Ontario, where he lived nearly sixty years, and died there in 1880. By his industry and perseverance as a farmer he accumulated during his life a good property, and was an esteemed citizen and neighbor.

ALBERT J. POTTER,⁸⁰¹ of Orwell, N. Y., son of John E. Potter, served three years in the War of the Rebellion in the One Hundred and Tenth New York Volunteers. Mr. Potter is secretary of the Ephraim Potter reunion.

Hiram Eddy ⁵⁰⁶ moved from Oswego County, N. Y., in 1844 to Branch County, Mich. In the spring of 1851, he started with his family for Oregon Territory, and arrived at Portland in the fall of 1852, having lost two of his children by death during the long journey. In 1853, he took up a donation claim of three hundred and twenty acres about fifty miles up the Willamette River. After fencing in this land and getting it well stocked, it was overflowed, and all his property carried away. He subsequently moved to Salem, Ore., where he now resides, in his eighty-fifth year.

RICHARD ABIAL EDDY, 586 a merchant of Missoula, Mont., was born in Oswego County, N. Y., and went West with his parents in their journey to Oregon. After spending a year in Portland, Ore., and then on his father's land till 1854, he joined an expedition to the gold discoveries in the Roque River Mountains. Finding their company too small for the purpose, and unable to resist the hostile Indians in the vicinity, the expedition was abandoned. Mr. Eddy separated from the party, and remained in the Umpuaqua Valley, working on a saw-mill at three dollars per day. After working at this rate for one month, his wages were increased to seven dollars per day till the building of the mill was completed. After this, two years were spent in school studies. He then enlisted in a company of militia to resist the Indian invaders. He afterwards lived at the Dalles, Orc., for several years. Mr. Eddy has been engaged in various undertakings in mining, etc., and finally settled in Missoula, Mont., and is engaged there and elsewhere in large business enterprises.

HOLLIMAN POTTER ⁸⁶⁶ lived in Cranston, R. I., until the War of the Revolution, when he was drafted and went to Newport, served out his term, also the term of his brother, who had also been drafted, as his substitute. After his discharge he enlisted in a Massachusetts regiment as an ensign, and remained with this regiment till the close of the war.

WILLIAM PITT POTTER 970 was born Aug. 16, 1811, at Warwick, R.I. He came to Norwich, Conn., in 1843, and entered the employ of Pierce & Brown, then engaged in the business of bleaching and finishing cotton fabrics, an enterprise at that date in its infancy in that section. He continued in their employ, as receiving and invoice clerk, until the business of that partnership had grown and developed into a corporation, the Norwich Bleaching and Calendering Company, when he became superintendent of the new company thus formed, retaining that position until the time of his death. Mr. Potter also became early identified with the company as a stockholder, and for eighteen successive years held the offices of director and secretary, and for much of that time that of assistant treasurer, filling these positions with honor and to the entire satisfaction of all his business associates.

Hon. and Judge EMERY DAVIS POTTER, 1165 of Toledo, Ohio, studied law in Cooperstown, N. Y., with Abner Cook and John A. Dix, late General Dix, of New York; was admitted to practice in New York Supreme Court in 1833; practised two years in Cooperstown, and in 1835 removed to Toledo, Ohio, where he has since resided. In 1839, he was elected a circuit judge; resigned in 1843, and was elected to the Twenty-seventh Congress, and again elected to the Thirtieth Congress in 1848. A member of the lower house of the Ohio Legislature, and in 1873 was elected to the State Senate.

In the Thirtieth Congress he was chairman of the Standing Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads; introduced and was instrumental in carrying through the bill reducing postage to the uniform rate of three cents, and in introducing and passing a bill for the coinage of three-cent coin. Judge Potter has always been a Democrat in politics. He has also held many minor offices, often accepting offices reluctantly, leaving a clean and enviable record in the public service.

"It is interesting to note the difficulties with which Judge Potter had to contend, when in Congress, in securing a reduction of postage to three cents; for he was the author of that measure, and to his persistent efforts and skill the people are indebted for that reform.

"Formerly postage was charged for carrying letters according to distance, the rates ranging from six to twenty-five cents. Envelopes were not used. The letter must be folded and sealed with a wafer. Postage was not paid in advance then, but collected on the delivery of the letter.

"Judge Potter was a member of Congress and conceived the idea of cheap and uniform postage rates. He fixed upon three cents as the proper standard, and introduced a bill to change the whole postal system. It was fought bitterly, especially by the Southern members. At that time our small coin consisted of pennies, six and a quarter, twelve and a half, and twenty-five cent pieces. The small silver coin in the Northern States was called 'fip,' or a 'fip-an'-a-bit,' and the next in size a 'shilling.' At the South the small coin was called a 'picayune.'

"Throughout the South, pennies were not used, nothing smaller than the six-and-a-quarter-cent piece being circulated, and to-day they seldom use anything less than a fivecent piece.

"When Judge Potter presented his new postage bill into the House, members of Congress at the South declared it impossible, on the ground that change could not be made; they had no money small enough to pay the postage on a letter. The judge saw that he could not get his bill through unless he could overcome this objection. He put his wits to work, and the result was a die for casting the original three-cent piece, — the small silver coin, with a star on one side, some of which are still in circulation. He had this prepared at his own expense and sent to the Philadelphia mint, and caused several hundred pieces of this small coin to be made. All this he did quietly and without the knowledge of his fellow-members.

"As soon as he received his new coin, —then unauthorized, but subsequently made by authority, — he filled his pockets and went into the House, resolved to call up his bill at the first opportunity. He got it before the House, when up jumped a Southern member and assailed it on the ground that the people at the South had no money small enough to pay the postage on a letter. When dilating upon this point, the judge quietly approached the speaker, pulled a handful of three-cent pieces from his pocket, and gave several of the new silver pieces to the man occupying the floor. This completely nonplussed the opposer of the bill. The curiosity of the whole House was excited to know what it was the judge had given the speaker which had so completely silenced his argument. In a few moments the whole House knew what it was, and every member had a three-cent piece in his hand. The trick was so clever, the argument so unanswerable, and placed the House in such good-humor, that the bill finally passed and became a law.

"The judge is well satisfied to this day that nothing could have secured the passage of his cheap postage bill had he not closed the mouths of Southern members with his three-cent pieces. They afforded an answer to the chief objection to his measure which admitted of no evasion, and the argument was so cleverly presented that all were disposed to compliment the author of the bill and the new coin by voting for his measure."

Captain Mowry Potter ¹²¹⁴ received a commission from Governor Brown of Rhode Island to run a privateer in the time of the Revolutionary War. He was taken prisoner, and confined three years in the Jersey prison-ship. His sons, Arthur Mowry Potter, No. 1215, and Anson Potter, No. 1221, both followed the sea, and during the War of 1812 they were both taken prisoners, and their vessels condemned as prizes.

NEHEMIAH POTTER ¹²⁸² was born in Scituate, R. I., in 1737, and moved with his family to Foster soon after its incorporation as a town, in 1781. He died in September, 1812, in the seventy-sixth year of his age. He was twice married. By his two wives he had twenty-one children, most of whom lived to mature age.

ISAAC PORTER, M. D., 1324 son of Rev. Micaiah Porter, was graduated at Brown University in 1808, and at Dartmouth received a medical degree in 1814. Began the practice of medicine at Lebanon, N. H., in 1816; removed to Charlton, Mass., and resided there till 1825. He died at Porter, Wis.

Captain WILLIAM POTTER¹²⁸⁷ was a soldier in the Revolutionary War; raised a company in Providence, R. I.; was chosen lieutenant, but acted as captain, and marched during the night to join the forces, and had already reached Dorchester Heights as the battle began at Bunker Hill.

Rev. John Dyer Potter, ¹³⁴¹ of Westboro, Mass., in early youth attended the schools in his native town, and then entered the large mercantile house of Myers & Claghorn of Philadelphia, where he passed three years. Here he was eminently successful in mastering the details of the responsible clerkship. The following note, unexpectedly placed in his hands at the termination of his connection with this establishment, will shed sufficient light upon his business career:—

PHILADELPHIA, July 9, 1840.

Mr. John D. Potter:

Dear Sir,—The subscribers do not feel satisfied with the separation about to be consummated without giving you this, as a partial testimony of their approbation of your conduct while in their employ.

They state with pleasure, and without solicitation on your part, that for attention to business, high moral worth, probity, and industrious habits, you are without a superior, and we believe you possessed of all the requisites to have made an ornament to the business you heretofore intended to follow, as we fervently hope and doubt not will be the case in the profession you are about commencing.

With the warmest wish for your happiness, here and hereafter, we beg to present you with the enclosed sum of two hundred dollars as an additional testimony of our respect and esteem.

We remain truly your friends, Myers & Claghorn.

Before this very honorable separation occurred, Mr. Potter had become deeply interested in personal religious life, and decided to enter at once upon a preparation for the ministry, and took his journey to Leicester in his own New England, where he could have unusual facilities for defraying the expenses of an academic education. While a faithful student, he was also actively engaged in his Master's cause among his youthful companions.

Mr. Potter "paid his way" at the academy, and prepared for an advanced class in Yale College. His preceptor at Leicester writes of him: "He was held in high esteem by his teachers. Faithful and successful in his studies, always observant of the right, and ready to rebuke the wrong in his fellow-students, his religious character secured the confidence of teachers and associates, and his influence in that direction was widely felt and respected. He was never morose. I remember that he had such powers of ventriloquism as highly to entertain and mystify an audience. Mr. Potter's religious power since entering the ministry has been extensively felt in divers portions of the country."

He remained at Yale College three years, with a high standing in his class. Instead of graduating, he took up his connection there. He repaired to Williams College to have the benefit of the lectures of its distinguished president, Rev. Mark Hopkins, D. D. He also devoted a year to the study of law, securing a knowledge of jurisprudence and mental discipline, which proved to be of great value to him in his subsequent career. In addition to other means of preparation, he availed himself of the advantages of study with such pastors as Dr. Nelson, of Leicester, and attendance for a time upon the theological instruction at the seminary in Andover, Mass.

After a satisfactory examination by the Worcester Central Association, he received a general or unlimited license to preach, but did not desire ordination, believing it to be unnecessary.

Mr. Potter eminently belongs to the honored line of evangelists, having labored industriously and successfully during his life.

The stirring scenes, without false excitement, which have marked his campaigns for religious truth and life, in New England, New York, and the great West, will ever live in the memory of those who have felt his influence.

OLIVER C. POTTER ¹⁴¹⁷ was born in Foster, R. I., Sept. 23, 1795, and lived in that vicinity a great portion of his life. He married Phebe Burroughs, of Killingly, Conn., Dec. 28, 1817. She died Oct. 29, 1845. He was ever a hard-working and industrious man, and much respected by a large circle of friends and acquaintance. He was elected a justice of the peace in Foster for several years, and about the year 1840, while residing in Plainfield, Conn., was elected and faithfully served as one of the selectmen of that town.

PART 3.

GEORGE POTTER, OF LANCASTER, ENGLAND, AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

THE family of Potter (formerly of Potterstown, County Fermanagh, in Ireland) is descended from George Potter, an officer who accompanied the army of Cromwell from England, and was compensated, for his services in reducing Ireland to the rule of the Commonwealth, by an extensive grant of lands in the County of Fermanagh.

The lands thus granted were formerly the property of the Lord Marquis Chieftain of Fermanagh, who, for his complicity in what is known as the great rebellion of 1641, was convicted of high treason and executed in London, his estates being confiscated to the English government.

Under the act of settlement and plantation of 1660 (time of Charles II.) (as may be seen in the public records of Ireland), George Potter was confirmed in the possession of the lands of Oaghill, Mullanscarty, Garderghill, Fremerh, and Cromey, all situate in the barony of Maglierestepha, County Fermanagh, which came to be thenceforward known and designated as Potterstown and Pottersrath. This property the Potters continued to possess for many years, until, as appears from a deed of conveyance now in the possession of the Right Honorable the Earl of Belmore, K. C. M. B., of Castlecool, County Fermanagh, Abraham Potter, son of the above-mentioned Potter, disposed of the entire estates to James Corry, the son of a Scotch adventurer, and founder of the present Earl of Belmore's family.

The Potters, although the connection with most of the estates originally granted to their ancestor was thus severed, continued to reside in the county which was their adopted home. No longer members of the great landed aristocracy, they, nevertheless, occupied a respectable position. In the year 1791, James Potter, the then representative of the family, and who resides at Ramaley, in the County of Fermanagh, became possessed of a property at Rilaghquiness, in the County Tyrone.

On his death he was succeeded by his son, George Potter, who, by his marriage with Ann Scott, left issue, among other children, the late Thomas Potter. Mr. George Potter, having decided to settle in the United States, disposed of his property in Ireland and removed from County Tyrone with his son Thomas and other children in the year 1828.—From researches made by J. W. Bird, Esq., Solicitor, Trillick, Tyrone County, Ireland.

Thimas Totter

THOMAS POTTER,⁹ of Philadelphia, Pa., born at Rilaghquiness, Tyrone County, Ireland, Aug. 14, 1819; died at Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, Sept. 29, 1878. For many years a member of the City Councils of Philadelphia, and, as chairman of the Finance Committee, was chiefly instrumental in the city's acquiring the land now known as East Fairmount Park, and in the establishment of the paid fire department; founder of the house of Thomas Potter, Sons & Co., July 1, 1837; president City National Bank, Philadelphia, until his death.

"Mr. Potter was born in Ireland, but came with his parents to this country when only ten years old, and was a resident of Philadelphia from that time to the day of his death. His activity, enterprise, and sound judgment made him very successful in his business, and he soon realized a large fortune, which he employed with great liberality in the service of his Master. He held many positions of trust and responsibility in the municipal and financial corporations, and has left behind him the character of a Christian gentleman, remarkable for its purity, uprightness, and generosity, without a stain to dim its lustre.

"He was gentle and courteous in his manners; kind and affectionate in his disposition; earnest and indefatigable in his efforts to promote the cause of his divine Master, and used his wealth, with great liberality, for the benefit of religion. Like the centurion of old, he built at his own expense a church for his neighbors, consisting chiefly of his workmen and their families, and was also a munificent contributor to almost every institution of religion and charity."

— Extract from resolution written by Henry J. Williams, Esq., of Philadelphia.

PART 4.

ICHABOD POTTER, OF PORTSMOUTH, R. I., AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

NATHANIEL POTTER, of Portsmouth, R. I., was admitted an inhabitant of the island of Aquidneck, in 1638. April 30, 1639, he and twenty-eight others signed the following compact: "We, whose names are underwritten, do acknowledge ourselves the legal subjects of his Majesty King Charles, and in his name do hereby bind ourselves into a civil body politicke, unto his laws according to matters of justice."

ICHABOD POTTER,³ of Portsmouth, R. I. Accounts mention his signing certain articles relative to Misquamicut lands, and that his widow removed to King's Town about 1687.

Thomas Potter, 4 of South Kingstown, R. I. "His will 3 Jun. 1727. Will—codicil, 1727, Jun. 4—proved 1728, Jun. 3. Executor, son Thomas. To wife Lydia, £100. To daughter Susan Sheldon, £70. To daughter Sarah Earle, £70. To granddaughter Mary Sherman, £100. To sons Ichabod and Nathaniel, all that farm I bought of Joseph Knight, Nathaniel having the dwelling house in his share. To sons John and Benjamin, east end of farm where I live. To son Joseph, rest of farm, and also the farm bought of Thomas Hazard. To son Thomas, £300. In codicil he gives to wife a riding beast and feather bed. To daughter Martha Potter, £100, and a feather bed.

"Inventory, £4,092 8s. 7d. viz.: wearing apparel, £22 16s., books, cane, 5 oz., 17 pwt. silver money, warming pan, pewter, spinning wheel, linen wheel, gun, 18 horses, mares and colts, bull, 14 oxen, 4 steers, 12 cows, 3 calves, other cattle £19, 72 ewes, 72 lambs, 62 dry sheep, 36 year-old sheep, negroes, Harry, £20, Scipio, £45, Simon, £85, Pero, £55, apprentice and an Indian boy, £16, etc."

John Potter, of Kingstown, R. I., his will dated June 26, 1715. "Will—proved 1715, Jul. 12. Executor, son John. To wife Sarah, house in Point Judith, half acre of land, £500, ten cows, a good riding horse, three beds, a man servant, two women servants, the wintering of two cows by son John, and privilege of firewood for one fire. To daughter Martha Allen, £400. To daughter Susannah Potter, £500, at eighteen, a bed, two cows, mare, horse, etc. To daughter Mary Potter, £500, bed, two cows, horse, etc. The rest of household stuff to be divided among my own daughters at wife's death as she may see cause. To son John, all housing and land in Matunock Neck, 450 acres, and 400 acres of other land, all movables, money bills, bonds, chattels, horsekind, farming utensils, etc. If child wife is with be a son, he to have house and land at Point Judith, 160 acres, at age and other land. If child prove to be a girl said lands to go to John, he paying said girl £500.

"1739, Mar. His widow Sarah Potter, called herself aged seventy-three years in testimony given this month."

ROBERT POTTER, of South Kingstown, R. I. Will dated Apr. 23, 1744. "Will—proved 1745, Jul. 14. Executor, son Robert. To son Robert, 10 acres and my dwelling house thereon, also 80 acres bounded partly by land of son Ichabod, deceased, and half the cedar swamp, and all personal estate. To daughter Susanna Reynolds, £5. To grandson Robert, son of Ichabod, 54 acres and half the cedar swamp, he paying his brothers and sisters as they come of age as follows: to sisters Elizabeth and Deborah, £50 each, brothers Ichabod, Thomas, and William, £100 each, and sister Margaret, £50. Said grandson Robert, to pay his mother-in-law (i. e., step-mother), Margaret Potter, widow of his father Ichabod, £10 yearly while widow, at the expiration of five years."

ICHABOD POTTER,⁸ of South Kingstown, R. I. "1698, Apr. 16. He, of Point Judith, bought of John Albro, of Portsmouth, for £45, a right that latter purchased of Josiah Arnold, lying in Pettaquamscott purchase, in Narrangansett.

"1698, Apr. 16. He deeded to brothers Roger, Joseph, and Benjamin Mowry, for love, etc., land in Narraganset being a right which I bought of my grandfather (i. e., stepgrandfather), John Albro, of Portsmouth. See No. 1.

"1716, Mar. 24. His wife Margaret, in testimony at this date calls herself aged thirty-seven years or thereabouts.

"1727, Nov. 19. Will—codicil 1729, Sep. 28—proved 1730, Mar. 9. Executors, sons Rouse and Thomas. To son Ichabod, £30, to be paid him by my sons Rouse, Thomas, and William, said Ichabod having already received his part. To only daughter Margaret Potter, feather bed, oval table, iron pot, and £100, at eighteen. To sons Rouse, Thomas, and William, rest of estate, real and personal. To daughter Margaret, negro woman Moll. To above three sons, three negro boys. In codicil he gives daughter Margaret £80, instead of £100, and liberty to live with either brother till eighteen. To son Ichabod, negro or mustee boy Dick. To son William, a chest.

"Inventory, £712 18s. 6d., viz.: wearing apparel, £14 10s.; loom, pair of worsted combs, pair of cards, spinning wheel, linen wheel, negro, books, swarm of bees, 6 cows, calf, 4 yearlings, pair of oxen, 5 horsekind, bull, 44 sheep, sow, 3 pigs, 11 shoats, &c."—From Austin's Genealogical Dictionary of Rhode Island.

THOMAS POTTER,¹⁴ of Westerly, R. I., after his marriage removed from Kingstown to Westerly (afterward Hopkinton). His father had lived in that part of Kingstown near Point Judith. He removed into the wilderness "because Kingstown was a place noted for want of piety."

His son, George Potter, ²⁶ began to keep house with his father in Hopkinton, and at the death of his father he inherited the homestead; he lived about two years in Richmond, and in 1764 removed to Westerly and hired the farm owned by Hezekiah Babcock, for seven years.

He purchased at what was afterward called Potter Hill, a grist-mill, saw-mill, fulling-mill, and two houses, and there began in mercantile business and ship carpentering.

After the close of the war, George Potter, with others, was the first to sail from the United States to Green Island. When they arrived there the inhabitants would not allow them to dry fish on shore. They then went to the Straits of Belleisle, where they proceeded to dry their fish, the inhabitants being friendly; this was the first fishing in Belleisle. His son, Joseph Potter,³⁴³ in 1786, began the mercantile business where his father had established, and became a successful merchant. In 1792, he built the house on the hill, and a store attached to the west end of the residence.

Judge William Potter⁴² was born in South Kingstown, R. I., Jan. 21, 1722. On Sunday, Nov. 18, 1750, the banns being first duly asked at St. Paul's, Dr. N. Sparran married William Potter, youngest son of Colonel John Potter, to Penelope Hazard, eldest daughter of Colonel Thomas Hazard, both of South Kingstown, at Colonel Thomas Hazard's house. Colonel Thomas Hazard was a descendant of Thomas Hazard, who came to this country from Wales about 1639.

Judge Potter inherited a large landed estate in South Kingstown, and was otherwise wealthy. He was a senator in the Colonial Legislature, and in 1775 was elected by the Legislature chief justice of Washington County, R. I., which office he held by successive re-elections until 1780, when he resigned.

The following, respecting Judge William Potter and his descendants, is an abridged account from the unpublished manuscripts by the Hon. S. C. Cleveland, intended to have been incorporated in the second volume of the History of Yates County, N.Y., prepared by him about 1870 or 1872:

"Town of Potter.

"More than half the original town of Augusta, afterwards named Middlesex, was embraced in Potter, which town was erected April 26, 1832. It contains something less than the entire area of township eight in the second range of Phelps & Gorham's purchase; as half a mile in width from the west side of that township was retained by Middlesex when the division was made. Afterwards, in December, 1856, one and one half square miles lying on the hillside west of Flint Creek, on the southeast corner of Middlesex, was taken from that town and annexed to Potter. This was done to promote the convenience of citizens inhabiting that locality, who found it much easier to transact business at Potter Center than Middlesex Center. Potter is thus left with thirty-four and one half square miles of territory, or about seventy-two thousand acres.

"The name of the tar

"The name of the town is designed to perpetuate the memory of its founder and the noted pioneer family to which he belonged.

"Perley Howe's survey was made in 1789, and the settlement of the district was begun the same year, though perhaps the actual residence of families in the dense woods of that region did not begin until the next year. By the census of 1790, seven families are enumerated in township eight of the second range. These are the families of Francis Briggs, Michael Pierce, Benjamin Tibbits, Henry Lovell, John Walford, William Hall, and Arnold Potter. Francis Briggs was the first man that bought land of Arnold Potter on his large purchase. Mr. Potter selected a mile square for himself in the northeast corner of his purchase, which is still known as the 'Potter Place' and now owned by another family of Rhode Island Potters. On this domain, Arnold Potter erected quite early a fine mansion, for that time palatial in its style and proportions. It is still standing, though much dilapidated. He built a saw-mill, the first on the stream, at Gatesville, formerly known as Arnold's Hollow, also a grist-mill at the same place, and a saw-mill on Mill Brook near Potter Center. About 1780, Judge William Potter became an enthusiastic and devoted disciple of Jemima Wilkinson, the "Universal Friend." For her accommodation he built a large addition to his spacious mansion, and she made his abode her headquarters for six years, having abundant rooms for the entertainment of her friends, and control of servants and means according to her wishes. Judge Potter accompanied her in many of her religious expeditions, usually riding beside her on horseback while others of the company followed two by two, constituting a solemn and impressive procession. He continued a substantial and efficient adherent of the Friend and her faith until shortly after their settlement near Seneca Lake, when a schism occurred which separated both himself and James Parker from the Friend and her Society.

"Judge Potter was by far the most wealthy adherent of the Friend, and the Friend's Tract of 14,040 acres on Seneca Lake finally reverted largely to him, on the breaking up of the original compact, and became known as the Potter location. It appears that his estate became largely involved by the expenses incident to his adhesion to the Friend, and the emigration of his family to the New Jerusalem. In the earlier period of the Friend's Settlement he and his family resided not far west of Norris' Landing. He afterwards returned to Rhode Island, and finally, in 1807, sold his estate, already heavily mortgaged, there, and afterwards resided with his son Arnold, whom he survived. He lived to the age of ninety-two years, and died suddenly while returning from a visit to his son-in-law, George Brown, in Jerusalem. Their children were Mercy, Thomas H., Alice, Susan, William Robinson, Benedict Arnold, Penelope, William Pitt, Edward, Simeon, and Sarah.

"Mercy, 196 born in 1751, married Joshua Perry in Rhode Island, where he died, leaving three children, Jonathan, Susanna, and Anna. The mother afterwards lived in the family of George Brown. Jonathan married Theda, daughter of George Brown. They settled south of Dresden near the lake. Their children were Harriet, Theda, Asa, John, and Jane. Susanna and Ann married, but did not reside in this county.

"THOMAS HAZARD POTTER, 197 born in 1753, married Patience Wilkinson, sister of the Friend, and settled in 1790 on the farm afterwards owned by his son John, and now by his grandson Jephtha A. Potter, on lot two of the first farm range in the town of Potter. He died there in 1807, and his wife in 1819. Their children were Susan, 210 Eliza, 211 and John.²⁰⁹ Susan married Job Briggs, of Potter. They lived some years in that town on lot two, of the first range, and emigrated many years since to Michigan. Eliza married Baxter Hobart. John, born in 1782, married, in 1808, his cousin Nancy, daughter of Jephtha Wilkinson, youngest brother of the Friend. She was born in 1786. Her father came to the Genesee country previous to its purchase, and explored much of the lake region by the guidance of the Indians, and mapped and described the country. It is supposed that his account of the land induced its further exploration and the settlement by the Friends. He died a physician in New York during the prevalence of the plague in 1803. It thus appears that John and Nancy Potter were both the immediate offspring of the Wilkinson family, he by his mother and she by her father. Her mother was Lucy, a sister of Richard Smith of the Friend's Society, and lived to be nearly ninety-six, and died in 1847.

"Mrs. John Potter, who is still living, relates that she was married at the house of Elijah Malin, by George Green, a justice of the peace, and the house since occupied by her family and her son Jephtha was raised the next day, but, owing to lack of means, was not finished till ten years had passed away. It was enclosed, and they moved into a loghouse, and struggled with hard times till they paid for their farm of three hundred and eighty-six acres. Her husband was drafted in the War of 1812, and sent a substitute. braided straw hats and ladies' bonnets, for which she could get store trade, but very little money. Sometimes her braiding would be worth one hundred and eighty dollars in a single season. Bonnets would bring from five to seven dollars, and gentlemen's hats two dollars. She states that when she first lived on this place the only road through the valley was an Indian trail, and the wolves would sometimes howl till her hair would almost stand on end. John Potter died in 1855 at the age of seventy-two. Their children were Eliza, Hazard A., Jephtha A., John W., William, Alvira A., and Edward P. Eliza, born in 1809, was the wife of John Gleason. They resided near the homestead, where she died, leaving two daughters, Harriet and Helen. Harriet is the second wife of Peleg Gardner, and Helen married Melville Hobart, of Potter.

"Dr. HAZARD A. POTTER, 213 born in 1810, became eminent in the annals of medicine and surgery. He attended the common schools of his neighborhood, and engaged in farm labors till he was nineteen years old. At that time, by a neglected sprain, he was obliged to suffer the amputation of a leg. The operation was performed by Dr. Joshua Lee. The young man displayed great fortitude, holding his own limb, and giving directions with great self-command and coolness, while the attendants fainted or retired. He immediately resolved to become a physician, and as soon as he was able, attended the Penn Yan Academy, then under Gookins, Wakefield, and Richard Taylor. He studied medicine one year under Dr. Francis M. Potter, and the next under Dr. Barret N. Wisner. Another year he spent in study with Dr. Hiram Allen, of Woonsocket Falls, R. I., and then entered Bowdoin Medical College, where he remained through a course of lectures, succeeded by a course at Darmouth Medical College, and another at the Medical Department of Harvard University. He finally graduated at Bowdoin, in 1835. Soon after, he married Louisa S., daughter of Ziba Ballou, of Cumberland, R. I. She was the youngest of fourteen children, her mother being fortynine at the time of her birth in 1817. Her grandfather, Noah Ballou, a Baptist clergyman, preached in an old wooden church, built at so early a day in Rhode Island that the whole structure, including the seats, was of hewn or split timber. Hosea Ballou, the noted Universalist of Boston, was a consin of Mrs. Potter's father. The family is one of note for longevity and strong mental and physical characteristics.

"After his marriage Dr. Potter commenced practice at Cumberland Hill, R. I., but shortly returned to Yatesville, and from the old homestead entered at once upon an extended ride. Remarkable success attended his practice, and several cases of note soon gave him a conspicuous reputation for skill and success in both medicine and surgery. He was a self-reliant, original, and intuitive physician, and eclipsed all his compeers by daring to do what others had not dreamed of, and by his almost unbroken success in all his departures from the beaten track. The medical publications of his time contain many tributes to his skill, and details showing the valuable contributions made by him to medical science. His knowledge of the human system was masterly, and his triumphs, especially in surgery, were, many of them, startling, affording proof of great originality of mind. Appleton's New Cyclopedia gives a handsome professional sketch of his most brilliant exploits as a surgeon. The reader is referred to the medical works for a more specific and technical account of his successes with the scalpel, and also in the common sphere of medical practice. There is no doubt he is entitled to rank among the most illustrious of his profession. In 1853, he moved to Geneva. He served two years and upwards in the army during the Rebellion, as a surgeon. He died at Geneva in December, 1869. His wife, to whom he owes much of his success in life, survives him. Their children were Ziba H., Nannie L., and Louisa.

"ZIBA HAZARD POTTER²²¹ was born in Potter, in 1836. He graduated at Hobart College in 1857, and at the Geneva Medical College in 1867. He served four years as a surgeon in the army, during and since the Rebellion, and is now (1872) Professor of Mathematics in Cornell University. He is a man of broad culture and comprehensive mind. Nannie

L., born in 1839, married Dr. Reynald H. Towler, son of Prof. Towler of Hobart College. He was surgeon-in-chief of the garrison at Washington, on General Dent's staff, during the war. They have one child, Minnie L. Louisa married Dr. Porteus C. Gilbert, of Honesdale, Pa. He was first a captain of the 50th Engineers, and afterwards an army surgeon through the war. His wife was with him in the hospitals, and also her sister, and a portion of the time her mother, all taking part in the active duties of the service.

"Jephtha A. Potter,²¹⁴ born in 1813, married Sarah J. Davis in 1840. They now reside in Penn Yan, but till recently occupied the old homestead. He is a skilful and successful farmer, and a man of industry and taste in rural affairs. He has been noted as one of the leading wool growers of Yates County, and especially for first-class merino sheep.

"John W.,²¹⁶ born in 1816, was also a physician, and was an able and useful man in his profession. He located at Prattsburg, and died there in 1856. His death was caused by the contagion of an ulcerated wound of a patient.

"WILLIAM,²¹⁵ born in 1818, married Theresa Barse, of Penn Yan. He is a Methodist preacher and a man of superior personal worth. He was two years in the army during the Rebellion, and held the rank of captain.

"ALVIRA A.,²¹⁸ born in 1823, married Seabred Dodge Pratt, of Philadelphia. He is an author and newspaper correspondent connected with the Press of that city.

"EDWARD P.,²¹⁷ born in 1824, married Elizabeth Moore, of Hartford, Conn. They resided in Potter, where he was killed by the accidental discharge of a gun carried by himself.

"ALICE POTTER, 198 born in 1756, married Captain Arnold Hazard, who died in Rhode Island. She was a conspicuous adherent of the Friend, and a resolute, energetic woman. Her granddaughter is the wife of Dudley W. Dox, of Torrey, and has in her possession the wedding ring which belonged to the wife of Judge William Potter, and the silver table service presented to her on her wedding day.

"Susanna, born in 1758, died in Rhode Island.

"Benedict Arnold Potter,²⁰¹ born in 1761, became the most eminent member of the original family. In his youth he was a devout disciple of the Friend, and accompanied her in many of her religious peregrinations. He and Sarah Brown, who subsequently became his wife, went twice to Philadelphia with the Friend. Like his father, he afterwards left the Society, and became indifferent, if not hostile, to the Friend and her teachings. His wife, however, remained steadfast in the faith. He married Sarah, daughter of Benjamin Brown, Sr., of the Friend's Society. He was a man of far-reaching views and bold enterprise, and performed a highly useful and beneficent part in the first settlement of this county. He was early appointed a judge of the County Court of Ontario, and was an able and excellent magistrate. In his dealings he was just and honorable, and as a citizen liberal and public-spirited. He made great efforts to promote the settlement of his lands, and dealt kindly with those who needed lenity in regard to payment, receiving whatever he could convert to extinguish their indebtedness.* He died in 1810 at Harrisburg while on his way to Philadelphia with a drove of cattle, and was buried there. His early death was a severe loss to the new community in which he lived, and was deeply deplored by his neighbors and throughout the wide sphere of his acquaintance. For good and obvious reasons he dropped his first name after the Revolutionary War, and was simply known as Arnold Potter. It was at his mansion that the Duke de Lancourt and Louis Philippe were entertained several months. He introduced valuable breeds of horses and cattle, and was foremost in all public improvements. Their children were William, Arnold, and Penelope. William married Hannah, daughter of Robert Chissom, and died early. His widow became the wife of Fisher Hewson. Arnold died a young man. Penelope married Charles W. Henry, a lawyer of New York. They removed to Laporte, Indiana, where both died leaving two sons, William and Miles.

"Penelope,²⁰² daughter of William Potter, born in 1764, married Benjamin Brown, Jr.

"WILLIAM PITT, 203 born in 1766, died single.

"Edward,²⁰⁴ born in 1768, married Ann Johnson. They settled east of Himrods, on lot twelve of the Potter Location. He died there at the age of eighty-two, and his wife at the age of seventy-five. They had six children, William, Susan, William Pitt, Samuel J., Penelope, and Francis M.

"Susan, 239 born in the Friend's Settlement, in 1799, married, in 1818, Holbrook Benson, of Ovid, who died five years later, leaving three daughters, Mary Ann, Sarah, and Charlotte. Ten years later Mrs. Benson married Jared Woodin, ten years her junior, whom she survives. Three daughters were born of the second marriage, Penelope, Maria, and Caroline V. Mary Ann married Rominer Smith, a prominent citizen of Vermont. Sarah married General Gilbert Hurd, of Starkey. Charlotte is the wife of George W. Ruscoe, of Starkey. Penelope is a teacher. Maria died young, and Caroline V., also a teacher, married James Dodson and emigrated to Kansas. During her first widowhood she resided in Penn Yan, and aided in establishing the first Methodist prayer-meeting in the place. She states that her grandfather, Judge William Potter, after some years of violent hostility to the Friend, became very much mollified in his prejudices during the later years of his life, and that he visited the Friend and spoke kindly of her.

