THE HISTORY OF THE "JACKSON FAMILY,"

By REV. H. P. JACKSON.

Introduction.

"GOD SETTETH THE SOLITARY IN FAMILIES."

IT was the custom in ancient Israel to preserve the relations of the family by a carefully kept record of all its members. To trace their genealogy was an easy task. (See Luke 3:23-38). In modern times, however, among the Gentiles, this practice is not in vogue; and many persons take so little interest in the history of their progenitors, that they can scarcely tell even the names of their grandfather and mother.

Among the many families of the great Caucasian race is one distinguished from others by the name of

JACKSON.

It is an ancient and now a large family. Doubtless, if the records had been correctly kept, it could be traced back to some of the brave old knights, who fought among the Anglo-Saxons against invasions of their territory by northern hordes in the early centuries. This idea reminds us of the lines of Rev. Cotton Mather :

"The poor Americans are under blame,
Like them of old that from Tel-mehah came,
Conjectured once to be of Israel's seed,
But no record appeared to prove the deed ;
Thus like Habajah's sons, they were put by,
For having lost their genealogy."

Surely each generation of the Jacksons has neglected the exhortation of Moses in Deut 32:7: "Remember the days of old, consider the years of many generations; ask thy father and he will show thee; thy elders and they will tell thee." For if each generation of the Jacksons had asked the fathers for a history and genealogy of the generation preceeding, it would have been handed down from sire to son in an unbroken chain of lineal succession from very, very ancient times. But such is not the case—and hence we cannot follow the historic chain very far until we come to "the missing link," that ushers us into the great "unknown," whose historic pages of our ancient friends we never can peruse. Suffice to say, the name Jackson indicates that the stock is pure Anglo-Saxon, but their individual history is submerged in that of a race of people, who originally came from ancient Scandinavia with the John-sons, William-sons, Thom-sons, Ander-sons and Hender-sons.

By correspondence with individuals in Ireland and others, we learn that the family, whose genealogy we are to trace, emigrated from Scotland to the north of Ireland at a very remote period; that they suffered many hardships on account of the cruel and arbitrary exactions of the English government. The continuance of these grievances induced many by the name of Jackson to come to this Western continent and seek homes free from the tyrant's iron rule. Paul Jackson, son of Samuel Jackson, was Professor of Greek in the University of Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia, from 1753-1758. His father came over early in 1700 and settled first in Virginia and then removed to Chester county, Pa., and died there. Others of the family relation graduated at the same Institution at an early day; and the Jackson blood courses in the veins of thousands who now dwell in the east and west of this broad country.

About the year 1690, Joseph Jackson was born, who, with three of his brothers, became prominent physicians at Carrickfergus, county Antrim, and Newtown Limavady, county Londonderry, Ireland. These counties join, and the towns, above named, are about 35 miles apart; the former being 10 miles from Belfast, and the latter 16 miles N. E. of the town of Londonderry. Limavady has now a population of 3000 inhabitants.

Dr. Jackson located first at Carrickfergus and afterwards at Limavady. He was married three times. What were the names of his first and second wives could not be ascertained ; but his third wife was Lady Mary Carr, sister of Lord James Carr. She first married a man by the name of Jackson and had one son—Hugh. Her husband died, and she then became the third wife of Dr. Joseph Jackson, and was thus married to two men, not related, by the name of Jackson.

One daughter, named Margaret, was the fruit of this marriage. She was born in 1746. She married against her parents' wishes, William McCaughey, a weaver, at Newtown, Limavady, Ireland, Nov. 28th, 1769, and emigrated to America in 1773. Her mother was of the nobility ; the McCaugheys were plebians, which explains the above named opposition. They lost one child at sea, an infant, and with one child, about three years old, landed at Philadelphia in July or August. Wm. McCaughey (familiarily called "Billy") wore knee-breeches, and at the landing, being very warm weather, had taken off his shoes and stockings to keep cool. Their baggage was loaded on the dray and started to the custom-house to be examined. Billy ran after them, being very indignant, and demanded what they were going to do with their baggage. She, more cool and thoughtful, followed slowly with the child, and found him very much agitated, thinking their goods were being openly taken from them. When convinced that all was right, he became composed. They expected their half-brother, David, to meet them, for they had written him at Edenton, Pa., that they would land about a certain time at Philadelphia. When they landed, David was not there ; so they started to walk out to Edenton—a distance of 50 miles. At the Inn where they lodged the first night, a plate of red apples was handed around, and Billy thought they might be poisonous, so he would neither take one nor permit the child, which was begging for one, to do so. The rest of the company ate of the apples, and the mother secretly slipped one to the child without Billy knowing it. The next day they moved on for some distance, when Billy sat down by the road on a log and refused to move a step farther. He said their friends should have met them and welcomed them to America. While she was expostulating with him and trying to convince him of his folly, her brother David came along with a conveyance—the formal welcome was given, and all went forward to David's home at Edenton, Chester Co., Pa. They settled on a farm in Chester Co., a few miles from Oxford, and connected by letter with the Associate Presbyterian church of which Rev. Matthew Henderson was then pastor. The following is a copy of their church certificate, which they brought from Ireland and with which they were received into the Oxford church, Pennsylvania :

"That Wm. McCaughey and his family are members of this congregation, being about to remove to North America, and may be admitted to the enjoyment of church privileges in any christian society to which they may apply, is certified at Newtown, Limavady, Ireland, 23rd May, 1773. By Jacob Davies, V. D. M." ("V. D. M." stands for "Minister of the Divine Word").

In 1782 they entered the Union that formed the Associate Reformed Church. In 1806 they removed to Jefferson Co., Ohio, near Mt. Pleasant, and connected by letter with the Associate Reformed Congregation of "Short Creek," two miles south east of Mt. Pleasant, of which Rev. Alexander Calderhead was pastor. We give a copy of the church certificate they brought from Oxford, Pennsylvania :

"The bearers hereof, William McCaughey and Margaret, his wife, with their daughters Margaret and Elizabeth, have been in full communion in the Associate Reformed Congregation, of Oxford, preceding the date hereof, and remove therefrom free from scandal or ground of church censure ; and may be received into communion wherever God in his providence may order their lot in the church. Also their sons, James and Joseph, are young men, who have been raised in the congregation, and, as far as is known, have conducted themselves in a sober, orderly manner. In testimony of the above, these are given at Oxford, Penn., this 6th day of October, A. D., 1806.

Signed by order of the Session,

EBENEZER DICKEY, Moderator."

(Rev. Dickey was raised in Oxford congregation and installed its pastor in 1796).

Mrs. Margaret McCaughey was a woman of fine mental endowments, clear-headed, had a wonderful retentive memory, was an omniverous reader, and had a large experience in life, having passed through a varied and adverse series of fortunes—sometimes prosperity, and again adversity. When they removed to Ohio, they sold their farm in Chester county, Pennsylvania, and bought a half section of land on Short Creek, in Jefferson county, Ohio, with some improvements. After paying for this land and living on it for some time, they discovered that the land was encumbered by a mortgage, and they had to pay it to get a good title. The man to whom they sold their Chester county farm failed and they lost by him $1,400. To meet their losses, they were obliged to sell all their land, save 100 acres, and he was compelled to work hard at his trade (weaving) to obtain a living. She in this emergency proved a valuable helper. Having some of her father's medical books and surgical instruments, she commenced and successfully practiced midwifery for nearly twenty years. In many respects she was a remarkable woman. She had never been at school and yet was well educated—was very intelligent and able to converse on almost any subject. Above all she was noted for her piety and was truly a saintly woman, for she left such a religious impression on the minds and hearts of her children that all her posterity, with few exceptions, are professors of religion and members of the church.

Wm. McCaughey, her husband, died about 1827 and is buried at Mt. Pleasant, Jefferson county, Ohio. She had lived on Short Creek until 1833 and then went to Belmont county, Ohio, near St. Clairsville, and lived with her daughter, Margaret Taggart, where she also died in 1839, aged 91 years and 9 months. She often spoke of her two half-brothers, both named Hugh. One she called "long Hugh" and the other "short Hugh." The former the son of her father, and the latter the son of her mother by former marriage. She talked much about County Antrim, Ireland, in her extreme old age. While much of the genealogy of her posterity was obtained, yet it was not complete enough, else it might have been given in this book. Her children were seven, viz.:

1. JANNET born in Ireland Dec. 15th, 1770; married Joseph McCaughey, a cousin, and died 1844.

2. The one born in Ireland in 1772, and died on the ocean on their way to America.

3. JANE, born Jan. 25th, 1778 ; married Wm. McCaughey, a cousin, April 18th, 1799 ; died July 15th, 1854.

4. JOSEPH, born July 5th, 1781 ; married Elizabeth Humphrey, died (date not given).

5. MARGARET, born Aug. 5th, 1783 ; married Isaac Taggart, 1811 ; died Jan. 24th, 1873.

6. JAMES, born Aug. 29th, 1785 ; married Elizabeth McCune ; died July, 1830, of cholera.

7. ELIZABETH, born March 8th, 1788 ; married first Robt. Pollock, and second James Hogue ; died 1883.

Their children's children are very numerous, many of whom are dead, and the living are scattered far and wide over the land—engaged, some in the professions, and others in varied occupations in life. The great majority of them are United Presbyterians.