[&]quot;* The following is a copy of a hand-bill issued by Judge Potter in 1800:

[&]quot;FOR SALE, ON REASONABLE TERMS, ABOUT 16,000 ACRES OF LAND, Situate near the centre of the flourishing settlements of the Genesee Country, in the town of Augusta (commonly called Potterstown), and county of Ontario. On this Tract are a number of farms of a superior quality, some of which are under improvement. Said lands will be sold in small parcels or large tracts, as best suits the purchasers, for ready pay, or on credit; great allowance made to those who make immediate payment. There are two saw-mills on these lands and a good grist-mill, commodiously situated for Southern market; there being only twelve miles land carriage from said grist-mill to the waters of the Susquehanna, which lead to Baltimore, one of the best flour markets in the United States. "Samuel J. Potter,²⁴⁴ born at South Kingston, R. I., in 1805, married, in 1834, Mary Cozzens, at Union Springs, Cayuga County. She was born at Newport, R. I., in 1809. They resided on the paternal homestead in Milo, and he has been a prominent and highly esteemed citizen. Within a few years past they bought the farm of Colonel Gilbert Sherer, on lot eighteen, near Penn Yan, where the family now resides. On this place Mrs. Potter died in 1868. Their children are Helen, Ann J., Mary E., Evan J., William C., and Augustus W. Helen is the second wife of Charles N. Burrill, of Penn Yan. Their children are Samuel P. and Anna L. Ann J. is the wife of John R. Hatmaker. Evan J. married Miranda Swartz, of Starkey, and resides on the old homestead. They have one son, Evan S. Mary E. married Gustavus W. Mayer, an Episcopal clergyman, formerly rector of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, Penn Yan, now a classical teacher at Denver, Col. Samuel J. Potter still owns the homestead of his father, the title of which was derived from his grandfather. It is, no doubt, the only farm in the county in which no change of title has occurred, except by inheritance, since the original ownership was derived from the State. Penelope, daughter of Edward Potter, died young.

"Francis M.²⁴⁵ was a physician. He married Ann Ryreson, of Brooklyn, and practised his profession several years in Penn Yan. He erected several stores and other buildings at the head of Main Street. A fire destroyed much of this property. His wife died, and he returned to Brooklyn, and died there in 1865, leaving two daughters, Phebe A. and Eliza. He studied medicine under Dr. Valentine Mott, and ranked high in his profession.

"SIMEON, 205 born in 1770, was the youngest of Judge William Potter's children. He married Catharine Klise at Hopeton. They settled on lands given him by his father on lot twelve of the Potter Location, within the boundaries of Starkey. He had originally about one thousand acres of land, of which he sold all but three hundred acres, which remained to his widow and children. The children were Lucinda, Penelope, Mary, and Sarah Ann. The widow married a second husband, William, son of Edward Potter. They had four sons, Edward, Benjamin F., Evan M., and John A.

"Lucinda married Peter M. Fulkerson, of Starkey. They emigrated to Ovid, Mich., where she died in 1869, leaving six children, Deborah E., Penelope, George G., Mary A., Ruby, and Frank. George died of disease contracted in the Union service as a soldier during the Rebellion. Penelope resides single on the homestead with her brother. Mary died at twenty-five, and Sarah Ann married Reuben C. Abbott. They settled near Watkins, where he died, and she now resides with her brother Benjamin.

"EDWARD²⁵¹ married Sophia Welter, of Starkey, and emigrated to Sheppardsville, Mich. Their children are Henry A. and Ann A. Henry A. married Catharine, daughter of Peleg Gardner, and is a merchant at Ovid, Mich. They have one child, Monroe B. Henry A. Potter²⁵⁶ was born in Starkey, in 1840. He enlisted in 1862, a private in the Fourth Michigan Cavalry, and served under Generals Buell, Rosecrans, and Sherman, in the Army of the Cumberland, was promoted for meritorious service to the rank of second lieutenant, was in the battles of Stone River, Chattanooga, and the siege of Atlanta; had two horses shot under him while leading charges at Rome, Ga., and assisted in the memorable capture of Jefferson Davis. His son is the first male born of the sixth generation from Judge William Potter. Ann A. married, in 1869, Frank Aldrich, of Sheppardsville, Mich.

"Benjamin F. resides, a farmer, on the homestead.

"Evan M. married Phebe A., daughter of Daniel Husted, of Starkey. They reside at Ovid, Mich.; he is a merchant and partner of Henry A. Potter. Their children are Charles E. and Cora.

"John A. married Mary J. Brown, of Ovid, Mich. He is a merchant at that place. Their children are William and Catharine.

"Judge William Potter was much the most wealthy man that engaged in the enterprise of establishing the colony of Friends in the Genesee country. He and his family owned at one time about fifty-five thousand acres of land within the limits of this county, or eighty-six square miles, more than one fourth of the entire area of the county.

"Although the name of Arnold Potter alone appears in the title as original purchaser of the land comprised in Middlesex and Potter, his father and one or two of his brothers were at first interested with him in the purchase. Of all the immense landed estates possessed by the family, but two farms remain, now the property of Judge William Potter's descendants. Bred to wealthy and luxurious tastes, the sons, with the exception of Arnold, gave little application to business. Accustomed to the service of slaves, they had no taste for labor. They were well educated, but fast horses and sporting society produced their usual results in this aristocratic family.

"Mrs. John Potter (since Mrs. Johnson), now eighty-five years old, is a characteristic scion of the Wilkinson stock. She and her cousin, Moses Hartwell, are the only remaining representatives of the family belonging to their generation, in this county. She and her descendants exhibit the energy, boldness of thought, and originality of character which many branches of the family have illustrated in the sphere of enterprise, invention, and religious independence. A perusal of the family records affords a flattering proof of the genius that inheres in this race. Nancy Wilkinson's sister, Alpha, was the second wife of Melchoir Wagener, and the mother of eleven children. Lucy, another sister, married John D. Williams, of Pultney. Abigail, another, married James West, and moved to Michigan. Mary Ann, a fourth sister, married Ebenezer Gardner. She became a widow, moved to Illinois with her children, and there bought the farm previously owned by Black Hawk, the noted Indian chief. She finally sold out and moved overland with her family to California; evincing in all her movements excellent judgment, daring enterprise, and masculine force of character.

"Benjamin Brown, Jr. 202 One of the sons of Benjamin Brown, Sr., of the Friend's Society, was Benjamin, Jr., born in 1763. He married Penelope, daughter of William Potter, and sister of Arnold Potter. They were married at the house of Arnold Potter, since known as the Potter House, in 1790. She died in the Friend's Settlement three years later, leaving an only daughter, Penelope. He married a second wife, Mary Lamb, of Wayne. They resided at Arnold's Hollow, where she died, in 1828. He died at the residence of his cousin, James Brown, Jr., in Jerusalem, in 1854, ninety years old.

"Benjamin Brown, Jr., came alone to the Genesee country in the winter of 1787-8, and proceeding to Big Tree (Geneseo), was compelled by the inclemency of the season to remain among the Indians encamped there; and became acquainted with Mary Jameson. He left in March, proceeding to Albany with an Indian pony. In 1789, he returned, and with two other men run a bateau up the Mohawk and into Seneca Lake, laden with thirty tons of merchandise and household goods, a portion of which belonged to the Friend. The passage was slow and toilsome, consuming much of the summer. In the fall he went to Worcester, Pa., for a herd of cattle belonging to the Friend; with these he reached Newtown Flats, and there wintered them, bringing them to their destination the next spring. He was largely interested in the land purchases of the Potters and of the Friends, and was early engaged with others in the erection of the gristmill and saw-mill at Arnold's Hollow. These were first erected in 1793, and were subsequently remodelled and improved, in which work Dr. Brenton W. Hazard and Charles W. Henry were partners of Mr. Brown. The mills were destroyed by fire in 1840, while owned by Dr. Hazard A. Potter. Like his father, Benjamin Brown, Jr., remained a firm adherent of the Friend through life.

"Penelope,²²⁹ his only child, was born in 1792, in the Friend's Settlement. In 1813, she married Colonel Israel Arnold.²²⁹ They were married by George Green, and settled on a farm now owned by Jareb D. Bordwell, on lot three, of the fifth farm range in Potter. Colonel Arnold was born at Warwick, Kent County, R. I., in 1785, and came to this county in 1811. In 1815 they moved to the locality long known as Arnold's Hollow, taking the name from him. He was a farmer, miller, and distiller, and conducted a large business for many years. His wife died in 1834, and he in 1839. Mrs. Arnold was a birthright member of the Friend's Society, and always retained a strong personal attachment to the Friend. It is claimed that she was the first white female child born within the limits of Yates County. Colonel Arnold married a second wife, Widow Ann Marsh, who survived him. He was a colonel in the War of 1812, and served under General William H. Harrison. He joined the Methodist church in 1828, and was a leading member till his death. The children by his first marriage were Israel H., Martha W., and Benjamin W.

"ISRAEL H.,²³⁰ born in Yatesville in 1816, married Susan A., daughter of Dr. John L. Cleveland, in 1841. He resides, a widower, at Benton Center, with two sons, Carlton J. and George B. He is a surveyor and civil engineer.

"Martha W.,²³¹ born in 1819, married Samuel C. Weare. "Benjamin W.,²³² born in 1821, married Fanny E. Avery, of Albany, in 1853. He is a lumber merchant at Albany. They have one son, Benjamin A."

Deputy-Governor Samuel J. Potter,⁴⁷ born in Kingstown, R. I., 1739; died there Sept. 20, 1804. He was at one time deputy governor of Rhode Island, and in 1792 and 1796 was a Presidential elector. In 1803, he was elected to the United States Senate, and served from Oct. 17, 1803, till his death.

Colonel Henry Potter,⁵⁸⁰ who had been instructed in the process of cotton manufacturing, superintended the erection of a cotton mill during the time of the War of 1812; he was also active in military affairs, and used a portion of the factory building as a sort of military school for army drill. He was promoted to be adjutant of the Rhode Island Regiment, Colonel Barber. He commanded a battalion which was called out for service at the battle of Stonington. He was subsequently promoted to lieutenant-colonel. He removed to Waterford, Conn., in 1820, where he resided most of his life, dying at Mystic, Conn., in 1864.

Hon. WILLIAM H. POTTER, 590 son of Colonel Henry Potter, was born at Potter Hill, R. I., Aug. 26, 1816. For twenty-eight years he was a school teacher, several years assistant assessor of internal revenue, member of the Connecticut Legislature, from Groton, in 1869, and senator from the Seventh Senatorial District in 1872. He was a graduate of Yale College, class of 1840, received the degree of A. M. from that institution; elected a member of the State Board of Education in 1872. Mr. Potter died in 1887.

Hon. William Wells Crandall, M. D.,654 of Andover, New York, was born in Genesee, N. Y., March 23, 1828. He was the youngest son of Ezekiel and Susan Wells Crandall, 622 natives of Hopkinton, R. I. His father held a major's commission in the War of 1812, serving with honor in the defences of Rhode Island and Connecticut, and removed to Alleghany in 1825. Dr. Crandall was educated at Alfred Academy and Brown University, and for several years he was a teacher in the public schools of New York State, and also in Rhode Island. He began the study of medicine with H. P. Saunders, M. D., in the office of Hartshorne & Saunders, of Alfred Centre, in 1855. Made a doctor of medicine by the University of New York, 1858, also graduated in the Ophthalmic Hospital, New York. Dr. Potter studied in the hospitals of London and other cities in 1858. Returning to this country, he settled in Andover, N. Y., his present residence. Elected a member of Assembly, New York State Legislature, in 1872 and 1873, serving on the Committees of Education and Health, being the chairman of the latter. Dr. Crandall is a member of the Elmira, N. Y., Academy of Medicine, Hornellsville, N. Y., Academy of Medicine, president of the Alleghany County Medical Society, and its representative in the State Medical Society at Albany, N. Y.

ELISHA POTTER,⁸⁰⁴ the son of Colonel Nathan and Lucy Potter, was born at Potter Hill, R. I., Feb. 12, 1806, and died Nov. 13, 1884, being the seventh in the family of ten children. In his earlier years, he was puny and feeble, yet, ambitious to excel in whatever he put his hand to, he did good work, from seven to twelve years of age, in a cotton mill, and in a grist and saw mill. Overwork and ill health induced him to follow the sea for three seasons, as cook and cabin boy. His health improving, and having a mechanical turn of mind, he engaged to his cousin, Joseph Potter, to learn the trade of wool carding and cloth dressing. In 1823, his father moved to Alfred, and he came a year or so later. His father dying the year following, the care of his mother and younger brothers, till they could manage for themselves, devolved upon him.

Beginning life for himself, with his characteristic energy and perseverance he gave his hand to whatever work presented itself, working by the day, by the month at chopping, farming, carpentering — returning for a year to Rhode Island to perfect his trade.

On the death of his brother Nathan, he took charge, in 1833, of his clothing and carding works. Business increasing on his hands, he built for himself, enlarging his mill.

His first wife died in 1847, and he gave up business, sold out his mill, and moved to Alfred Centre, N. Y.

Though nominally retired from business, he continued a tireless worker at whatever came to hand. In addition to his pursuits as a private individual, he was for thirty-four years a trustee of Alfred Academy and University, twenty-one of which he was also its treasurer. He was also, for seventeen years, treasurer of the Seventh-day Baptist Education Society. He filled these responsible offices in a most faithful, honest, and honorable manner, laboring earnestly, gratuitously, and well, in fulfilling the tasks imposed on him. In the financially dark and troubled days of the institution, he stood manfully, sacrificially by its interests. In all emergency, he was a man to be relied on. He also held important offices in the church and various societies, but refused all political office, deeming such a curse to a business man.

He was one of the most industrious of men, a wise counsellor, just in all his ways, a firm friend, a kind neighbor, helpful in need and sickness, with a character unchangeably true to his convictions of right and duty.

Hon. ELISHA REYNOLDS POTTER 1252-1253 was born at Little Rest, now Kingston, in the town of South Kingstown, R. I., Nov. 5, 1764, and died at his residence in Kingston, Sept. 26, 1835. He was twice a member of Congress, serving in all eight years, and he was seventy-two times elected a member of the Rhode Island General Assembly, his entire service in that body reaching nearly to forty years. His wife was Mary, the daughter of Pardon Mawney, Esq., a descendant of Moses Le Moine, one of the Huguenots who settled at Frenchtown, East Greenwich, R. I., in 1686.

Mr. Potter was bred to the law, and practised the profession until he entered actively into political life. In April, 1793, he was first elected a representative to the Rhode Island General Assembly, and continued to represent his native town in the Legislature until October, 1796. In that year he was elected to the Fourth and Fifth Congresses in place of Judge Bourne, who had resigned. Mr. Potter also resigned his seat before the expiration of his term.

In August, 1798, he was again elected to the General Assembly of Rhode Island, and was continuously re-elected until 1809, when he was again elected a representative to Congress, and continued a member for six years, declining a re-election.

In August, 1816, Mr. Potter was again elected a member of the General Assembly of Rhode Island, and thenceforward he was elected semi-annually, until his death, excepting in April, 1818, when he was a candidate for the office of governor. During Mr. Potter's service in the General Assembly, he was five times elected speaker of the House.

In a letter of Rev. William Ellery Channing to Wilkins Updike, Esq., Dec. 18, 1841, in relation to his (Channing's) father, who was formerly attorney-general of Rhode Island, the writer says as follows: "You speak of the testimony borne to him by the late Elisha R. Potter, Esq. My father was among the first to discover the abilities of that remarkable man; and I remember the kindness with which he used to receive him. His spirit was in truth the kindest. He was ever ready to see and appreciate superior talents, and to attach himself to worth. His friendship seemed to me singularly strong for a man so immersed in business."

In Josiah Quincy's "Figures of the Past," speaking of the Federal party he writes: "Our hold upon political parties is now so narrowed that it is difficult to realize the uncompromising sternness with which the original Federalists kept the faith. To them party had the character of a church or a religion; and I cannot better illustrate this last remark than by quoting the words of Elisha R. Potter, of Rhode Island, a gentleman whom I constantly met at Miss Hyer's table in Washington, and with whom I made part of my journey home. He had been a member of Congress in the last century, and had served again during the War of 1812. He was one day giving me a pathetic description of the gradual fading out of the Federal party, and of the pluck with which the standard was followed after the day was lost. 'I remember a time,' he said 'when we found ourselves in a minority of eleven, and some timid soul had called a sort of meeting to see whether it were worth while to continue the opposition. Some were disposed to be dispirited, and I was asked to say a few words to brace them up. Well, it came upon me to say only this: "Friends, just remember that we are as many as the apostles were after Judas had deserted Think what they did, and fight it out." That did the them. We did fight it out, and fell fighting for the business. good cause.'

"There spake the uncompromising spirit of Federalism. Mr. Potter was one of the largest men I have ever seen, excepting, of course, the professional giants in the service of Mr. Barnum. He told me that he generally paid for two seats in a stage-coach, and suffered much if he neglected to do so. But the wit and intelligence of the man were in fair proportion to his goodly bulk. . . . Mr. Potter was one of the men who carry about them a surplus of vital energy, to relieve the wants of others. The absurd inquiry, whether life were worth living, never suggested itself in his presence. I well remember how the faces about Miss Hyer's diningtable were wont to be lighted up when he entered the room.

"Mr. Potter seemed to carry about with him a certain homespun certificate of authority, which made it natural for lesser men to accept his conclusions. Oddly enough, I have met only one other individual who impressed me as possessing the same sort of personal power, and he was one whose place in history is certain when the lives of greater and better men are covered by oblivion, for the muse of history postpones the claims of statesmen and poets to those of the founders of religions, who, for good or evil, are more potent factors in the destiny of mankind.

"The position of Mr. Potter in his native State has now faded to a dim tradition. It was of the authoritative kind which belongs to men who bear from nature the best credentials. His address to the freemen of the State of Rhode Island, published in 1810, is good reading to-day. There is no document of as many pages so illustrative of the best sentiment and the best spirit of the time. The style is that of a man not quite accustomed to easy writing; but there is always dignity in its somewhat rugged periods, and the address glows with an honorable self-respect, which is not too common in the communications of politicians with their constituents. I gladly close these records of Washington society by recalling a figure so typical of a noble American manhood."

Judge Elisha Reynolds Potter, ¹²⁵⁸ of Kingston, R. I., was born in what is now the village of Kingston, in the town of South Kingstown, R. I., the twentieth day of June, 1811, and died at his home in Kingston, April 10, 1882. In the Providence, R. I., Morning Star of April 11, 1882, the following article appeared, written by Judge P. E. Tillinghast:

"The people of the State were greatly shocked, last evening, as the news reached them of the sudden death of Elisha R. Potter, one of the associate justices of our Supreme Court.

"He died at his home at Kingston, yesterday afternoon, at 1.40 o'clock, in the seventy-first year of his age, without any special indications beforehand, so far as known, that the brittle thread of life was about to be broken.

"Thus suddenly has been taken from us an eminent citizen, a wise and most honorable counsellor, and an upright, pureminded, and able judge. As a citizen, Judge Potter was a truly representative Rhode Island man. He loved his native State. He loved its institutions, its history, its traditions, its people, and he earnestly strove to cherish and perpetuate the good name and fame of the Commonwealth which he and his ancestors were so instrumental in building up. He was always particularly interested in the educational interests of the State, and probably has done more towards the establishment and perpetuity of our free public school system than any man now living. When commissioner of public schools he was in the habit of personally visiting the district schools throughout the entire State, stopping with the farmers and country folk over night, frequently holding educational meetings as he travelled, and thus becoming acquainted with the people, ascertaining the peculiar wants of each locality, and as far as possible, meeting and supplying them.

"The knowledge which he acquired concerning our public school system while holding the office mentioned constituted him the best authority in the State as to all matters connected with the legal management of schools, school districts, and kindred subjects; and since his election to the bench most of the questions concerning those matters, which have called for judicial settlement, have been decided by him

"Judge Potter was pre-eminently a man of the people; he loved the plain manners and customs of every-day country life, and under no consideration would he for a moment have entertained the idea of exchanging his broad and ancestral acres and stately old mansion at Little Rest Hill for the most palatial residence which the city affords. He could easily enough endure the city during the day, but when night came he wished to be free from all the glare, noise, and excitement. The quiet of his beautiful country home, where, in his large, old-fashioned library, he was entirely surrounded with his books, and fully occupied in knowing them, was to him a joy and inspiration.

"Judge Potter was a man of large and generous culture and refinement, and of great legal learning. He had a liking for the classics and polite literature, but his chief delight was in becoming perfectly familiar with the great root principles of the common law and of equity, and of being able at all times, in his judicial capacity, to apply those principles to the administration of justice. But it was as a judge that the people knew him best. It was in this capacity that his sterling common-sense, his unswerving devotion to truth and honesty, and his great learning were the most conspicuous.

"To say that he was strictly upright, pure, and incorruptible in this high station, is only to voice the sentiment of all who knew him. No one ever for a moment thought him capable of betraying in the slightest degree his exalted trust. No man ever performed the duties of judge with a more conscientious desire to do equal and exact justice to all, than he.

"But of his many superior qualities as a judge we cannot now speak; others who knew him better will do him justice when his true worth shall come to be recorded.

"To the members of the bar he was always remarkably kind and obliging, and the younger members in particular ever found in him a warm and helpful friend as a counsellor.

"His goodness of heart was proverbial wherever he was known. Always ready to relieve distress and suffering, and lend a helping hand to the needy, his name among his neighbors and friends is almost a synonyme for charity. In his death the State has lost one of its most devoted, wise, and conservative public servants."

In the Harvard University memoirs, published in 1886, for private distribution, of classmates passed away, that of Judge Elisha Reynolds Potter was contributed by Henry Barnard, Esq., of Hartford, Conn. This article is herewith inserted, omitting only a few of the opening sentences, which would be a repetition of facts hitherto stated:—

"The son took by inheritance the home and paternal respect which his father, a great and honored name in social life and political history of his State, had achieved, and from his mother a constitution most delicate and refined. He had a gentleness of nature almost feminine. From child-hood he was always fond of books and study, and scholarly in all his tastes. He was, however, as firm in his convictions as he was gentle in manner. His spirit was always most charitable and tolerant. Suaviter in modo, fortiter in re, was his rule of conduct in private and public life.

"He was fitted for college principally at the Academy at Kingston, by the Rev. Oliver Brown, a graduate of Harvard, who was also the minister of the Congregational church. Before entering college, he studied French for two summers at Newport and Providence, at the same time giving special attention to mathematics. He entered Harvard College in 1826, and graduated in the class of 1830, holding in his whole course a high position for scholarship, but extending his reading widely beyond his class studies into historical and general literature.

"In the winter following his graduation he commenced the study of law, and at the same time took charge of the classical department of the Academy at Kingston. In the spring of 1831, he entered the law office of Nathaniel Searle, of Providence, one of the largest practitioners in the State, and was admitted to the bar in the courts of Rhode Island, on the 9th of October, 1832. In this practice as attorney, counsellor, and with occasional occupation in municipal, State, and national affairs, and in historical authorship, and daily excursions into the domain of literature, Mr. Potter continued for fifty years a life of singular simplicity, purity, and usefulness, all the time apparently unconscious of the good he was doing, the broad and thorough scholarship he was attaining, or the hold his unostentatious services had gained in the respect and affections of the citizens of Rhode Island and of his fellow-men generally.

"Along with his legal studies, and even earlier, he had read extensively in the history and biography of Rhode Island and New England, and began independent investigations into the original records and documents of his native county and State, which, in 1835, when only about twenty-four years old, he embodied in a volume of four hundred pages, with the title of 'The Early History of Narragansett,' with original documents never before printed. This contribution to the history of the State was published as the third volume of their collections, by the Rhode Island Historical Society, and is still regarded of high authority on the subject and the period of which it treats.

"Mr. Potter had previously prepared, while acting as clerk of the House of Representatives in 1833, a document on Religious Corporations which was submitted to that body as a report of a committee charged with some legislation on the subject. This document discusses thoroughly the practice of Rhode Island in exempting church property from taxation, as well as the general principles on which the statutes of mortmain rest.

"In 1837, Mr. Potter published, the result of exhaustive research, 'The Emissions of Paper Money by the Colony of Rhode Island, from 1710 to 1786,' which was printed in a pamphlet of fifty pages. This pamphlet was reprinted by Mr. Henry Phillips, Jr., in his 'Historical Sketches of the Paper Currency of the American Colonists,' prior to the adoption of the Federal Constitution. In 1865, it was rewritten by him, with additions by Mr. Sidney S. Rider, and published in the Rhode Island Historical Tracts, No. 8, 1880.

"In the revolutionary agitation, known as the Dorr Controversy or Rebellion, Mr. Potter, although sympathizing in his political professions with many of the individuals associated in the movement, sided early and decidedly with the party for defending the government against military force, and against all constitutional changes not attempted in authorized ways.

"He was a member of the committee on the part of the government of Rhode Island to visit Washington, and secure, if necessary, the intervention of the national executive in defence of law and order in the State.

"Mr. Potter issued, in 1842, a pamphlet entitled 'Considerations on the Question of the Adoption of a Constitution and the Extension of Suffrage in Rhode Island,' with a view of quieting future agitation. It is a treatise of much original research, and of special interest in the history of Rhode Island, and a second edition was called for in 1879.

"The people of the State, and especially of the Narragansett country, early transferred to him the confidence and regard entertained for his distinguished father, Elisha R. Potter, and from his own and the neighboring towns he was consulted by them in all matters relating to their private as well as their public affairs, as a trusted neighbor and friend, and he often gave his counsel without fee or regard to his personal comfort.

"He was frequently elected member of the town council of South Kingstown, and in 1843 and 1844 was elected a member of Congress from the district in which he lived. His intimate and thorough knowledge of the history of the State made his suggestions of much practical importance in all municipal and State legislation, and secured him great personal influence even with those who differed from him politically.

"After his retirement from Congress, in 1844, Mr. Potter cordially entered into the movements which began in 1843 and resulted for the first time in the thorough organization of a system of public schools for the State; and, in 1849, he succeeded Mr. Barnard as commissioner, and carried forward and consolidated the forms of procedure under the school law prepared originally by Mr. Barnard, and subsequently issued a revised and perfected edition of the same. During his administration, in 1852, the State Normal School, suggested and advocated by his predecessor in 1845, was established and inaugurated by an address in which he gave it his cordial support, although he was originally in favor of a system of professional training in which Brown University should take a responsible part, both on the ground of its being the head of public instruction, and because the State had a right to look for hearty co-operation in the professional training of public school teachers, on account of the corporate privileges and exemptions accorded to the institution and its professors.

"He was early called to recognize and apply to public schools the doctrine and policy of Rhode Island, of the entire separation of Church and State. While he held and encouraged religious instruction to the largest extent by voluntary co-operation of parents, he felt it his duty, as State commissioner, to protect the humblest member of society from any denominational imposition of special creed in the administration or instruction of the schools of a town or district. To the literature of this subject Mr. Potter contributed several addresses, as well as a special report, in which was given the experience of different countries in Europe, and of different States on this continent, in this department of public service, and a digest of the best thoughts which had been presented from time to time on both sides of the difficult problem of religious instruction in public schools.

"In 1851, in an address before the Historical Society, Mr. Potter explained the exceptional ground occupied by Rhode Island in the educational policy of New England. As long as education was looked upon as exclusively or mainly the work of the church and of clerygymen, he claimed that Rhode Island could not consistently legislate on the subject. When that ground was gradually and practically abandoned, then the State took up the matter. Although late in the field, he claimed that the system now in operation in Rhode Island did in all respects compare favorably with the older systems of the neighboring States.

"In January, 1852, Mr. Potter began the publication of a monthly educational magazine, which was continued to the completion of the second volume in 1853. The two volumes are full of educational matter of permanent value, and should be in every public library of the State.

"In 1861, Mr. Potter was a member of the Legislature from South Kingstown, and urged the General Assembly to the adoption of resolutions pledging the resources of the State to the support of the American Union; and in his remarks he anticipated an entire revolution in the political status and domestic policy of the Southern States as the inevitable result of their attempt at secession.

"In 1862, while a member of the Senate, he submitted a report denying the right of the Legislature to grant a perpetual exemption from taxation to any religious institution having resources of its own, or to exempt the property of an incorporation, literary or charitable, or its office-bearers, from taxation; and where such exemption was now made it was the duty of the Legislature to correct the practice, as all property in the State should bear its proportion of the cost of its protection.

"In 1868, Mr. Potter was elected a justice of the Supreme Court of the State, which office he continued to hold until his decease, April 10, 1882; and no member of the bar in his day could have brought to it more solid or varied learning, sounder views of equity, or more patient consideration to the discharge of all his duties on the bench or in chambers. No matter with what inconvenience to himself, he was always ready to attend to his duties as a magistrate.

"His associates, in receiving the resolutions of the bar on the occasion of his decease, one and all, bore testimony to the patience, fidelity, and learning with which he had nniformly discharged his duties. 'That he was strictly upright, pure, and incorruptible in this high station,' observes one, 'is only to express the sentiment of all who knew him. No one for a moment could think him capable in the slightest degree of betraying his exalted trust.'

"Mr. Potter was a true lover of books; he prized a book for its own sake, although he had a most discriminating taste and judgment with regard to their contents and editions; and his own library was a monument of choice selections in all the great departments of thought. No book went on to the shelves of his library until he had made himself master of all it contained, and no man was more ready to communicate knowledge thus gained to others, or more full and accurate in his references. With all his attachment to his own books, he was always ready to loan to a special investigator his choicest volumes. Scarcely a book can be taken down from his shelves which does not contain slips and memoranda by him, elucidating the subject treated, or the author. He was never less alone than in his library, where great minds could be summoned at will to conference or recreation; and the pleasure which he derived from books he wished to make accessible to all, rich and poor, old and young, through school and village libraries; which, as school commissioner, he labored to establish and extend in every town, and, to aid in the selection, he issued a list of good books, which is still extensively used. The library at Kingston was started by him, and greatly enriched by his donations, and at no distant day his own collection will become a free library of reference for the State and country.

"Mr. Potter, though always and everywhere a Rhode-Islander, so far as a consistent recognition of the principle of 'soul liberty' makes a Rhode-Islander, was always and everywhere an American, above the distinctions of party and creed. He never questioned any individual's right to vote, think, or speak according to his own convictions, and never urged his own views on any one, old or young, man or woman; and he firmly and quietly held to his own views, without obtruding them on others, however rudely assailed. He was a man of childlike simplicity and purity of manners and speech, and never illustrated his views by anecdotes of equivocal meaning, or seemed to understand such allusions in the conversation of others.

"Judge Potter's death created a profound sensation. Although never robust, and always requiring special care, his death was not anticipated by a prolonged absence from his duties on the bench, so that the announcement of his sickness and death was simultaneously received. He held his court in Providence on Friday, April 7, 1882, adjourned and returned to his home as usual, expecting to resume his scat on the bench the next morning. A sharp attack of pneumonia, however, prevented, and terminated his life on Monday, April 10, 1882, at the old homestead of himself and of his parents. His loss to the court was profoundly felt, and his services as a public man were gratefully acknowledged by the profession and by all the authorities of the State. The General Assembly adjourned to attend the funeral. The Supreme Court suspended its session at once, and each of the judges paid feeling tributes to his personal worth, and his legal and miscellaneous learning. At a meeting of the bar, resolutions of condolence were introduced, and spoken to with great tenderness and respect by several of the older and younger members of the profession. The public press everywhere recorded his death with extended notice of his public services and the most emphatic recognition of the simplicity, purity, and usefulness of his whole character and life. At the next quarterly meeting of the State Historical Society appropriate remarks were made by its officers and members, and an elaborate paper, drawn up by Judge Stiness, was ordered to be entered on the records of the society. A paper was also read by Sidney S. Rider, containing a full and condensed summary of Mr. Potter's publications and official life.

"The funeral services were held at eleven o'clock on Thursday, April 13, at the old Potter mansion at Kingston, and were attended by the members of the Legislature, by the chief justice and associate justices of the Supreme Court, and a full representation of the bar. The services were conducted by the pastor of the village church, and at their close the body was borne upon a bier, followed by the family and a large concourse of neighbors, legislators, lawyers, justices, and citizens, to the family tomb on the homestead near his residence."

Very early in life, Judge Potter became interested in the history and antiquities of his native State. These studies were pursued by him in his later years with all the ardor which had characterized them in the days of his youth. The results of these studies appear in printed form in many ways other than his works as hitherto enumerated; some are in books, others in tracts and pamphlets.

Notes.-The Genealogical Tables are continued in this uniform manner throughout.

- 1 The figures to the left of the lines indicate the pages on which the descendants are recorded.
- ² The names of the children of each family.
- ⁸ Numbers for reference to each name.
- 4 Places and dates of births.
- ⁵ Dates of deaths.
- ⁶ Dates of marriages.
- 7 To whom married.
- * The year before the short dash is the year of birth; the year after, that of death.
- ⁹ The numbers at the ends of the lines, indicating heads of families, refer to their direct ancestry family.

JOHN AND WILLIAM POTTER, OF NEW HAVEN, CONN., AND THEIR DESCENDANTS.

The brothers John Potter¹ and William Potter² signed the Plantation Covenant, New Haven, Conn., June 4, 1639. It is probable that they came to America at the same date. There is a record of the arrival of William Potter: "Came in the 'Abigail' from London, 1635, aged 27; wife Frances, aged 26, and child Joseph, aged 20 weeks, and his mother, Hannah Beecher, she had married again after the death of her first husband." William Potter, in a will dated 1662, names children Nathaniel, Joseph, Hope, and Rebecca. Hannah Beecher, in her will, mentions son William Potter; her son John had died before her death. Stephen Dodd's East Haven Register has this account respecting John Potter (East Haven constituted a part of the town of New Haven for one hundred and forty-six years, 1785):—

"In 1651 John Potter obtained 20 acres of the Fresh Meadow lands. In 1662, John Potter obtained a piece of land upon which to set his blacksmith shop.

"On the 19th of August, 1680, Thomas Clark sold to Sergt. John Potter 'all that farm lying and being within the township of New Haven, and near and adjoining to a brook called by the name of Stoney Brook, which Thomas Clarke bought of Nathaniel Micklethwaite of the city of London, merchant, containeth by estimation 300 acres of upland, be it more or less, and 3 score acres of meadow, be it more or less, adjoining thereto; excepting always all the uplands that hath been formerly sold from the said farme or iron workes, reserving only all the Iron worke plates of Iron, and the moveables to himself, that are upon the premises.'

"John Potter was to pay £40 per annum for 21 years, in wheat, pork, and peas. Sergt. John Potter did not resume the Iron business, as was contemplated when he bought the farm.

"But in the year 1692, he and Thomas Pinion petitioned New Haven for liberty to set up a Bloomary on the first spring, or brook towards Foxson. In April, 'some of the townsmen having viewed the brooke that runs into Stoney River at the place or thereabouts, which was moved for by John Potter, formerly to set up a Bloomary; and for his encouragement allow him the use of said brooke, and 20 acres of land, not exceeding 30, near the first spring, the west side of Stoney River; and grant him the liberty of what Iron mines there are within the town bounds, and the use of what wood he needs in the commons for the work, if it proves And the aforesaid land is to be laid out and bounded to him, by the surveyor, and one or two of the townsmen. Always preserving the necessary highways, if there be any.' This Bloomary was established, but there is no record of how long it exhisted."

The estate of John Potter was rated at £25, and his family consisted then of four persons, -himself, wife, and two children, viz., John, Jr., and Samuel. His house lot soon became the property of Alling Ball, and it is probable that he died as early as 1643. His name does not appear in the record of the first "seating of the meeting-house" in 1645-6. His widow, Elizabeth Potter, married, June, 1646, Edward Parker, who died in 1662, and she married a third time, Robert Rose, of Branford, Conn. The will of Elizabeth Rose was made July 20, 1677; she died before signing and sealing it, but the children agreed to its provisions, and, at a subsequent court, it was admitted. She names her sons, John and Samuel Potter, "my son John Parker, to have my house he lives in, and daughter Brooks, daughter Hall, and daughter Cook all my grandchildren — to have £12 apiece. The rest to be divided to my three daughters, Mary, Hope, and Lydia." Sons, John Potter and John Parker, joint executors. Estate appraised by John Cooper and John Winston.

John Potter, Jr., born about 1635, baptized at New Haven, Conn., Oct. 17, 1641, died Dec. 24, 1706, was the eldest son of John Potter, the first settler. In 1662, he bought of John Tuttle, Jr., a homestead in East Haven, which the latter had received by deed of gift from his father, William Tuttle, of New Haven, 1661. In this deed John Potter is called blacksmith. "His will was proved in New Haven in 1706-7, in which he calls himself 70 years of age; wife Mary, and sons, John and Samuel, executors; desires to be buried in New Haven; leaves £5 to the church, in care of Rev. John Pierpont; Deacon Penderson and Deacon Bradley, trustees. Wife Mary to dispose of her own estate, as by agreement, before marriage, and she gave it away to her children. She was a laborious, loving, and tender-hearted wife to me, notwithstanding. Eldest son, John, to have shop and smith's tools, right in Branford. Son Samuel to have 6 acres for his house lot over against David Austin's house; 8 acres above Matthew Moulthrop's house; 4 acres of salt meadow that was Mr. Tuttle's, and 8 acres 'blumery'; also, the homestead that was his grandmother's, and a room in my house as long as he behaves himself well towards his motherin-law, and, if she is removed by marriage or death, Samuel must come to terms with his brother John, and if Samuel marries, he shall not bring his wife into the house of his mother-in-law. Abigail, my dau., shall have the still that was my mother's. . . . Will proved 1st Monday in Jan. 1706/7. Inventory, £416 4s. 0d."

Samuel Potter,⁵ baptized in New Haven, Oct. 17, 1641, removed to Wallingford, and at the settlement, in 1669, had eight acres of land. His son Samuel, born Sept. 19, 1671, was the first white child born in the town of Wallingford. This son, Samuel Potter, removed to Connecticut Farms, in the Passaic Valley, N. J., and was the ancestor of that branch of the Potter family.

Sergeant John Potter. Administration of estate of Sergeant John Potter, of East Haven, granted to Elizabeth Potter, widow of deceased, in 1712. Inventory taken May 9, 1713, £482 6s. 6d. John Potter, a minor child, chose his mother for guardian, also Elizabeth and Samuel, minor children. Oet. 13, 1710, debts were exhibited by widow Elizabeth, and the court granted liberty to sell land to pay debts. In 1716, Gideon Potter chose his mother, Elizabeth, guardian. The estate was divided in 1721. To John, 20 acres on Stony Creek below Foxon, 11 acres west of Foxon, rest in meadow land, and part of lot within the half-mile, etc. To Elizabeth, to Gideon, right in house lot. To Daniel, to Enos, to Samuel, Joseph. Samuel and Enos chose brother, Gideon Potter, guardian. Joseph chose his mother, Elizabeth.

Captain Edward Eells Potter,²⁰³ United States naval governor of the United States Naval Asylum at Philadelphia, was born at Medina, N. Y., May 9, 1833.

"He entered the United States service in the home and African squadrons during 1850-55, spent a year at the United States Naval Academy. On July 9, 1858, he was commissioned lieutenant, Western Gulf squadron, and in 1861-62, he was executive officer of the 'Wissahicken' of that squadron, during the bombardment and passage of Fort Jackson and Fort St. Philip, and the capture of New Orleans. He also passed the Vicksburg batteries twice, and participated in the engagement with the ram 'Arkansas.' On July 16, 1862, he was promoted lieutenant-commander, and attached to the 'De Soto,' of the Eastern Gulf squadron, then passed to the 'Wabash,' of the North Atlantic squadron, and in 1864-65, he had command of the iron-clad 'Mahopac.' He was given the 'Chippewa,' of the North Atlantic squadron, in 1865, and took part in the engagement at Fort Fisher, and in the bombardment of Fort Anderson, after which he commanded the 'Rhode Island,' in 1865-67, and was on shore duty until 1871, having in the mean while been promoted commander, on June 3, 1869. He then had the 'Shawmut,' of the North Atlantic squadron, during 1871-72, and then until 1879 was on shore duty. In 1880, he commanded the 'Constellation,' and he was commissioned captain on July 11, 1880. He then served at the New York Navy Yard in 1881-83, and commanded the 'Lancaster' of the European station, until September, 1886. Potter was made commandant of the Navy Yard at League Island, Pa., in December, 1886."—Appletons' Cyclopædia of American Biography.

Jared Potter, M. D.,²⁷⁵ born Sept. 25, 1742, died July 11, 1810; graduated at Yale College, 1760; "studied medicine with Dr. Elliot, of Guilford, Conn.; located as a physician in New Haven. At the outbreak of the war of the Revolution, in 1744, he removed to Wallingford, Conn., was appointed surgeon of Colonel Wooster's regiment. At the capture of St. Johns, he was there placed in charge of the hospital. He followed the retreat from Canada under Arnold. His regiment was then disbanded; another, under Colonel Douglas, was raised, to which he was appointed surgeon. He was in the battle of Long Island, under General Sullivan, also in the retreat from the city of New York, the battle of White Plains, and at length had charge of a hospital at Rye or Sawpits till his regiment was disbanded. He resumed his profession in Wallingford, and continued it till he died."

The Tory Governor Franklin of New Jersey, a prisoner, was for some months billeted on his family in Wallingford. Davis's History of Wallingford says: "Dr. Jared Potter, of Wallingford, was one of the most distinguished physicians in the State of Connecticut, and the teacher from whom many eminent members of the medical profession received instruction. He was a speculating theologian, and his speculations were of an infidel character. It is said that his pupils, whatever progress they made in medical studies, generally left Dr. Potter's office with minds tinged with sceptical notions." The following extract is from a paper read before the New Haven County Medical Society:—

"Dr. Potter was considered a superior academic scholar, well read in his profession, and well acquainted with the English infidel writers, whose principles he adopted. . . . He was esteemed a man of strong reasoning powers of mind, and a very judicious physician. He was acknowledged by all who practised with him as a very fair and honorable practitioner, very free from any little acts of intrigue. He treated kindly the younger members of the profession. He lived to the age of seventy, and left behind him the character of a very talented, honorable, and high-minded physician."

Henry Camp Potter, M. D.,³²⁴ of East Saginaw, Mich., born in Utica, N. Y., July 14, 1823, graduated at Union College, New York, 1841, and graduated at Albany Medical College, 1844. He practised medicine in Utica, N. Y., 1844 to 1850. From 1850 to 1853 was engaged on the Utica, N. Y., Daily Gazette, as part owner and one of the editors. He received the degrees A. B., 1841; A. M. and M. D., 1844. Engaged on the Black River and Utica Railroad and Brooklyn Water Works till 1859, when he removed to Michigan, and has been engaged with the Flint and Pere Marquette Railroad from that date, as superintendent, secretary, treasurer, vice-president, and general manager.

During 1860 and two years later, in addition to other duties, he was director and superintendent of the first company organized to bore artesian wells for salt water, and to make salt in Michigan. Under his superintendence, the first four thousand barrels of salt made in Michigan were manufactured. The production of this article, in 1887, was four million two hundred and sixty thousand barrels.

Turhand Kirtland, 340 1755-1844, "was a farmer at Wallingford in 1776. He was engaged in the service on board the boats which conveyed our retreating forces over to the main-land from New York. He and most of his company were attacked with camp distemper and discharged and sent home. He was one of the original members of the Connecticut Land Company, which purchased the title to the New Connecticut (Western Reserve). In 1798, as agent of the company, he conducted a boat laden with surveyors, emigrants, and provisions up the Mohawk River, through Wood Creek, Oneida and Ontario Lakes, into Niagara River; thence hauled it around the Falls on the Canada side, and navigated up the river and through Lake Erie into Grand River, a little above the present city of Painesville, Ohio. He annually visited the East until 1803, when he removed his family to Ohio, and located at Poland, Ohio, where he resided until his death."

JARED POTTER KIRTLAND, 357 M. D., LL. D., born in Wallingford, Conn., Nov. 10, 1793; died at East Rockport, Ohio, Dec. 10, 1877. "Studied in Cheshire and Wallingford academies, and medicine with Dr. Eli Ives and Dr. Nathaniel Smith, of New Haven. In 1812, entered the medical class of Yale College. In 1814, entered the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania. 1817, he practised medicine in Wallingford, Conn. In the latter part of that year he removed to the town of Durham, Conn., and continued the medical practice until 1823, when he removed to Poland, Ohio. In 1837, he removed to a farm five miles west of the city of Cleveland, on the lake shore. Here he examined and described all the fishes of the Ohio lakes and rivers, collected varieties of fresh-water shells, in connection with which he made the discovery of the sexual character of the mussel by the form of the shell. He examined the native wild plants botanically, also examined and studied the geological formation of the State.

"He has also gathered specimens of birds, investigated the habits of the honey bee, all of this while superintending a large farm. . . . His discoveries in conchology and ichthyology attracted unusual attention. In 1848, he was given charge of the natural-history department of the survey of the State of Ohio, and his works on the subject were published in Boston and elsewhere. In 1827, elected to the Ohio Legislature, and re-elected for several terms. Elected Professor of the Theory and Practice of Medicine in the Medical College of Ohio; resigned, and accepted a similar position in the Willoughby Medical School; and afterwards held the same position in the Western Reserve College at Cleveland, which he resigned in 1864. He was at one time president of the Ohio State Medical Society."

DAVID POTTER, 642 of Hamden, Conn., born in East Haven, Conn., Nov. 26, 1717; died in Hamden after 1773. His wife was Sarah Gilbert, the eldest daughter of Stephen and Elizabeth (Sherman) Gilbert. Stephen Gilbert was a great-grandson of Matthew Gilbert, one of the first two deacons, and one of the "seven pillars" of the New Haven church. He was also deputy governor of the New Haven colony, and a leading man in all its civil and religious affairs. Sarah Gilbert was also descended from Thomas Gregson. Governor Eaton and Thomas Gregson were the commissioners from the New Haven colony in 1643 to form a general convention of all the New England plantations.

Elizabeth Sherman (mother of Sarah Gilbert) was of the third generation from Rev. John Sherman, through Captain Daniel and Mr. John Sherman of New Haven, and also of the same generation in descent from Rev. Nicholas Street, teacher or colleague with Rev. Mr. Davenport in the New Haven church.

The will of David Potter, made March 9, 1773, names son Abel, executor, David Potter, surety; wife to have one third of the movable and real estate. "Son Abel, in addition to what I have given him, to have one acre more than half of my land that lies east of the highway that runs by my house, the north part thereof; also 3 acres of my house lot on the south side thereof. To son David, my house where I now dwell, and 3 acres of the house lot on the north side thereof and half of a meadow called Wall Meadow, also 3 acres conveyed to me by Moses Gilbert, daughter Elizabeth and daughter Sarah." In the inventory, was called David Potter, of the parish of Mount Carmel, since called town of Hamden, £27 7s. 0d.

ABEL POTTER,⁶⁴⁶ of Hamden, Conn., was born in Hamden, and married Mary Turner, a daughter of Abraham and Mary Turner, of Hamden, Conn., and was of the fourth generation in descent from Captain Nathaniel Turner, one of the first four magistrates and chief military officer of the New Haven colony.

Hon. Orlando B. Potter, ⁶⁹⁸ of New York City, was born in Charlemont, Franklin County, Mass., March 10, 1823. His father, Samuel Potter, son of Abel Potter, was born in Hamden, and reared in Northford, New Haven County, Conn. He was a lineal descendant of John Potter, the original colonist who settled at New Haven in 1639, a signer of the New Haven Covenant. He emigrated to Charlemont in 1819, carrying his effects by two ox teams. He married, and settled upon a hillside farm, mostly covered with primeval forest, looking down upon the Deerfield Valley.

His wife, Sophia Rice, was a daughter of Samuel Rice and great-granddaughter of Moses Rice, first settler, principal proprietor and founder of Charlemont, who was killed by the Indians, June 11, 1755, near the fort he had erected to protect the infant settlement. Moses Rice was the great-grandson of Edmund Rice, who came from Barkhamstead, England, and settled in Sudbary, Mass., in 1638.

Thus settled in life, Samuel Potter reared a family of ten children, who became no small factors in the progress of the town.

One hundred miles from Boston, the market to which the farm products were drawn over a wagon road, with prices scarcely half what they now are, with the axe, plough, scythe, and sickle as instruments of labor, it was no easy problem to maintain such a home. He accomplished the work well; year by year the forest receded before the strokes of father and sons, the fields, covered with flocks and well-tilled crops, grew wider, the reward of industry, economy, and perseverance. Nor were these virtues accidental. Success, under such circumstances and against such obstacles, could be attained in no other way. They were the necessity of the situation, the only means by which the parents could secure independence, and raise their children to a better condition.

They lived to see eight children reared to mature years, all educated to business or teaching, in which six temporarily engaged. The mother died at seventy-three, the father at eighty-six years of age.

The subject of this sketch was the second son and third child. He was the oldest child at home, from ten to sixteen years of age. His father was absent much upon public business. Thus he was in charge of the stock and farm. In summer, he took the lead in growing and harvesting the crops; in winter, after the cattle and sheep were fed, he led his younger brothers and sisters to school, and after the chores were done, spent the evening with them around the common fire, getting his own and helping the younger children to get their next day's lessons.

Thus, in youth, he became habituated to leading among his brothers and directing the work upon the farm. To this, more than anything else, he attributed a habit of self-reliance and control in whatever he engaged, which is one of his prominent traits. At the age of sixteen, he obtained permission from his parents to prepare for college, undertaking to do it by his own exertion, without adding to their burdens. During the next two years, working upon the farm spring and summer, attending school autumn and winter, he completed his preparation, entering Williams College in August, 1841.

He maintained a high stand in his class, but the change from active outdoor life to confinement and close application brought on obstinate dyspepsia. He left college in the Sophomore year, and after a trip at sea, obtained employment at Dennis, Cape Cod, in teaching and other work, until the spring of 1845, when, having determined to enter Dane Law School, at Cambridge, the coming August, he engaged to teach a class of young ladies, afternoons, and, to improve his health and add to his slender means, hired three acres of ground by the shore, which he cultivated as a garden, forenoons.

Aug. 1, after having marketed other products of his garden and closed the school, he found himself with fifty barrels of potatoes, for which there was no market in Dennis. These he took upon a fishing schooner to Provincetown, the extreme end of the Cape, where he peddled them from house to house.

With the little means thus earned, he entered Dane Law School, Harvard College, September, 1845. He continued his law studies at Cambridge and in the office of the late Charles G. Thomas, at Boston, till April, 1848, during which time he taught two terms of three months each at Dennis and at the academy in his native town. During part of this time, to eke out his means, he boarded himself in a small upper room in Sewall Place, Boston, buying his own provisions. He was admitted to the bar in Boston, on examination by the court, Feb. 12, 1848.

Pecuniary difficulties were now over. In Mr. Thomas's office, preparing and trying small causes in justices' courts (a privilege allowed students in offices with which they were connected), he became somewhat known and familiar with practice.

Declining copartnership with Mr. Thomas, he opened an office in Court Square, and, to make the most of his time, an office also at South Reading, ten miles from Boston, at which he did business in the evening.

In an early case in which he was employed, he was sent to Cape Cod to collect about eight thousand dollars from a debtor who had purchased, under misrepresentation, goods from Boston creditors, taken them home, and sold and delivered them to his father-in-law without paying for them. Finding the goods locked up in a small building of the father-in-law's, Mr. Potter directed the sheriff to enter forcibly and attach them. The pretended owner forbade this, and threatened forcible resistance. The sheriff declining to act, the young attorney, undaunted by the threat, broke open the door. Emboldened by this, the sheriff attached the goods. The result was an immediate settlement, and Mr. Potter returned to Boston, with cash and secured notes for his clients' claim in full. Happily surprised at the result, these clients placed more claims in his hands, and spoke favorably of him to others. His usual course was, instead of sending an attorney's letter, to visit the debtors, and learn for himself their ability and situation, making necessary explanations and a direct appeal; setting before them the labor, cost, and certain results of litigation, he almost always obtained payment or security. His business rapidly increased both in city and country. The result of the first year was an income of about three thousand dollars. He continued to practise at Boston and South Reading until May 1, 1853, during which time he assisted his two sisters and a younger brother to attend school, paid back with interest the small amount his father had advanced toward his own education, and laid up ten thousand dollars.

In October, 1850, he married Martha G. Wiley, daughter of Benjamin B. Wiley, Esq., of South Reading. To her wisdom, prudence, and earnest devotion and support, he attributes his subsequent success not less than to his own efforts.

In 1852, he was retained by two young men to defend a suit against them, for the contract price of a new sewing machine. This case had an important influence upon the young lawyer's future. Seeing his interest in their invention and success, they requested him to become associated with them, proposing an equal interest, upon most favorable terms. He accepted the proposition upon condition that he should continue his professional practice until the business demanded his personal attention. He embarked all his savings in a manufactory for this machine in Boston, while he continued to work at his profession. The next year, the business developed so rapidly that he determined to remove to New York to establish the business there. He associated with himself a rising young lawyer, S. J. Gordon, Esq., to continue his law business in Boston, Mr. Potter engaging to be personally present at the trial of causes as much as required to fulfil his existing professional obligations. He removed to New York in May, 1853.

The sewing-machine business was soon after incorporated as a stock company; he became its president, and remained so continuously until it retired from active business in 1876. He was most laboriously and constantly engaged in the conduct of the business of which he was the head. Having made himself familiar with every step in the progress of that art, it was easy for him to detect attempted falsehood, and for many years he had principal direction in maintaining the patents upon which the art of muchine sewing rested. This, together with the direction as president of the business of the company, in which hundreds of persons were employed in the manufacture and sale of the machines, would have made his life a busy one without attention to his private affairs. But during much of this time he was building, always by days' work, and under his own personal supervision, stores and warehouses in New York. From his first entrance into the city, he had unshaken faith in its progress and commanding importance as the centre of influence and commerce upon this continent, and at no distant day of the world, and he has never ceased to invest his means in building up the city. There have been few seasons when his workmen have not added to its taxable property, beauty, and business capacity.

In 1869, finding himself in failing health from long overwork, he sought his first relaxation for more than twentyfive years, in a return for a portion of his time to the employment and habits of his boyhood. Purchasing a large farm upon the Hudson, near Sing Sing, he established his summer residence there, and has since indulged without stint his love for agriculture and its advancement. His farm occupies nearly six bundred acres, upon which he keeps about two hundred cows. In summer, he personally directs and participates in the work of this farm and care of the stock, coming daily to the city to attend to his business interests. In winter, he spends at least one night and morning each week at the farm, and thus refreshes and strengthens himself for his more exacting work in town. His cows and stables are his hobby. He spares no expense in their improvement or upon better methods of feeding and caring for cattle, or in testing improved methods of agricul-

In 1876, Mr. Potter withdrew from manufacturing; since then he is able better to command his time, which he divides between his farm, the management of his property in town, and his family. Originally a Whig, he voted with that party until 1860, when, hoping an election of President by the people, instead of by the House of Representatives, might save the country from civil war, he cast his vote for Mr. Lincoln, though believing the Republican party should never have been founded, and that all the good aimed at by that party could be better accomplished within the existing parties, both of which were national and in no degree sectional.

In 1861, he attached himself to the Democratic party, and has been a constant supporter of it since. During the war, while doing all in his power to secure that it should be conducted for the sole purpose of "preserving the Union with all the dignity, equality, and rights of the several States unimpaired," he did what he could to maintain the national cause. He then, for the first time, ventured suggestions to the government by laying before the Secretary of the Treasury and the President our national banking system. the day when the first battle of Bull Run was fought, resulting so disastrously for the national cause, he was at Pittsfield, Mass., preparing, with the late Judge B. R. Curtis, for an important argument. The news suspended their work, and Mr. Potter returned immediately to New York. He realized the certainty of a terrible struggle for the preservation of the Union. Such was the distrust of the banks of the Western States, that his own company was paying ten to fifteen per cent exchange in currency for drafts upon New York at Chicago and St. Louis. Thus painfully impressed with the impotence of the State banks to meet the great emergency, his mind turned to the problem of providing a national currency. Within twenty-five days, on Aug. 14, 1861, he laid before the Secretary of the Treasury, Chief Justice Chase, and, at the same time, before President Lincoln, in the following communication, the plan for a national currency: -

Hon. S. P. CHASE,

Secretary of the U. S. Treasury, Washington, D. C.: Dear Sir,—I beg leave to suggest for your consideration a plan which occurs to me as certain, if adopted, to secure for the country several ends always important, but especially so now.

PLAN.

Allow banks and bankers, duly authorized, in the loya States, to secure their bills, by depositing with a superintendent appointed by the government, United States stocks at their par value, in the same way that the banks and bankers in New York now secure their circulation by depositing New York State and United States stocks with the State, thus making the stocks of the United States a basis of banking on which alone a national circulation can be secured. To do this, it is necessary only for the government to anthorize and appoint a superintendent connected with the treasury, whose duty it shall be to receive from duly authorized banks and bankers within loyal States, United States stocks in sums of not less than say $200,000 from one party, and hold the same as security for an equal amount of bills to be properly stamped and signed by such superintendent, and delivered to the depositing bank or banker. This mark or stamp and signature of such superintendent to guarantee to the holder of the bills issued that the same are secured by United States stocks deposited with and held by the government; and that in case the same shall fail to be redeemed by the bank or banker issuing them, then, on due demand and protest, such superintendent will sell, after proper notice to the bank or banker, and apply to the redemption of said bills the stocks held to secure the same.

This money might properly be designated United States currency, as distinguishing it from the bills issued in the several States, and not thus secured, and should be so plainly and unmistakably designated as to be readily distinguishable everywhere at sight. It might be received and paid out by the government in cases where it is not otherwise agreed or provided, but this is not at all essential to the plan, and might encounter the prejudices of those who think specie more reliable than the faith and covenant of the government under which they live.

The plan will be fully understood by an examination of the statutes of this State regulating the securing of their circulation by our banks, by deposit with the State.

The objects which will be secured by this plan are: -

First. It is obvious that the bills thus secured will have, in whatever State issued, a national circulation, and be worth the same in all parts of the country; nay, these bills would be worth their face wherever American commerce is known. A ready medium of exchange would be always at hand throughout the country, and between all parts of it, and all fluctuations and trouble in this respect would be forever ended.

Second. The fact that in this way banks and bankers could obtain a national circulation for their bills would make United States stocks eagerly sought after by them, and their price would be always maintained at or above par, though they bore only a low rate of interest. Four per cents could never fall below par after the system is fairly understood and at work.

Third. This will enable capitalists in the older States, by investing in United States stocks, to engage in banking and furnish a currency to the younger States which will be equally serviceable to them as if issued in their own States. A bill thus secured, issued in Boston, will circulate as well in Oregon as if issued in Oregon, and probably better.

Fourth. None of the objections justly urged against a United States Bank lie against this plan. It gives to the government no power to bestow favors, and does not place a dollar in its hands to lend. It leaves the banks and bankers of the several States to do their business as now, in the same banking houses and under the same direction, within such safeguards and limitations as the several States may themselves impose. The banks will hold their charters from, be controlled by, and be accountable to their several States, as before. All the government does by this plan is to place upon so much of the currency as is secured by its own stocks the stamp of nationality, to the extent of placing upon each bill so secured its assurance that the bill is so secured to the bill holder, and that upon failure of the bank, the stocks deposited with the government officer shall be by him sold, and the proceeds applied to redeem the bills.

Fifth. If the United States debt should not be sufficient to afford sufficient security for the bank circulation of the country, the banks can issue bills for domestic circulation, secured by the stocks of their own States, as they do now, the bills being so marked as to be readily distinguishable at sight from those secured by United States stocks. Indeed, all the bills secured by United States stocks deposited with the government should have engraved upon them some suitable stamp, which should be the same upon every bill, so that it might readily become familiar to everybody.

Sixth. This would make the government and capital mutually dependent on each other, and every bank and banker would feel a daily interest in supporting and keeping the government credit above suspicion. Every citizen, too, who is supplied with such a currency—a currency which will be equal to gold throughout every foot of our territory, and everywhere of the same value, with which he can travel from Oregon to Florida, and from Maine to New Mexico—would feel and realize, every time he handled or looked at such a bill bearing the national mark, that the union of these States is verily a personal benefit and blessing to all.

If it is thought more prudent, but ninety per cent of the stocks deposited may be issued in bills, and thus all fluctuations in the stocks be provided against.

Exactly what legislation would be required to carry out this plan, you will readily see. One simple statute, creating the superintendent and directing him how to receive and hold the stocks, mark the bills, and sell and apply the stocks to the redemption of the bills in case of failure of any bank issuing them, would be all that would be demanded. Such a statute passed, and the national stocks would instantly be absorbed by the banks, because thus, and thus only, could they make their circulation national. No sooner would one bank supply itself with such a currency than all must, in self-defence, because the people would have a national currency for daily use, and would deal with the banks who could supply this. The several States will promptly provide the requisite legislation on their part, by providing that this United States currency need not be further secured by deposits with the State.

The adoption of this plan could not fail to put an end to all financial troubles during the war, and be an increasing benefit and blessing ever after. While it would supply all the means required for the war, it would instantly enable the older and newer portions of the country to increase their trade with each other, by supplying to such newer portions an abundant and perfectly safe currency.

If it be said that this plan bases the currency upon a permanent national debt, the answer is, it bases so much of the currency as is necessary for purposes of exchange and interstate commerce upon the credit of the nation, and leaves with the nation, by regulating the amount of its debt or limiting the amount of bills which may be thus stamped and secured, the power to control the amount of the national currency, and keep it within the wants of the people; while the power of loaning the money and using it reposes with the people, exactly as now, through their banks. Bankers can get no more bills than Congress authorizes, and legislators or politicians cannot handle one dollar of these bills, unless they are placed in their hands by the owners of them. It is impossible to see how such a system can be made use of for political ends.

This plan has many decided advantages over the present expedient of treasury notes. It makes it for the direct interest of every bank and banker to keep the United States stocks above par. It also puts upon the banks, and not upon the government, the redemption of the circulation, the government only acting as trustee in selling the deposited stocks in case the bank fails to redeem.

A permanent national debt of sufficient amount for these purposes, which is a bond of union, a guarantee for peace, and a daily convenience and blessing to all, will have no terrors for a people whose interests have been the sport of fluctuations in exchange, as ours have for the last ten years.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

O. B. POTTER.

495 Broadway, New York, Aug. 14, 1861.

This plan, without material modification, was adopted in the National Banking Act, passed Feb. 25, 1863. As the result, the country has now a national currency based upon and secured by the national stocks, and every citizen is supplied with a currency "everywhere of the same value," equal to gold throughout every foot of the national territory. Mr. Potter confidently predicts that the people of the United States will never again consent to a currency which is not everywhere of the same value throughout the country, or which rests for security upon any basis less broad, or of less universal obligation, than the national faith.

Aside from a justice's commission in his native State, Mr. Potter never held office until elected to Congress. He was nominated by the Democracy of the Tenth Congressional District of New York, as their representative in Congress, in 1878, but was defeated, though running one thousand ahead of his ticket. At the special election in 1881, ensuing upon the resignation of Hon. Levi P. Morton, he was tendered the nomination as representative in the Eleventh Congressional District, but declined, and assisted earnestly in the election of the Hon. R. P. Flower. Upon Mr. Flower's declining renomination, Mr. Potter was again nominated, November, 1882, and elected, after a most spirited and hotly contested campaign, over William L. Strong, Esq., the Republican candidate, Mr. Strong receiving 13,947 votes, and Mr. Potter 15,049 votes. In accepting the nomination, Mr. Potter stated his position upon the leading issues in the canvass thus: --

"It must never be forgotten that the main end and object of the Union itself was and forever must be to secure to the people of the several States, by the organized and compacted power of all the States, the right of self-government under and in obedience to the Constitution.

"The expenses of the government ought to be promptly and largely reduced by cutting off every unnecessary expenditure.

"The necessaries and comforts of life should be at once, or as rapidly as possible, exempted from duties. Such duties bear hardest upon the poor with families, and so are a tax, not upon property, but upon existence — life itself. Duties upon waste materials and all raw materials, including wool, which enter into our manufactures, should be abolished, and all duties, except upon luxuries, should be reduced to the difference in cost of labor between this and be made which will injuriously affect the price of labor. This will not destroy or endanger, but will make more stable and permanent, our manufactures, and will multiply and broaden them by withdrawing undue stimulus from any.

"Laws should be immediately passed to secure the rebuilding and restoration of our merchant marine to its former efficiency and power.

"I am heartily in favor of radical and complete reform in the methods of appointment and removal in the civil service of the country. Such reform is of first importance to the future successful administration of our government.

"Spoils and patronage as rewards for political partisan service are destructive of the best interests of the country. As means of holding office and power against the will of the people, they are treasonable to the fundamental principles of the government. This system has resulted in the murder of a President for no other crime than doing his constitutional duty unawed and uncontrolled, and now seeks, through its influence, to control from the national capital the election of State officers in this greatest State of the Union. It must be overthrown utterly or our liberties perish."

Mr. Potter is an earnest advocate of the right and duty of local self-government for municipalities, subject only to the Constitution and general laws of the State, and has devoted much time and effort as a private citizen to secure this to the city of New York. He took a leading part in procuring the passage of laws under which the city debt is being refunded at a low rate of interest and put upon course of extinguishment. He resisted the law by which the State directed the destruction of the Forty-second Street Reservoir in this city, upon the ground that the State had no power to control private property of the city held in fee simple absolute, and maintained the unconstitutionality of the law before the Supreme Court, and finally procured its repeal by the Legislature and saved the reservoir to the city, for which the Common Council of the city of New York passed a resolution thanking him and his associates.

Mr. Potter's name is not unfamiliar to the charitable institutions of New York, nor to its poor children. He shows that wealth does not always harden the heart. But the same habit of personal attention and control of whatever he does exhibits itself here. His home for poor children is upon his own farm, supplied from his own garden and dairy, under his own care. Mr. Potter's mastery and control of details: in all his business is complete. He never allows anything to be done for him, or on his account, which he does not understand and direct. His fields are ploughed, fertilized, planted, cultivated, and harvested, and his stock of all kinds fed and cared for by men trained and instructed by him, as he personally directs. His warehouses and buildings in the city are built by days' work; and every detail, whether of design, construction, or material, is executed under his immediate supervision. When at the head of a large manufacturing and commercial business, extending throughout this country and Europe, with business houses in nearly every city and large town throughout both, conducted under his direction, he at the same time mastered and controlled the numerous legal contests necessary to vindicate and sustain the patents at home and abroad upon which the business rested, and was at all times ready to take part personally in their trial in court.

In one of the most important of these causes, brought against the associated companies by the late William Whiting, Esq., of Boston, the plaintiff having been examined as the leading witness in his own behalf, Mr. Potter insisted that no testimony on the part of the defence was required, that the plaintiff upon his own statement was not the first inventor. Eminent counsel, of whom the late Rufus Choate was senior, advised another course of trial, and the cause proceeded through twenty-four days, and ended in disagreement of the jury. The second trial, conducted by the late Judge Benjamin R. Curtis, as senior counsel and successor to Mr. Choate, then recently deceased, proceeded as the former one had, and ended, after thirty-four days' trial, in a verdict against the associated companies. It was resolved to move for a new trial. The presidents of the other companies requested Mr. Potter to take part in the argument. He consented, but upon condition that he have his own way. Mr. Potter's argument was solely to the point he had originally insisted on: that upon the plaintiff's own testimony, admitting its entire truth, his invention was not prior, but subsequent, to the defendant's invention. At the expiration of the two hours allowed him as junior counsel for argument by the rules of court, he had so impressed his view that this point was decisive of the cause, that Judge Curtis declined to make the argument for which he had prepared, and insisted that the three hours allowed to himself for the concluding argument be given to Mr. Potter, who continued his argument, concluding it within five hours from commencement. Mr. Whiting, on account of the unexpected course the cause had taken in argument, was allowed seven hours for reply. Mr. Justice Clifford, the presiding justice, set aside the verdict, and ordered a new trial, sustaining the positions taken by Mr. Potter, in an opinion so luminous and decisive that the cause was never again moved to trial by the plaintiff.

The life of Mr. Potter furnishes another example of what can be accomplished under our free institutions, by self-exertion, industry, and perseverance. From an obscure boy on a hillside farm, he rose by gradual ascent to independent wealth, high social standing, and political honor; this position he attained unaided, by indomitable will, persevering industry, and an undaunted courage which overcame every obstacle.

Mr. Potter's wife, Martha G. Wiley, died February, 1879, leaving one son, Frederick, and three daughters, Martha, Mary, and Blanche. Frederick is a member of the New York bar, and assists in the care and management of his father's property, and, with his sisters Martha and Blanche, resides with his father. Mary was married Sept. 26, 1883, to Walter Geer, Esq., who now resides in New York. Mr. Potter married, for his second wife, Miss Mary Kate Linsly, daughter of the late Dr. Jared Linsly, of New York City, who, by a singular coincidence, was born and reared upon a farm in Northford, Conn., adjoining that on which Mr. Potter's father was reared.

While a member of Congress, laying aside a large and exacting business, he gave to his congressional duties his entire time and efforts during both sessions of that Congress. He was a member of the Committee on Banking and Currency, and the Committee on Expenditures in the Treasury Department, and, contrary to the usual custom with new members, he was called upon to participate in most of the important discussions before the House.