Their history should be written by some one of Margaret McCaughey's descendants, and it would be, no doubt, very interesting. For information of her posterity—to any one desiring to do so—you are referred to Dr. W. W. Taggart, of Wooster, Ohio ; Mrs. Sarah McGlenn, of Mt. Pleasant, Ohio, and Mrs. Jane D. Parker, Parker's Landing, Pa.

Dr. Joseph Jackson, by his first wife, had one child, Andrew, who became one of what were called "United Men."

They were Republicans and were hostile to the Government in certain measures, and had to flee his native country at a moment's warning. He came with his wife and two sons, Hugh and Robert, to South Carolina, and located over the North Carolina line in the "Wax Haw Settlement." They were penniless, having suddenly and secretly to escape from Ireland, forsaking all they had. The Government confiscated his property.

This was in the year 1765, and he died not many years afterwards, leaving his wife and family in limited circumstances. No correspondence passed between him and his friends living in Ireland ; hence all trace of him and his family was lost to his relatives. On March 15th, 1767, another son was born in North Carolina, who was called Andrew, and he in 1828, or rather 1829, became the President of the United States. He is known as "Old Hickory."

While he was President, Mrs. Jane McCaughey, daughter of William and Elizabeth McCaughey, met him at Wooster, Ohio, and they talked over their relationship, and found that they were cousins.

Also the following was written by Robert Jackson Henderson, now living in Osage City, Kansas: "General Andrew Jackson stayed over night at my father's house in Ohio in 1829. He was going to take his seat as President. I was 11 years old. Col. Tom Hays, a neighbor of ours, introduced me as his namesake. The General put his hand on my head and asked God to bless me; and then turning to my father said: 'Judge, such boys are soon to come after us and fill our places.' He travelled in his four-horse-coach—all fine dappled-gray horses, and a fine looking negro driver and one servant.* You are also aware of course that Grandfather Jackson and President Jackson were full cousins; and when you see a picture of that old hero, you see a good resemblance of our old grandfather."

The same and corroborating testimony of the relationship is given by Mrs. Sarah McGlenn, of Mt. Pleasant, Jefferson county, Ohio, and by Mrs. Jane D. Parker, of Parker's Landing, Pa., who are descendants of Dr. Joseph Jackson. Gen. Jackson's history is too well known to be repeated here. His portrait is given as a frontispiece to this book on first page.

By his second wife, Dr. Joseph Jackson had three sons—Hugh, Robert, and David. Whether there were daughters by this wife could not be ascertained. Hugh, Robert and David came to America voluntarily of their own choice. They were not compelled to leave like Andrew. Of the posterity of Hugh and Robert, nothing could be learned. Doubtless they were all connected with the church at Newtown, Limavady, Ireland, and their posterity (if there were such), are scattered in different parts of this country. Such is the history of the ancient Jacksons as learned in part by letter from Rev. N. M. Brown, D. D., now pastor of the old Congregation at Limavady, Ireland, and who says: "Jacob Davies was the second pastor of the congregation and his mortal remains lie here in the church lot. I am the seventh pastor." Also information was received from Samuel

FOOT NOTE —*History also tells us that as there were at that time no better ways of travel to Washington, Gen. Jackson left his home—the Hermitage—in Tennessee, the latter part of January, 1829, and traveled in a four-horse coach with twelve mounted men as an escort.

Jackson, now a merchant in Limavady, Ireland, and from others of the Jackson connection, living in different parts of the United States. Margaret McCaughey often spoke of her father, Dr. Joseph Jackson, and of surgical operations he performed, and of her uncles, who were also physicians. She also had some of the surgical instruments and books that had been used by her father in Ireland, which now cannot be found.

Doubtless if this "History of the Jacksons" had been undertaken in her day, it could have been made much more full and satisfactory. Rev. J. M. Dickey, D. D., son of Rev. Ebenezer Dickey, prepared in manuscript a history of the Jacksons. His grandmother's maiden name was Mary Jackson—daughter of Samuel Jackson. Dr. Dickey's history was never published, and his son, J. M. C. Dickey, now of Oxford, Pa., says of it: "I remember well the manuscript, but regret that it cannot be found. I think it was destroyed among other old papers of my father, which were burned some years after his death." Here also doubtless was data that would have been valuable in tracing the early history of the Jacksons.

We give a brief recapulation. Dr. Joseph Jackson had by his first wife one child, Andrew. By his second wife at least three children; Hugh, Robert and David. By his third wife, one child, Margaret, who married Wm. McCaughey, and all came to America.

DAVID JACKSON was the third son by the second wife of Dr. Joseph Jackson, and was born about the year 1730, at Newtown Limavady, County Derry, Ireland. Arriving at the age of manhood, he married Miss Elizabeth Reed about the year 1753. They had four children, all born in Ireland, viz.: Mary, Hugh, Robert and James. With this little family he emigrated to America, landing at Philadelphia in the autumn of 1762. He settled on a farm near Edenton, Chester county, Pa., situated on the Limestone road, six miles north of Oxford and two miles from the Lancaster county line. In those early days of wagoning, Edenton was a stopping place for teams. It consisted of two or three private dwellings, tavern and blacksmith shop. He was a farmer, and a blacksmith by trade. He also lived at one time near to Muddy Run, which is not far from Edenton; and perhaps he also lived in several other places in that immediate neighborhood. But he finally settled on a farm in Colraine township, Lancaster county, Pa., (year not known) and died there at his son James'. Old papers and records at the county seat in Pennsylvania read as follows: "James Jackson, administrator of David Jackson, late of Colraine township, Lancaster county. The accountant charges himself with goods and chattels (appraisement) $330.13. Balance in favor of accountant to be paid out of real estate of deceased $77.37. The accountant craves an allowance for nine years' boardirg at ($40) forty dollars per year." The foregoing was the appraisement of David Jackson's property, filed in the Register's office in Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, and dated the 29th day of August, 1811.

In 1776 the Revolutionary War began, and ended in 1784. Some time during the first year of the war David Jackson entered the service of the Colonies under General Washington, and was in the battle of Trenton December 25, 1776, in which he lost a hand. The particulars are as follows:

Washington and his army crossed the Delaware River in the night, when the river was running full of ice. The attack was made upon the British very early in the morning in the midst of a blinding snow storm. Quinton Anderson, James Ewing and David Jackson were comrades. In the midst of the battle, they were standing together. James Ewing was very much down in spirit, and said, he felt that he would be shot before night. David Jackson and Q. Anderson were talking to him and trying to cheer him up. But while they were talking, a cannon ball came along, killed James Ewing, and struck David Jackson's gun and broke it in two pieces, and cut his wrist nearly off. He immediately wrapped his lacerated and bleeding wrist with his pocket handkerchief, picked up the barrel of his gun, and leaving the stock, he walked to an oxcart loaded with wounded men, mounted it, and with one hand drove it three miles to a place of safety. This circumstance ended his soldier life, but he often held up the stump wrist to his grandsons and said: "Boys, never disgrace the flag of your country! Never!"

His wife Elizabeth died and was buried at Oxford, Chester county, Pennsylvania. He prepared a nice, large slate slab for her grave, and this is the epitaph verbatim on it: "To the memory of Elizabeth Jackson, wife of David Jackson, who departed this life October 7, 1767, in the year of our Lord—aged 34 years.” We learn from this that she was born in 1733. They were members of the Associate Presbyterian church, and in 1782 at the union of the Reformed and Associate Presbyterian churches, he became a member of the Associate Reformed Presbyterian or Union Church of Oxford of which Rev. Ebenezer Dickey, was pastor. He lived for a time (it is thought) after his wife’s death, with his half-sister, Margaret, who married Wm. McCaughey, in Chester county, Pennsylvania, and then for nine years at least, and perhaps longer, preceding his decease, with his son James in Colraine township, Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, where he died in August, 1811, and was buried beside his wife Elizabeth at Oxford. No tombstone marks his grave, but he left a more durable monument in the thorough indoctrination of his children in the fundamental principles of the Bible, and left on them the impress of his own christian character, and sowed the seed of truth in the hearts of his three sons and one daughter that is yet bearing fruit and will to the end of time.