He opposed, from the beginning to the end of his term, every step toward the centralization of the government by assuming to itself the duties and responsibilities of the States. In speeches delivered Feb. 6, 23, and 27, 1884, he opposed the bill to establish a Bureau of Animal Industry by the general government, as a usurpation of the rights and duties of self-government in their domestic affairs by the States; and, upon the same ground, he opposed, in a speech delivered Dec. 15, 1884, the establishment of a Department of Agriculture under the government, with a Cabinet officer at its head, saying: "Let government do its duty through the departments now charged under the Constitution with providing for the welfare and prosperity of the country, and agriculture will no longer languish. We need no more governmental departments, and no new Cabinet officers unknown to the Constitution. . . . We may multiply Cabinet officers, and the army of place-holders under them, but we shall not thereby promote agriculture. Departments and taxation may continue to increase and flourish, but agriculture and men - yeomen - will decay."

In speeches delivered June 9 and 11, 1884, and Feb. 18, 1885, he opposed, upon the same ground, the assumption of control and maintenance by the general government of the Erie Canal and of the Illinois and Michigan Canal, and the building of the Hennepin Canal.

He opposed successfully, in a speech delivered Feb. 5, 1885, the appropriation in the River and Harbor Bill, then pending, for building a so-called Harbor of Refuge at Sandy Bay, Mass., as unnecessary to the commerce of the country or its interest, and called for only in the interest of those who were to build this great work and furnish materials therefor.

In a speech delivered Feb. 26, 1885, he opposed the appropriation by the general government for the so-called "World's Industrial and Cotton Exposition," at New Orleans, upon the ground that it was an electioneering expenditure, and a dangerous precedent, which, if followed by successive administrations, would lead to the expenditure of vast sums from the treasury of the government to influence the political opinions or suffrages of States in which such expenditures were made.

He opposed, Feb. 16, 1885, the establishment of an army medical museum at Washington, upon the ground that medical education, as well as other educational interests, belonged to and could be best provided for by the several States, saying: "I do not believe that we are to gain by preserving the relics and bones or wounds caused by the war at any one place in our capital. So far as they may minister to the advancement of science, let them be preserved in places where they will best serve that end; but as evidences of the wounds, destruction.

and death in the late fratricidal war, they need no place in the capital of the nation."

In matters within the jurisdiction of the national government Mr. Potter always contended for and supported the just and free exercise of the national powers for the equal benefit of the whole country.

In speeches delivered June 13, 1884, and Feb. 11, 1885, he contended successfully for the extension of the free delivery system under the postal service to towns and cities not then supplied by such service, asking, "Where within the range of the administration of this government, where in any department, can we apply the surplus revenues of this country so directly, so beneficially to the people, as in this letter-carrier service?"

In a speech delivered Jan. 5, 1885, he urged the passage of a national bankrupt bill as necessary to support trade and commerce between the several States, and to give to every citizen the whole country as the theatre of activity, as provided for in the Constitution.

In the consular and diplomatic service of the country he opposed, in a speech delivered May 14, 1884, the reduction of salaries in this service to a point so low that the service could only be entered by the wealthy, contending that this service should be shared equally by those not possessed of wealth, and to this end should be rewarded by just and adequate compensation.

In a speech delivered July 5, 1884, he contended, almost unsupported upon his side of the House, for placing at the disposition of the President necessary means for completing negotiations then in progress for the acquisition by this government of the control of the Nicaragua Canal route, saying, "I find no difficulty in my way nor anything in the Constitution to prevent this government from constructing, if need be, a highway for its commerce, its armies, and its fleets."

He contended March 2, 1885, for necessary appropriations for the repair of our naval ships, saying, "I desire that the flag of my country, if it cannot float upon iron ships, shall, at least, until we have such ships, float wherever possible upon the best ships that we have."

In a speech delivered March 3, 1885, he opposed the majority of the Democratic side of the House, and supported successfully the Senate amendment then pending, authorizing the Postmaster-General "to enter into contracts for the transportation of any part of said foreign mails with the lowest responsible bidder, at a rate not exceeding fifty cents per nautical mile, the average rate then paid on the trip each way between the terminal points; provided that the mails so contracted be carried on American steamships, and that the aggregate of such contracts shall not exceed one half of the sum hereby appropriated," saying: "I have never for one moment doubted that it was and is the clear interest of this country and the clear duty of Congress to enable the Postmaster-General to make these contracts (originally proposed by this House, and now proposed by this Senate amendment in modified form) for the progress of the commerce, and of every interest in this country. Sir, it is by the carrying of our mails and the carrying of our flag into the other nations of the earth, and among them the nations with which we are to build up our trade, that the hope of progress in the trade and commerce of this nation exists. . . .

"Let not those men who dwell upon the prairies, let not those men who participate in the magnificent and widely extended and growing interests of agriculture, fancy that ill is to come to them by opening the markets of the world, by carrying the American flag and sustaining it in every country and into every field of commerce and to every place where the products of their farms or the manufactures of our country (which are but the secondary and condensed products of their farms) are in demand. Sir, we can do nothing more important than to see to it that from this time forward there shall not be, on this continent at least, a nation or a port or a field of commerce where our flag is not seen, where it is not sustained, I hope, upon American bottoms.

"Now, sir, this is not a subsidy; it is not a proposition to bestow benefits upon a mail steamship company or upon any company. It is a proposition to take the initiative in advancing the commerce and the intercourse of this great nation of ours with the welfare and progress of which at this moment this American Congress is charged: it is that and nothing else. Are we to say that because this bill may make it profitable for American citizens and American bottoms to carry the flag of our country and to maintain postal communication with the other nations of this continent, therefore we will not give the necessary authority? Why, sir, I hope these profits will be such that there will not be a port upon the continent, there will not be a field of commerce to which we can send our products, where our flag will not go and our postal communications extend."

In originating and introducing new measures, Mr. Potter's mind and efforts were mainly directed to the financial interests and currency of the country, to which, from the establishment of his national banking system, he has given much attention. Immediately after the decision by the Supreme Court, which sanctioned the authority and power of Congress to issue paper money in time of peace and make it legal tender for the discharge of obligations between private citizens, he introduced (March 10, 1884) in the House and caused to be referred to the Judiciary Committee the following amendment to the Constitution:—

"ARTICLE XVI.

"The legislative powers granted to Congress by the Constitution shall not be construed to include the power to pass any law making anything but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts except after a declaration of war when the public safety may require it."

He was unable, however, to secure a favorable report upon this amendment from the Judiciary Committee during his term; and it sleeps among the records of that committee.

With the purpose of giving increased stability and permanency to the national banking system, he introduced, on Jan. 18, 1884, "a bill to refund the bonded debt of the United States at two and one half per cent interest, to reduce taxation upon eirculating bank-note currency, and to secure such currency against unnecessary disturbance and fluctuation by applying the national revenues economically to payment of the national debt"; the first two sections of which contain the essential substance of the bill, and are as follows:—

"1. The Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized to receive at the treasury any bonds of the United States bearing interest at the rate of four per cent per annum, or four and one half per cent per annum, and to issue in exchange therefor, an equal amount of registered bonds of the United States of the denomination of fifty, one hundred, five hundred, one thousand, five thousand, ten thousand, and fifty thousand dollars, of such form as he may prescribe, and bearing interest at the rate of two and one half per cent per annum, payable semi-annually at the treasury of the United States. Said two and one half per cent bonds, to be issued in exchange for four per cent bonds, shall be payable at the pleasure of the United States after the first day of July, 1907; said two and one half per cent bonds, to be issued in exchange for four and one half per cent bonds, shall be payable at the pleasure of the United States after the first day of September, 1891.

"2. In the said exchange of two and one half per cent bonds for four per cent and four and one half per cent bonds, provided always the moneys on hand and applicable are sufficient, the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized to pay such a sum in each case as shall be equal to the aggregate present worth of the quarter-yearly payments of interest from which the United States is released by such exchange, all interest in ascertaining said present worth being computed at the rate of three per cent per annum, reinvested quarter yearly."

In consequence of a determination of the Committee on Ways and Means that a reduction of the tariff by the twenty per cent cut then proposed must precede all other financial legislation, Mr. Potter was unable to secure a favorable report from this committee while he remained in Congress. He, however, moved it on Jan. 15, 1885, as an amendment to, and by way of substitution for, a measure then before the House, known as the McPherson Bill, and delivered a speech in its support. This measure was called for by the general wish of the national banks and those most interested in banking and eurrency, as well as by the leading business interests of the country. It failed of consideration for the reason already stated. Mr. Potter believes that if this measure had passed Congress, it would have contributed powerfully to the stability and permanency of the national currency and prosperity of the country, while, by disposing of the surplus then accumulated, and to be accumulated, in the national treasury, it would have afforded time and opportunity for the reform of the tariff, which would have permitted this work to be undertaken and carried forward in accordance with the general judgment of the country, and as fast and as far as that judgment should sanction, without any necessity of such reform being made a party measure.

Mr. Potter enthusiastically supported Cleveland and Hendricks for President and Vice-President.

He declined a renomination for Congress in the autumn of 1884.

In October, 1886, there was a movement by the independent citizens of New York City for the election of a mayor, independently of party machinery. At a large public meeting, ealled for this purpose, a committee of one hundred citizens was appointed to make such a nomination. This eommittee, in its report recommending unanimously the nomination of Mr. Potter, said:—

"The mayor should be a citizen in fact as well as in name, whose interests are identified with good government, and who would be a conspicuous sufferer among the tax-payers and laborers on whom the burdens of bad government fall; he should be a man of integrity and courage, already tried in public life and not found wanting, able to face and resist the pressure of private friends and public enemies; one whose character is so high and his ambition so pure that no one can imagine him to seek any end but the public good, and whose experience and knowledge of men forbid the fear that he will be blinded or deceived. If, besides, he is a man whose estate is already so great that the pecuniary temptations of office have no meaning to him; if he is one who has made for many years a special study of municipal government in all its departments, who has familiarized himself with that confused mass of statutes known as the charter of our city, with the workings of every branch of its administration, with the opportunities it offers to schemers and plunderers for self-enrichment and for political chicanery, and who is peculiarly qualified by the habits of a long life of efficient and snecessful business management to improve that administration in practice as well as to amend it in theory, - if all these special endowments for this office can be found united in one man, we are fortunate in having an ideal candidate for the mayoralty. Add to all this such standing and influence with the best elements of the dominant national party of this city as make it impossible for any faction to hope to elect an inferior man in opposition to him, and we have some of the reasons which determine our executive committee to present to you the name of Orlando B. Potter for the office of mayor of New York."

He declined this nomination, and, after the union of the Democratic party upon Hon. Abram S. Hewitt as candidate, he gave to him his enthusiastic and unreserved support.

Since his retirement from Congress, Mr. Potter has devoted and still devotes himself to his large farm upon the Hudson, and to the control and management of his large realestate interests in the city of New York, in which he is aided by his son, Frederick Potter. He completed the erection of the great fire-proof structure upon Park Row and Beekman Street, which bears his name, in the spring of 1886; and in 1887, he built the large structure upon Broadway adjacent to Grace Church.

As a private citizen he still continues to devote much attention to legislation affecting the interests of New York City, with which he has so long been identified.

Though past sixty-five, his activity and vigor are not abated; and he exacts from no employee longer hours or harder work than from himself.

Rev. ABEL POTTER BUEL, 692 of Cleveland, Ohio, was born in Wallingford, Conn., Nov. 29, 1819. His father died when he was a little past eight years old. He then went to live on a farm, where he remained until he was four-teen, going to a country district school three months each winter.

When fifteen years of age, he went to New Haven as an apprentice to the carriage business. Here he was baptized into the First Baptist Church. When his apprenticeship expired, at the age of twenty-one, he went to Suffield, Conn., to prepare for college, with the ministry in view. He entered Yale College in 1843, was a member of the Senior Class when he left, in 1846, and a few years after took his degree of A. M. from Rochester University, New York.

He was ordained to the gospel ministry at Peekskill, N. Y., where he preached two and a half years. He then became pastor of the Baptist Church at Tarrytown, where he served nine years. In October, 1857, he took charge of the First Baptist Church in Bordentown, N. J., and was its pastor ten years, building, meanwhile, a beautiful house of worship. In 1867, he took charge of the Huntington Street Church in New London, Conn. Seven years later he removed to Southington, of the same State, and, in 1877, settled in Cleveland, Ohio, where he now resides.

Mr. Buel is now associate pastor of the Euclid Avenue Baptist Church in Cleveland, O.

Daniel Potter, Jr., 805 was born in North Haven, Conn., June 9, 1718. His grandfather, Nathaniel Potter, was one of the first families to settle in North Haven before the year 1868. After his marriage to Martha Ives, Daniel Potter, Jr., moved into the wilderness, and settled at what was afterwards Plymouth, Conn. He enlisted in the French War, and died at Lake George. His eldest son, Elam Potter, 923 was educated at Yale College, and settled in the ministry at Enfield, Conn., but died on Long Island in 1794. Ambrose Potter, 924 the second son, lived several years after his marriage in Plymouth, Conn., and then removed to Johnstown, N. Y. Eliakim Potter, 925 the third son, lived and died in Plymouth, Conn.

Rev. Isaiah Potter, ⁹²⁶ the fourth son, graduated at Yale College 1767; studied theology with Dr. Smalley, of Berlin, Conn. In 1771, he was called to be the settled minister of the town of Lebanon, N. H., and on the 25th of August, 1772, was ordained and installed pastor of the church. The ordination took place in the open air, under an elm-tree, on the banks of the Connecticut, the Rev. Mr. Olcutt, of Charlestown, N. H., preaching the ordination sermon. By virtue of being the first settled minister of the town, Mr. Potter came into possession of one share of the land, according to the terms of the charter. The proprietors of the land had also agreed to appropriate £62 as a settlement for the first minister, to which the town added by vote £38, making his settlement £100. In addition his salary was £50 a year, for two years, with an annual increase thereafter till it should reach £80 per annum. During the Revolutionary War he became chaplain of one of the New Hampshire regiments. He educated two of his sons at Dartmouth College.

Rev. Lyman Potter,⁹²⁷ the fifth son, graduated at Yale College, and settled in the ministry at Norwich, Vt., where he lived twenty-seven years, and then removed with his family, in 1800, to Steubenville, Ohio.

General Daniel Potter,⁹³¹ the sixth son, graduated at Yale College, 1780; was a farmer, and lived at Plymouth, Conn.; was a general of militia, and representative in the General Assembly several terms.

LUKE POTTER, 932 the youngest son, lived and died a farmer, in Plymouth, Conn.

Judge Barrett Potter, 1006 of Portland, Me., born at Lebanon, N. H., May 8, 1776, died at Portland, Me., Nov. 16, 1865.

"He was educated at Dartmouth College, from which he graduated in 1796, having Mr. Chase, afterward Bishop of Illinois, and uncle of Chief Justice Chase, as one of his classmates.

"Having determined upon law as the profession of his life, he commenced his studies with Benjamin Gilbert, a prominent lawyer in New Hampshire, and completed them with his uncle, John Barrett, and was admitted to practice in the autumn of 1801. He immediately came to North Yarmouth, Me., and opened an office in November of that year, as successor to Bohan P. Field, who was the first lawyer established in that ancient town, and who removed to Belfast the previous year. Here he remained until the spring of 1805, when he removed to Gorham, but continued there only a year, accepting an invitation from Salmon Chase to become his partner in the very extensive and lucrative business which that eminent practitioner was then enjoying. Unhappily for Mr. Potter, his distinguished associate, Mr. Chase, died suddenly in August, 1806, and left the burden of a large business, and the guardianship of his two children, to this young man, just entering upon his profession. These circumstances assure us of the ability and well-established character of Mr. Potter, which was not shaken or tarnished by his long subsequent career of professional and official life.

"Mr. Potter sustained the practice, which had thus fallen upon him, by steady application, strict integrity, and great promptness in all the details and responsibilities of his business.

"Mr. Potter excelled in office duties; he was not an eloquent advocate, although he did not decline the advocacy of his own cases, which he managed with clearness, intelligence, and good judgment. And he patiently and successfully pursued the practice of his profession, with honor to himself and to the satisfaction of his clients, until higher honors awaited him.

"In 1819, he was chosen member of the Executive Council of Massachusetts; and in 1820, on the separation of Maine from the old Bay State, he was elected senator from Cumberland County to the State Senate. Here he served very faithfully and laboriously as one of the Committee on the Revision of the Statutes, and in the other arduous duties of organizing a new State. He was the last survivor of that Senate and of the Executive Council of that period. At the close of this service, in January, 1821, he retired from political life, and, on the election of Judge Parris to the office of governor in that year, he was appointed judge of probate for Cumberland County, made vacant by the resignation of that gentleman. For the quarter of a century during which Judge Potter held this important office, it is due to his memory and most just to say, that a more impartial and conscientious discharge of its delicate and often embarrassing duties has never been performed. He retired from it in 1847, at the age of seventy years, with intellect unclouded and natural force unabated.

"It was not only in the department of law that Judge Potter was successful; he was also a financier of no mean He managed for many years the estate of Mr. Chase for the best interest of his heirs, which largely accumulated in his hands. In 1825, when the Canal Bank of Portland, Me., was incorporated, he was elected its first president, having previously and afterwards served as a director in the old Bank of Portland. This office, and also that of president of the Cumberland and Oxford Canal Corporation, he held for ten years, faithfully administering the affairs of both these institutions; and it may be said of him that such were the habits of his mind, and so firm and regular the principles of his character, that he rounded off and finished well and quietly whatever he undertook, and there was no confusion or jarring in the machinery. In 1809, Judge Potter married Anne Stover, a daughter of Woodbury Stover, and a grand-daughter of Deacon Benjamin Titcomb. had six children, three of whom died in infancy. daughters survived, one of whom, Mary, became the wife of Professor Longfellow, the poet, and died in Rotter_ dam, Holland, November, 1835. Another, Margaret Louisa, is the wife of Peter Thacher, a practising lawyer in Boston."—Extract from an article by William Willis, Esq., of the Cumberland, Me., bar.

Hon. John Fox Potter, 1039 of East Troy, Wis., was born in Augusta, Me., May 11, 1817; educated at Phillips Exeter Academy, N. H., lawyer by profession, member of the Legislature of Wisconsin, 1856–57, judge of Walworth County court from 1842 to 1856, elected a representative in the Thirty-fifth Congress, served on Committee on Revolutionary Pensions, elected to Thirty-sixth Congress, and chairman of same committee; again elected to Thirty-seventh Congress, and made chairman of a special Committee on Government Employees, and chairman of Committee on Public Lands, and reported the Homestead Bill, which became the law; appointed a delegate to the Peace Convention of 1861, which he declined to attend; appointed governor of Dakotah by President Lincoln, but declined; appointed consul-general of British North American Possession, 1863, also declined; and subsequently appointed consul to Montreal, which office he resigned after President Lincoln's death; and has since resided on his farm in Walworth County, Wis., which he bought from the government at the first land sale of 1838.

There have been many versions of the duel that was barely prevented between Mr. Potter and Roger A. Pryor, of Virginia, at the beginning of the war. Mr. W. A. Croffut has recently given an account of the affair, without prejudice to either. It is as follows:—

"It was the beginning of Buchanan's last year. For a year or two Northern Congressmen had been intimidated by those from the South, the latter being generally expert swordsmen or pistol shots, and the former unfamiliar with either weapon, and brought up to regard duelling with abhorrence. Two or three Northerners had been insulted, 'posted,' and bullied, replying simply that they would fight if attacked. There was a growing feeling among Mr. Lincoln's friends that it was necessary for some 'Yankee' to fight.

"Mr. Pryor rose to a question of privilege one morning, saying that at the Congressional Globe office he had found that Mr. Potter had inserted at the end of his (Potter's) speech the words: 'The Republicans will be heard, let the consequences be what they may.' No such words, Mr. Pryor said, had been uttered in debate.

"Mr. Potter replied that he had used the words referred to, and that Pryor had erased them from the record, and added: 'He had no right to do it. It was none of the gentleman's business. I stand by what I said.'

"I doubt if these words are properly challengeable; but those were hot times, and Pryor sent a challenge and escaped to Virginia to avoid arrest. Potter answered through his friend, Colonel F. W. Lander, that he would fight with bowie-knives, in the presence of four friends of the parties, who should be armed with navy revolvers to see fair play. 'Distance four feet at commencement of engagement. Knives of equal weight and length of blade. Fight to commence at the word three.' It was added: 'These terms are such as will alone enable my principal, who is unaquainted with the usual weapons of duellists, to meet your friend on equal terms.' Mr. Chisman, whom Pryor had left to represent him, took the strange acceptance to several of his principal's friends, Keitt, Hindman, and others. They all agreed that the weapon was inadmissible, and that Potter, instead of being fought, should be denounced as a barbarian. So Mr. Chisman answered that, 'not recognizing this vulgar, barbarous, and inhuman mode of settling difficulties,' he could not allow Pryor to engage in it.

"Next day Pryor came back from hiding in Virginia, and, seeing what a mistake his seconds had made, straightway repudiated them, and asked that the matter might be reopened, announcing his willingness to accept the terms and fight with bowie-knives. The seconds declared a reopening impracticable. Lander offered himself in Potter's place, 'without restrictions,' but nobody had any quarrel with him. Pryor sent word to Potter that he would attack him at sight.

and a few hours afterwards Potter was arrested by the police and put under bonds to keep the peace.

"Potter's pluck caused a great furor at the North at a time when pluck was at a premium; and Pryor suffered from the outcome of it mainly because, in the heat of passion, the facts were obscured, and it was generally believed that he had refused to fight with bowie-knives and had rather ignominiously backed out. If the fight had taken place, one or both would have been killed, and it might have done something to abolish the savage and preposterous custom of duelling.

"For months afterwards Potter's friends, somewhat against his will, hedged him about with their vigilance, accompanying him in his walks to and fro. One of these was Colonel William S. King, of Minnesota, who was quick as a cat and strong as a tiger. Whenever Potter started from his seat to leave the House, King rose at his side like an apparition."

MARTIN POTTER, OF SOUTH SHIELDS, ENGLAND, AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

Martin Potter, of South Shields, England, who left a large landed estate in South Shields that reverted to the dean and chapter of Durham, after waiting the necessary time for the lost heir. About fifty years ago (1830 to 1840) this case became famously known as the Potter Estate in England, from the efforts and exertions put forth by the heirs living in America to obtain possession of the property. Much money was expended in the matter, in obtaining proofs and documentary evidence; while this considerably enlarged the experience of those the most actively engaged, it gave them no necessity for enlarging their pockets. Extracts relating to these matters are made from John Butler's book, published for the use of the heirs of Martin Potter, 1872:—

"Martin Potter, of South Shields, in the county of Durham, gentleman, by his last will and testament, bearing date the tenth day of September, which was in the year of our Lord 1714, and duly executed by him in the presence of three witnesses, in the first place directed that all his debts and funeral expenses should be paid and fully discharged; and thereby gave unto his loving wife, Ann Potter, all his estate which he held by lease from the dean and chapter of Durham, lying, standing, and being in South Shields, in the county of Durham, until his sons, John Potter, William Potter, and Martin Potter, attained their respective ages of twenty-one years; he thereby also gave unto his son John Potter all those houses situated, standing, and being on the south side of High King Street to the top of the bank, beginning from the running of water which parted the estate which formerly belonged to his brother and then lately purchased by him, on the west to and from the said place to the east end of the town; and also all that garden, malt kiln, bowling green, and the garden on the east end of the bowling green, muck quay, and one full half of all his cable landings; provided, he paid unto his mother the sum of twelve pounds and ten shillings during her natural life, by four quarterly payments, when he should enter upon the estate, having attained the age of twenty-one years, and not before.

"The testator also gave unto his son William Potter, all those houses standing in the town of South Shields aforesaid, which he purchased of his nephew Potter; and also, all said wharf and quay and piece of waste ground or cable landing, which he had then lately purchased of Margaret Chambers, when he attained the age of twenty-one years; he then to pay unto his mother, Ann Potter, during her natural life, seven pounds and ten shillings, by four quarterly payments.

"The testator also gave unto his son Martin Potter, all those houses and waste ground and one half of the cable landings lying on the west from the houses he purchased of his nephew Potter, to the west garden wall that he had given to his son John, all which lie on the north side of King Street, to low-water mark. And the testator's further will and pleasure was, that so often and when the lease was renewed of the dean and chapter, Martin Potter's name should be put into the same lease with his brother John, the better to entitle him to the share or part of the estate he had given him. The testator also gave unto his daughter, Jane Potter, the sum of two hundred pounds, to be paid her when she should attain the age of twenty-one years, or the day of her marriage, which should first happen to be paid out, and fourth of a certain legacy then left or to be left by her grandfather, William Reed; and what fell short of the two hundred pounds he did thereby order and appoint his sons John and William to make the sum up and complete two hundred pounds, and did thereby make the estate he had left, each of them liable to pay the same when she should attain the age of twenty-one years, or the day of her marriage, which should first happen. And the said testator's further will and pleasure was, that if any of his children should die before they came to age, then their share so left them should be shared or parted amongst the survivors of them, equally, share and share alike. The said testator also gave to his loving wife, Ann Potter, the kitchen, parlor, and the two rooms over the same chambers, for and during the term of her natural life; and if the testator's son John gave her any disturbance about the same, then his will was that he should forfeit all the estate given him to his two younger brothers. And the said testator's further will and pleasure was, that all his estate whatsoever should be chargeable with the payment of his just debts and funeral expenses; and as to all the residue and remainder of his personal estate, not thereinbefore devised, of what kind and nature soever, he thereby further gave unto his loving wife, whom he did thereby make, constitute, and appoint sole executrix of his last will and testament, thereby also revoking and annullingall former wills by him made, and declaring that to be his lasi will and testament. The said Martin Potter died in or about the month of April, 1716, without revoking or altering his last will and testament, as appears by the following extract taken from the parish register, kept at St. Hilds Church, in South Shields, aforesaid, and of which the following is a copy: --

"'Burials in the Parish of St. Hilds, South Shields, in the county of Durham, 1716. April 14, Martin Potter.'"

It is supposed that the two eldest sons, John and William Potter, entered into possession of their respective shares of their father's estate, while the youngest son, Martin Potter, was reported engaged in the naval service, and that he sailed in a ship from Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and was killed or died upon the same ship at the age of nineteen.

John Potter,2 after his marriage, went to reside at Morpeth, in the county of Northumberland, where all of his children were born, as appears by the extract from the register of baptisms of the parish of Morpeth.

William Potter,⁸ grandson of Martin Potter, emigrated to America in the year 1748, and married Abigail Durfey, Sept. 15, 1748. The claim for the property was made by the heirs of this William Potter, being the eldest son of John Potter, the only child of Martin Potter who had issue.

The following letter written by Abel Potter is curious and interesting, and illustrates the usual experience of persons hunting for lost estates:—

ROCHESTER, Feb. 24, 1851.

Mr. WILLIS HALL:

Dear Sir,—Your letter was received in due time, and with much pleasure I shall endeavor to give you an answer. You are wishing to know how the property is situated, and why so long a time should elapse and no action commenced.

It is claimed, a certain portion of it, by the dean and chapter of Durham, and I think one third of it is under a mortgage by a person that had no right or title to any part of it. That I can better explain to you when we should meet.

The remainder is freehold estate, and it is said by the oldest people that it was once all freehold, and I claim it as such. Now, why it has not been brought to a close before is this: We did not find out the exact situation of it until 1847, and after staying there almost two years, and spending thirteen hundred dollars while on the premises, was lucky enough to find out the whole mystery.

Then I went to London to employ counsel. I found one, and laid the case before him, and he said it was the clearest case he ever knew of so much magnitude. He was a barrister that could plead before the Lord Chancellor; he seemed to take quite an interest in the suit, and advised me to serve a summons upon every person that rented a house, which would be more than two thousand. The court would be held at Loudon, which is three hundred miles from Shields, and if we should happen to make a misstep, you will readily conclude what the cost must be. This counsellor said he would go to Shields with me to examine their titles; this was in the morning; he was to come in the evening to get on the cars, after receiving three ten-pound notes on the Bank of London, which was the last time one could set eyes upon him. After waiting some time in London, I was recommended to one Mr. Jackson, a law character, who said that he would not desert me. I then paid his passage to Shields, and supported him there for almost two years, at an expense of twelve hundred dollars; and he then sold himself to the dean and chapter. But he could not injure the case, as he had no papers of mine to give them. So you will easily account for the uncommon progress that I have made. Now I shall employ as good a counsellor as I can get, and hitch on a long team that is not easily set, and make a start as soon as consistent in the coming spring. If this should be the case, I should be as sure of my object as I should of getting over there. Now, sir, if you can raise a steam on a high pressure, it is all that is wanting. If not, I shall do it here at Rochester. If I should take in a partner as company and give them the one half, I should tax them a premium on my expenses, being eight thousand dollars and losing my time also. The property is worth six millions of dollars. Sir, if you should make any effort, you will please do it soon, as there is no time to lose.

Give my best respects to your wife and family.

Yours, with much esteem,

ABEL POTTER.

Orrin W. Potter, 154 of Chicago, Ill., president of the North Chicago Rolling Mill Company, was born in Rochester, Dec. 25, 1836. He received a common school education, and at fifteen years of age was engaged in the survey of certain railroads in his native State, and later in the preliminary survey of the Great Western Railway of Canada. In 1856, he entered the employ of Captain E. B. Ward, at his iron rail mills at Wyandotte, Mich., as clerk. When Captain Ward built his mill in Chicago, Mr. Potter was appointed as paymaster in 1857. In 1860, he became superintendent, and in 1864, when the mill was merged in the corporation known as the Chicago Rolling Mill Company, he was appointed secretary and general superintendent. In 1871, on the retirement of Captain Stephen Clement, he was elected president of the company, which position he has since continuously held. Mr. Potter has, therefore, been connected with the corporation, of which he is the head, since its incipiency, and its subsequent growth and prosperity are due more to his able and sagacious management than to any other thing. Originating with a mill for re-rolling iron rails, with a capacity for rolling fifteen thousand tons per annum, it has expanded so as to comprise three great works, employing five thousand men, with a combined total capacity of nine hundred thousand tons of material per annum.

Edward Clement Potter, 160 of Chicago, Ill., "general superintendent of the South Chicago Works of the North Chicago Rolling Mill Company, son of O. W. Potter, was born in Chicago, Jan. 5, 1860. He was educated in the public schools and high school and in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he took the course in mining and metallurgical engineering. At the close of his school career in 1879, he entered the employ of the North Chicago Rolling Mill Company as chemist. When the new works at South Chicago were determined upon, he was appointed superintendent in 1880, when the work of building was begun, and this position he has since continuously held.

"The pages of the Engineering and Mining Journal have borne frequent testimony in the eloquent language of figures of work accomplished, of the ability and skill of this young American engineer. The paper which he has just read before the British Iron and Steel Institute has brought him the extremely complimentary indorsement of the ablest of the English iron masters."—From the New York Engineering and Mining Journal, July, 1887.

PART 7.

MATTHEW POTTER, OF PHILADELPHIA, PA., AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

Matthew Potter¹ came from Scotland to Ballyeaston, County Antrim, Ireland; was married to Jane McCreight some time in the year 1733; they came to this country during the great Presbyterian emigration about 1740. They were both members of the First Presbyterian Church of Philadelphia, Pa., which then stood at the southeast corner of Bank and Market Streets, with the burying-ground adjoining. Matthew Potter died many years before his wife, and was buried in this yard. The bodies were subsequently removed from this ground to the burial ground at the corner of 4th and Pine Streets. Mrs. Potter removed with her son-in-law, Robert Bail, to Wilmington, Del., about or soon after 1764. She died Aug. 11, 1800, aged ninety years and five months, and is buried in the family plot, First Presbyterian Church, corner 10th and Market Streets, Wilmington, Del. An extract from an address of Judge James Veech, on the Scotch-Irish, which is herewith appended, pays a noble tribute to the character of these people: —

"It was not until 1717, the era of the formation of the old parent Synod of Philadelphia, some thirty-five years after the foundation of Pennsylvania, that the Scotch-Irish began in any considerable number to come to America.

"The first great migration from Ulster to Pennsylvania (and it was to Pennsylvania that nearly all the emigrants came, prior to the Revolution) was from about 1717 to 1750. At this time, under the benign sway of the Toleration Act of 1689, religious persecutions in Great Britain had ceased, or at least had become tempered down into annoying hindrances and exactions. But the long lease which had been granted upon the original colonization had expired, and they took advantage of the prosperity which had attended the labors of the colonists and their descendants to advance the rents to such high figures as to be ruinous to many of the tenantry, and burdensome to all. Having heard of the better land across the sea, where they could be their own landlords, where tithes were unknown and taxes light, they at once determined to seek new homes there. And thither they went.

"Up to 1729 six thousand Scotch-Irish had come, and for several years prior to 1750, about twelve thousand arrived annually. The class of people to whom we give the appellative Scotch-Irish are very different from the Irish who during these many years past have crowded our ports, and swarm in all our cities. Neither are they Scotch, nor a cross of the two races. Not a drop of Celtic or Milesian blood lurks in their veins. As a race they are only denizens of Ireland, to which they were transported from Scotland, and where most of them can yet find their kindred and the graves of a common ancestry. And yet by long residence they may be considered as indigenous to the nine counties of the old province of Ulster, — Antrim, Annagh, Cavan, Donegal, Down, Fermanagh, Londonderry, Monaghan, Tyrone.

"Although their religious and educational trainings closely resemble those of the Scotch, and always have done so, yet they differ in their predominant pursuits and aspirations. Generally the Scotchman is content with the stinted subsistence of his heather and braes; the Scotch-Irishman is forever grasping at or hoping for something better. Moreover, the early Scotch colonists of Ireland were select stock. Many of them, though not lords, were lairds, and all of them were men of grit and enterprise, and above the average in intelligence. They went there to better their condition, and all their history and that of their descendants shows that whenever they cannot accomplish that they leave.

"We may therefore safely consider the Scotch-Irish as a race of improved Scotch. Nor should we receive this as a Transfer the thrift-loving but penurydoubtful truism. bound inhabitant of our rugged hills or crowded streets to the rich prairies or fast-growing towns of the West, and they or their sons rise to places of honor and influence. Had the Scotch colonists of Ireland remained at home, they probably would have made no distinguishing impression upon their social surroundings; but upon their translation to Ulster they found a land of high susceptibilities, wasted and barren by wars and by the ignorance and indolence of a degraded peasantry made such by a degrading religious superstition, with which they were obliged to be in contact and in antagonism. They went to work to restore the land to fruitfulness, and to prove the superiority of the Protestant faith. In accomplishing these purposes they developed energies of which they would otherwise have remained unconscious, and their aims grew higher and of wider range.

"Between 1771 and 1773 occurred the second of the great migrations from Ulster."