“Of this truth shall record be,
That the coming race may see;
God shall into being bring,
People that his praise shall sing.” Ps 102:12.

“Tell ye your children of it, and let your children tell their children, and their children another generation.” Joel 1:3.

Thus he was “gathered to his people” full of years (being 81), and died in the hope of a glorious resurrection at the Last Day.

The old house in which he lived and died is still standing on the farm in Colraine township, Lancaster county, Pennsylvania; a story and a half house, built of hewed logs weatherboarded. The farm is now owned by James R. Jackson, who can say: “I live on the farm on which my father, grandfather, and great grandfather all lived and died.” The gentle slopes cover the fields of the old farm; the gurgling spring sends forth its limpid waters, and the birds warble their songs there now, as in 1762–1811, but “your fathers, where are they? and the prophets do they live forever?”

We now proceed with the genealogy of David and Elizabeth Jackson.

REV. HUGH HOGUE THOMPSON, D. D.

CHAPTER 1.

HISTORY OF

ROBERT AND MARY JACKSON HOGUE

And Descendants.

By REV. HUGH HOGUE THOMPSON, D. D.

THE object of this chapter is to give a brief history of Robert and Mary Jackson Hogue and trace as far as possible their descendants down to the latest generation. In the fall of 1887 Rev H. P. Jackson informed me that he had undertaken to write a history of the Jackson family and reminded me of the fact that I had "Jackson blood" coursing through my veins, and requested me to aid so far as to trace the descendants of my grandmother, Mary Jackson. There was little of the pride of ancestry in my nature, and I have never banked largely on my kindred. I knew but little concerning many of grandmother's children, or their descendants. However, I agreed to undertake the task. I have now been in correspondence with the different branches of the family for more than two years, and have gathered up many names, dates and facts of which I was an utter stranger before. I have, as far as possible, endeavored to get some account of all the members of each branch of the family. It has been an arduous labor. Difficulties almost insurmountable have sometimes loomed up before me. But by diligence and perseverance they have been overcome. The families have become so widely scattered and far separated from each other, with but little communication passing between them, that all trace of some of them appeared to be lost. It was only after repeated efforts that traces could be found. These would be followed up until success crowned our efforts. The information received was not always as definite and accurate as could have been desired. In the absence of family records, dates were the most difficult thing to reach, and those herein recorded may not in all instances be strictly accurate, but they will generally be found reliable. And here I want to make my acknowledgments to the many friends who aided me in this effort. Nearly all with whom I have had correspondence have promptly responded, giving me all the information within their reach. This much by way of introduction.

MARY JACKSON was the oldest child and only daughter of David and Elizabeth (Reed) Jackson. She was born in the year 1754 in County Derry, Ireland. When she was eight years of age she was brought by her parents to this country, who emigrated to America in the fall of 1762. They settled in Chester county, Pennsylvania, not far from Edenton. Here she grew to womanhood amid the stirring scenes of the Revolutionary War, her father being an officer in that war, and losing a hand in the battle of Trenton, New Jersey. She only enjoyed the limited advantages for an education at that early period. Nature had endowed her with a high order of intellect, and with early culture would have given her great force of character. She was stately in appearance, well moulded in form and of commanding presence. She was gentle in her disposition, attractive in her manners and engaging in conversation. She was regarded as a general favorite in the community in which she lived.

Mary Jackson was married to Robert Hogue in the year 1780, at her father's home near Edenton, Chester county, Pennsylvania. By whom they were inarried I have not been able to learn. As her future destiny is henceforth linked with the Hogue's, and as this chapter is intended to deal with the Hogue family, it may not be improper to introduce here something of their ancestry.

The Hogues were of Scotch origin. Their Scottish name was Hogg. The name was changed alter they reached America, under the impression that that was the American pronunciation. They resided in the Highlands of Scotland, and belonged to that sturdy race of Scotch Covenanters who were made to feel the iron hand of persecution in the days of the Bloody Mary. The family of which our great grandfather was one, consisted of nine brothers, all of whom resided in the same neighborhood, and were identified with the Covenanters. On a certain occasion they, together with many of their friends, were assembled for worship in one of the glens of the mountain, and were surprised by a company of the persecutors. They fled from the presence of their foe, and hid themselves in the mountains. This was the last meeting of these brothers. They were never permitted to reunite in this world. Robert our immediate ancestor, secreted himself for a time and after enduring much suffering and many privations, succeeded in getting word to his wife and child, and after many delays and disappointments, disposed of his property, reached a seaport and took ship for America, and after a tedious and perilous passage landed at Philadelphia about the year 1755. The other brothers remained in Scotland. We have no trace of their descendants further than, we learn that the author of "Hogg's Tales of the Persecuted Covenanters" was a descendant of one of these brothers and Rev. Dr. Hogg, of the Egyptian Mission, was a descendant of another brother.

ROBERT HOGUE after reaching Philadelphia only lived, about two weeks, leaving his wife and child, three years old (who was named Robert) in a strange land and among strangers. His widow with her child, soon made their way out to Chester county, Pennsylvania, where she procured a farm with the money brought from Scotland. She subsequently married a Mr. Patterson by whom she had several children whose descendants are still living in Eastern Pennsylvania. Mr. Patterson died while his children were still young. Our grandfather, ROBERT HOGUE, being some years the senior, remained with his mother until she died, and acted as a father toward his younger half brothers and sisters. At the age of thirty-seven or thirty-eight he married Mary Jackson in 1780. They lived on the old farm in Chester county, Pennsylvania. They were members of the Associate Reformed church and attended church at Fogg's Manor, or Octoraro, Rev. Ebenezer Dickey, D. D., being their pastor. At this place it is supposed Mary Jackson Hogue was buried, she having died in the year 1800. In the year 1814, Robert Hogue with the younger members of the family removed to Belmont county, Ohio, and settled on a farm about five miles north of Morristown. He died in 1824 and his remains were buried in the graveyard attached to the Wheeling Creek Associate Reformed church where he and his family were identified, after they removed to Ohio. He was a man of sterling integrity, a devoted Christian, and reared a family that all took an interest in religious matters.

I will now give some account of these children and their descendants.

The children of Robert and Mary Jackson Hogue were as follows: Robert, David, James, Elizabeth, Hugh, John, Margaret, William, Mary and a child that died in infancy a few days previous to its mother.

I. ROBERT HOGUE was born January 1st, 1782, in Pennsylvania. In early life he learned the blacksmithing business, which avocation he pursued for a number of years, first in Pennsylvania and afterwards in Ohio. When he first moved to Ohio he lived two years on Short Creek in Jefferson county, then he removed to Belmont county, and settled on a farm about one mile north of Lloydsville, where he spent the remainder of his days. He was a member of the Associate Reformed church of Wheeling Creek. He married Martha Watt, June 10th, 1806. He died August 9th, 1864, and his remains lie buried in the graveyard near the church with which he was identified. He had nine children as follows: Margaret Jane, born March 28th, 1807. Died October 23d, 1885. Was never married. Mary, born October 23, 1808. Was married to Thomas Culberson February 11th, 1836. Lived near Uniontown, Ohio. She left no children. Was a member of the Associate Reformed church. Died July 6th, 1877. John Watt, born December 10th, 1810. Learned the carpenter's trade and was a contractor. Died July 28th, 1842, unmarried. Robert Jackson, born November 5th, 1812. He had a taste for gardening. Had established a nursery on his father's farm. Was about removing it to New Lisbon, O., when he was accidently drowned April 23d, 1844. Martha, born October 16th, 1814, and is still living at Morristown, Ohio. Elizabeth Jackson, born January 20th, 1817. Died June 3d, 1839. Rebecca, born June 20th, 1820. Taught school for a time. Was married to Robert McKelvey, December 27th, 1859, who died December 24th, 1884. She is now living in Morristown, Ohio. James, born April 16th, 1823. Died August 4th the same year. Hugh, the youngest child, was born May 13th, 1825. He lived with his mother and sisters on the old homestead till his death December 4th, 1853. These were the children of Robert and Martha Watt Hogue. They are all dead but two, Martha and Rebecca, who reside at Morristown, Ohio. At their demise this branch of the family will become extinct.

II. DAVID was the second son of Robert and Mary Jackson Hogue. Of his birth and death I have no record. He died when a young man and was laid in the same graveyard with his mother.

III. JAMES was the third son of Robert and Mary Jackson Hogue. He was born near Oxford, Chester county, Pennsylvania, in the year 1785, and in the year 1814 was married to Mary Morrison who died in 1817, leaving one child named for her grandmother Mary Jackson, who was born May, 1815. She was never married and I know not if she is yet living. After the death of his first wife, James removed to Ohio in 1817, and in March, 1824, married Mrs. Elizabeth McCaughey Pollock, widow of James Pollock. They lived on the farm three miles east of Mt. Pleasant. He died May 9th, 1865, and is buried at Mt. Pleasant. They were members of the Associate Reformed church. Three children were born unto them. Elizabeth McCaughey, Sarah Ann and James Milton.

1. Elizabeth McC. was born January, 1825. Married Tyler King July, 1853, and had four children, and is now living at Bellaire, Ohio. Her children are: Vina Bell who died September 7th, 1875. Mary Lizzie who married Alexander Stewart October 28th, 1884; lives at Ross, Pennsylvania, and they have one child, David Rodney Milton. Sally Jane King died March 4th, 1883. James Milton King married Florence Jackson, June 8th, 1887. Has one child. Lives at Bellaire, Ohio.

2. Sarah Ann, second daughter of James Hogue was born June 22d. 1829. Married Thomas McGlenn, June 13th, 1861, who died May 3d, 1870, leaving her with two children, J. Averill and Alma Reed. J. Averill studied medicine, graduated at Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, and is now a practicing physician at Mt. Pleasant, Ohio. Alma Reed is unmarried.

These children live with their mother at Mt. Pleasant, Ohio. All members of the Presbyterian church.

3. The third child of James Hogue was a son named James Milton, who died March 10th, 1854, in the twenty-third year of his age. He was a bright and promising young man, but was cut off ere he reached the meridian of his days. He is buried at Mt. Pleasant by the side of his father.

IV and V. Children of Robert and Mary Jackson Hogue were twins named Elizabeth and Hugh, born in Chester county, Pennsylvania, November 18th, 1787.

ELIZABETH married James Baggs in the year 1805. Soon after their marriage they moved to Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. The fruit of this union was five children. The first one died in infancy. The remaining children were Robert Jackson, Mary, Matilda and James. Mr. Baggs died in 1817. Elizabeth then married a Mr. Madlock who only lived two weeks after their marriage. He was accidentally drowned in the Allegheny River. She then removed to Ohio where her father and friends were living. Here she married Samuel Thompson by whom she had five children, Hugh Hogue, Joseph, Margaret, Sally Taggart and William. She died April 20th, 1864, and is buried in the Wheeling Creek graveyard. While living in Pittsburgh she was a member of the Associate church of which Dr. Bruce was the pastor. After she moved to Ohio she united with the Associated Reformed church of Wheeling Creek of which Dr. William Taggart was pastor who also married her to Samuel Thompson.

We will now trace her children and their descendants in the order of their birth.

2. ROBERT JACKSON BAGGS was born December 25th, 1808. Married Margaret Jackson McCaughey, August 9th, 1831; she died in 1889. Jackson was an active business man, being a carpenter by trade; he was an extensive contractor until in 1860 and erected a planing mill and opened a lumber yard in Bridgeport, Ohio. He, together with his two sons, was very successful in business, and now in old age enjoys a competency to support him in his declining days, as he still lives in Bridgeport, Ohio, where he has spent the most of his active life. His children are nine in number, Elizabeth, Mary Ann, James Thompson, George, Andrew Jackson, Joseph M., Josephine, Jennie and William Warren. Elizabeth, the oldest child, was born September 2d, 1832. Married William Boyd, October 1st, 1860. Lived in Bridgeport, Ohio, several years and then moved to a farm near Uniontown, Ohio, where she now lives. Has three children, Allen J. Lash, born May 5th, 1852. Married to Jane Lephart. Has two children, Eden and Mary. He lives in St. Louis, Missouri. The other two children of Mary A. Lash are Oliver, born May 5th, 1856, and Josephine, born July 10th, 1870. Both living with their parents at Brighton. James Thompson, the third child of R. J. Baggs, was born April 1st, 1837. Married October 24th, 1860, to Josephine D. Williams. He was associated in business with his father, was studious in his habits. Had an inventive turn of mind and invented several machines which was of great utility in their mill. For a number of years he was the manager of their extensive business. Was an elder in the Presbyterian church. Died December 5th, 1887, greatly lamented by the church and community. His children were Laura L., born August 27th, 1861, died March 4th, 1885. Edgar M., born January 7th, 1867, died July 6th, 1873. Jenera M., born February 20th, 1869, married June 12th, 1888, to Andrew L. Walling, a telegrapher. Lives in Bridgeport, Ohio. Mary Warren, born November 20th, 1871, lives with her mother. Harry T., born August 26th, 1878. Died March 11th, 1879. George, the fourth child of R. J. Baggs, was born July 24th, 1839, and died the next day.

Andrew Jackson, the fifth child of R. J. Baggs, was born July 11th, 1840. Married Sarah E. Williams, October, 1861, who died June, 1865, leaving two children. He was again married to Katherine Mabry Boyd, October, 1867. Have one child. He has been an active business man, associated with his father and brother in the lumber business. Took an active interest in the construction of the Wheeling Valley Railroad, and is now superintendent of a number of large coal mines situated on the line of that road. He lives in Bridgeport and is a member of the Presbyterian church. His children are Joseph M., born September, 1862, married May 28th, 1885, to Mamie Kochendoffer. Has one child, Sherman Jackson, born May, 1887. The second son of Andrew J. is Sherman Jackson, born June 15th, 1865. Died May 4th, 1886. He was a young man of bright promise and a great favorite in the community. His third child is Frank M., born May 10th, 1871. A bright young man, engaged in railroading.

The sixth child of R. J. Baggs was Joseph M., born December 31st, 1842. Died August 13th, 1844.

Josephine was the seventh child. Born May 12th, 1845. An amiable and devoted daughter. Still lives with and looks after the interests of her father in his old age.

Lina A., born September 22d, 1884, and Walter S., born April 23d, 1886. This completes the list of the children and descendants of Matilda Baggs Boyd as far as I have been able to gather them. Where many of them live or what are their occupations I have not been able to learn.

5. The fifth child of Elizabeth Hogue Baggs was JAMES, born November 15th, 1816, died October 19th, 1832. He fell some thirty feet from a tree, was severely injured and after lingering nine days in great suffering, died, having never regained consciousness.

† Elizabeth Hogue Baggs having married Samuel Thompson, January 7th, 1819, I come now to trace her descendants as the fruit of this marriage.

6. HUGH HOGUE THOMPSON, the sixth child, born October 15th, 1819. He was educated at Franklin and Madison Colleges. Received his theological training at the Associate Reformed Seminary at Allegheny, Pennsylvania. Was licensed to preach the gospel, April 23d, 1845, and was ordained and installed pastor of the congregation of Cochranton, Pennsylvania, October 9th, 1847. Here he remained for over seventeen years. In April, 1865, he removed to Urbana, Ohio, where he was pastor of the United Presbyterian church for fourteen years. He still resides at that place. He was Moderator of the Second Synod of the United Presbyterian church at its meeting in Piqua, Ohio, in 1868. He was elected Stated Clerk of the same Synod in 1877, which office he still holds—having been re-elected three times for a term of four years each. In the spring of 1867 he was elected Stated Clerk of Sidney Presbytery, which office he has continued to hold down to the present time, a period of twenty-three years. In May, 1880, he was appointed Financial Agent of Xenia Theological Seminary. During that and the two subsequent years he visited the most of the churches in the western half of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, collecting funds for said institution. He collected and published a history of Sidney Presbytery and the congregations in 1876. Franklin College, New Athens, Ohio, honored him with the title of D. D. in 1879. He was married to Margaret Elizabeth Cochran, September 5th, 1848. She died June 19th, 1865, leaving him with four children. He was again married to Matilda B. JAMES A. MCWILLIAMS, born October 30th, 1823. Moved to Kansas and was married there. Has two children. This completes the children of Mary Hogue McWilliams.

The name Mary is found in five generations of this family which gives them the honor of perpetuating the name of the honored ancestor from whom they sprang. I also notice that Robert and Hugh appear to be favorite names in nearly all the families descended from Robert and Mary Jackson Hogue. There are few professional men among their descendants. They have generally been tillers of the soil or worthy mechanics. They have been honored, respected and loyal citizens and almost uniformly identified with some branch of the christian church. I have now completed the work undertaken. It is not altogether satisfactory to myself, and doubtless will not be satisfactory to many of the friends. I have done the best I could with the material furnished. It has been a labor of love, and if it affords any gratification to the numerous descendants of Robert and Mary Jackson Hogue, I will be satisfied.