Colonel David Potter⁷ was born in Philadelphia of Scotch-Irish parentage, Nov. 27, 1745. He married in that city, in 1768, Mary Mason. The latter was born in one of the islands of the West Indies in 1749. She was of Scotch ancestry, and is said to have been a lady of great beauty. Colonel Potter removed from Philadelphia to Bridgeton, Cumberland County, N. J., soon after his marriage, and established himself as a merchant. He soon attained leadership in his business, and became influential in all the concerns of the county. At the outbreak of the Revolution, in the spring of 1775, he was elected captain of one of the volunteer military companies then forming, and in the autumn of 1776 he was appointed by the Legislature, colonel of the Second Battalion of Cumberland County. Nov. 27, 1776, he was in like manner appointed colonel of a battalion of what were known as "State troops." Though appointed and acting as colonel in 1776, his commission, as is shown by a copy of that of his lieutenant-colonel appended to his letter resigning the office (Colonel Potter's own commission having, as he states, been destroyed by the enemy when he was captured), appears not to have been actually issued until April 12, 1777.

Feb. 21, 1777, he was appointed by the Legislature, brigadier-general, but declined that office, March 15, 1777. He still retained, however, his colonelcy, and continued to serve. His military service, though active and of some extent, cannot now be accurately traced. A journal which he kept during some part of the time at least was lost or destroyed early in the century.

In a return of the army in New Jersey, under Brigadier-General Hugh Mercer, dated Perth Amboy, Oct. 8, 1776, printed in Force's "American Archives," Fifth Series, Vol. II., for the year 1776, page 942, he is reported present in command of his regiment. In a volume containing selections from the correspondence of the executive of New Jersey, from 1776 to 1786, published in 1848 by order of the Legislature, is printed a copy of a letter written by Governor William Livingston to Brigadier-General Silas Newcomb, then in command of a brigade at Woodbury, Gloucester County, to which Colonel Potter's regiment was attached, as follows:—

"Haddonfield, Sept. 20, 1777.

"Sir, — As, from the real bravery of our militia and the terror with which they have frequently struck the enemy, they will doubtless be of essential service in opposing the progress of the enemy towards Philadelphia, I think it best those now collected at Woodbury should immediately march to join the militia under the immediate command of General Armstrong, and to re-enforce the army under command of his Excellency General Washington. This detachment, I am persuaded from your zeal for the cause, you would upon this important occasion be desirous of commanding in person. But as in all probability the enemy's fleet, should their land army meet with success, will attempt to ravage our coasts, and they may perhaps throw over some troops besides, I think your presence will be more necessary in this State.

"You will therefore direct Colonel Potter to take the command of the troops now at Woodbury, and to march them with all possible expedition, as above directed."

Colonel Potter was taken prisoner in this campaign, either at the battle of Germantown or in some of the skirmishes preceding it; but the time and circumstances of his capture are not now known. It is known that he was a prisoner in Philadelphia, upon Long Island, and in the prison-hulks off New York.

After many months of imprisonment, he was paroled by the enemy, and was on parole for several years, as appears by copies of his letters in his letter-book, wherein, as late as March 1, 1781, he protests against the injustice which has been done him, in not consummating his exchange, as he could not enter into business, for the reason that his parole was liable at any time to be recalled; and also states that he has received no pay or allowance for subsistence since Jan. 19, 1779.

He retained his commission as colonel until May 15, 1787, when he forwarded his resignation to the Legislature, but stating in his letter that "I shall ever consider it an honor to serve my country in any appointment which shall be in my power to attend to."

In 1782, he was appointed by the Legislature, marshal of the Admiralty Court of the State.

In 1787, he was elected one of the three delegates from Cumberland County to the State Convention at Trenton, which unanimously ratified the Constitution of the United States.

In 1791, 1792, and 1793, he was elected sheriff of his county.

Upon the division of parties he warmly sustained the cause of the Washington and Hamilton Federalists.

Colonel Potter was noted for his earnest patriotism, his energetic character, and his generous hospitality.

He had eight children by his first wife, one of whom died an infant. Several of these were beautiful and attractive young ladies, who took a leading place in society.

The journal, still preserved, of a young lady of Philadelphia, who visited the family in 1786, records: "Had a most welcome reception from Mrs. Potter, bidding me welcome to Cohansey (as the neighborhood was designated). They have seven of the sweetest children, five boys and two girls, etc."

The first wife of Colonel Potter died in 1783. In August of the following year, he married Sarah Boyd, whose elder sister, Martha, married the Hon. James Ewing, of Trenton. The only son and child of the latter became a very eminent lawyer, and died of cholera in 1832, while holding the office of chief justice of the State of New Jersey.

By his second marriage Colonel Potter had six children.

He was active in the erection of a Presbyterian church in Bridgeton, in 1792, and also in the organization of Brearley Lodge, No. 2, Free and Accepted Masons, of which he was one of the charter members.

Although for many years a prosperous business man, his large family, great hospitality, and liberal mode of living prevented Colonel Potter from accumulating a large estate.

About 1800, his health began to decline, and he gave up his business to his sons, David and William. He died Dec. 10, 1805.

The following obituary notice appeared in the State Gazette, published at Trenton, Dec. 16, 1805. It is written in the somewhat florid style of that day, but those who knew him intimately have said that, as an eulogium, it is eminently just:—

"Died on Tuesday, the 10th instant, at Bridgeton, Cumberberland County, Colonel David Potter. In him another of the patriots of the Revolution has gone to the silent mansions of the tomb. Early in the War of Independence he devoted himself to the service of his country, and discharged the duties of the various offices, both civil and military, to which he was called by the voice of his fellow-citizens, with distinguished zeal, fidelity, and integrity. Of manners the most amiable and engaging, of a disposition in the highest degree humane and generous, of a hospitality liberal and unvarying, of a deportment the most upright and dignified, he has left on the bosoms of his very numerous friends a record of his virtues which they will ever cherish with the most zealous affection. To the appeal of poverty and distress his heart and hand were always open. There was no one sick whom he visited not; there was no one who came to him hungry whom he sent empty away. To those who knew him, the warmest language of eulogium cannot reach the measure of their feelings. To those who knew him not, the tears and respect of his friends will be the most ample testimonial of his worth. The pains and sufferings of a lingering and long-protracted illness he sustained with the patient fortitude of a man and the cheerful resignation of a Christian, and at length yielded up his spirit without a struggle to his Father and his God. Light be the sod which lies upon his breast, perennial be the willows which weep around his tomb." WM. E. POTTER.

Lewis Potter Bush, M. D., 108 of Wilmington, Del., "the third member of the family that has borne that name since David Bush, the second son of Christopher and Elizabeth Bush, settled in Wilmington, and the fourth son of David Bush (No. 21), a great-grandson of Christopher Bush, was born in Wilmington, Oct. 19, 1812. His father was a shipper and wholesale dealer in flour in Wilmington. Dr. Bush began his early scholastic education first in the Davenport Academy, Wilmington. Afterwards he attended the academy of Rev. Francis Latta, M. D., in Lancaster County, Pa., where he made more particular preparation for the collegiate course which he took at Jefferson College, Pennsylvania, and finished in 1831, during the college presidency of Rev. Dr. Matthew Brown. He subsequently received the degree of A. M. from his Alma Mater. He then entered the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia, and received the degree of M. D. from that institution in 1835. After graduation as a doctor of medicine, to increase his skill as a practitioner he spent fourteen months as a resident physician in the Blockley Hospital of Philadelphia. He then came to Wilmington, and began the practice of medicine in 1837, and has remained in the same city in active practice from that date until the present time (1888). In addition to the arduous duties inseparable from the profession of a physician, Dr. Bush has been appointed, and found time, to prepare many interesting and valuable papers upon various topics germane to his regular work. . . . Dr. Bush is a member and the corresponding secretary of the Delaware Historical Society, a member of the Pennsylvania and Virginia Historical Societies. He is the present president of the Delaware Bible Society, president of the Association of Resident Physicians of Blockley Hospital, Philadelphia, president of the Board of Managers of Delaware College. . . .

"Abundant labors combine to prove that the doctor is devoted to his profession and carnest in his advocacy of all right and practicable efforts to promote its cultivation and ethics." — Extract from a sketch by J. Thomas Scharf, A. M., LL. D., in History of Delaware, 1888.

Colonel William Potter.¹⁷⁰ In 1799, when trouble was anticipated with France, he was appointed adjutant of the Eleventh Regiment, United States Infantry, commanded by Colonel Aaron Ogden. At the breaking out of the war with Great Britain, he was chosen captain of a fine uniformed military company, called the "Union Company." He was commissioned by the government first lieutenant of the Regular Army, but declined; he accepted, however, a commission from Governor Ogden as major of the battalion to guard the coast of Cape May. After the war he sold his extensive real estate, and in 1820 removed to Philadelphia. He afterwards removed to Ohio as director of some iron works. He died in Mill Grove in that State, March 16, 1847.

Benjamin Champneys, M. D., 171 was born in Salem, N. J., in 1774, a lineal descendant of Major John Fenwick, who founded French colony of West Jersey. Dr. Champneys inherited the property of his immediate ancestors in Salem County, and was educated in Philadelphia. He was examined and licensed in physic and surgery in 1795. received an appointment as surgeon in the navy, Jan. 6, He served on board the frigate "Philadelphia," Stephen Decatur commanding. He remained in the navy a year and a half, and then resumed his practice in Bridgeton, N. J. He graduated in both departments of the University of Pennsylvania. The degree M. D. was conferred upon him in 1805. He received a certificate of honorary membership in the Medical Society of Philadelphia, signed by Dr. Bush, Feb. 20, 1808. Dr. Champneys's practice was large in both Salem and Cumberland Counties, New Jersey. He died in 1814.

Judge Daniel Elmer, 177 who was born at Cedarville, Sept. 30, 1784, was the fifth Daniel in regular lineal descent from the Rev. Daniel who came from New England and was settled as pastor of the old Cohansey Presbyterian Church, Fairfield, Cumberland County, N. J., in 1729, and died in 1755, leaving several children, the descendants of whom, now a numerous body, still reside in South Jersey. Daniel's father dying when the son was but eight years old, he was left to the care of Dr. Ebenezer Elmer, his greatuncle. From his earliest years he exhibited those traits of unceasing activity and energy which remained until he was disabled by disease. He studied law with General James Giles, and was licensed as an attorney in November, 1805, and opened an office in Bridgeton. He was licensed as counsellor in 1808, and called to the degree of sergeanf-at-law. Being fond of the militia service, he rose through the various grades until he became general of the Cumberland Brigade, by which title he was generally addressed.

In 1841, he was appointed by the joint meeting a justice of the Supreme Court, when he resigned the presidency of Cumberland Bank, which he had held since 1825. In 1844, Judge Elmer was a member of the convention that formed the new Constitution, and in the winter of the same year had a slight apoplectic attack, which so disabled him as to make it necessary for him to resign his judgeship, which he did in January, 1845. He never recovered, and died July 3, 1848.

WILLIAM ELMER, M. D. (First), 178-181 was born in Bridgeton, N. J., March 23, 1788. He was the youngest son of Dr. Jonathan and Mary (Seeley) Elmer. His father was one of the first graduates of the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania, and in medical erudition, Dr. Bush frequently said, was exceeded by no physician in the United States. Dr. Jonathan Elmer was an ardent Whig, serving in the Continental Congress, and was one of the two first senators of the United States chosen under the Constitution to represent New Jersey. For more than thirty years at least his was the leading mind of the place.

Dr. William Elmer, the son, had a good education, but the death of his elder brother, while a student at Nassau Hall (Princeton), made his father loath to have him leave home for the purpose of acquiring a collegiate education. He was, however, thoroughly educated as a physician, having spent several years in the prosecution of his studies in Philadelphia, during which time he was an attendant at the hospital, and in practice at the dispensary. He graduated in 1811. The year following he commenced the practice of medicine at Bridgeton, N. J.

Dr. Elmer soon acquired a large practice, and was the leading physician of the town. He was, however, engaged in the active duties of his profession but a very few years, and his popularity during these years must have been quite remarkable. At the death of his father, in 1817, he fell heir to an ample fortune, and very soon retired from practice. He died of rheumatism of the heart in 1836, at the early age of forty-eight.

James Boyd Potter,¹⁷⁹ of Bridgeton, N. J., was a prosperous merchant in Bridgeton for nearly fifty years, of most unquestioned integrity, being highly respected in all the relations of life. For about twenty-five years he was president of Cumberland Bank of Bridgeton. Probably no citizen of that part of the State was more generally known or more highly esteemed in his day. He possessed an upright character, was a fervid patriot, an enterprising citizen, and an earnest and sympathetic friend.

Hon. ELIAS P. SEELEY 196 was a son of Ebenezer and Mary (Clark) Seeley. He was born in Fairfield Township, Cumberland County, N. J., Nov. 10, 1792. His father represented Cumberland County in the Assembly and Council (Senate) many years, and was clerk of the county for nineteen years, from 1814 to 1833. The son, Elias P., studied law with Daniel Elmer, and was admitted to the bar in May, 1815. He began practice in Bridgeton, N. J. He was elected to the Assembly in 1826, 1827, and 1828. In 1829, he was elected to the Council, and re-elected in 1830, 1831, and 1832. The latter two years he was elected vice-president of the Council. On the election of Governor Southard as United States senator, he was elected by joint meeting, Feb. 27, 1833, governor of the State. He had two children: Elias P., Jr., and Rebecca C., who married the late Judge Henry T. Ellett, of Memphis, Tenn.

Judge Benjamin Champneys, 198 son of Dr. Benjamin and Sarah (Potter) Champneys, was born in Bridgeton, N. J. Mr. Champneys entered Princeton College, but was called home by the fatal sickness of his father, and did not graduate. He soon thereafter commenced the study of law in Lancaster, Pa., under the late George B. Porter, and was admitted to the bar in 1818. Prompt, careful, and attentive to business, he soon became possessed of a large and lucrative practice. In 1828, he was elected to the Legislature. From 1832 to 1835, he was prosecuting attorney for Lancaster County. In 1838, Governor Porter appointed Mr. Champneys judge. In this position he became very popular. He did business with despatch, and the confidence in the clearness of his judgment and the soundness of his integrity was well-nigh universal. In 1842, he resigned the judgeship, and was nominated and elected senator. In 1847, he was appointed attorney-general by Governor Shunk.

Mr. Champneys was strongly anti-slavery. Though acting with the Douglas wing of the Democratic party, so warmly did he advocate the cause of the Union that in 1863, against his own inclination, the Republicans of Lancaster County unanimously compelled him again to take a seat in the Senate. Here he served the public well and faithfully till the close of the session of 1866, when failing health prevented him from taking further part in public affairs.

Mr. Champneys was a man of great usefulness as a citizen of Lancaster. A most ardent friend of every improvement, he was always ready with his means to help along any scheme which had for its object the welfare of the public. Upon his death, the leading journal, the Lancaster Inquirer, editorially said: "An analysis of his character would present him as a deeply learned lawyer, a kind-hearted, charitable man to all with whom he had intercourse, a man of irreproachable honesty in all things; worshipping the law next to his religion, as the perfection of human reason. He goes to his grave with a character so near perfect, that all the young men of the profession may be proud to make him their example."

Judge William G. Whiteley,³⁶¹ of Wilmington, Del., associate judge of the Superior Court, the Court of Errors and Appeals, Court of General Sessions, Court of Oyer and Terminer, and the Orphans' Court, died April 23, 1886. He was born near Newark, Del., on Aug. 7, 1819. He was the son of Henry and Catherine Whiteley, the former a native of Carolina County, Md. He was as popular among his young companions as he was among his associates in after life. He was educated at the Hilles School at Ninth and Tatnall Streets, at Delaware College, and at the College of New Jersey at Princeton, where he graduated in 1838. The same year he registered as a student at law with the late James A. Bayard, father of Secretary of State Bayard, and was admitted to the bar in 1841. He at once engaged in the active practice of his profession in Wilmington, Del., and soon acquired a large practice. He was clerk of the State Senate during the session of 1851. Governor Ross appointed him prothonotary of New Castle County, Jan. 19, 1852, and he removed with his family to New Castle, then the county seat. In the fall of 1856, he was elected to Congress as a Democrat, by a majority of 1,751 votes over Elisha D. Cullen, his Whig and American competitor, and he resigned his position as prothonotary. In 1858, he was re-elected by a majority of 410 votes over William R. Morris, the "People's" candidate, and served until March 4, 1861, after which he returned to his practice in the city. He was a delegate to the National Democratic Convention which assembled in Charleston, S. C., April 23, 1860, and which adjourned to Baltimore, when John C. Breckenridge was nominated to the Presidency. He was also a delegate to the National Convention of 1876 in St. Louis, and placed Thomas F. Bayard in nomination for the Presidency. On Jan. 20, 1862, he was again appointed prothonotary of New Castle County, and served a full term of five years. In the summer of 1875, he was elected mayor of Wilmington for a term of three years. He was for years solicitor of the National Bank of Delaware, was one of the fishery commissioners to settle the fishing dispute with the New Jersey authorities, which reported to the State Legislature of 1877; and in 1880, he was appointed chief census enumerator for Delaware, and superintended the compilation of the decennial census of that year. On March 31, 1884, Mr. Whiteley was appointed associate judge of the State courts, to succeed Judge Leonard E. Wales, who had been appointed judge of the United States court on March 6, 1884. Judge Whiteley was an eminent lawyer and a genial gentleman, who enjoyed the confidence and respect, not only of his associates at the bar, but also of the social circle in which he moved. As a pleader at the bar he had few equals, and his legal opinions were considered very sound and reliable.

General David Potter, 400 of New Jersey. For many years he was connected with the public enterprises of South Jersey, and at the time of his death was one of the original directors of the West Jersey Railroad, and president of the West Jersey Marl and Transportation Company. The former enterprise was largely indebted to his energy for its ultimate success. He also held the appointment of brigadiergeneral of the Cumberland Brigade. In all that pertained to the public welfare of his native city and county, General Potter took a lively interest. His genial social qualities endeared him to a large circle of friends, who deplored his sudden death.

J. Barron Potter, M. D., 402 of Bridgeton, N. J., is a graduate of Princeton College, and graduated in the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania in 1847. He is a member of both State and county medical societies. He has been successful in his professional labors, and enjoys an extensive practice as the reward of skill and assidnous devotion to the interests of his patients.

Colonel WILLIAM ELMER POTTER,⁴⁰⁷ of Bridgeton, N. J., the youngest son of James Boyd and Jane Barron Potter, was born June 13, 1840, in Bridgeton, Cumberland County, New Jersey.

The subject of this sketch, having determined upon the law as a profession, entered the office of Hon. John T. Nixon, as a student, in October, 1857. He remained until September, 1859, and the same month became a student at the Law School of Harvard University. From this school he graduated in January, 1861, with the degree of LL. B., and in September of the same year entered the Junior Class of Princeton College. Under the spur of patriotic ardor, he abandoned his collegiate studies, and in July of the following year enlisted in Company K, Twelfth Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers. He was commissioned second lieutenant of the same company, Aug. 14, 1862, and mustered into the service of the United States as such, Sept. 4, 1862. He was promoted to a first lieutenancy of the same company and regiment, Aug. 6, 1863, and to the captaincy of Company G, Feb. 4, 1864. Captain Potter became brevet-major United States Volunteers for meritorious services, May 1, 1865, by promotion of the President of the United States, and was, in 1866, commissioned aide-de-camp to Governor Marcus L. Ward, of New Jersey, with the rank of lieutenant-colonel, upon whose staff he served for three years.

While in the field with his regiment, he was detailed as ordnance officer of the Third Division, Second Army Corps, and acted as such in the campaigns of Chancellorsville and Gettysburg, on the staff of Major-General William H. French, and with Brigadeir-General Alexander Hays; served in that capacity until Oct. 1, 1863, and was then appointed judge advocate of the division on the staff of General Hays, continuing thus until he rejoined his regiment and took command of his company. He was wounded at the battle of the Wilderness while in command of his company, on the 6th of May, 1864, and reported again for duty at Cold Harbor, Va., June 4 of the same year. On the 1st of July, 1864, he was detailed as aide-de-camp to Colonel Thomas A. Smyth, commanding Third Brigade, Second Division of the Second Army Corps.

On the 1st of August, 1864, he was made judge advocate on the staff of Major-General John Gibbon, commanding the Second Division, Second Army Corps, and served thus until Jan. 15, 1865, when he was detailed as aide-de-camp to Major-General John Gibbon, commanding the Twenty-fourth Army Corps, Army of the James, and as acting judge advocate of the corps. He remained on duty in the latter capacity until mustered out of service, June 4, 1865. During this period Colonel Potter was present in the following engagements: Chancellorsville, Gettysburg, Auburn, Bristoe Station, Blackburn's Ford, Locust Grove, campaign of Mine Run, Morton's Ford, Wilderness, Cold Harbor, the entire campaign of Petersburg, Deep Bottom (first and second engagements), Ream's Station, Hatcher's Run, Boydton Road, assault and capture of Petersburg, Rice's Station, Appomattox Court House. By an order from headquarters Twenty-fourth Army Corps, in company with five other officers, he was detailed to deliver the colors surrendered by General Lee's army — seventy-six in number — to Hon. Edward M. Stanton of the War Department, which ceremony occurred on May 1, 1865. He was the only New Jersey officer present on this occasion. Colonel Potter during his military career displayed gallantry and judgment, which won for him the highest encomiums from his superior officers.

Colonel Potter received from Princeton College his degree of A. B. in 1863, and of A. M. in 1866. He was admitted as an attorney-at-law in 1865, and as a counsellor in 1869.

Having begun practice in Bridgeton, he, in 1870, formed a copartnership with J. Boyd Nixon, with whom he has since continued his professional labors, and attained a prominent position at the bar of New Jersey.

He was a delegate to the Republican National Convention at Chicago in 1868, as also to the convention held at Cincinnati in 1876, and an elector on the Garfield ticket in 1880. He was elected an honorary member of the Society of the Cincinnati of New Jersey, July 4, 1874, and president of the New Jersey Officers Association for 1880.

To son Jonathan, all wearing apparel." Inventory, 13 geese, an ox, 2 heifers, 3 cows, etc.

STEPHEN POTTER 38 was born in Washington County, N. Y., moved to Truxton, 1798, and to Solou, N. Y., 1802, being one of the pioneers in that section of the country. There were no roads in the new country. He had to cut his way through a heavy-timbered forest, so difficult that it took him fourteen days to reach his destination, a distance of twenty miles from Fabius. There he improved a farm and made a home for his family, and lived during the remainder of his life. His eldest son, the Rev. John Burgoyne Potter, No. 79, was born in Washington County, N. Y., and was moved with his father and mother to Cortland County, N. Y. His early life, up to the time of his entering the ministry, was spent on the farm of his father, from whom he learned the carpenter's trade, at which he worked at intervals during his life. He was baptized by Rev. Alfred Bennett (a truly eminent man of that early day), united with the Baptist church at Homer, N. Y., and was licensed to preach by that church when about eighteen years of age. He was ordained a minister at Canandaigua, N. Y., 1830. He married Miss Nancy Morse, 1815, and settled near the home of his father in Solon, N. Y. His first wife died in 1820, and he married a second time, in 1822, to Miss Susanna Burlingame. He died in Brockport, N. Y., in 1837.

Nancy M. (Potter) McKibben, daughter of Stephen Potter, No. 92, of Dorchester, Mo., has spent much of her life as a teacher. She is a member of the order of Patrons of Husbandry, and was elected secretary of Green County, Mo., Grange in 1878, and has been annually re-elected for seven consecutive terms. In 1879 and 1880, she was a delegate to the State Grange Patrons of Husbandry.

Allen Potter, No. 94, of Blodgett's Mills, N. Y., his youngest son, read medicine with his brother, Dr. Stephen

H. Potter, about one year, in 1846. Not liking the profession, he engaged in mechanical pursuits, which have been his business to the present time.

Hon. Joseph Potter, LL. D.,64 justice of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, was born in the town of Easton, Washington County, N. Y., on the seventeenth day of November, 1821, and was the youngest child of Joel Potter and Annie Austin. Judge Potter received a liberal During his boyhood he attended the district school in his neighborhood, and later a Quaker boarding school at Chatham, Columbia County, N. Y., where the Hon. William S. Fullerton (now a distinguished lawyer and jurist of New York City) was his preceptor. Subsequently, he attended the Union Village Academy at Greenwich, N. Y., then quite celebrated as a preparatory school, where he fitted for college, and from which he was admitted to the Sophomore Class of Union College at Schenectady. That institution, at a subsequent period, conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Laws.

He graduated with honors, and after a course of study in the law offices of Judge Culver and A. D. Baker, at Greenwich, and with Messrs. Wheaton, Hammond, Doolittle, and Hadly, of Albany, N. Y., he was, in the year 1845, admitted as an attorney and counsellor of the Supreme Court of New York, and as solicitor in chancery. While pursuing his studies with Judge Culver and Mr. Baker at Greenwich, he taught in the Union Village Academy at which he prepared for college.

Shortly after his admission to the bar, he removed to Whitehall in Washington County, N. Y., and formed a law partnership with the Hon. William H. Parker. Judge Parker died in 1849, and Judge Potter continued the practice of law at Whitehall, having at different periods associated with him J. D. Blount, the Hon. A. H. Tanner, and J. Sanford Potter, all of whom had been law students in his office, until his accession to the bench of the Supreme Court in 1872.

Early in his career as a practising lawyer his ability and integrity were recognized, and he was elected to the office of public prosecutor, or district attorney, of Washington County, in 1849, and at the close of his term was re-elected, serving throughout a second term with marked ability and success. In 1863, he was nominated and elected county judge of Washington County, which office he filled for two successive terms expiring Dec. 31, 1871, and was then promoted to the bench of the Supreme Court, having been elected to that office in November, 1871, for a full term of fourteen years. This term expired Dec. 31, 1885, and in November preceding he was elected to the same office, his term expiring by constitutional limitation when he shall have reached seventy years of age.

It is given to but few men to impress their individuality indelibly upon history, but one circumstance alone has enabled Judge Potter to do this. Having been called upon, in the usual way, to hold a term of court in the city of New York, and relieve the judges of that city overburdened with an accumulation of business, he was sitting in special term when an application was made for a stay of proceedings pending an appeal in the case of Jacob Sharpe, convicted of bribery.

An application of this kind under the circumstances existing in the Sharpe case is ordinarily made without opposition, and granted as a matter of course; but Sharpe had been convicted, according to the claims of the metropolitan newspapers, solely through their efforts; and with great unanimity and persistence they demanded that the provisions of the Constitution and the statutes of the State applicable to cases of this kind should be ignored, and that a stay of proceedings upon the judgment of conviction, pending an appeal to the higher courts upon questions of law and evidence, involving the legality of his conviction, should not be granted. The subject became one of universal interest and of supreme importance. The press threatened the judiciary, and upon Judge Potter, standing alone, rested the responsibility and the burden of asserting its independence.

Speaking of the subject in hand, the Hon. Daniel Dougherty, one of America's greatest lawyers and greatest orators, said in his address delivered before the State Bar Association of New York, in the Senate Chamber of the Capitol in Albany, Jan. 17, 1888: "Scarcely known in America in the past, it stirs the present, and may foreshadow grave troubles in thefuture. It concerns us as citizens as well as lawyers. It may test to the quick the honor, integrity, and independence of the bar. It is, Shall the newspapers invade the sanctity of courts of justice, assail litigants, intimidate witnesses, and dictate the verdicts of juries and the judgments of courts?

"The great journals of different cities are breaking down the barriers of the past, and assuming authority to comment on, criticise, condemn, or approve of, proceedings pending in our courts of justice. They pour into every home their opinion of an undetermined case. They condemn the accused before the evidence is heard; name the amount the verdict ought to be, the day the jury will decide. Judges, comprehending the direful results, resist, within the limits of the law, this outrageous interference. Yet it is to be feared that now and then there may be those elevated to the bench by favoritism, devoid of experience, tasting for the first the sweets of popular applause, who, caught by the breeze, will float with the current, try the case, and sentence prisoners to please the press."

Judge Potter did not please the press. Faithfully and fearlessly he performed the solemn trust reposed in him, assigning the reasons therefor in an unanswerable opinion. He granted a stay, and vindicated the great principle which he represented.

Mr. Dougherty described the incident in the following eloquent words: "Ay, when a judge, whose name deserves to be printed in letters of gold and kept bright forever, in despite of the storm that he knew would be heaped upon him, for good and weighty reasons, the case being one of first impressions, the first of the kind tried under the State Constitution, the first alleged briber ever indicted, granted the stay, some of the journals assailed his purity, ransacked his career, insinuating, if they did not brand him, as a bribetaker."

Judge Potter wrote an elaborate opinion in deciding the case, which is reported at length in the Reports of the Decisions of the Supreme Court.

"Subsequently the Court of Appeals, 'calm as the lake that slumbers in the storm,' patiently heard elaborate argument, carefully examined cited authorities, studied printed briefs, deliberated fully, and, without dissenting voice, sustained the decision of Judge Potter in every detail, and delivered an opinion which proved that an elective judiciary, to its lasting honor, will decide the law undismayed by the fiercest storm that ever burst on an American court."

STEPHEN HOLLISTER POTTER, M. D., 87 died at his residence in Hamilton, Ohio, Dec. 9, 1883, aged seventy-two years. He was born in Cortland County, N. Y., Nov. 10, 1811. His early training was received on the farm, and at the age of twenty-one (1833) he was employed as principal of the high school at Canandaigua. While teaching, he studied medicine, and graduated with honor in 1838 from a medical college in Cincinnati. His first settlement was at Canal Winchester, O., but left that place in 1844, when he returned to Cortland on account of his father having been disabled by the palsy. In 1849, he founded the Syracuse (N. Y.) Medical College and started the "Medical and Surgical Journal," a monthly. In order to improve himself as thoroughly as possible in surgery, in 1852 he attended clinics in the Philadelphia hospital, and surgical lectures in the University of Pennsylvania. He continued dean of the Syracuse college until 1855, when he accepted a position in the American Medical College of Cincinnati, being assigned to the chair of Principles and Practice. In 1856, he resigned his chair, sold his journal, and removed to Hamilton, where at once he took rank as the foremost physician and surgeon in the city, and continued such until his death. Seeing the need of another eclectic college, in 1873 he organized, at St. Louis, Mo., the American Medical College, and started the "American Medical Journal," and held the chair of emeritus Professor of Clinical Medicine until his decease. Originally he was an allopath, but abandoning that system, he entered actively into the reform movement. He was one of the incorporators and the first vice-president of the National Eclectic Medical Society, and for four consecutive years the president of the Ohio State Medical Society, and for nearly twentytwo years president of the Miami Valley Society.

He was an active citizen, serving in the common council of Hamilton, and recently appointed chief health officer.

Hon. Platt Potter²¹⁹ was born in Galway, Saratoga County, N. Y., April 6, 1800. He is, perhaps, the oldest judge and lawyer in the State,—one of those through whom one generation speaks its thoughts, appeals, and sympathies to another.

His father, Restcome Potter, was a native of Massachusetts, but removed to New York early in life. Notwithstanding the non-combatant principles of himself and his ancestors, who were members of the Society of Friends, he engaged, however, in military service during the war with the mother country, under Ethan Allen of Revolutionary fame. Later in life he received a colonel's commission in the militia from Gov. George Clinton, for whom he named one of his sons. He removed to Saratoga County about 1794, and from there to Schenectady about 1806, and followed the occupation of farming. A man of energy and public spirit, he was chosen to fill various official positions, being in turn alderman of the city, justice of the peace, and for sixteen years a judge of the Court of Common Pleas. He was possessed of commanding influence in his day, and died, greatly regretted, in 1853.

The mother of Judge Platt Potter was Lucinda (Strong) Potter, of Litchfield, Conn., who was also descended from patriotic ancestry. During his boyhood, Judge Potter attended the best common schools in the country, and the academy at Schenectady, from which he graduated in 1820, and immediately began the study of law under the direction of Hon. Alonzo C. Paige (afterwards a judge of the Supreme Court). He was admitted to the bar of the Supreme Court in 1824. He entered upon the practice of his profession at Minaville, Montgomery County, and continued there occupied till 1833, when, removing to Schenectady, he entered into a partnership with his former preceptor, A. C. Paige, This connection continued for a period of thirteen years. Upon its dissolution, Judge Potter practised alone for a time, but was subsequently associated in practice with distinguished legal men who have occupied high positions of official honor both in the State and the national government. In the autumn of 1830, Mr. Potter was elected member of the Assembly, from Montgomery County. During this session of the Legislature, a committee, of which Judge Potter was ehairman, was appointed to consider the matter of providing improved accommodations for the insane. He made the report, and introduced the first bill to erect an asylum at Utica for lunatics. He served also during the same period of legislative labor on the Judiciary Committee.

In 1836, he was married to Antoinette, daughter of Rev. Winslow Paige, D. D. From 1839 to 1847, he held the office of district attorney for Schenectady County, and was at the same time master and examiner in chancery, having been appointed to that position in 1828, and continuing to exercise its functions till the abolishment of the Court of Chancery, about 1847. In 1857, he was elected justice of the Supreme Court of New York, running as a candidate against his former partner, Judge A. C. Paige. He was returned with a majority of four hundred and twenty-five, serving during one of the most critical periods of our political history. During this time he served as a judge of the Court of Appeals. He was re-elected, in 1865, to the Supreme Bench of the State, without opposition, both political parties concurring. In the same year, he was elected trustee of Union College, which office he continues to hold, and which institution conferred on him, in 1867, the degree of LL. D.

Always a stanch Republican in political sentiments, his judicial services during the Rebellion and the four years of trying national experience which immediately proceded it were of the utmost value to the government.

Noted for more than usual mental readiness and penetration, and great activity in the performance of every duty, Judge Potter has filled with honor many high official positions in the State. His election to the Supreme Bench of the Commonwealth, and his long continuance as a member of that distinguished body, evince the appreciation in which not only his talents, but his worth, are held by those whose interests have been the object of his judicial care. labors as a legislator showed his large philanthropy and his wise statesmanship. As a jurist, he stands high in the State. His argument before the Assembly upon the case of the "High Breach of Privilege of the Honorable the Assembly of the State of New York, in the matter of the Hon. Henry Ray," member of Assembly from Ontario, exhibits his profound knowledge of the constitutional rights and powers of the judiciary as a co-ordinate branch of the government, the extent of the law of legislative privilege, and those sound principles of law and equity underlying just legislative and judicial action.

This case was, as has well been said, novel and unprecedented: neither in the legislative nor judicial history of New York had any case similar to it been known.