HUGH JACKSON, second child of David and Elizabeth Jackson, was born at Newtown, Limavady, Ireland, in 1756, and came with his father and family to America in 1762. He grew to manhood on the farm in Chester county, Pennsylvania, and married Agnes Patterson. They were members of the Associate Reformed church, and, at an early day, removed to Straban township, Adams county, Pennsylvania, where they bought a farm one and a half mile northwest of Gettysburg, on Rock Creek. We copy an old letter which Hugh Jackson wrote to his brother James in Lancaster county, Pennsylvania.

"STRABAN TOWNSHIP, ADAMS COUNTY, PA., April 25, 1817.

"Dear Brother and Sister: We again post a few lines to you. We are well as to health, thanks to God, but the frailties of nature are fast advancing and we are not well fixed for nursing our infirmities. When Samuel was here last fall, he said he had a mind to come here. I told him, that I (not knowing that) had made all but a bargain with John Patterson, and I would like to stand to my word. We finished that bargain and moved on the place, in hopes he would be with us on the first of April. But he has turned his course, and here we are alone. Now if Samuel, or rather you, were not too much engaged, but could spare him, and he will come on as soon as possible, we do assure you and him, it will be to his advantage. Neither of us being stout and no hopes that we shall ever be better, we wish to suspend farming, and desire some confidential friend to take the care and labors of the farm. We want him to crop. The bargain shall be as advantageous as we can afford this year, and next year it shall be according to the custom of the country, or rather better. If he comes, the sooner the better, for work presses hard, and we have a good piece of ground to put in corn, and if he don't soon come, I cannot get it ready. Let us know in your letter how Jean Johnston and family are. Give our respects to our old friends and neighbors. Mary Campbell and John Patterson join their friendship with us to you and family, whilst we remain your brother and sister till death."

"HUGH AND AGNES JACKSON."

In the war of 1812 Hugh Jackson was a volunteer, and went in company with Wm. Thompson (whose family now live in Gettysburg), driving a six horse team to Canada. We could not learn whether or not he was in any battle. He never had any children. Minor Reed, (a relative on his mother's side) was for a time an inmate of his household, and his wife's brother, who was a lame man and a school teacher, resided with them much of the time. Minor Reed died at Hugh Jackson's.

The farm he sold in 1823 to Wm. McClellan. Subsequent to this sale, we could not learn the exact place of his residence, but he still lived in that neighborhood and died about the year 1830. Where he and his wife were buried, we know not, but perhaps in an old graveyard near Hunterstown, six miles from Gettysburg. At the battle of Gettysburg, on July 1st, 1863, this farm where Hugh Jackson once lived was within the lines of the armies, and a shell passed clear through the house and set fire to the furniture, etc., and would have consumed the building had not the owner been there to extinguish it. A number of the wounded men were taken there to receive attention, and the floors were stained with blood for a long time afterwards. This is not the house in which Hugh Jackson lived, but it stands upon the spot where the house in which he did live stood. Old people now in that neighborhood remember Hugh and Agnes Jackson as nice, clever, honest and christian old people.

They did not live in vain, howbeit their lives were unpretentious and quiet. And although they lived on what is now historic ground, and while the destinies of this great Nation were decided on their farm and around their home, when the battle raged on July 1st, 1863, yet their names are not written on the tablet of fame. They served, however, their day and generation well, and were gathered to their fathers as a shock of corn fully ripe—he being seventy-four years of age. Could we have visited the neighborhood in which they lived and died, we could have learned, perhaps, more of them and their history, and also have ascertained definitely the location of their graves. A paper, received lately from a friend in Gettysburg, containing a history of the church there, recorded their names as members of the Associate Reformed congregation of Gettysburg. This is the fullest history of them that could be gathered from persons in and near Gettysburg, who either knew or had heard of these two, who have passed away from the earth, leaving no children to perpetuate their name and memories. The letter above quoted in this brief account is given to show their occupation and residence, as well as to give a view of their christian character; for the letter, though a business one, breathes a spirit of gratitude and humble, patient submission to God, who guides in all the affairs of man. “Requiescat in pace.”

CHAPTER III.

By REV. H. P. JACKSON.

ROBERT JACKSON, third child of David and Elizabeth Jackson, was born in 1758, at Newtown, Limavady County Derry, Ireland, and came to America with his father and family in 1762. When he grew to mature years, he connected with the Associate Reformed church at Oxford, Pennsylvania. Some time during the Revolutionary War he entered the American army (year not known), and was engaged at least in one battle, (name not given). His company was located behind a rail fence, and the British bullets knocked the splinters in a lively manner from the fence in front of them. However Robert Jackson escaped without injury. In the spring of 1786, he married MISS ELIZABBTH McCORKLE, an orphan, who was raised in the same neighborhood by a Quaker family. Her history is one that will touch sympathetic hearts.

Her father and mother, two brothers and herself, the youngest of the family, emigrated from Scotland to America and landed at Philadelphia some time early in the Revolutionary War. They were taken to the blockhouse; the father and two sons were drafted and taken into the army, while the mother and daughter remained in the blockhouse. The father and one son were killed in battle. The other son met his death by accident. At that time a polished cow's horn swung by the side contained the powder for the gun. By some mishap the powder-horn he was carrying came in contact with a spark from his gun, which exploded it, making a hole in his side, from which he died. Thus the mother and daughter, poor and penniless, were left strangers in a strange land, far from their native home and friends.

The mother had brought with her from Scotland an old-fashioned spinning wheel. With this wheel she, by her industry and economy, earned enough to buy a loom, and she wove sheets and other kinds of cloth. The news of the death of her husband and sons was too great a shock to her. She sickened and died in the blockhouse. Her body was wound in one of the sheets she had woven with her own hands, and buried without a coffin; and now she sleeps in an unknown grave somewhere in or near Philadelphia. The daughter, Elizabeth, then bereft of all earthly relatives in America, was given to a Quaker woman and family, who moved to Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, where she matured into a noble, christian woman, and became the wife of Robert Jackson in 1786.

As we propose to trace the genealogy of Robert and Elizabeth Jackson, we will give a brief description of their personal appearance and characters, which will, no doubt, be of interest to their posterity. We gathered the following:

ROBERT JACKSON was six feet high; of slender form; shoulders rather broad and a little stooped; weight one hundred and seventy-five pounds; of dark complexion; black curly hair; and long lean face. He was of a sedate disposition; did not engage in foolish fun, but was fond of company of his own kind; a man of pleasant and agreeable manners, but, like "Old Hickory" Jackson, was full of mettle of the right ring. He was like a bell—touch him and he would sound. He was a wheelwright by trade, but worked on the farm as well. He was of industrious and abstemious habits; a great reaper in the harvest field with the old-fashioned sickle. It was the custom then to have whisky in the harvest field to drink, but it was his habit to sit on the fence, with his hat off, resting, while others were drinking. He was not a man of many words, but good company on subjects that were profitable to be discussed. He would, in holy indignation, resent and resist the oppression, or fun being made, of the weak, who were making strenuous and honest efforts to do right. At one time in a harvest field, when sixty years old, he threw his sickle down and cracked his fists together, saying: "I can whip any man that will impose on a boy!" A dozen harvesters reaping in the field were making sport of a boy who was trying to make a hand in the same field with them.

ROBERT JACKSON was indirectly involved in resisting the excise law for Internal Revenue on whisky, called "The Whisky Insurrection'' in Western Pennsylvania, July 16th, 1794. He aided and abetted by loaning his gun to a neighbor, who was engaged in it. Fifteen thousand soldiers were sent out to quell the Rebellion; many were arrested and punished; officers and soldiers scoured the country, running their swords and bayonets into hay and straw stacks, and through puncheon floors, in search of concealed insurrectionists. Robert Jackson and a neighbor were compelled to conceal themselves for months in the brush, where the women carried provisions and other necessities to them. But finally the President pardoned and released all engaged in it, and the soldiers were withdrawn. Robert Jackson always contended that the whole affair commenced in fun in a harvest field, where he was at work, to frighten the excise officers, who rode into the field to collect the tax. They threatened him, to see him flee. The joke succeeded. He galloped away, and they pursued. Other harvesters on adjacent farms joined the chase till the crowd became a company, many of whom, maddened by whisky too freely imbibed, threatened violence to the officer, and scarcely could be restrained. Thus the affair, that started in sport, became an insurrection indeed.

He was a man who admired a good horse, and always kept the best draft for farming and teaming, but he cared nothing whatever for race stock.