The facts in the case briefly stated are as follows: —

On the 20th of January, 1870, a subpœna requiring one Henry Ray to appear and testify as a witness in a criminal proceeding then pending before the grand jury of Saratoga, Over and Terminer, was issued under the authority of that court, Hon. Platt Potter, one of the justices of the Supreme Court, presiding. The subpæna was duly served on Ray at the city of Albany. He refused to obey its mandates, on the grounds of his privilege as member of Assembly of the State of New York, then in session. The district attorney of Saratoga County then applied to the court for an attachment against Ray for such disobedience. It was granted by the court, and the officer was directed to serve the same by producing the body of Ray before the court. He went to Albany on the morning of the 21st, and arrested Ray at his lodgings. Ray insisted on his privilege, and refused to accompany the officer, who informed him that he should take him by force. Under protest, the gentleman submitted himself to the custody of the officer.

When the arrest of Ray was communicated to the House of Assembly, it created great excitement in that body, and elicited an exciting debate. It was regarded as a question involving a high breach of privilege of the House, and an insult to their dignity. It was finally referred to the Committee on Grievances for grave consideration. This committee was composed of seven of the most experienced members of the House. The Hon. Thomas C. Field was chairman. After thorough inquiry, and a full investigation, the committee presented an elaborate report of the facts and circumstances of the case, - of the effect of the act upon the character and dignity of the House; of encroachments on legislative rights; of the law of parliamentary privileges; and of the danger to the public interests if the precedent coming from such a source should pass without public rebuke. The committee came to the conclusion that the arrest of the Hon. Henry Ray on Jan. 21, 1870, — a member of Assembly from the first district of the county of

Am A. Aller

Army S. Potter

Ontario,—on an attachment issuing out of the Court of Oyer and Terminer, then being held in the county of Saratoga, of which the Hon. Platt Potter was presiding justice, was a high breach of the privileges of this House by the said Potter, and deserves the censure of this House.

The committee, therefore, submitted the following resolution:—

"Resolved, That the Hon. Platt Potter, justice of the Supreme Court of the Fourth Judicial District, be summoned and required to appear before the bar of this House, for a high breach of its privilege in issuing an attachment for the arrest of the Hon. Henry Ray, a member of Assembly of the State of New York from the first district of the county of Ontario; and that the House will then and there take such action as the House in its judgment may see fit."

A similar resolution was passed in relation to the district attorney of Saratoga County, who applied for the attachment againt Ray.

The notice to appear at the bar of the House and answer was served on the judge Feb. 14, 1870, only two days previous to that appointed for the hearing.

At twelve o'clock noon on the 16th of February, Judge Potter appeared at the bar of the Assembly. When the Speaker of the Honse briefly stated to him the charges which he was required to answer, and to state any excuse for his conduct in issuing his attachment against Hon. Henry Ray, a member of the House, Judge Potter, who had appeared with Hon. William A. Beach, his counsel, proposed that that gentleman should answer for him. Mr. Field stated that the presence of counsel in such cases was unusual; whereupon the Speaker declared the judge could not be heard through his counsel. "Then," said Judge Potter, "I will speak for myself."

He then entered on his remarks with the calm confidence of one who can rely upon himself in any emergency. His argument was able, profound, and elaborate. Every authority bearing on the matter in any way, whether English or American, was fully considered and digested. It did not touch upon anything which would excite the fancy, for it contained nothing but logic, learning, and facts. The Assembly, and many senators who were present, and the vast throng of spectators, listened with deep and unwearied attention. All who heard it were lost to everything except the words which fell from the lips of the speaker, standing under such peculiar circumstances. But he had complete mastery of his subject, and his words flowed with intellectual energy. We regret that we have not space to give in detail his remarkably able argument in the great defence of an "independent judiciary." It was rewarded by a great and signal triumph. "Although," said the judge in concluding his argument, "I have appeared here and offered this defence, I do not say that I submit this case to you, though probably that will be the effect of your action, but, sir, I stand here protesting, earnestly protesting, that I am not here in obedience to your power, but am here out of courtesy to an independent department of this government."

At the close of this argument, Thomas C. Field, member from the city of New York, rose and made a motion that Judge Potter withdraw from the House until his case could be disposed of.

The Speaker then informed the honorable gentleman that he could withdraw to the library till this case was decided.

Judge Potter. "I prefer to stay, and unless driven from the House by its power, shall remain."

The Speaker. "The request of the honorable judge will be granted."

Judge Potter. "I have made no request" (taking his seat).

A long and exciting debate followed. Mr. Field offered a resolution that Hon. Platt Potter in issuing the attachment for the arrest of Hon. Henry Ray, member of Assembly from Ontario, was guilty of a high breach of the privileges of this House, and that he be reprimanded by the Speaker in the presence of this House.

This resolution received no support, and was withdrawn; whereupon Mr. Alvord, of Onondaga, offered the following amendment to Mr. Field's resolution:—

"Resolved, That the Hon. Platt Potter was mistaken as to the privilege of this House in the action taken by him in the arrest of Hon. Henry Ray; but this House do not believe that any intention or desire to interfere with the independence or dignity of the House actuated him in the performance of that which he deemed his official duty."

Mr. William D. Murphy offered a substitute for that resolution, to the effect that Judge Potter be discharged from the custody of the House until the hour of twelve o'clock on the first day of March, and that in the mean time the opinion of the attorney-general be communicated as to the term "civil process" in the statutes exempting legislators from arrest. This was lost.

The question was then taken upon the motion of Mr. Alvord, by a vote of 92 to 15, and thus ended the case, a sketch of which is contained in Barber's Reports, Vol. LV., page 625.

Very soon after Judge Potter's discharge he received a large number of letters, "the voluntary offers of the writers, jurists, statesmen, and lawyers, names distinguished in the State and nation." They were written to the judge as the indorsement of the soundness of his argument upon the question of the "independence of the judiciary."

These letters, though not written with the object of publication, have appeared in a pamphlet containing the argument of Judge Potter, published by and at the request of members of the bar, in the counties of Rensselaer, Saratoga, Montgomery, and Schenectady, to which publication Judge Potter consented, inasmuch as numerous and material errors and omissions in the newspaper reports of the argument demanded correction.

Judge Potter's written opinions and judgments exhibit the profound lawyer, the thoughtful, patient, and investigating judge.

He has also attained distinction as a writer. Among his written productions we refer to the following: In 1870, while still on the bench serving as judge, he prepared a work upon the construction and interpretation of American statutes and constitutions. In it he also included, with approval, the law of England, as far as applicable, and as laid down by one Dwarris, a distinguished law writer of that country. This work prepared by Judge Potter is entitled "Potter's Dwarris." It is a work universally approved as authority in all the States of this country.

In 1875, he compiled and greatly enlarged, with later authorities, a treatise on "Equity Jurisprudence," originally prepared by Hon. John Willard. This is known as Potter's edition of that work.

In 1879, he prepared an original work on corporations, in two volumes, entitled "Potter on Corporations." Each of these three works has been recognized in this country as standard authority, and each is now used as a book for study and instruction in the Albany and other law schools.

Judge Potter is distinguished for his domestic and social qualities; his own fireside is to him the dearest place on earth. His conversation is agreeable and instructive. His long and large acquaintance with distinguished men of the past and the present, his reminiscences of their career, give historic interest to his conversation. He possesses the rare faculty of eliciting the strong points in the character of persons with whom he converses.

As years fall upon him they bring no asperities to his disposition, no dimness to the light of his social and mental powers, nor do they detract aught from the suavity of his manners. He is in every sense a Christian gentleman, and has for many years been an elder of the First Presbyterian Church in Schenectady. His piety is with him a deep sentiment; it is warm but not heated, earnest but tranquil, a principle, not an impulse.

That a man like Judge Potter should be held in the highest esteem and affection by his friends and neighbors, is the natural reward of a well-spent life. — L. B. Proctor, Esq., in "History of Albany and Schenectady Counties, New York."

George Clinton Potter. 226 was born at Glenville, N. Y. He was liberally educated, and chose the profession of civil engineer. He went to California with the Argonauts in 1849, and settled in San Francisco, where he followed his profession. He held the office of city surveyor of San Francisco for two terms, from 1862 to 1866, though in the mean time he became interested in Oakland real estate with his brother, Charles Potter, and, on the death of his brother, became sole proprietor of a large tract of land known as the Potter property, on a portion of which is located the post-office building. Mr. Potter spent his summers in Oakland for several years; and, on the expiration of his term of office, in 1866, he went to Oakland to reside permanently.

Henry Sayre Potter ³⁴⁸ was born in Galway, Saratoga County, New York, and was moved with his parents to Seneca Falls, N. Y., in 1801. His father contracted for one hundred and twenty acres of land between Seneca Falls and Cayuga Lake, which had but a small log-house upon it; this probably had been put up by Indians. In 1808, his father, with his family, removed to Canandaigua, and kept a hotel there for two years, and died there in 1810.

After the death of his father, the family moved back upon the lands formerly occupied by them, where, with his brother Charles, they provided necessary fire-wood, took care of the horses, cows, and sheep, and attended school during the winter seasons. In 1812, Mr. Potter was store and chore boy for Ebenezer Hale, of Canandaigua. In 1814, was clerk in Samuel Hildreth's branch store at Williamson, N. Y., remaining there nearly two years. During this time he was intrusted to drive a team to Albany loaded with whiskey, and to return with a load of merchandise, which he did creditably for his age. He also taught school and pursued his studies as opportunity afforded; a clerk at Pittsford, N. Y., 1818 to 1822; a partner with Sylvanus Lathrop for four years successfully; after this, Mr. Potter conducted the business alone till 1846. In 1850 he removed to Rochester and settled in Fitzhugh Street, where he lived during the remainder of his life. Mr. Potter, after removing to Rochester, engaged largely in real estate, farm lands, brokerage in notes, bonds, mortgages, etc. He died Jan. 9, 1884.

Jonathan Potter, ⁴⁸⁷ of Richmond R. I., was commissioned as lieutenant in first company of infantry, town of Richmond, R. I., June 13, 1798; afterward removed to Jefferson County, New York. His son Daniel, No. 506, remained in Jefferson County until his marriage, when he moved to Genesee County, N. Y., 1815, where he lived till he removed to Peru, Indiana, in 1839. Commissioned sergeant major 99th Regiment, N. Y. Militia, Oct. 12, 1818. Commissioned as paymaster, March 17, 1821; adjutant, Aug. 28, 1825; lieutenant-colonel, Aug. 11, 1828; and colonel, Jan. 20, 1830, of the same regiment, the 99th N. Y. Militia. Elected associate judge for the county of Miami, Indiana, in 1847, which position he held until his death.

WILLIAM WARREN POTTER, M. D., 518 of Buffalo, N. Y., was born in Strykersville, Genesee (now Wyoming) County, N. Y., Dec. 31, 1837. His father, Dr. Lindorf Potter, 508 a native of the town of Sheldon, Genesee (Wyoming) County, was a son of Dr. Benjamin Potter.⁵⁰² The latter married Phebe, daughter of Dr. Eastman, of Rhode Island, and came hence to Western New York in 1808, and was, therefore, one of the earliest physicians in the Holland purchase. Of four sons, two (Lindorf'508 and Milton E.511) became physicians, and settled in the same county of their birth, where they became distinguished in their profession. Dr. Lindorf Potter, father of the subject of this sketch, married Mary G., daughter of the Rev. Abijah Blanchard, D. D., a prominent clergyman of the Episcopal Church, Feb. 12, 1837, and settled in Strykersville, N. Y. He removed to Warsaw in 1842: thence to Varysburgh, in 1844, where he practised medicine until his death, which occurred March 27, 1857.

Dr. Milton E. Potter,⁵¹¹ uncle of William W., settled in Bennington Center, whence he removed to Cowlesville, and thence to Attica, N. Y., where he died in 1875, in the ripeness of years and the full enjoyment of a busy practice up to the last days of his life. He was the father of Dr. Milton Grosvenor Potter,⁵³¹ late Professor of Anatomy in the Buffalo Medical College, who died in Buffalo, Jan. 28, 1878.

The early life of William W. Potter was passed in the vicinity of his birth, and his lay education was received in private schools, at Arcade Seminary, and at Genesee Seminary and College at Lima, N. Y. He came to Buffalo in 1854, receiving his medical education at Buffalo Medical College, where he graduated Feb. 23, 1859. Upon the breaking out of the Civil War he made haste to offer his services in a professional capacity to the government, and passed the examination of the Army Medical Examining Board at Albany, N. Y., April 25, 1861.

On Dec. 16, 1862, just after the battle of Fredericksburg, he was promoted surgeon of the Fifty-seventh Regiment New York Volunteers, in Hancock's division of the Second Corps. He served with his regiment during the Chancellors-ville and Gettysburg campaigns; and, in August, 1863, was assigned to the charge of the First Division hospital, Second Corps, continuing upon that duty until his muster out of service with his regiment near the close of the war. He was brevetted lieutenant-colonel United States Volunteers for faithful and meritorious service, by the President of the United States, and of New York Volunteers by the governor of the State of New York, for like reasons.

He is a curator of the Medical Department of the University of Buffalo; permanent member of the American Medical Association (1878); permanent member of the Medical Society of the State of New York (1883); member of the Erie County Medical Society; member of the Buffalo Medical and Surgical Association; member of the Buffalo Medical Union; president of the Buffalo Obstetrical Society (1884); and life member of Alumni Association of Buffalo Medical College.

SAMUEL POTTER⁹⁷¹ was born in New Bedford, Mass., and was a lieutenant of minute-men in the early wars of the settlers against the Indians. He with his brothers enlisted in the Revolutionary Army the day General Washington took command at Cambridge. He rose to the rank of sergeant in the army, and was sergeant of the guard at Washington, headquarters at Newburg, during the famous winter when Washington and other generals made it their home.

Gen. Joseph Adams Potter⁹⁸⁸, brevet brigadier-general United States Army, was born in the village of Potter's Hollow, Albany County, New York. His father, Resolved Howland Potter, 976 was born in New Bedford, Mass., and moved with his father to Albany County, N. Y., when a lad. He was the first and only merchant in Potter's Hollow for nearly thirty years. He also served in the War of General Potter, after his school days and a few years spent in expeditions in Michigan and the West, was appointed to West Point in 1836. This he declined, and was then appointed civil engineer, attached to the War Department, and as such was sent to superintend the repairs at Grand River Harbor, Ohio, in 1837. From 1837 to 1861 was in the service, building harbors, light-houses, and on the surveys of the Northwest lakes, until the beginning of the war of the Rebellion, when he was appointed a captain in the quartermaster's department of the Regular Army.

was made a colonel by act of Congress, July 4, 1864, brevetted through all the grades to brigadier-general United States Army in 1865. During the war, while in Chicago, Ill., he made several applications to go to the front, having been offered command of two different regiments raised in Chicago. He was refused on the ground that his services were too valuable in his own department.

His military career was without a blemish. His commissions all read "for faithful and meritorious conduct." He served in Texas, New Mexico, and nearly all the States, and was retired by age in 1879, after a five-years' term in New Orleans, La. He died April 21, 1888, at Painesville, Ohio.

PHILIP POTTER¹⁰⁵¹ was born in Portsmouth, or Providence, R. I. After his marriage in Providence to Anna Hart, he removed to Galway, Saratoga County, N. Y. In 1812, he removed to Williamson, now Marion, Wayne County, N. Y., purchasing a farm of one hundred and twenty-five acres, about two and one half miles northwest of Marion village, and lived there until his death.

HIRAM POTTER. 1100 His parents were originally from Dartmouth, Mass., and moved to New York State the latter part of the eighteenth century. He married Sally Ann, a daughter of Captain Ephraim Clark, a native of Edgartown, Mass., and removed to Stenben County, where he was sheriff for several years. In 1840, he removed with his family to Bath, the county seat, so as to be able more conveniently to perform the duties pertaining to his office. After the close of his term of office he resided at Bath; but finally removed to Cooper's Plains, in the same county, where he died in 1872.

Rev. Daniel S. C. M. Potter, D. D., 1190 a clergyman in the Protestant Episcopal Church, was prepared for college at Manlius Academy, Onondaga County, N. Y., from 1839 to 1841; was for a period in Hamilton College, and graduated at Norwich University, Vt., in 1845. He had charge of Highland Literary Institute, Mt. Sterling, Ky., for several years; afterward graduated at Meadville Theological School, in 1858; and from that time resided in Massachusetts, laboring in the ministry, having a private school a portion of the time, principal of a high school for three years; still belongs to the diocese of Massachusetts, though spending a part of each year in Kentucky and the West.

WARREN BAILEY POTTER, 1270 second son of Jonathan and Cynthia H. Potter, was born in Westport, Mass., Nov. 4, 1821.

The family took up their residence in New Bedford, Mass., in 1824, where the subject of this sketch resided until his fifteenth year, obtaining his education in the public schools. At fifteen years of age he was engaged to Joseph Balch, druggist, Providence, R. I., then a leading man in his business, and served two years, removing to New Bedford and becoming engaged to Drs. Stone and Mackie, where he followed the drug business for three years more, perfecting himself thoroughly in all its branches. At this period, whaling was at its height, and it proved an attraction few active young men could resist. Mr. Potter shipped on the bark "Peri" for a cruise in the Indian Ocean, and made a second voyage on the northwest coast in the ship "South America." On his return to New Bedford, Mr. Potter re-entered the drug business as proprietor, in which he secured a speedy and pronounced success. In 1851, in conjunction with Andrew G. Weeks, he established in Boston, at 154 Washington Street, the firm of Weeks & Potter, wholesale druggists, which firm is still in existence, having enjoyed thirty-seven years of great prosperity and marked influence in the trade. This firm was completely burned out in 1864 and 1872, and partially in 1879.

Mr. Potter founded the Potter Drug and Chemical Company, Jan. 1, 1883, which is well known throughout the United States and through most countries of the world.

Isaac Potter ¹⁶¹² was born July 22, 1798, in Saratoga County, New York. The most of his life has been spent in Erie County, of which his father, Nathaniel Potter, was an early settler. His father was a member of the Society of Friends and a pioneer in the anti-slavery cause. He held various offices in the town and county for thirty-five years.

Sanford W. Huff, M. D., 1631 graduated from the medical department of the University of Buffalo, 1851, practised medicine in Buffalo for a time, then removed to North Evans, N. Y. In 1857 moved to Iowa City, Iowa, and practised in his profession until 1862, when he accepted the position of surgeon in the Twelfth Iowa Infantry, in which he retained medical command until the regiment was mustered out, nearly four years later.

WILLIAM POTTER, 1963 an active farmer in Dartmouth, Mass., through his life, intelligent and esteemed, a worthy member of the Society of Friends, and for many years holding some town office, generally that of assessor. He died at eighty-seven, in the house where his children were all born. All his children who grew to maturity, — seven; besides the education which the district school afforded (then better

NICHOLAS POTTER, OF LYNN, MASS., AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

NICHOLAS POTTER,1 of Lynn, Mass., "was a mason, and had sixty acres of land. He appears to have become much interested in the iron works after their establishment, but removed to Salem in 1660. He was married three times, his third wife being a daughter of John Gedney, Esq., of Salem. He made a will, Oct. 10, 1677, appointing his fatherin law sole executor. . . . Eight days after the date of his will he died. The inventory of his estate gives in amount £206 11s. In 1646, he was licensed by the court of Lynn to 'draw wine.' Joseph Armitage petitioned the court to license 'to draw wine' whoever the town should choose for that purpose. The court allowed the choice to be made, and provided that the one chosen might act till the next sitting, at which he might be presented for confirmation. Nicholas Potter was chosen, and, at the next court, duly licensed."— From Annals of Lynn, Mass.

THEOPHILUS POTTER,⁴⁶ a fariner, and the first of the name Potter who lived in Brookfield, Mass. He bought the land and built the house, where he lived many years until his death. The place was afterwards owned and occupied by his son Luke Potter,¹¹¹ who sold it to Kittridge Hill.

ABIJAH POTTER 106 was born in January, 1760; lived on the old homestead in Brookfield, Mass., until of age, except a short enlistment in the militia at Rhode Island in Captain Joseph McNall's company, Lieutenant-Colonel Sam Pierce, one month and eleven days, from May 26, 1777. After he was of age, in Jan. 7, 1781, he enlisted in the Continental Army for three years, under Captain Haskell, Fourth Massachusetts Regiment, commanded by Colonel Wm. Shepard. At West Point, N. Y., he was transferred to Captain Trotter's company in Colonel Rufus Putnam's Fifth Massachusetts Regiment, and in July, 1783, was again transferred to the company of Captain Remick, in Colonel Joseph Vose's First Massachusetts Regiment, and was discharged as sergeant, Oct. 11, 1783, on account of wounds and disability arising from his service, and afterwards received a pension to his death. After his discharge from the Continental Army, Oct. 11, 1783, he returned to Brookfield, Mass., and married Mary Tower (sometimes called Polly), from Rutland, near Brookfield, Mass. He afterwards moved to Wales, about twenty miles from Brookfield, where he lived until 1805, when he moved to Piercy, Coos County, N. H., where he died July 17, 1842.

John Edwin Potter, 389 of Great Barrington, Mass., born July 5, 1832, died November 20, 1883, "was a veteran of the late war, was first lieutenant of a company in the 71st Regiment, W. G. S. Volunteers, one of the regiments of General Sickles's distinguished 'Excelsior' or 'fighting' brigade, and was present and commanded his company at the battle of Williamsburg, in May, 1862; the battle of Williamsburg Pike, June 25, 1862; the battles of Glendale and Malvern Hill, June 30 and July 1, 1862; and the battle of Bristoe Station, Aug. 27, 1862. He was several times placed in command of the brigade supply and ammunition trains, and many times commended by his superior officers for his energy and zeal. On one occasion General Hooker personally complimented him for bringing in his train in advance of all the others of the division."— From the Berkshire Courier, Great Barrington, Mass., Nov. 28, 1883.

LUTHER POLAND, 402 who died at Montpelier, Vt., June 16, 1880, in the ninety-first year of his age, was the last of a family of seven brothers and sisters. Luther Poland was born in North Brookfield, Mass., March 11, 1790. His father, Joseph Poland, was born in that part of Ipswich, Mass., now known as Hamilton, and which had been the home of the Polands from the early settlement of Massachusetts. Luther Poland married Nancy Potter, of North Brookfield, Feb. 26, 1813. In the fall of 1814, with his wife and child, he removed from Massachusetts to Chittenden County, Vt., where he lived - mostly in the town of Underhill - until the spring of 1821, when he again removed to what was then called "Coit's Gore," but is to-day the town of Waterville, Lamoille County, Vermont. There he resided until 1843, when he became a resident of Morristown, in the same county. Thence he removed to Montpelier in 1850. His first wife died in 1841; his second, née Martha Read, of Rutland, Mass., whom he married in 1842, in Luther Poland was an unusually intelligent and public-spirited citizen. Prior to any legal provision for the support of schools in his town, he and a few others who shared his spirit built a school-house by voluntary subscription, and maintained schools fully equal in working value to those of organized towns. About 1825, he assisted in the establishment of a Congregational church, of which he was made a deacon, and continued to hold the office until he removed from town. He was also the first representative of the town of Waterville in the State Legislature, was once or twice elected to the same office in later years, and was active and useful in the management of town affairs generally. For twenty years or more he officiated as justice of the peace, and his account of some of the many marriages performed under his administration would furnish an amusing chapter for society of the present day. He was a great reader, and possessed of wide and accurate information; and though exceptionally modest and retiring, in all official positions he was a faithful and capable incumbent. As a Christian he was active and sincere, yet without ostentation or bigotry, while as a citizen he cheerfully and even generously assumed his full share of the public burdens.

LUKE POTTER, 406 who was born in Brookfield, Mass., Aug. 24, 1804, settled first in Richford, Vt., and in 1836 removed to Waterville, Vt. In 1851, he sold his farm there and bought four hundred acres of land in the township of Bury, Province of Quebec, from the British American Land Company, and lived upon this tract the remainder of his life.

Hon. Luke Potter Poland, "Luke Potter Poland, the eldest son of Luther and Nancy (Potter) Poland, was born at Westford, Vt., Nov. 1, 1815, and died at Waterville, Vt., July 2, 1887. His early advantages were quite limited, including only a common school education until twelve years old, when he entered a country store at Waterville for two years. Here he learned to write a good hand. keep accounts, and transact ordinary business. The three following years he spent with his father on the farm and in running a saw-mill. This latter fact gave the judge an opportunity to facetiously remark in after life that he was 'educated in a saw-mill.' At the end of three years, having exchanged boards for enough cloth to make necessary clothing, he attended Jericho Academy for five months. This completed his school advantages but not his education. His active, retentive mind had received training and development from many sources: from the farm, the shop, the store, the saw-mill, the public school, the academy, and the few books to be obtained in the neighborhood, which were eagerly sought, and their contents mastered. He had now become confident of an ability to open and serve in a wider field of labor than the few paternal acres. With his father's approval, he went on foot to Morrisville to teach the winter school. He proved a successful teacher, and was engaged for the second winter. He was physically, as well as mentally, strong and well developed. Of a combative, investigating turn of mind, he naturally turned his attention to the study and practice of the law as a profession. He entered upon its study at the close of his first school, in the office of Judge Samuel A. Willard, at Morrisville. Here he continued to exhibit the same habits of industry and perseverance. He made such proficiency in the study of the law, that at the December term, 1836, of the Lamoille County court, the first term after the organization of the county, when only twenty-one years old, he was admitted to the bar. He remained at Morrisville practising his chosen profession until he was elected judge of the Supreme Court. In 1848, a Free-Soil Democrat, he was elected judge of the Supreme Court over a Whig competitor, by a Whig Legislature. He subsequently received seventeen successive elections by viva-voce vote. He was elected chief justice in 1860, and held the office until he resigned in 1865, to accept the appointment to the United States Senate, in the place of Judge Collamer, deceased. By intuition, apparently, but really by close and vigorous application, he mastered the broader principles of the law. He was greatly aided in applying them by the knowledge of common affairs early gained, and by his broad, discriminating common-sense. He was quick to discern the controlling element in the facts of a case, which made a principle applicable or inapplicable. Clear in comprehension, he stated his views forcibly and with remarkable clearness. His plain, pointed, discriminating charges were so helpful that the jury rarely disagreed. His presence was fine, his bearing courtly, his self-command great. He had, withal, enough of the natural schoolmaster to command and maintain the best of order, even in the heat of conflict.

"Hon. James Barrett, many years Judge Poland's associate at the bar and upon the bench, writes concerning him: 'In thirty years' conversancy with the bench and bar of Vermont, it has not been my fortune to know any other instance in which the presiding judge in his nisi prius circuit has been so uniformly, and by the spontaneous acquiescence of the bar, so emphatically "the end of the law" in all things appertaining to the business of these courts. judge in the Supreme Court sitting in banc, his adaptedness to the place was equally manifest. His mastery of the principles of the law, his discriminating apprehension of the principles involved in the specific case in hand, his facility in developing by logical process and practical illustrations the proper applications and results of these principles, are very strikingly carried in the judicial opinions drawn up by him, contained in the Vermont reports. His memory of cases in which particular points have been decided is extraordinary, and his memory is accompanied by a very full and accurate apprehension of the very points and grounds and reasons of the judgment. Some of the cases in which he drew the opinion of the court stand forth as leading cases, and his treatment of the subject involved ranks with the best specimens of judicial disquisition.

"In his early career he was somewhat active and influential in politics. He was first a Democrat; later he belonged to the Free-Soil wing of that party, and was their candidate for lieutenant-governor in 1848. On being elected to the bench he withdrew from active participation in politics, yet in his principles was loyal to the principles of free soil and free men. He became identified with the Republican party upon its formation, and has ever remained devoted to the principles in support of which the party was called into existence. In the discharge of his duties as senator, he displayed the eminent ability, sound judgment, and fearless advocacy of what he deemed right, which had marked his earlier course and inspired the confidence of his associates. As a member of the Judiciary Committee, the bankrupt bill, which had passed the House, was intrusted to his care. The committee were about equally divided upon the expediency of the measure. His skilful management and large personal influence secured its passage. But the measure for which he is entitled to the greatest credit, having been its originator and had its supervision to completion, is the revision of the United States laws. These laws, enacted, modified, and repealed, session after session, by Congress, for nearly one hundred years, had remained without revision or consolidation. On many subjects it was difficult to ascertain what the statute law was. The magnitude and importance of this work, and his connection with it, cannot better be stated than was done by the Hon. Loren Blodgett, in an address delivered before the Social Science Association, at Philadelphia, in 1875, as follows: —

Luke P. Poland

"'Early in the first session of the Thirty-ninth Congress, 1865-66, Hon. Luke P. Poland, the senator for Vermont, and a member of the Judiciary Committee of that body, introduced a bill for the revision and consolidation of the statutes of the United States, which was passed by the Senate, April 9, 1866, by the House of Representatives soon after, and became a law June 27 following, substantially without amendment, in the form originally given it by Judge Poland. . . . This singularly clear and comprehensive plan was adhered to with almost literal faithfulness to the end, —the term of labor required proving much greater than was expected, —but in all other respects the foresight of Judge Poland was clearly shown and abundantly vindicated.'

"While engaged in this very difficult and laborious task, Judge Poland was also conducting investigations of the most voluminous and laborious character. He was chairman of the committee raised to investigate the ku-klux-klan outrages. The evidence presented filled thirteen large printed volumes. The exposure made practically broke up the organization, and was of inestimable value to the nation. He was also chairman of the important committee appointed to investigate the transactions of the Crédit Mobilier Company. This investigation occupied several months, and the unanimous report created much excitement in political and social circles. It was sustained, and in effect relegated several prominent members of Congress, of Judge Poland's party, to private live.

"During the reconstruction period, Judge Poland was also conspicuous. He was chairman of a special committee raised to investigate the state of affairs in Arkansas. He supported the majority report of the committee in a very able speech. After a sharp fight, the report was sustained by a majority of seventy, a result which created no little surprise, as the fight had been very vigorous, and it was known that the result would be unpalatable to the executive.

"He took a prominent part in the discussion of the question of the proper distribution of the fund received under the Geneva award. He maintained the right of insurance companies to the money received for vessels and cargoes destroyed by rebel cruisers, whose owners had received payment from the insurers. In these ten years of his congressional life, no other member of either branch of Congress was so intimately identified with so many important measures.

"For twenty-two years from its organization he was president of the First National Bank, and during almost his entire public and judicial life he has been a resident of this town. In 1878, he represented St. Johnsbury in the Legislature, and was chairman of the Judiciary Committee. He also represented Waterville last year, and was again chairman of the same committee and leader of the House, as he always was leader in whatever position he was placed."— From the St. Johnsbury Caledonian, at the time of Judge Poland's death.

Hon. Joseph Poland, 410 of Montpelier, Vt., spent his boyhood upon the paternal farm, receiving such an educa tion as was afforded by the common schools and academies of that day. In 1835, he entered the office of the Vermont Watchman at Montpelier. Jan. 1, 1839, he began the publication, at Montpelier, of the Voice of Freedom, the first distinctive anti-slavery periodical of the State; but in less than a year was compelled to dispose of the property on account of impaired health. With recuperated strength, in June, 1840, on the opening of the ever-memorable Harrison campaign, he established the Lamoille Whig at Johnson, and continued its publication for three years. The hotly contested canvass of 1840, largely through the instrumentality of the newly established Whiq, resulted in permanently overcoming the Democratic majority in that county, which for many years had been so overwhelming as to have earned for the county the political sobriquet of "Spunky Lamoille." During his residence in Johnson, Mr. Poland served a term as assistant clerk in the popular branch of the State Legislature.

In 1852-53, Mr. Poland officiated as judge of probate for Washington County. In 1858-60, he held the position of State senator, serving in 1858 on the Committees of Finance and Printing, and in 1859 as chairman of the two important Committees of Finance and Joint Committee on Rules. In 1849, he was chosen secretary and director of the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company, which offices he has held since the organization of the company, and to them he has been annually elected by unanimous votes. He is the only one now living who has held office in the company continuously since its organization. In 1870-71, Mr. Poland represented the town of Montpelier in the State Legislature, serving as chairman of the Committee on Banks and as a member of the Joint Committee on Rules. From 1861 to 1868, he held, under a commission from President Lincoln, the office of collector of internal revenue for the First Congressional District of Vermont; and though more than a million of dollars of internal revenue taxes and commutation money paid by drafted soldiers passed through his hands, all was done to the satisfaction of the government and of individuals, and his office ever bore the enviable classification of "Number One." In the fall of 1861, soon after the outbreak of the great Rebellion, he was appointed financial agent by Governor Fairbanks, his duty being to visit the Vermont troops, wherever stationed, on pay day, and receive and transmit to their families, the State treasury, or any other assignee, as they might elect, any money they could spare from their pay. The object was to foster economy and sobriety among the soldiers, and save the State expense in the support of soldiers' families. Before this agency had been in operation a year, Congress embodied the same idea in a law establishing the allotment system, under the provisions of which President Lincoln appointed three commissioners for the State, Mr. Poland being chairman, who visited all the Vermont regiments and made up what served as allotment rolls until the close of the war.

In March, 1868, Mr. Poland, in connection with his son, J. Monroe, purchased the Montpelier Watchman and Journal, and conducted it until his final retirement from editorial labor in March, 1882.

- 1 The figures to the left of the lines indicate the pages on which the descendants are recorded.
- 2 The names of the children of each family.
- 3 Numbers for reference to each name.
- 4 Places and dates of births.
- ⁵ Dates of deaths.
- 6 Dates of marriages.
- 7 To whom married.
- $^{8}\,$ The year before the short dash is the year of birth; the year after, that of death.
- 9 The numbers at the ends of the lines, indicating heads of families, refer to their direct ancestry family.

PART 10. — ROB	BERT POTTER, OF V	VARWICK, R.	I., AND HIS	DESCENDANTS	S. — PART 10.

PART 10.

ROBERT POTTER, OF WARWICK, R. I., AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

ROBERT POTTER1 came from Coventry, in England, in 1634, and was made a freeman of the Massachusetts Plantation, Sept. 3, 1634. He is mentioned first as being a farmer at Lynn, Mass., and as removing, probably to Roxbury, soon after being made a freeman of the Colony. The records mention his first trouble with his church at Roxbury, which finally resulted in the necessity of his leaving the Colony, which he did, and settled in Portsmouth, R. I. "General court of Newton, Mass., 12th day July, 1637. Robert Potter appearing, liberty granted till next court in the beginning of the third month called May, being bound in £20 to appear then, and referred the meane time to the church of Roxbury, 2d day of 3d mo., 1638, Robert Potter appearing was enjoyned to appear at the next session of the court, unless hee bee with his family removed out of the Plantation before."

At this time Robert Potter had become a follower and friend of Samuel Gorton, the great religious disturber, and they, together with their associates, purchased the tract of land called the Shawomett Purchase, in Rhode Island, but afterwards named by them "Warwick," in honor of the Earl of Warwick, who had so much befriended them in their troubles with the Plantation of Massachusetts. "Samuel Gorton, the great religious disturber, came from Groton, England, where his family had been many generations. He was born about 1600, came to America before 1638, Plymouth, Mass., thence to Rhode Island, and was admitted an inhabitant June 27, 1638."