He was exemplary in his habits, and, as long as he lived, he worshipped God at the family altar morning and evening. He served as a ruling elder in the Associate Reformed congregation of "Short Creek" in the log church two miles southeast of Mt. Pleasant, Jefferson county, Ohio, and also in the Associate Reformed, now First United Presbyterian church, Xenia, Ohio. He died at his son David's, one mile west of Cedarville, Greene county, Ohio, September 26th, 1828, of cramp colic, to which he was subject. Two physicians attended him during his few days' sickness, but could not relieve him of his sufferings. He died Friday morning at day break. Shortly before, he gathered his children around his bed, and gave them some fatherly advice. Keeping his senses to the last, he said: "I am about to be taken away, and if you have no father when I am gone, you have the promise left you that God will be a Father to you.

He has been a father to me, and He will be a Father to my children after me." He requested them to have family worship, which was done; he himself joined in singing the psalm in a clear strong voice. Then a few moments later, as the light was breaking in the east, he suddenly looked up, as if the light of glory was breaking upon his vision, and said: "Is it day?" and immediately expired. As the weeping children stood and gazed upon his dying form, they could truly say: "Help Lord, for the godly man ceaseth; for the faithful fail from among the children of men." Ps. 12:1. Thus passed away a good man from the earth. A large funeral procession of friends and neighbors, far and near, followed his mortal remains to their last resting place in the old Massie's Creek burying grounds, where they now sleep with a tombstone to mark the place.

ELIZABETH McCORKLE JACKSON, his wife, was a large woman, five feet ten inches high, weighed one hundred and ninety pounds. She was a blonde, with blue eyes, auburn hair, nearly five feet long, portly, with commanding, queenly appearance and straight as an Indian. She had a beautiful and amiable disposition and her commanding appearance always insured to her the respect due her as a lady of the first rank. Being raised in a Quaker family, she acquired their kind and hospitable ways, that made her esteemed and revered by all who knew her. She was truly a christian woman, having been a member of the church from early life, one who made all around her feel the power of her godly walk and conversation. During the last five years of her life, she suffered greatly from inflammatory rheumatism, and for nearly three years was confined most of the time to her bed. Yet she was patient, and frequently talked to her husband and also her pastor, Rev. John Steele, of "the rest that remaineth for the people of God." On May 30th, 1822, Robert Jackson wrote to his brother James in Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, in regard to her as follows: "Betty is in a poor state of health with the rheumatism. She has been confined to her bed about three years." She died September 28th, 1822, and was laid in the old Massie's Creek burying grounds, where a tombstone marks her grave. There side by side, she and her husband rest, till the resurrection morn.

We have devoted much space to these two persons in this history, because from them the numerous progeny, which we desire to trace, are sprung. We can give but a brief account of each one of those that follow, else we would swell this book of genealogy beyond proper dimensions. But what has been written will serve to give a clear idea of this branch of the Jackson tree. We thank our friends for their generous assistance in this work.

ROBERT JACKSON AND ELIZABETH McCORKLE were married early in the year 1786, in Lancaster county, Pennsylvania. They removed with the first wagon train drawn by oxen that ever crossed the mountains westward. It was in 1789. They located on a farm in the "Fork's of Yough," Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, and we find the following church certificate among some old papers preserved, which indicates where they were members: "That Robert Jackson and Elizabeth, his wife, were admitted to the distinguishing privileges of the church of Christ in the Associate Reformed congregation of Yough, and now have the same free of scandal or ground of church censure known to us, is certified this 4th day of June, 1790. M. Henderson, V. D. M."

They did not remove from Westmoreland county until 1799, when they sold their farm there and bought one two miles south-east of Mt. Pleasant, Jefferson county, Ohio, and removed to it. Here they lived until 1814, when they removed to Clark's Run, Greene county, Ohio, on the road now between Cedarville and Yellow Springs, to the farm at the present time owned by Capt. John Stevenson. It was to seek better church privileges and a better farm. "They were tired of the hills. He, wife and daughters, came in a boat with household goods down the Ohio River from Wheeling to Cincinnati; while the two sons, David and Robert, drove a six-horse team through loaded with farming utensils, etc. The distance through by land from Mt. Pleasant to Clark's Run is two hundred miles at least.

1. Margaret Jackson, born in Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, April, 1787.

2. Jane Jackson, born in Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, February 10th, 1789.
3. Elizabeth Jackson, born in Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, April 25th, 1790.
4. Mary Jackson, born in Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, February 9th, 1792.
5. David Jackson, born in Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, March 3d, 1794.
6. Rachel Jackson, born in Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, February 17th, 1796.
7. Robert Jackson, born in Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, March 3d, 1798.
8. Elleanor Jackson, born in Jefferson county, Ohio, March 15th, 1800.
9. Martha Jackson, born in Jefferson county, Ohio, September 8th, 1802.
10. Nancy Jackson, born in Jefferson county, Ohio, October 8th, 1804.

We will now trace the genealogy of each one of the above named children in their order of birth.

I. MARGARET JACKSON, (first child of Robert and Elizabeth,) born April, 1787, died September, 1787, and was buried in Chester county, Pennsylvania.

II. JANE JACKSON, (second child of Robert and Elizabeth,) born February 10th, 1789; married February 17th, 1807, by Rev. Alex. Calderhead, near Mt. Pleasant, Ohio, to Thomas Henderson, a farmer. 5. Rachel A. Henderson, born July 5th, 1835; married September 25th, 1856, to H. C. Gillingham, a farmer. She died June 19th, 1878, and is buried at Woodbridge, California. They had two children:

(1.) Samuel A. Gillingham, born August 25th, 1859.

(2.) Ida L. Gillingham, born February 6th, 1862.

6. Priscilla E. Henderson, born February 16th, 1838; married May 1st, 1857, to O. J. Lundy—a miner. They live in the Yosemite Valley, California. They have four children:

(1.) Ella Lundy, born at Hites Cove, Merriposa county, California, 1858; married a Mr. Lundy and have one child—a boy.

(a.) Bertie Lundy, born ———.

(2.) Allie Lundy, born at Hites Cove, California, 1860; married a Mr. Singleton—mechanic. They have one child—a boy.

(a.) Eddie Singleton, born ———.

7. John Manly Henderson, born July 6th, 1840, and was drowned in California, June 3, 1862.

8. Almira L. Henderson, born April 14th, 1843; married December 11th, 1867, to A. C. Rutledge—a merchant in Woodbridge, California. He died March 11th, 1874. They had two children :

(1.) Clarence Rutledge, born June 22d, 1869; died December 28th, 1881.

(2.) George Rutledge, born October 21st, 1870.

9. James K. Polk Henderson, born September 27th, 1845; married September 21st, 1881, to Nellie Woodruff. Postoffice address, Woodbridge, California.

They have one child:

(1.) Annie L. Henderson, born September 26th, 1882.

10. David W. Henderson, born May 17th, 1847; married August 29th, 1869, to Emma J. Fugit. He kept a hotel at Adin, Modock county, California, and in trying to make peace between two drunken ruffians, he was shot in the head and killed by one of the men in 1875. They had three children:

(1.) Birdie A. Henderson, born at Adin, 1870.

(2.) Lillian May Henderson, born at Adin, 1872.

(3.) Thomas Henderson, born at Adin, 1874; died same year.

12. H. Clarence Langford, born March 19th, 1866. He is single; a Prohibitionist, non-church member, and a fruit grower at Los Gatos, California.

III. ELIZABETH JACKSON, (third child of Robert and Elizabeth,) born April 25th, 1790, in Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, and died September 15th, 1810, and is buried two miles southeast of Mt. Pleasant, Jefferson county, Ohio. She was twenty years of age and was a member of the Associate Reformed church.

IV. MARY JACKSON, (fourth child of Robert and Elizabeth,) was born in Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania February 9th, 1792, and was first married, January 1st, 1810, to Joseph Caldwell, farmer, who came from Tyrone county, Ireland. He became a naturalized citizen of the United States, December, 1820. They lived for a time between Smithfield and Cadiz, Harrison county, Ohio, where they connected with the Associate church. Here four sons were born and were baptized by Rev. John Walker, then pastor of the church. They removed to Athens county, Ohio, where his mother and four brothers lived, but they did not connect with any church there. He died October, 1822, aged thirty-two years, and was buried in a Methodist graveyard near the Meigs county line. She immediately after the loss of her husband, removed to Clark's Run, Greene, county, Ohio, to her father's house, and connected with the Associate Reformed congregation of Xenia, in which her father was a ruling elder, and had her two youngest children baptized. Her father stood up with her and Rev. John Steele administered the sacrament. The children of Joseph and Mary Caldwell were eight; all that grew to maturity became useful citizens, and members of the church.