In 1638, Robert Potter appeared again before the court, was also admitted an inhabitant of the island of Aquidneck, R. I., the same year. In 1639, April 30, he and twenty-eight others signed the following compact: "We whose names are underwritten do acknowledge ourselves the legal subjects of his Majesty King Charles, and in his name do hereby bind ourselves into a civil body politicke, unto his laws according to matters of justice."

Gorton, Potter, and their associates seem to have been religious agitators. They agreed with the sect of Quakers in the rejection of church ordinances and in some few other points; they, however, differed from them in many points deemed the most essential. From the records it appears that they did not get on peaceably at Portsmouth. In the following proceedings of the Colony of Rhode Island, March 16, 1642, "It is ordered that Robert Potter, Richard Carden, Randall Houlden, and Sampson Shotton be disfranchised of the privileges and prerogatives belonging to the body of this State, and their names cancelled from the records." On the day following this it was ordered by the colony of Rhode Island, "That if Robert Potter, John Wickes, Randall Houlden, Richard Carden, or Sampson Shotton shall come upon this island armed, they shall be, by the constable, calling to himself sufficient aid, disarmed and carried before the magistrate, and there find sureties for their good behavior; and further be it established, and if that course shall not regulate them or any of them, then a further due and lawful course of law already begun with John Wickes."

The records do not mention the charges against these persons; it is inferred that they were of a religious nature.

In 1642, Robert Potter sold his house and land in Portsmouth to his brother-in-law, John Anthony.

Deed from the Sachem Myantonomy to Samuel Gorton, Robert Potter, and others of Shawomett (now Warwick), Jau. 12, 1642:—

"Know all men; that I Myantonomy, chiefe sachem of the Nanheygansett, have sould unto the persons here named, one parsell of lands with all the rights and privileges thereoff whatever, lyinge uppon the west syde of that part of the sea called Sowhomes Bay, from Copassanatuxet, over against a little Island in the sayd Bay, being the north bounds, and the outmost point of that neck of land called Shawomett; beinge the south bounds from the sea shoare of each boundary uppon a straight lyne westward twentie miles. I say I have truly sould this parsell of lands above sayde, the proportion whereof is according to the mapp under written or drawne, being the forme of it to Randall Holden, John Greene, John Wickes, Francis Weston, Samuel Gorton, Richard Waterman, John Warner, Richard Carder, Sampson Shotton, Robert Potter, and William Waddall for one hundred and fortie-foure ffathom of Wampumpeage, I say I I have sould it, and possession of it given unto the men above sayed, with the ffree and joynt concent of the present inhabitants, being natives, as it appears by their hands hereunto annexed.

"Dated ye twelfth day of January, 1642.

"Beinge enacted uppon the above sayed parsell of land in the presence off"

"In 1643, Robert Potter, with others of the Shawhomett purchasers, was notified to appear at the General Court, at Boston, to hear complaint of Pomham and Socconocco, as to 'some unjust and injurious dealing toward them by yourselves.' This summons they declined to obey, declaring that they were legal subjects of the king of England, and beyond the limits of Massachusetts territory, to whom they would acknowledge no subjection. Captain Cook, with a company of soldiers, was sent from Boston, who besieged the settlers in a fortified house. In a parley it was now said 'that they held blasphemous errors which they must repent of,' or go to Boston for trial. They were soon all carried to Boston, excepting Shotton. Seven of them were sentenced to be confined to different towns, viz., Gorton, Wickes, Holden, Potter, Carder, Weston, and Warner. At the time of their capture, their wives and children were forced to betake themselves to the woods, and suffered hardships that resulted in the death of three women at least, one of these being the wife of Robert Potter."

The sentence passed upon the settlers at their trial, taken from the records, was as follows:—

"It is ordered that Samuel Gorton shall be confined to Charlestown, there to be set on work, and to wear such bolts or irons, as may hinder his escape; and to continue during the pleasure of the court; provided that if he shall break his said confinement, or shall in the meane time, either by speech or writing, publish or declare, or maintain, any of the blasphemous or abominable heresies, whereunto he hath been charged by the General Court, contained in either of the two books sent unto us by him, or Randall Houlden, or shall reproach or reprove the churches of our Lord Jesus Christ, in these United Colonies; or the civil government, or the public ordinances of God therein; (unless it be by answer to some question propounded to him, or conference with any elder, or with any other, licensed to speak with him privately, under the hand of one of the assistants;) that immediately upon accusation of any such writing or speech, he shall by such assistant to whom such accusation shall be brought, be committed to prison, till the next court of assistants, then and there to be tried by a jury, whether he hath so spoken or written, and upon his conviction thereof, shall be condemned to death and executed, dated 3 day of 9th Mo. 1643."

"Robert Potter, John Wickes, Randall Houlden, Richard Carder, Francis Weston, and John Warner are confined on the same conditions, Robert Potter to Rowley, John Wickes to Ipswich, Randall Houlden to Salem, Richard Carder to Roxbury, Francis Weston to Dorchester, and John Warner to Boston, all these on the same conditions that Samuel Gaston above named is, etc."

"In these hostile aggressions by the government of Massachusetts it was not without hesitation that even their lives were spared. This cruell punishment created much sympathy for them and occasioned a good deal of murmering among the inhabitants in whom the love of liberty was deeply seated until they were again banished or released in 1644."

Samuel Gorton and some of his associates then went to England and presented to the Commissioners of Foreign Plantations, appointed by Parliament, a memorial against the Colony of Massachusetts for their violent and unjust expulsion of themselves and their companions from "Shawomett," and in 1646 an order was promulgated, reinstating them in their possession of Shawomett, and forbidding the Massachusetts Colony from molesting them in their peaceful possession. This seems to have secured peace to the settlement, and absolute possession of the lands mentioned as purchase from the Sachem Myantomony, excepting that the Sachem Punnham in 1665 received a payment, as appears in the following, taken from the colonial record:—

"This is to testify that upon the 3^d day of January, 1665, Mr. Samuel Gorton, Jr., Capt. John Green, Mr. Walter Todd and Mr. John Potter (son of Robert Potter) of the town of Warwick, did deliver to Punnham the summe of ten pounds in peag at eight a penny, in behalfe of themselves and the rest of the purchasers, according to the terme of that which is within written.

"Witnessed by us. EDWARD MARSHALL & OTHERS."

In 1643, the same year that he was arrested and tried in Boston, he was also excommunicated from his church, as appears in the records of the First Church of Roxbury by Rev. John Eliot:—

"Robert Potter was excommunicate, his sins w^r first in the tims of M^{rs} Hutchinson, wⁿ divers of o^r church w^s seduced to familesme and seizme, he was of theire side and company and so fild wth them as y^t he departed to the Ila^d rath^r then would forsake them, & being there he refused to heare the church who had lovingly sent after him; secondly for that he was now tossed wth oth^r winds of new doctrine forsaking the Iland & joyning wth Gorton and y^t not only in his heresys but also in his heretical blaspheamous & ret'chfull writings and publicly owned them in court and made himself guilty of all these wicked ways."

There is no record of the exact date of Robert Potter's coming to this country, or the ship in which he was a passenger, excepting that he was a passenger with the Rev. Nathaniel Ward, afterwards a minister of Ipswich, Mass., who left a writing of his visiting Robert Potter in prison, which is to be found in Edward Winslow's "Hypocrasie Unmasked," pages 76, 77. Rev. Nathaniel Ward is supposed to have sailed from England in April, 1634. "This I remember that one Robert Potter who went in the same ship with mee into New England, and expressing by the way so much honesty and godlinesse as gained my good opinion and affection towards him; I hearing that hee was affected with Samuel Gorton's blasphemous conceits and carriages, and therefore now imprisoned with him. [Note. - Robert Potter was ordered to be confined in Rowley (Massachusetts Colony Records, Vol. II., page 52); but this conversation seems to have been held while the prisoners were at Boston.] I went to visit him, and having free speech with him in the open prison yard, who shedding many tears might happily move me to express my affection to him which Samuel Gorton calls passion. After some debate about his new opinions, I remember I used a speech to him to this effect; that hee should doe well and wisely to make such acknowledgement of his errors as his conscience would permit; telling him that Mr. Cotton whom he had so much reverenced in Old England an New had given him a godly example in that kinde by a publique acknowledgement upon a solemn fast day, with many teares, that in the time when errours were so stirring, God leaving him for a time, he fell into a spiritual slumber; and had it not been for the watchfulnesse of his brethern the elders, etc., hee might have slept on; and blessed God very cordially for awakening him, and was thankful to his brethern for their watchfulnesse over him and faithfulnesse towards him, whence he honored God not a little, and rejoyed the hearts of his hearers; and therefore it would be no shame for him to doe the like.

"Concerning Mr. Cotton, were I worthy, I would presume to speak that now of him, which I have said more then many times of him elsewhere, that I hold him such an eminent worthy of Christ, as very few others have attained unto him; and that I hold myselfe not worthy to wipe his slippers for matters of grace, learning and industry in the work of God.

"For the author Samuel Gorton, myself farre more judicious, take him to bee a man whose spirit is starke drunke with blasphemies and insolencies, a corrupter of the Truth, and a disturber of the Peace where ever hee comes;

"I intreat him to read Titus, 1-13 with an humble heart, and that is the greatest harm I wish him.

N. W."

The notes herewith appended respecting Robert Potter are from "Austin's Genealogical Dictionary of Rhode Island":—

"1649. He was licensed to keep an inn.

"1651. Commissioner.

"May 25, 1655. He was appointed by the Conrt of Commissioners to keep a house of entertainment. A convenient sign was to be set out at the most perspicuous place of said house to give notice to strangers.

"May 14, 1656. Inventory, £42 10s., in cattle and movable goods, besides housing and land. It was ordered that John Potter, son of Robert Potter, late deceased, be maintained in apparel four years. Estate indebted £29 12s., and other uncertain debts not yet brought in. Engaged to wife of Captain Lawton, for £20, borrowed of Captain Lawton in his life time in the year 1646, which is not yet paid, with use annexed for ten years' time.

"Jun. 11, 1656. The town council found not enough estate to discharge debts without sale of land, and ordered Mr. Holden and Mr. Holliman to sell the house and land and give a just account. The council gives to Sarah Potter, wife of late deceased Robert, the household goods, cattle, and hogs to dispose of. Whereas, Sarah Potter, wife of Robert, late deceased intestate, without administration from council seized upon house and turned out the tenant set in by them, and also sold and disposed of goods and received some debts, wherefore the council consider she is engaged as administratrix.

"Aug. 26, 1658. The council met concerning debts of Mr. Robert Potter's estate. Mr. Throckmorton was allowed to hold remainder of his goods provided he send for it, being evident they were not sold, but left to be sold by him. Ordered that James Green, for what moneys he hath or may disburse upon John Potter for clothing of him, shall either have so much time in the house and land, or so much rent as it shall be let for. He was also allowed to sell a parcel of land belonging to house of Mr. Robert Potter, deceased, situated on other side of the street.

"Feb. 6, 1660. Testimony was given by John Tripp, Sr., of Portsmouth, that he heard his uncle Robert Potter say he had sold certain land to John Anthony.

"Dec. 22, 1662. Testimony of John Briggs, of Portsmouth, that he heard Robert Potter say a little before his death (at the house of Robert Potter, at Warwick, in company of John Tripp), that he had sold his brother his house and land in Portsmouth.

"Dec. 29, 1662. On the above testimony, and the agreement of Robert Potter's son John to confirm when he came of age, the commissioners confirmed house and land to John Anthony, the property having been sold by Robert Potter to John Anthony, about twenty years since.

"Mar. 16, 1686. Will, proved May 4, 1686. Widow Sarah Sanford, of Boston. Executors, William and John Mason, Jr. To daughters of brother Robert Sanford and sister Mary Turner, £10, divided equally. To the children of John Potter, Elizabeth Potter, and Deliverance Potter, £10 equally divided. To executors rest of estate."

John Potter 6 was enrolled a freeman 1660. He married first Ruth Fisher, and after her death he married in 1684 the Widow Sarah Collins. He was married by Mayor John Greene, who was afterwards the deputy governor.

"Feb. 6, 1660. He testified that in his conscience he did believe his father sold a certain house, etc., in Portsmouth, to my uncle John Anthony, and engages that when he comes to full age of twenty-one years he will confirm said sale.

"1667-71-72-80-83. Deputy.

"Aug. 24, 1676. He was a member of the court martial held at Newport, for the trial of certain Indians charged with being engaged in King Philip's designs.

"May 7, 1679. On his petition he was granted by Assembly 36s., due him for service some years since, being constable, in securing and sending Indians to Newport.

"1685-86. Assistant.

"Jun. 15, 1687. The petition of Sarah Potter, of Warwick, to court, was referred to justices of the peace, of Providence, Warwick, and Rochester (i. e., King's Town).

"Oct. 10, 1687. He deeded to eldest son Robert, 200 acres for love, etc.

"Apr. 28, 1688. He and his son Robert sold John Anthony, of Portsmouth, buildings, orchard, and 28 acres in Portsmouth, for £60.

"Oct. 6, 1692. He deeded to sons Fisher and John 100 acres each.

"Feb. 14, 1693. He deeded to son Samuel 80 acres.

"Apr. 10, 1694. His son Robert, after premising that his father John, lately died intestate, now deems it incumbent as eldest son to dispose of estate left undisposed of by father. To two youngest brothers, Edward and Content, he deeds a third of certain land, the other two thirds having already been deeded to brother Samuel.

"May, 1700. Sarah Potter gave 2s. 6d. toward building Quaker meeting-house at Mashapaug."— Austin's Genealogical Dictionary of Rhode Island.

John Potter, ¹⁰ who was born in Warwick in 1669, married Jane Burlingame, daughter of Roger and Mary. This John Potter was killed Feb. 5, 1711, by the falling of a tree. His widow married, Dec. 27 of the same year, his brother, Edward Potter, No. 15. It is a very singular fact relating to these two brothers, that they each had a son named John who grew to maturity, having the same mother, viz., Jane (Burlingame) Potter. The account relating to the death of John Potter¹⁰ and the marriage of his widow, Jane, to his brother, Edward Potter, ¹⁵ is copied from the "Fenmer Papers":—

"You do solomly sware that you will truly Sarve our Soveraigne Lady the Queen Majestie in the place of a Jury of Inquest to make a true enquiery concerning the death of John Potter, who lies deade on the ground before you and to agree upon a vardict and bring it unto me.

"CAPT BENIMIN GREEN, FOREMAN & OTHERS.

"Feb. 6, 1711. We the jury of Inquest in behalf of our Souvrain Majesty Queen Ann impaneled by Capt Thomas Fenner of Providence the day and year Abovesaid to inquire and make diligent Sertsh into the ocation of the deth of John Potter of the aforesaid Town have Acordinly made Sertsh and Inquiory conserning the deth of the above said John Potter and by information and what we can find we Judge him to be axedentally excessry to his own deth ocasioned by the fall of a tree."

"These are to declare that marriage is intended between Edward Potter of the Town of Providence of the one party, and Jane Potter widow of the late Deceased John Potter of the same Town being the other party, and if there Be any person or persons that have any Just or lawful cause to show against the Joyning of the two parties above mentioned together In Marriage, that he, she, or they declare the Same by under Writing of this Publication or Else for ever after keep Silant.

"Dated in Providence with my hand and seal November, 1711."

"Whereas Edward Potter of the Town of Providence did In the year 1711 some time in the month of November Desire me the subscriber to write for him the said Potter a Publication of a Contract of Marriage made between him and Jane Potter Widdow to the Deceased John Potter, whereupon I did the same and caused it to be set up in a Publick place and no person that did as I could be Senceable of that did forbid the marriage Either by underwriting or other waies so that the said Edward Potter did againe Request unto me to desire me to Join him and the said Jane Potter together in marriage whereupon I tould the said Potter that there was something to be questioned about the matter by reason of the Relation then the said Potter Replied and said that it was a common thing for there was many presedents of that nature, then tould me that theire was our Gouevner for one and many others and did again Request me to marry him; tould that the place that was appointed was Jane Potters House where upon at length I tould the said Potter that I would for ought that I did know give him a visit the day being also appointed but in the mene time I had so fully sattisfied my self about the marriage that I did not intend to do it but for my sake I went to the house on the day appointed, where I found several of their neighbors assembled, then I tould the said Potter that for my word sake I came but I should not join him in marriage to Jane Potter, where upon the said Edward Potter took the said Jane Potter by the hand and did Declare that he did take Jane Potter to be his wife, then the said Jane Potter did also Declare that shee did take Edward Potter to be her Husband, where upon I replied and tould them that I could not give any sancttion to their marriage and they must look to answer the penalties of law if they were thereunto caled; there being several witnesses by present as namely John Burton and James Bridges and severall others it being on the 27th of December and in the year 1711." "THOMAS FFENNER, Assistant."

JOHN POTTER,³⁰⁵ of Cranston, R. I., lived on the Rivulet Farm, one mile from the Quaker meeting-house in Cranston; this house was built by his grandfather, John, who was born in 1639. He was married by Richard Waterman, justice of the peace, to Phebe Greene, daughter of Thomas and Ann (Greene) Greene (cousins); she was born May 10, 1693. John and Phebe Potter were Quaker preachers. Their son, Captain Joseph Potter,³¹² served in the French War, and was killed at Crown Point, N. Y.

ISRAEL RALPH POTTER, patriot, born in Cranston, R. I., Aug. 1, 1744; died there after 1826. He was a natural son of Captain Joseph Potter 312 and a Miss Ralph. He was taken when an infant by his grandparents, John Potter and Phebe (Greene) Potter, the Quaker preachers, and brought up by them. "He early in life left home and became a farmer in New Hampshire, after which he was associated with a party of surveyors as assistant chain-hearer. He next became a sailor on a ship that was burned at sea, but he was rescued by a Dutch vessel and continued his roving career for several years. In 1774, he returned home, and after working on a farm for several months, enlisted in a regiment that was raised by Colonel John Patterson. The battle of Lexington found him ploughing, and, after deliberately finishing the work, he joined his regiment at Charlestown. He fought with bravery at the battle of Bunker Hill, and, when his ammunition was exhausted, seized a sword from a wounded officer and continued the contest until the close, when, with a cut on the right arm near the elbow, a long slit across the chest, a musket-ball buried in his hip, and another mangling him near the ankle of the same leg, he found his way to the hospital.

"When he had recovered from his wounds he volunteered as a seaman on the 'Washington,' one of the blockading fleet in front of Boston. Soon afterward his vessel was captured, and he was sent to England. On the voyage he formed a scheme to take the frigate, but was betrayed and put in irons. When he arrived in England he was conveyed to Spithead, and put on board of a hulk; but he escaped, and, in the garb of a beggar, found his way to London, where he engaged in gardening, and at one time was employed in Kew Gardens, where the king held a conversation with him. After various experiences he was sent on a mission by friends of the Colonies to Paris, where he met Benjamin Franklin, by whom he was sent back with replies. On reaching England his employer died, and while trying to find his way back to France he was seized and impressed in the English navy. His vessel was captured by Paul Jones, who at once made Potter quartermaster of the 'Ranger.'

"He then continued with Captain Jones, cruising with him while off the coast of Great Britain, and took part in the famous exploit of Whitehaven.

"Potter remained with Captain Jones after the latter received the command of the 'Bon Homme Richard,' and was in the celebrated fight with the 'Serapis.'

"Subsequently, on the return voyage on the 'Ariel,' during an engagement, while attempting to board an English vessel he was accidentally transferred to her and was unable to return. When he reached England he encountered Ethan Allen, then on his way to confinement in Pendennis Castle. Potter escaped with his usual facility, and became a brickmaker. Then for forty years he lived in Londou, where he was married and gained a bare livelihood, until 1826, when, through the influence of the American consul, he was able to return to Boston. On his arrival his countrymen were celebrating the Fourth of July, and in the processions were banners to the honor of the heroes of Bunker Hill, but there was no place for the old vagabond.

"He visited his former home, but the memory of his name had long since faded away.

"His application for a pension was refused, for his only credentials were his scars; and so, after dictating an account of his experiences, he passed away. His memoirs, issued in Providence, were sold by pedlers, and finally were entirely lost until a tattered copy fell into the hands of Herman Melville, and was published as 'Israel Potter: His Fifty Years of Exile. New York, 1855.'"—Appletons' Biographical Encyclopædia.

Anthony Potter,³⁸⁷ of Cranston, R. I., was a Sixth Principle Baptist, and a deacon in the church. He served during the Revolutionary War, and it is recorded that he drove the congregation out of the church at Cranston and closed its doors because some of the members persisted in praying for the king. His sons, Rufus,³⁹³ Anthony,³⁹⁸ and George,⁴⁰⁰ moved to New York State and settled in Dutchess County.

JOSEPH POTTER,⁵⁹⁴ of Dutchess County, N. Y., was born in Cranston, R. I., Aug. 12, 1757. He removed with his family, in 1792, to Beekman (now La Grange), Dutchess County, N. Y. He was a farmer, and, with his wife, belonged to the society of Friends. He represented his county in the State Legislature.

Of their children, Paraclete Potter⁶⁰⁴ was educated in the printing and book business, and for thirty years edited and published the Poughkeepsie Whig, now Poughkeepsie Eagle. In the year 1840, he was appointed land agent for the sale of government lands in the State of Wisconsin by President Harrison, and again in 1848 by President Taylor.

Joseph Potter⁶⁰⁵ was a farmer, and lived on the old homestead in Dutchess County until his death.

ROBERT KNIGHT POTTER.⁶⁰⁶ When he was ten months old his parents settled in the town of La Grange, Dutchess County, N. Y., on a farm, where he remained until Dec. 25, 1813. In the year 1824, he moved with his then little family to Monroe County, N. Y., near Rochester, then a village in the woods of some ten or twelve hundred inhabitants. In 1843, his family being a large one, twelve children having been born to them, he removed to Lafayette, Walworth County, Wis., where he continued to live on his farm until 1857, when he moved to Elkhorn, Wis.

As a farmer he was known as the "Old Dutchess County Farmer," in consequence of his thorough methods, which he had brought with him from there. His rules of life were simple, the Golden Rule as his guide, and the doing whatever he had to do well. He was reared in the faith of the "society of Friends," his father and mother being members of that faith; and, although never a member of that or any other Christian society, he was a daily and constant reader of the Bible and a thorough believer in its teachings and truths, and, in every sense, lived a most thorough practical Christian life, and in the fulness of his years has passed to his peaceful rest in the beyond.

Sheldon Potter⁶⁰⁷ was engaged in the book business in Philadelphia, where he was living at his death.

Rt. Rev. Alonzo Potter, 610 D. D., LL. D., Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Diocese of Pennsylvania, was born in the town of Beekman (now La Grange), Dutchess County, New York, July 10, 1800; died on board the steamship "Colorado," in the harbor of San Francisco, Cal., July 4, 1865. Dr. Potter's biographer, Dr. M. A. DeWolfe Howe, says: "Alonzo Potter was one of those men of whom a very imperfect memoir can be written. There is no autobiography from which the facts of any portion of his life can be gleaned, no diary or note-book in which any of his daily impressions and feelings were put on record. . . . The real humility of Bishop Potter's spirit and the thorough earnestness of his life combined to restrain him from the effort to perpetuate personal experiences, which seemed to him of little moment in the great aggregate of human iuterests. He was too conscious of urgent demands for further thought and effort to stop and record what he had already thought and done. And yet this very impulse always to be exerting his powers for new achievements made his life intense and actual beyond the measure of common men. He lived more in his threescore years than most of those who stretch on to the utmost limit of earthly continuance do in their larger span. And it is that life of ceaseless mental activity, of thorough devotion to God and inexhaustible charity to man, which, in all its successive processes, it is now impossible to recall and commit to the page of history."

The more important events in Bishop Potter's life, taken from Dr. Howe's works, will be noted in this sketch. He was sent first to the district school of his native hamlet, and was there favored with the instruction of a Mr. Thompson, a man who was capable of appreciating him and calling out and directing the activities of his mind. Bishop Potter never forgot him, nor withheld the acknowledgment of his debt of gratitude for an impulse and a guidance in his early boyhood which had much to do with the habit and success of his whole after life.

In his early boyhood, though bright in understanding, he was not addicted to books until the story of Robinson Crusoe fell into his hands. He opened it, as it were by accident, became at once engrossed with its contents, and never left it but for his meals, until, late at night, he had perused the entire volume. It seemed to awaken in him a new sense. fresh world of enjoyment was opened to him. He re-read this book of wonders, and was even stimulated to attempt a romance of his own. "The impetus had been given," said he to a friend late in life, to whom he related this incident, "and from that time forth I took pleasure in books." It was after this, when his father was at Albany, a member of the Legislature, that Dr. Nott went thither on business relating to Union College. Dr. Nott was spending an evening at Mr. Potter's rooms, and whilst there a letter was brought to the latter, which, having read, he handed to Dr. Nott, saying, "If you take any interest in my boys, perhaps you would like to read this composition from my son Alonzo." Dr. Nott took it, and after reading it, he said, "I must have that boy; promise me that you will let me have him when he is old enough for college." The promise was given; "and this," added Bishop Potter, when he was relating the incident to an intimate friend in the privacy of his own study, "was the beginning of my relations with Dr. Nott, which have lasted throughout my life and been very pleasant to At the age of twelve he entered the academy at Poughkeepsie, taught by Master Barnes. In a few years his preceptor pronounced him the best of his pupils, and entitled, by capacity and scholarship, to a collegate education, and at the age of fifteen he came to Schenectady, N. Y., and from the hour of his examination for admission to Union College took a first rank in his class.

Soon after completing his college studies, Mr. Potter repaired to Philadelphia, Pa. While there he resolved to connect himself with the visible church, and was baptized at St. Peter's, and soon after confirmed at Christ Church, by the venerable Bishop White. He began his theological studies under the immediate direction of the Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Turner, for many years a distinguished professor in the General Theological Seminary. He was called to be a tutor in Union College at the age of twenty, and within a year was advanced to the professorship of Mathematics and Natural Philosophy.

The necessary preparation having been attained, he was admitted to deacon's orders by Bishop Hobart; and at twenty-four was advanced to the priesthood by Bishop Brownell. In December, 1825, elected president of Geneva (now Hobart) College, a post of honor and responsibility which he declined.

He was called, in 1826, to succeed Dr. Samuel Farmar Jarvis as rector of St. Paul's Church, Boston. This was his first ministry, and continued five years. He resigned the rectorship in 1831. Following this, he returned to Union College and filled the chair of Moral and Intellectual Philosophy and Political Economy.

In November, 1835, the founder of the professorship of Ecclesiastical History in the General Theological Seminary, in whom was vested the right of nomination, tendered the chair to Professor Potter. This nomination he declined.

In January, 1838, he was chosen, by a unanimous vote of the clergy, Assistant Bishop of the Eastern Diocese, comprising the States of Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island. This was also declined.

In 1834, the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity had been conferred on Professor Potter by Kenyon College, and the same compliment was repeated by Harvard University in 1843. His own college, in the year which followed his elevation to the episcopate, supplemented his literary honors with the title of LL. D.

May 23, 1845, he was elected to the episcopate of the Diocese of Pennsylvania. This he accepted under date of June 4, 1845, consecrated bishop Sept. 23, 1845. The first official act of the new bishop was performed on Sept. 24, the day following his advancement; it was the consecration of the new Church of the Nativity, in the city of Philadelphia.

Right Rev. Horatio Potter. 613 D. D., LL. D., sixth bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the Diocese of New York, was born in the town of Beekman (now La Grange), Dutchess County, N. Y., Feb. 9, 1802; died in New York City, Jan. 2, 1887.

"Bishop Potter will leave to posterity [written in 1885], when the end shall have arrived, a name to cast unfading lustre on the annals of the diocese. It will be said of him, by those that come after, that, as a theologian, he combined the strong conviction and subjective piety of the evangelical school with the deeper views and powerful hold on the doctrinal and sacramental system of the church which mark the men commonly known as Catholies. As bishop he was the peer, the faithful ally, and the intimate personal friend of some of the greatest and ablest of the prelates of the Church of England in one of the most momentous periods of her history. Wise, prudent, and skilful, he piloted his own diocese through stormy weather and in dangerous places, and had the gratification of witnessing the founding and development of two new and strong dioceses born within the old domain. Dignified in bearing, courtly in manners, somewhat austere, as becomes an overseer of God's heritage, cordial and delightful in the trusted society of intimate friends, devout and earnest, a holy man, full of prayer and good works, he was, to those who knew him best, the mirror of the Episcopal character, and a shining example among the chief pastors of the flock of Christ. God, in His wise providence, has willed that he should pass his last days in the enforced seclusion of a sick-room; and therefore in penning this brief sketch of him, we throw much of it into the past tense; but the love and prayers of the faithful follow him into that sacred retirement and surround him there, while for the future the record is secure of a true, strong, pure, and helpful life, of which the honor and fame shall last, unfading, in the Church.

"He was sent to Union College, where he graduated in 1826. A letter to a college companion, dated Feb. 24, 1827, contains the following good advice to students:—

"'Look to your health. There is something which, to the youthful mind, looks like moral sublimity in the sacrifice of health and life at the very outset of our career. But a heedless, unnecessary sacrifice can be neither pleasing to God nor beneficial to man. When studying hard, you should devote at least two hours a day to vigorous exercise. Without this you can have neither energy of mind nor strength of body. Beware, too, of reading hastily. Curiosity, the love of novelty, and the pride we take in having read a great many books, all conspire to hurry us on from volume to volume without giving us time to become masters of them. To an ardent, youthful mind, advancing is delightful, reviewing irksome. As you march on, then, be careful to leave no enemy unconquered.'

"He was ordained deacon in July, 1827, and priest the following year. He began his ministry in Saco, Me., as appears, rather against his will, for he writes: 'I did hope to enjoy, for a year or two, full leisure to prosecute my education.' He shrank from the difficulties and responsibilities of the care of souls. 'The parochial duties are most formidable'; but he adds, by way of consolation, 'I have heard of men who have done much for their minds at the same time that they were extensively useful in the active duties of their profession. By the blessing of God, I will imitate their example. I am ready to make the effort.'

"In the year 1828, he became Professor of Mathematics and Natural Philosophy in Washington (now Trinity) College, Hartford, Conn. He took an active part in plans for the enlargement of the college and the erection of new buildings, as appears from his correspondence with his brother, the Rev. Alonzo Potter, at that time rector of St. Paul's Church, Boston.

"In 1833, he became rector of St. Peter's Church, in the city of Albany, and held that position until his election to the episcopate, in 1854. Those twenty-one years were a term of steady and persevering labor, with marked success. The parish, one of the oldest in the State, was of especial dignity and importance, not only from its history, but also from its situation in the capital of the State, and from the fact that many of the most prominent personages in the political history of New York were, from time to time, connected with it. Dr. Potter acquired an enviable distinction there as a devoted pastor, an able preacher, and a man who never meddled with other people's affairs, but did his work quietly, 'without partiality, without hypocrisy,' and without aim at popularity or effect. In the year 1835, he went abroad, and travelled in England and on the Continent. He carried with him letters to Simeon, Keble, Chalmers, Bishop Skinner, of the Scottish Episcopal Church, and other eminent personages of the day. He was profoundly impressed by the aspect of the great English universities.

"'My visit to the Louvre and Tuileries and Versailles had almost moved me to pronounce France superior to England in classical taste; but Cambridge and Oxford are altogether unequalled by anything that I have ever seen, if I am to judge by the manner in which they excited my own mind under the most favorable circumstances. As for society, I saw none at either place. The university was in vacation, the weather was stormy, and I had neither time nor inclination for ceremonious visits.'

"Dr. Potter's health was very delicate during his early years; it continued so while he was rector of St. Peter's. Severe domestic affliction in the loss of children added weight to the burden of life at that time. In 1845, he went abroad again for rest and recovery. The times were full of excitement on both sides of the Atlantic. It was the era of the development of the Oxford movement in England, a movement strongly felt on this side of the Atlantic. The year 1845 was marked by the defection of John Henry Newman, an event which shook the souls of many English churchmen; in that same year occurred the suspension of Bishop Onderdonk from office, an event attended by great agitation and embittered controversies in the Diocese of New York.

"The name of Dr. Potter had been mentioned several times, in connection with vacancies in the episcopate, long before his election to that office in his own diocese. On these occasions he persistently adhered to the line which he had adopted of discouraging such movements and of declaring his wish and preference to remain a simple parish priest, united with his family, and at peace in his home. In Pennsylvania and in Connecticut strong influences might have been brought to bear in his behalf, but for his entire indifference and positive refusal to give any encouragement; and, as he expresses it in one of his letters, 'to trouble his head about it.' But in the year 1854, the office which he had conscientiously refused to seek at length sought him; and by the concurrent vote of the clergy and laity, assembled in diocesan convention, in September, he was elected provisional bishop of New York, succeeding the honored and lamented Wainwright, whose brief but admirable episcopate of less than two years had been cut suddenly short by death. He was consecrated Nov. 22, in Trinity Church, New York, by the Right Rev. T. C. Brownell, Bishop of Connecticut, assisted by Bishop Fulford, of Montreal; Whittingham, of Maryland; Hopkins, of Vermont; Doane, of New Jersey; McCoskrey, of Michigan; and Alonzo Potter, of Pennsylvania. The day was the guarantee of the coming era of rest, recovery, and peace, of great development, and of abounding works of grace to the glory of God and the extension of the Church.

"Dr. Potter, elected provisional bishop, became bishop on the death of Bishop Onderdonk in 1861. Among the notable events of his administration was the subdivision of the diocese in 1868, by which the new dioceses of Long Island, Albany, and Central New York came into existence. His influence, strongly felt at home in the House of Bishops, of which he was a distinguished member, was exerted on a much wider scale, through his active participation in the Lambeth Conferences, held in September, 1867, and in July, 1878. He was present, on both occasions, in those august assemblages of the Fathers of the Anglican Communion, ably representing the Diocese of New York in councils recalling those of the long ago; councils representing one great division — alas! that there are divisions — of the Holy Catholic and Apostolic Church. The friendships of earlier days were continued and strengthened at these periods; new ones were formed, as the letters show. Among his correspondents were Bishop Wilberforce, once of Oxford and later of Winchester; Bishop Selwyn, of Lichfield; Bishop Jackson, of London; Bishop Moberly, and his predecessor, Bishop Hamilton; Bishop Medley, of Fredericton; Lord Stanhope, Archdeacon Sinclair, Bishop Jacobson, of Chester; the Right Honorable Sir J. T. Coleridge, and many others of like fame and worth.