1. JAMES CALDWELL, born in Harrison county, Ohio, October 11th, 1810; married by Rev. Hugh McMillan, February 16th, 1834, to Elizabeth McMillan, near Cedarville, Ohio. He was a farmer, and died December 7th, 1837, and is buried in Massie's Creek Cemetery near Cedarville, Ohio. They had two children :

1. Joseph P. Caldwell, born, October 6th, 1835; married by Rev. J. P. Wright, June 1st, 1859, to Mary Sue McQuillan. He is a farmer and merchant. She died February 6th, 1876. He resides at Cedarville, Ohio. They had three children :

(1.) Elizabeth Caldwell, born January 30th, 1860; married by Rev. J. F. Morton, D. D., April 5th, 1887, to W. L. Blair. They are members of the Reformed Presbyterian church (N. S.) Postoffice address, Cedarville. No children.

(2.) James Caldwell, born December 28th, 1862. Post-office address, Cedarville, Ohio.

(3.) Mary Caldwell, born December 28th, 1865. Member of Reformed Presbyterian church, Cedarville, O.

2. David Riley Caldwell, born August 2d, 1837. He graduated at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, June, 1859, and studied medicine at Ann Arbor, Michigan. He was married by Rev. Riley McMillan at Xenia, Ohio, January 22d, 1862, to Mary J. Armstrong, of London, Ohio. They resided in Clifton and Cedarville, Ohio, where he practiced medicine. In 1873 they removed to Montrose, Henry county, Missouri, which is now their postoffice address. In the autumn of 1874 they bought and moved on a farm of one hundred and ninety-eight acres near Montrose, where he, being in feeble health, superintended the farm and also attended to the duties of his profession. They were members of the Presbyterian church. Heart disease terminated his life. He died April 10th, 1879, and is buried at Stone Chapel, Henry county, Missouri. His family still live on the farm. They had four children:

(1.) Irma J. Caldwell, born at Cedarville, Ohio, November 20th, 1865; died August 7th, 1867.

(2.) Elizabeth Caldwell, born at Cedarville, Ohio, October 12th, 1868.

(3.) Riley Caldwell, born at Cedarville, Ohio, April 4th, 1872; died April 20th, 1872.

(4.) Fulton Earl Caldwell, born in Henry county, Missouri, September 5th, 1873.

2. ROBERT CALDWELL, born in Harrison county, Ohio, January 1st, 1812; married November 10th, 1836, to Mary W. Pollock, of Mercer county, Illinois, where they resided for many years on a farm. He was a ruling elder thirty years in the Associate Reformed church of North Henderson. In 1872 he removed with his family to Eugene, Ringgold county, Iowa, where he served as a ruling elder for twelve years in the United Presbyterian church. In January, 1887, an attack of paralysis impaired his health, so that it was necessary to give up housekeeping and its attendant cares; and he and his wife went in May, 1877, to make their home with their eldest son Charles, in Wichita, Kansas. He died February 6th, 1890, of nervous prostration and heart failure following a severe attack of la grippe, and is buried at Wichita, Kansas. They have five children:

1. Charles S. Caldwell, born in Mercer county, Illinois, August 14th, 1837. He was reared upon the farm with meager educational advantages. He attended Monmouth College one year; taught school; engaged in commercial business, etc., and during the war he was Deputy Provost Marshal for Mercer county, Illinois, and held minor offices in township and county. He was married November 18th, 1858, to Sarah A. Pollock. In 1871 they removed to Wichita, Kansas, and followed mercantile pursuits, when, in 1877, he was elected Register of Deeds for Sedgwick county, Kansas, and re-elected in 1879. He is now engaged in life insurance business in Wichita. They had been members of the United Presbyterian church, but there being no church of this kind in or near Wichita at that date, they at once connected with the Presbyterian church, and he was chosen a ruling elder, and has served the church (the Central Presbyterian of Wichita) in this office and that of choirister ever since. They have three children:

(1.) Eva Dale Caldwell, born April 1st, 1862; died February 20th, 1864.

(2.) Lizzie Gail Caldwell, born December 22d, 1866.

(3.) Charles Guy Caldwell, born June 17th, 1875.

2. Robert Jackson Caldwell, born in Mercer county, Illinois, October 27th, 1838, and was reared on the farm. When the war of the rebellion began, he enlisted August, 1861, in Company C, 36th Volunteer Infantry, and was in the battles of Perryville, Nashville, Stone River, and the campaign around Chattanooga. He was slightly wounded at Stone River and carried back to the hospital at Nashville. In August, 1864, he re-enlisted in the veteran corps, and accepted his first furlough for thirty days and visited his home. On his return to his regiment at Nashville, Tenn., he joined it just in time for the battle of Franklin, where he was killed early in the engagement, November 30th, 1864. Soon after he was killed, his regiment was forced back—the enemy held the ground for several days, and his body was never found. It fills an unknown grave near Franklin, Tennessee. He never married; and, though not a member of the church, yet he was a good man and did not forget his responsibility to God.

3. Emily F. Caldwell, born in Mercer county, Illinois, March 25th, 1843; married November 18th, 1858, first to Thomas R. Pollock, a farmer. He enlisted as a soldier in United States service in Company C, 36th Illinois Volunteer Infantry, August, 1862, and was killed in one of the battles around Chattanooga. They had three children:

At the battle of Stone River, December 31st, 1862, he was killed and was buried on the field in one grave with forty-four of his comrades. This grave is now in the "National Cemetery," three miles from Murfreesboro, Tennessee. He was a good young man and a brave soldier.

V. DAVID JACKSON, born in Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, March 3d, 1794. He was six feet two inches high, and weighed two hundred pounds—large frame and muscular; of extraordinary strength and with a grip that made people wince in shaking his hand. He had light auburn hair and gray eyes; large features and florid complexion. In those days the land was covered with a heavy growth of timber, oaks, poplar and walnut, some of them five feet in diameter. It was an arduous task to clear the ground and fit it for farming. He was skilled in the use of the ax, and was equal to two or three ordinary axemen. His special favorite in stock was the horse, and he always kept six or eight of the largest and finest draft horses for teaming purposes. His common saying was, "I have no corn to feed a balcky horse." He was reared upon the farm and made farming his life-work and business. He had only a limited common school education, but sufficient to attend to his business transactions.

In the war of 1812 he served three months as Adjutant of his company in Northern Ohio, being only eighteen years old, but his company was not engaged in any battle. He was four years old when he left Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, and twenty years old when he came from Jefferson county to Greene county, Ohio. He was married by Rev. William Taggart, February 25th, 1819, to Miss †Nancy Nichol, daughter of John and Ann Woodburn Nichol, who lived four miles from Bridgeport on the pike toward St. Clairsville, Belmont county, Ohio. They came soon after in a two-horse wagon to his father's house on Clark's Run, Greene county, Ohio. They immediately went to house-keeping within a gunshot south of his father's residence, where they lived for nine years, and where five children were born. He then bought a farm of one hundred and seventy-two acres at three dollars per acre, one mile due west from Cedarville, Greene county, Ohio, and moved to it in March, 1828. But a few acres of it were cleared and the house of one room built of hewed logs was near a very large spring. Afterwards another room was added and a porch on the south side the entire length of both rooms. Here their three youngest children were born, and one daughter died. Soon after their marriage they connected by profession with the Associate Reformed, now First United Presbyterian church of Xenia, Ohio, Rev. John Steele, pastor. When the Associate Reformed, now United Presbyterian church of Cedarville, was organized in 1844, they were among the charter members, and were active, consistent members till the days of their deaths. Their house was always one of hospitality, as both of them were very fond of the company of their friends. It was also one of the chief stopping places of the preachers who came to supply the pulpit of their church. Meals were not more regular in their home than family worship morning and evening, and their children were early indoctrinated in the principles of Christianity and sound morality.

He died of gravel at eleven o'clock p. m., July 17th, 1863, and his remains were followed by a very long funeral procession, two days later, to his grave in Massie's Creek Cemetery, two miles below Cedarville. Revs. John A. McCall, his pastor, and Hugh McHatton conducted the funeral religious exercises. His last words were: "What man is he that liveth here and shall not see death? Shall he deliver his soul from the hand of the grave?" Ps. 89:48 "I know that my Redeemer liveth." Job 19:25. His wife, Nancy Jackson, was a woman stoutly built; of medium height; black hair and hazel eyes. She was strong in her religious convictions and faithful in the religious instruction of her children. Her place in the sanctuary was very seldom vacant. She died of dropsy, September 12th, 1876, and was buried beside her husband. Revs. H. F. Wallace, her pastor, and J. F. Morton, D. D., conducted the religious exercises at the funeral. She was staying for a time with her son-in-law and daughter, David and Mary Barber, two and a half miles east of Cedarville. She died there and was buried from their house. She talked with strong assurance of her future life in glory, and sang with clear strong voice a short time before her departure :

“Yea though I walk through death’s dark vale,
 Yet will I fear no ill,
 For Thou art with me and Thy rod,
 And staff me comfort still.
 Goodness and mercy all my life,
 Shall surely follow me,
 And in God’s house forevermore
 My dwelling place shall be.” Ps. 23.