"This centennial history contains the evidence of the great growth of the diocese during the administration of its now venerable diocesan, and gives the particulars necessary in order to compute the advance in every part of the field. In all these things Bishop Potter took the initiative, as his addresses to his convention prove. These were not 'charges' in the strict sense of that word, but rather reviews of church work during each preceding year, and most interesting accounts, in almost a narrative form, of the state of the diocese and the labors of its devoted clergy. It is needless to say that this annual retrospect proved a powerful stimulus to increased effort, and gave a practical turn to the work of the entire body. During his episcopate, progress has been made in every desirable direction, but nowhere more distinctly than in efforts to reach the laboring classes and the poor, to popularize the church, to draw the plainer sort of people into her fold, and to push on home missions in the city and in the rural districts. The day is now so far distant as to be hardly remembered when some were wont to cast a slur on the Church as that of the wealthy and fashionable; it is now one of her most marked signs that she careth for the souls of the poor, and that they are precious in her sight. The largest and wealthiest parishes in the city of New York are so many centres of wise, well-directed, and successful action looking to the elevation of the lower classes, the relief of the suffering, and the preaching Christ to the poor. It is not going too far to say that this marked characteristic of the work of the Church in this city is, under God, the result of the steady, persistent, persuasive, and unwearying presentation of these subjects to his convention by the bishop, in those notable addresses to which I have referred.

"During the episcopate of Bishop Horatio Potter ecclesiastical controversy has been all but unknown among us.

The spirit of mischief, though threatening from time to time, has never succeeded in getting ahead. Questions involving obedience to the law of the Church, and calling for discipline, have from time to time occurred. In such cases the bishop has met them with decision and sustained the law. But his calmness, his sagacity, his knowledge of human nature, and his just respect for the rights of all have enabled him to maintain, within his border, an envied peace. Storms have gathered, but they have quietly rolled away; enemies have predicted approaching upheavals and convulsions, but the prophecies have failed, till men have grown tired of repeating them.

"A few words may be considered in order, by way of description of the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of Bishop Potter's consecration. The day was Saturday, Nov. 22, 1879. In the morning, at eleven o'clock, divine service was celebrated in Trinity Church. The bishops of Long Island, Western New York, and Albany were present, and an immense congregation filled the church. After the Holy Gospel had been read and the Nicene Creed sung, an address was presented to the bishop by a deputation representing the clergy and laity of his diocese, to whom he made a reply. On Tuesday, the 25th, a reception was given to the venerable diocesan in the Academy of Music. On that most interesting evening the house was crowded to its utmost capacity by an audience the most remarkable which ever assembled in this city.

"The reception committee consisted of the Rev. George D. Wildes, D.D., and Messrs. Woodbury G. Langdon, Cornelius Vanderbilt, William Waldorf Astor, George Maculloch Miller, William W. Wright, De Lancey Kane, and Elbridge Gerry. Music was performed by a large orchestra and by the choirs of Trinity Church, Grace Church, and St. Thomas's Church. The addresses were as follows:—

- "1. A congratulatory address from the President and Corporation of Union College, Schenectady.
- "2. An address from St. Peter's parish, Albany, of which the bishop had been so long rector.
- "3. An address from the Standing Committee of the Diocese of Albany,
- "4. A congratulatory address by the Hon. William M. Evarts.
- "5. An address by the Hon. John Jay, who, at the time, presented the bishop with a very beautiful and elaborate piece of silver, the description of which, in its design, its symbolism, and curious and exquisitely elaborate workmanship, would occupy much more space than the writer has at his disposal.

"The venerable bishop, at the conclusion of these addresses, which were varied by appropriate selections of sacred music, made his response; and, as he advanced to do so, the immense audience rose and remained standing while he spoke to them. A sight more impressive in its way has probably never been seen; it was rendered the more affecting by the reflection that these were, for the most part, his own children in the faith, communicants of the various parishes, great numbers of them persons on whose heads his hands had been laid in confirmation, men and women who stood thus reverently before him as their Father in God, to hear his words of affectionate greeting and to receive his pastoral benediction. The sight can never be forgotten by those who had the good fortune to be present.

"The bishop's last public service was held in the Church of the Incarnation in the evening of Ascension Day, May 3, 1883. It was at the end of a long and very fatiguing On the Sunday preceding he had held three visitation. confirmations, though suffering from cold. An attack of pneumonia followed after that final service. It left him in a state of prostration from which he never rallied. On the 12th of September following, he addressed a communication to the Standing Committee, informing them that it was his own belief and the opinion of his physician, that, even if his life should be considerably prolonged, he should never have the physical strength necessary to endure the fatigues and exposure incident to the active duties of the episcopal office, and announcing his complete withdrawal from the administration of the diocese.

"Since that time, the aged servant of God has remained quietly in his Heavenly Father's hands, resigned, patient, waiting for the hour of release, the time of entrance into his reward. 'Salutare tuum expectabo, domine.'"—Rev. Morgan Dix in the Centennial History of the Diocese of New York.

Hon. CLARKSON NOTT POTTER ⁶⁸⁸ was born in Schenectady, N. Y., April 25, 1825, and died in New York City Jan. 23, 1882.

"THE LATE CLARKSON NOTT POTTER.

"A man whose learning entitled him to the name of scholar, whose legal qualities entitled him to the designation of a jurist, and whose political acquirements and wisdom entitled him to the rank of a statesman, is dead. Clarkson Nott Potter, who was stricken down at the outset of an argument in the Court of Appeals last week, who lingered unconscious in the Delavan House for several days, and who was tenderly borne to his New York home on Friday, expired there yesterday morning in his fifty-eighth year. In the minds of his attending physicians there was little reason to expect his recovery from the moment the effect of the stroke which prostrated him was seen, and, in the event of a temporary physical rally, the probability of a corresponding mental restoration was painfully small. His friends and relatives, contemplating his fine proportions, and remembering his ordinarily splendid health, argued that the blow could be but slight and of short duration, and there was every disposition in the public mind to hope the wishes of affection might prove more correct than the forebodings of science. Yet it was not to be. A gentleman who had received many honors from his State, and whose ripe years, wise experience, and unusual qualifications rendered him equal to any responsibilities which might be laid upon him, is done with earth in the prime of his powers, and his record has rounded into history. It is a compensation to know that he did not suffer pain when the eclipse came to his strength, or when he exchanged worlds, and that he died conscious of the presence and the prayers of those to whom he had been bound by ties of blood and love.

"Mr. Potter came of one of the ablest of American families. A grandson of Eliphalet Nott, the great president of Union College, and a son of the Right Rev. Alonzo Potter, D. D., he was born in Schenectady in April, 1825. At first he proved to be an exception to the course which his kinsmen had taken in the direction of the professions, and instead of choosing a college culture, he was entered as a student in the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at Troy; thence he graduated as a civil engineer in 1843, and practised in that calling for some time in Wisconsin; but, having a strong inclination for the law, he fitted himself for it, and was admitted to the bar of this State in 1847, in his twenty-second year. He began practice in New York under favoring circumstances, and soon attained a strong position at the bar.

"For twenty years he served industriously in his profession, and became the successful advocate in many suits of the first magnitude. His application was thorough; his ability to acquire and differentiate knowledge was unusual; his judgment was sagacious; his powers of statement were convincing in their strength and graceful in all their exercises. He brought inherited culture, native vigor, excellent habits of mind, and a winning personality, with a noble presence, to the most exacting forces of metropolitan life.

"In 1868, he was elected to the Forty-first Congress, and he was continued in that body from the Westchester district for as long as he would place his services at the command of his constituents. In 1879, he was the candidate of the Democracy for lieutanant-governor of New York. His public services are known well to our readers. In Congress, as a member of the Commerce and Judiciary Committees, he did very much for the interests of the metropolis. In his party he was a leader. On matters not political he had a weight with both parties not second to that of any other member. His enlightening powers of argument were of great help to the House and to the country. His service as the chairman of the House Committee to investigate the frauds of the election of 1876 is historical. He then demonstrated, what is not now disputed, that his friend and neighbor, Mr. Tilden, was elected President, and kept out of the office by Republican crime. Mr. Potter forever identified his name with a great act for truth and justice in the performance of that duty, and won a lasting place in the confidence and esteem of the friends of pure elections by his great work.

"His speeches to his fellow-citizens of his native State were a very valuable addition to the permanent literature of politics. He was a thinker with the skill of an orator; a student with the art of a pleader; a through-and-through believer in the governmental principles of Thomas Jefferson, a patriot and a Democrat of the best type.

"Wealth and power in him only incited him to the duties of citizenship. He was alike a product of rare ancestral forces and of the best forces in American institutions, and at his death the Democracy of his State numbered no son in whose sense of principle, courage of conviction, and fine public spirit it had more confidence. In the counsels of the party he was always on the side of its better politics, and the friend and peer of its better men. To the record of administrative reform he was proudly attached; to the rights and integrity of organization and party common law he was inflexibly committed. Honors came to him unsought. Their acceptance was only a form and fact of their dutiful discharge as a party and a public trust. His life was replete with integrity, industry, study, hospitality, and excellent parliamentary and law service. The honors due to his character and motives will be paid by all his fellow-citizens, and the especial tributes to his memory, owed by his professional and by his political associates, will flow from their afflicted hearts into records that will last as long as the autonomy of the State and of the Republic of which he was a true son and a great citizen."—The Hon. Daniel Manning in the Albany, N. Y., Argus, Jan. 24, 1882.

Howard Potter, Esq., 689 of the banking houses of Brown Bros. & Co., of New York, and Brown, Shepley & Co., London and Paris, was born at Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., July 8, 1826. He graduated from that college in 1846, and remained a tutor there till 1849.

He was engaged in the organization of the Woman's Central Association of Relief for the Army, out of which grew the United States Sanitary Commission, of which the Woman's Central Association of Relief became a branch, and he was the treasurer of the association from May, 1861, till its work closed, with the close of the war of the Rebellion.

In April, 1865, engaged in the organization of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Aid Association for securing employment for and furthering the claim for pensions, etc., of deserving soldiers and sailors. This work closed 1868.

One of the incorporators of the American Museum of Natural History, New York, also of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and of the State Charities Aid Association.

In 1873, president of the New York Association for improving the condition of the poor.

In 1881, president, and till its work closed, of the Niagara Falls Association, for the preservation of the scenery of the falls, resulting in the establishment of the State Park and reservation of Niagara Falls, 1886. A trustee of Union College, Schenectady, N. Y. Trustee of the Children's Aid Society of New York City (since 1854), and of other charities in that city.

General Robert B. Potter⁶⁹⁰ was born in Schenectady, N. Y., July 16, 1829; died in Newport, R. I., Feb. 19, 1887.

"His military career began in New York City, and he was intimately connected with the 9th Army Corps, whose chief was General Ambrose E. Burnside, of Rhode Island, and therefore, it can be said, as of Homer in ancient days, that three cities can claim the honor of his well-earned fame.

"He was the son of Alonzo Potter, Bishop of Pennsylvania, and of a daughter of Eliphalet Nott, the famous president of Union College. . . . After his collegiate course at Union College, under the care of his grandfather, young Potter established himself in New York as a lawyer. In 1857, he married a daughter of the late William M. Tileston, of New York, who died the next year, leaving a young daughter, now the wife of Mr. James Lawrence Breese, of New York. After the war broke out, the deceased, with no immediate ties, determined to go to the front, and immediately prepared himself by study and drill to take the position to which his ambition called him. On the organization of the 51st New York Regiment, he received the commission of lieutenant-colonel. His superior was Colonel Ferrero, and Charles W. Le Grende was major. The regiment was moved to Annapolis, and soon afterwards was attached to Burnside's little army at Annapolis, and brigaded under General Reno. They had their baptisms of fire at Roanoke Island, where Potter led three companies of his regiment to the assault of the batteries, and was the first to enter the works.

"At Newbern, the 51st had again the post of honor, and stormed the intrenchments on the left of the rebel lines. Here Major Le Grende was shot through the mouth, and Lieutenant-Colonel Potter received a ball in the groin, which passed through his body, and here Potter showed that cool courage in which he was not excelled, not even by Grant. He remained on the field, in spite of his wound, until the close of that memorable day, and his judgment in pointing the line of attack decided the victory in favor of our troops. From Newbern, the 51st was moved to support General McClellan, and soon after General Pope in what is known as the second Bull Run campaign. Here they held the left of the Federal lines, covering Pope's retreat, and here again, at a critical point in the day, our lines broken, Reno's brigade was called to retrieve the disaster, and Colonel Potter led the gallant 51st, in full view of the rest of the army, and broke the rebel lines. At South Mountain, where the lamented Reno fell, the 51st was again in a post of honor, and at Antietam, Potter achieved for himself an almost romantic fame. The Union troops were disordered and the bridge over Antietam Creek, the key to the Federal position, lay in front of the enemy's lines and under the full fire of Potter, seizing the flag of his regiment, their artillery. crossed the bridge, calling on his men, and, followed by General Hartranft, with the 51st Pennsylvania Regiment, secured the position, and, in the words of McClellan at the time, 'he saved the day.' Some day this action will be as noted in history as is the similar dash of Napoleon over the bridge at Arcelo or over the bridge at Lodi.

"At Antietam, again, Potter was slightly wounded. The 51st, of which, after the promotion of Ferrero to be brigadier-general, Potter had sole command, was sent with General Burnside, his old commander and life-long personal friend, to take part in the Western campaign, Potter taking a place on Burnside's staff, and, by General Grant's special order, receiving an independent command. During the siege of Knoxville, Potter commanded the division in front of the lines, and, with a greatly inferior force, so manœuvred for seven trying days as to check the advance of General Longstreet (detached to the capture of the beleaguered city from General Hood's army) as to admit of the relief and re-enforcements of that post. It will be remembered that the final assault of the rebels was defeated on the intrenchments in an almost hand-to-hand fight. Potter had now reached his true position as a commander of large bodies. In the Wilderness campaign he was constantly under fire, and unusually active in his division. Here Major Le Grende, now colonel of his old regiment, the 51st, was finally disabled, losing an eye. The assault, after the explosion of the memorable mine at Petersburg, fell to General Burnside's command. Unfortunately, this officer (General Burnside), of but too facile nature, left to lot the choice of the officer who should lead the assault, and that fell to an incompetent officer. General Grant, in his Memoirs, says: 'In fact, Potter and Wilcox were the only division commanders General Burnside had who were equal to the occasion.' Neither of them was chosen. The eventful history of the mine explosion needs no further reference. An intimate friend of General Potter states that he had matured a plan for destroying the bridge over the Appomattox which would have confined General Lee's army and saved further fighting.

"A touching incident is here related by a friend of the deceased. He had mounted his horse in front of Fort Sedgwick, called 'Fort Hell' by his men, to lead his regiment to battle, when he was struck by a ball and wounded in the groin as stated above. While he lay desperately wounded on the field, he was visited by President Lincoln, who spoke tenderly to him and cheered him with some of his characteristic words.

"After the war he was assigned by the Secretary of War to the command of the Rhode Island and Connecticut district of the military department of the East, with headquarters in this city, and in the autumn of the same year he married for his second wife a daughter of the late John A. Stevens, a distinguished financier and president of the Bank of Commerce for many years. A graceful compliment was paid to Mrs. Potter, who was in receipt of a novel but acceptable wedding present in the form of a full major-general's commission for her husband, sent under the seal of the War Department by Secretary Stanton, the general's brevet having already been received.

"In 1866, he was appointed colonel of the 41st U. S. Infantry (colored), but never assumed command. This closed his brilliant military career. General Hancock said of him that he was one of the twelve best officers (West Point graduates not excepted) in the army, and with his well-known modesty he (General Potter) was wont to say himself that he thought he might have made a first-rate officer with the advantages of an early West Point education.

"After the gigantic failure of the Atlantic and Great Western Railroad Company he was appointed receiver, a position of labor as well as of trust, and for three years he lived in a car on the line of the railroad. Later, in the hope of improving his somewhat shattered health, he went to England, residing in Warwick County, following the hounds and maintaining, by his generous hospitality, the credit of his native land and of a true American gentleman. On his return to America he purchased 'The Rocks' at this place, and, during the summer season, he entertained in a liberal manner. He spent his winters in Washington, making common household with his brother, Congressman Potter. For the past few years he has been a great sufferer. He was in early days a member of all the leading New York clubs, but was latterly a prominent member of the Union Club and of the Newport Reading Rooms. He chose for his motto the Latin device, 'Per Castra ad Astra' ('Through the Camps to the Stars'). He won his stars on earth. A braver man never lived, nor one more kindly or generous in private life. An unkind word never fell from his lips, and, although one of the most reticent and reserved of men, no man had more true and devoted friends."—News, Newport, R. I.

A bust in bronze of General Robert B. Potter has lately been completed, and is now at the works of the Henry Bonnard Bronze Company. The sculptor, Mr. W. C. Noble, has been successful in producing a spirited and life-like work, and the family likeness in the countenance is strongly evident. The cast in bronze well illustrates the perfection to which the art has been brought in this country.

On the front of the bust is the inscription: -

ROBERT B. POTTER.

PER CASTRA AD ASTRA.
TRIBUTE OF ARMY COMRADES AND FRIENDS.

On the right side:

COMMANDING NINTH ARMY CORPS, TENNESSEE, 1863.

MAJOR SHEPARD RIFLES, 1861.
LIEUT.-COLONEL 51ST N. Y. V., 1861.
COL., 1862.
BRIG.-GENERAL U. S. V., 1863.
MAJ.-GENERAL U. S. V., 1865.

On the back is inscribed a list of the engagements, twenty-seven in number, in which General Potter participated during the war. *Among these are Roanoke, Newbern, Cedar Mountain, Antietam, Fredericksburg, Siege of Vicksburg, Wilderness, Spottsylvania, Cold Harbor, Siege of Petersburg, Weldon Station, Fort Stedman, and assault of Petersburg.

The expense of this appropriate memorial to a gallant officer has been defrayed by his military friends and intimate associates, and the bust will be placed in the State Library at Albany, in the department set apart for the busts and statues of governors and generals.

Right Rev. Henry Codman Potter, 693 the seventh bishop of the Diocese of New York, was born in Schenectady, N. Y., May 25, 1835. He is a son of the late Bishop of Pennsylvania, and a grandson of Dr. Nott, president of Union College. "His education was obtained chiefly at the Episcopal Academy, Philadelphia, and he was for a brief time engaged in mercantile life. His classical and other studies for the ministry were under the immediate direction of his father and Professor G. E. Hare, D. D. Entering the Theological Seminary of Virginia, he was graduated from that institution in 1857, and during the same year he married. He received deacon's orders at his father's hands in St. Luke's Church, Philadelphia, May 25, 1857, and was ordained in Trinity Church, Pittsburg, Oct. 15, 1858, by Dr. Bowman, Assistant Bishop of Pennsylvania. His first pastoral work was as the rector of Christ Church, Greenburg, Pa., and in May, 1859, he was called to St. John's Church, Troy, N. Y. In 1862, he was elected rector of Christ Church, Cincinnati; in 1863, chosen president of Kenyon College, Ohio; and in the same year he was called to St. Paul's Church, Albany, N. Y., - all of which he declined. But, after seven years' service in Troy, he accepted, in 1866, the position of assistant minister of Trinity Church, Boston. Two years later he became rector of Grace Church, New York, which office he filled with singular faithfulness and success for fifteen years. In 1857, he was elected Bishop of Iowa, but declined. He received the degree of D. D. from Trinity College, and LL. D. from Union College. He was secretary of the House of Bishops from 1865 to 1883, and also for many years was one of the managers of the Board of Missions. Dr. Potter's published works include 'Sisterhoods and Deaconesses at Home and Abroad,' 1872; 'The Gates of the East: A Winter in Egypt and Syria,' 1876; and 'Sermons of the City,' 1880.

"In 1883, Bishop Horatio Potter having asked for an assistant, the convention, which met in the autumn of that year, acceded to his plea of advancing age and increasing infirmities, and on Sept. 27 unanimously elected Dr. Henry C. Potter to the office of Assistant Bishop of New York. He was consecrated in Grace Church, on Broadway, Oct. 20, 1883, by Bishops Smith of Kentucky, Williams of Connecticut, Clark of Rhode Island, Whipple of Minnesota, Stevens of Pennsylvania, Littlejohn of Long Island, and Huntington of Central New York. Other bishops who were present and assisted in the service were Lay of Easton, and Howe of Central Pennsylvania, who acted as the presenters. Bishop Williams was the preacher. The occasion was otherwise memorable as being the last consecration performed by the venerable presiding bishop, Benjamin Bosworth Smith, then lacking but a few months of fourscore and ten. Fortythree bishops were present, as the General Convention was then in session in Philadelphia. More than three hundred of the clergy were also present, together with all the students of the General Theological Seminary, and a large congregation, including many prominent laymen from all portions of the diocese. Many of these paid their personal respects to the new bishop at the reception extended to him in the evening by the rector of Trinity Church at his residence, No. 27 West Twenty-fifth Street. By personal instruments, soon after executed, the bishop resigned the entire charge and responsibility of the work of the diocese into the new bishop's hands."—Gen. James Grant Wilson in the Centennial History of the Diocese of New York.

Rev. ELIPHALET NOTT POTTER, ⁶⁹⁴ D. D., LL. D., president of Hobart College, of Geneva, N. Y., was born at Schenectady, N. Y., May 25, 1835. "Before entering college, he studied at the Protestant Episcopal Academy in Philadelphia and the preparatory department of St. James College, Maryland. He graduated at Union College in 1861; pursued his theological studies at Berkeley Divinity School, and was ordained by his father June 22, 1862, deacon, in St. John's Church, Troy, N. Y. (of which his brother Henry, the present Bishop of New York, was the rector), and priest, March 19, 1865, in the Church of the Holy Communion, New York. He was assigned by his father to mission work in Pennsylvania in the Lehigh Valley. During the autumn of 1862, he established mission stations and parishes there, and during his ministry three church buildings and two rectories were erected and paid for, at Allentown, South Bethlehem, and Allentown Furnace. In June, 1865-66, remaining rector of the Church of the Nativity, South Bethlehem, he was appointed secretary of the Board of Trustees and first professor of the Lehigh University, and gained the reputation of a successful teacher. March, 1869, while retaining a lectureship in the Lehigh University, he became associate rector of St. Paul's Church, Troy, N. Y. While there, the mission at North Troy was established and its church building erected and paid for, together with a new Sunday-school building and parish house adjoining the mother parish. On the 28th of April, 1870, he was married by his uncle, Bishop Horatio Potter, to Miss Helen Fuller, daughter of Joseph W. Fuller, Esq., one of the wardens of St. Paul's Church, Troy. In the summer of 1871, he was called to the presidency of Union College, which was understood to represent Christian unity. Having consummated the union of several educational institutions at the capital of the State with Union College, in Union University, in 1873, President Potter was appointed Chancellor of the University. During his administration of the presidency, Union College received, through bequests, gifts, endowments, etc., benefactions amounting to more than half a million of dollars. Additional buildings were erected, and the large interests of Union College at Hunter's Point, which the stringency of the times had imperilled, protected. Liberal provision was secured for prizes, scholarships, students' aid, etc., the number of students steadily increased, and at the close of his administration commendatory resolutions were unanimously passed by the corporation. publications have been chiefly occasional sermons, addresses, articles in magazines, memoirs of Dr. Taylor Lewis and Dr. Isaac Jackson, and editing of the 'Three Witnesses to the Truth of Religion.' He delivered, in 1888, the annual oration (published by the Convocation of the State) on 'Education and the University of the State of New York.' The degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred on him in 1871 by Columbia College, and the degree of Doctor of Laws, in 1880, by Williams College.

"The publications, from which details of this statement are taken, add that before entering college he made the round tour of the world, first as a passenger; he was made an officer of the ship on which he returned. Impressed with the need of Christian labor in behalf of the sailors, he had begun it during his voyages, and intended to continue it as a layman in the merchant marine. On landing, having stated his intention, his father decided that he must first go through college. Before the four-years' course was ended it was evident that the propitious time for the proposed work had passed; and he entered the Theological Seminary. In 1867, having received leave of absence from the Church of the Nativity, he again sailed and visited England and the Continent.

"In 1884, having been called to the presidency of Hobart College, he visited Geneva, and then sailing Feb. 12, he made a tour in Egypt, Syria, and Palestine, and visited Constantinople and Athens, reaching Rome to celebrate the Holy Communion on Easter Day for the Rev. Dr. Nevin in St. Paul's. By way of France, Spain, and Portugal he returned to England. At this time he was offered the headship of the proposed University in California, since established and largely endowed. He had several years earlier visited California on his way to South America. But he had now decided to work in connection with educational institutions distinctly connected with his own church, and therefore wrote from Keble College, Oxford, Ascension Day, 1884, accepting the call extended to him by the trustees unanimously, and cordially indorsed by the able faculty of Hobart College. From his interest and early experience in missionary and parish work, it was with unfeigned regret that he realized that the duties at Hobart, which he had but just begun, bound him in honor to decline the episcopate of the Diocesc of Nebraska, to which he was elected June 25, 1884."— From the Church Kalender of Westfield, N. Y., August, 1888.

John Potter, 741 of Scituate, R. I., was born in Scituate, Nov. 11, 1747. John Potter, son of Fisher and Mary (Winsor*) Potter, resided with his parents in Scituate. The house, the cellar of which is still to be seen, stood on the west side of the road, near the top of the hill, about a third of a mile south of the Four Corners.

At the breaking out of the Revolutionary War, John was at work at his trade, a stone-mason, about two miles below Pawtuxet. He heard, in the early morning, the alarm bells ringing in Providence, for the advance of the British on Concord and Lexington. He walked to Providence, and heard the call for troops, went to Scituate, and from there to Hopkins' Mills, where his militia company met, and, volunteering, with others, marched from there to Providence, that night, where the news had arrived that the affair was over, and that they would not be needed then, but to hold themselves in readiness to go at a moment's warning. His walk of thirty-eight miles, that day, satisfied him with foot service, and he then enlisted in a troop of horse, and entered the service soon after. He was detailed as a "rider," or messenger, and in that capacity went from place to place, carrying orders and news.

At the expiration of his first term of enlistment, he married, Sept. 8, 1777, Wait Waterman† (born Dec. 17, 1750).

They lived in the "old red house" (still standing at about the middle of the north side of the main street in North Scituate), and there his three cldest children were born. During these years he served as "picket guard" on the shores near Point Judith, guarding against boat expeditions from the British fleet, foraging the country.

Towards the close of the war, he was commissioned as ensign in the company of minute-men in Scituate, but it is uncertain whether he was ever in the field with that company.

At the close of the war, he built the house south of the Four Corners, where he afterwards lived till his death. After peace was established, John and Wait joined the society of Friends. They had long been of that belief, but he would not join till the fighting was over. John died Feb. 14, 1825; Wait, Jan. 10, 1835. Their graves are in the family burying-ground on the farm, beside those of Fisher and Mary.

WILLIAM HULL POTTER, 792 of Athens, Ohio, was born in Providence, R. I. At the age of sixteen he went to Edwardsville, Ill., where he was a clerk in the store of Kidmore & Hall. In a short time, however, he returned to Providence and entered his father's store, and succeeded him in the business after 1838. In 1844 he removed to Pittsburg, Pa., and engaged in manufacturing until 1845, when he enlisted in Company K, Pennsylvania Volunteers, called the De Quesne Grays, Colonel Wyncoop; served in the Mexican War, and mustered out of service 1847. In the following year he settled in Athens, Ohio.

Hon. Delcour S. Potter, ¹⁰⁹⁴ of Schuylerville, N. Y., was born in the town of Saratoga, April 19, 1843; educated in Schuylerville Academy and Fort Edward Institute; and is an attorney and counsellor at law. He was a member of Assembly in 1880, serving on the Committees on General Laws, Affairs of Villages, and Public Education; in 1881, serving as chairman of Affairs of Villages and member of Public Education and Joint Library.

Colonel Isaac Mathewson Potter, 1219 of Providence, R. I., was born in Seituate, R. I., Aug. 27, 1833. "His father was a well-to-do farmer and a respected citizen. His mother was a descendant of William Arnold, of Leamington, England, who came to New England in 1636. Colonel Potter was educated in the public schools of his native town and at Smithville Seminary, North Scituate, since known as Lapham Institute, and also studied book-keeping at Schofield's Commercial College, Providence.

"He remained at home and worked on the farm until he was nineteen years of age, when he was apprenticed to a manufacturing jeweller in Providence, with whom he continued about three and a half years. In 1856, he formed a partner-ship with Albert W. Delnah, and began the manufacture of jewelry in Providence.

"On the outbreak of the Civil War in 1861, both members of the firm enlisted in the service of their country.

^{*}ROGER WILLIAMS'S daughter, Mercy, married Resolved Waterman and had by him five children. After his death she married Samuel Winsor, and had three children, Samuel, Joshua, and Hannah. Samnel Winsor, son of Samuel and Mercy, married Mercy Harding. They had two sons and seven daughters, the second of whom, Mary (born Aug. 5, 1707), married Fisher Potter.

[†]Wait was daughter of Colonel John and Sally (Fenner) Waterman. John was son of Joseph Waterman, Jr. He was son of Joseph and Judith (Sprague) Waterman. This first Joseph was son of Nathaniel, Jr., and Mary (Olney) Waterman. He was son of Nathaniel and Susanna (Carder) Waterman. Nathaniel was eldest son of Colonel Richard Waterman, the companion of Roger Williams.

"Mr. Potter was one of the first to respond to the call for three-months' men, and enlisted as a private in Company C, 1st Regiment, Rhode Island Volunteers, with which he proceeded at once to Washington, D. C. He was in the first battle of Bull Run, and served faithfully with his regiment until it was mustered out of service.

"In the following winter, he was authorized by Governor Sprague to raise a company for the 3d Regiment of Rhode Island Heavy Artillery. Was commissioned first lieutenant in Company F, and later detailed to Company B, same regiment.

"At the battle of Secessionville, Lieutenant Potter was severely wounded in the right wrist while leading his men against the enemy's works. After the battle he received a sick leave and returned home.

"Nov. 20, 1862, he accepted an appointment as captain in the 5th Regiment Rhode Island Infantry, then stationed at Newbern, N. C., but was detailed to remain in the State to recruit men for the regiment, which he was ordered to join in February, 1863.

"Captain Potter remained with his company until the close of the war, participating in all its marches and the battles in which it was engaged. He was appointed major, Feb. 27, 1865, and was soon afterwards brevetted lieutenant-colonel.

"In 1875, Colonel Potter was chosen a representative to the General Assembly of Rhode Island, and re-elected in 1876, serving the first year on the Committee on Militia, and the second year as chairman of the Joint Standing Committee on Executive Communications. He is a member of the Grand Army of the Republic of Rhode Island, and was a delegate to the National Encampment at Dayton, Ohio, in 1880. Before and since the Civil War he served in the Rhode Island militia, and is a member of the First Light Infantry Veteran Association, being at present an officer therein. In June, 1880, he was a delegate to the National Republican Convention at Chicago. He was an active member of the Providence Board of Trade. For many years he has been a member of the Masonic fraternity, having united with What Cheer Lodge of Providence in 1860. Colonel Potter was a Presidential elector on the Republican ticket, 1884." - Extract from the Rhode Island Biographical Cyclopedia.

VERNON POTTER, 1259 of New York City, was born at Richfield, N. Y., Sept. 14, 1804. He lived in Richfield and Winfield, N. Y., and removed to Utica, N. Y., about 1846. His son, Captain Ira Charles Potter, 1298 of Utica, N. Y., enlisted in the 76th New York Volunteers in 1861, went through the lines of promotion, and returned at the close of the war as captain of his company.

VERNON POTTER, Jr., 1299 enlisted in the 117th New York Volunteers in July, 1862, and after serving some time in Maryland and Virginia, was detailed to clerical duty in the War Department at Washington. He died there, May 27, 1872.

John Fletcher Potter ¹³⁰⁰ enlisted in the 76th New York Volunteers in 1861, and served in Maryland and Virginia about one year, when he was honorably discharged from active service for disability, and detailed to clerical duty in the Adjutant-General's office at Washington. He was, after the close of the war, an editor on the Utica Evening Telegraph and Syracuse Daily Courier. He died at Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 15, 1882.

Rev. RAY POTTER, 1488 of Pawtucket, R. I., was born in Cranston, R. I., June 22, 1795, and died in Pawtucket, R. I., March 1, 1858. He was a prominent minister of the Baptist church, and devoted a very active life to promoting the happiness and spiritual welfare of mankind. His house was always open to the fugitive slaves, and he was ever ready to aid them on their way to freedom, and also noted for his labor in the cause of temperance.

Asa P. Potter, 1537 of Boston, Mass., born in Boston, Mass., Sept. 9, 1838. He attended the Brimmer School till 1852; after this he served at clerkships, as follows: six months in his grandfather's counting-room, Pawtucket, R. I.; six months in a store in New York City; then about one year in the printing-house of J. S. Potter & Co., of Boston; and in 1854 entered the office of Samuel A. Way, Esq., of Boston; he remained with him when he organized the Bank of the Metropolis, which he subsequently purchased and continued as a private bank. Mr. Potter was a junior partner with Mr. Way from 1865 until the time of Mr. Way's death in 1872. He was also one of the trustees of Mr. Way's estate.

Mr. Potter entered the Maverick Bank directory in 1872; vice-president, 1873; elected president, Jan. 11, 1876, which office he still holds.

HISTORY AND GENEALOGY

OF THE

POTTERS AND THEIR DESCENDANTS

IN AMERICA, TO THE PRESENT GENERATION.

One Volume, large quarto (size 12 x 15 inches), handsomely bound in cloth, bevelled edges, $7.50.

Or Full Morocco, Gilt

$12.50.

The work has been compiled historically, genealogically and biographically, and artistically illustrated with finely executed portraits of the following named persons of eminence:—

Rt. Rev. ALONZO POTTER, Bishop of Pennsylvania.

ASA P. POTTER, Massachusetts.

Hon. BURTON W. POTTER, Massachusetts.

Hon. CLARKSON N. POTTER, New York.

THOMAS POTTER, Philadelphia.

WARREN B. POTTER, Massachusetts.

Rev. Wm. J. Potter, Massachusetts.

RICHARD A. EDDY, Montana.

Hon. LUKE POTTER POLAND, Vermont.

The long time required for the compilation of this work, and the artistic manner of its execution, have made it very expensive, but, in compliance with the promise of the compiler, it will be furnished at the prices stated above. The notices sent out July 2, 1888, advised that there would not be any books provided at the prices, excepting for the advanced subscribers. He has, however, received a good many complaints respecting that course, from persons who did not receive the notices in time, or inadvertently omitted to engage copies. Therefore, this notice will now be sent to all, and, besides the subscribers, others may obtain copies, so far as the limited number of extra copies will supply them.

The work has just been issued from the press of Alfred Mudge & Son, Boston.

Copies will be forwarded upon receipt of the price, by express. Remittances may be made in Registered Letters, P. O. Money Orders, or Bank Drafts.

This circular is addressed only to those whose families are recorded in the Genealogies.