They had eight children, and all became members of the United Presbyterian church at Cedarville, Ohio, except Martha, who died early. They had four sons and four daughters:

1. ELIZA ANN JACKSON, born December 24th, 1819; married by J. E. Mitchell, Esq., February 27th, 1843, to John Franklin Wright, a farmer. They lived three miles east of Cedarville, where she died of congestive fever, October 28th, 1846,, and was buried at Massie’s Creek Cemetery. They had one child :

1. Andrew Jackson Wright, born July 21st, 1845; died at his grandfather Jackson’s with scarlet fever, November 5th, 1848, and was buried beside his mother.

2. MARTHA JACKSON, born December 11th, 1820, and died with winter fever, January 7th, 1841. She was buried at Massie’s Creek Cemetery.

3 GEORGE JACKSON, born March 19th, 1823; height six feet three inches; weight one hundred and seventy-five pounds. First married by Rev. J. H. Buchanan, October 26th, 1848, to Minerva Townsley. They lived all their married life on their farm of one hundred and sixty acres, two miles from Cedarville, Ohio, on the Yellow Springs road. They were United Presbyterians, and he a ruling elder and choirister in the congregation at Cedarville for many years. She died of cancer in the breast, March 18th, 1876, and is buried at Massie's Creek Cemetery. They had two children—daughters:

1. Martha Joanna Jackson, born January 9th, 1850; graduated at the Female Seminary at Washington, Pennsylvania, in 1873, and married by her uncle, Rev. H. P. Jackson, October 7th, 1874, to Judge James P. Rogers—a lawyer of Wheeling, West Virginia. They are members of the Protestant Episcopal church in Wheeling. They have four children:

(1.) George Jackson Rogers, born March 17th, 1876.

(2.) Bessie Johnston Rogers, born July 26th, 1877.

(3.) Minerva Townsley Rogers, born December 25th, 1880; died April 17th, 1882.

(4.) Ladora Kerr Rogers, born November 3d, 1882.

2. Frances Ladora Jackson, born March 12th, 1856; married by Rev. H. F. Wallace, D. D., March 29th, 1882, in Cedarville, Ohio, to R. Finley Kerr. She is a teacher in painting and art. He is a grocer and merchant. They are United Presbyterians, and he is a ruling elder and Sabbath School Superintendent in the Cedarville congregation.

George Jackson was married second time by Rev. W. G. Waddle, D. D., June 18th, 1879, to Mrs. Sarah Margaret McCall, (nee Hammond,) near New Athens, Ohio.

He was in poor health for several years; was confined to his bed several months, and died March 26th, 1880, of dropsy and heart disease, at his home, and was buried at Massie's Creek Cemetery beside his first wife. A monument marks their graves.

4. RUTH L. JACKSON, born January 3d, 1826; married by Rev. J. P. Smart, October 28th, 1851, to Samuel N. Tarbox, (born in Maine, December 3d, 1821.) He is a mechanic and civil engineer. They lived a year or two in the State of Maine, then removed to near Cedarville, Ohio, where they now reside. They are United Presbyterians, and in politics, Republican. They have seven children :

1. John Jackson Tarbox, born in Maine, July 28th, 1852, and died of congestion of the brain, (caused by accidentally being struck on the head by a horse that had fallen with him,) December 4th, 1872. He is buried at Massie's Creek Cemetery close by his home.

2. Thomas Franklin Tarbox, born near Cedarville, Ohio, October 15th, 1853. He is unmarried—is a mechanic. Post-office address, Cedarville, Ohio. He is a Republican and United Presbyterian.

3. Theodore H. Tarbox, born near Cedarville, Ohio, December 12th, 1855. He attended several years the Ohio State Agricultural University at Columbus. He is unmarried—is a mechanic and civil engineer at Santa Anna, California. He is a United Presbyterian and Republican.

4. Harry L. Tarbox, born near Cedarville, Ohio, April 24th, 1858; married by Rev. E. S. Weaver, March 12th, 1884, to Essie Daugherty. He is a mechanic. Postoffice address, Findlay, Ohio. They have two children :

(1.) Nellie Tarbox, born April 12th, 1885.

(2.) Fred Tarbox, born July 18th, 1887.

5. David N. Tarbox, born July 13th, 1860; married April 10th, 1889, by Rev. S. M. Bailey, to Martha Hart, of Cedarville, Ohio. He is a house-painter and mechanic. They are members of the United Presbyterian church at Cedarville, and Republicans.

6. Lida O. Tarbox, born October 21st, 1862. She is a school teacher and typographer. Member of United Presbyterian church. Her home is with her parents, two miles west of Cedarville.

7. U. Waldo Tarbox, born November 4th, 1865, and died with membranous croup, December 20th, 1868, and is buried at Massie's Creek Cemetery.

5 JOHN ROSS JACKSON, born February 3d, 1828. When a young man he learned the carpenter's trade, at which he worked in Cedarville for a number of years. He became a member of the Associate Reformed congregation of Cedarville, Ohio, and in 1855 he went West, where he was employed at his trade and as a land agent in Washington and Council Bluffs, Iowa. He entered a claim in Kansas, and while there he was bitten by a club rattlesnake, from which he almost miraculously recovered, only to feel at that season of the year ever afterward the peculiar sensation of the serpent's poison.

In 1859 he took a tour of exploration into Arizona and New Mexico, and while there he was seized with congestion of the brain and died September 6th, 1859, at Agua Caliente Rancho, River Gila, New Mexico, and was buried there. Some pictures of his brother Parks, and a cousin in his possession, and papers of no financial value, were sent home to his parents, who doubted that he was dead; but as he has never returned, the announcement that he is really dead is perhaps true. His height was five feet eleven inches; weight one hundred and sixty pounds.

6. MARY JACKSON, born October 22d, 1830; married by Rev. J. H. Buchanan, November 30th, 1853, to David S. Barber, (born April 16th, 1826.) He was a farmer and carpenter; a Democrat. They were United Presbyterians, and always resided in or near Cedarville, Ohio. He died suddenly of heart trouble, January 12th, 1885, and was buried in the cemetery one mile north of Cedarville. She removed soon after from their farm, two and one-half miles east of Cedarville, into the town where she resides. They had seven children :

1. Martha D. Barber, born December 18th, 1854; married by her uncle, Rev. H. P. Jackson, April 28th, 1875, to Wm. E. Elrick, a carpenter and Democrat. They live in Cedarville and are United Presbyterians. They have one child:

(1.) Edna Fern Elrick, born June 30th, 1876.

2. Infant Daughter, born and died May 22d, 1857.

3. Estella Mary Barber, born July 26th, 1858. She is a milliner and a United Presbyterian. Resides with her mother.

4. Robert Benton Barber, born July 19th, 1861; married by Rev. J. F. Morton, D. D., November 19th, 1885, to Kate R.

Bratton. He is a farmer and Prohibitionist, and they are members of the United Presbyterian congregation of Cedarville, Ohio. They have one child:

(1.) Mary Louise Barber, born July 6th, 1888.

5. Lydia L. Barber, born March 4th, 1864; married by Rev. A. M. Campbell, May 25th, 1887, to Charles Dean, a carpenter. They live in Cedarville and are United Presbyterians. They have one child:

(1.) Bertha Dean, born November 4th, 1888.

6. David Wallace Barber, born February 14th, 1868; married by Rev. A. M. Campbell, November 14th, 1887, to Sallie Gillaugh. He is a carpenter and farmer, near Xenia, Ohio.

7. George Hall Barber, born November 16th, 1871. He is in the High School at Cedarville, Ohio, and resides with his mother.

7. ROBERT McCORKLE JACKSON, born June 11th, 1834; married by Rev. W. H. Haney, October 28th, 1868, to Kate Ann Williamson, of Cedarville, Ohio. He is a farmer, Prohibitionist, violinist, music teacher, and was for many years choirister in the United Presbyterian church at Cedarville. He was with the "Squirrel Hunters"* at Cincinnati in 1862. They are members of the First United Presbyterian church, Xenia, Ohio. They live on their farm of one hundred and sixty acres, situated two miles west of Cedarville, their postoffice address. He is six feet three inches high; weight, one hundred and eighty pounds. No children.

8. HUGH PARKS JACKSON, born one mile west of Cedarville, Ohio, April 18th, 1836; was baptized by Rev. John Steele, at Xenia, Ohio; height six feet four inches; weight two hundred pounds. He worked on the farm until sixteen years of age, then entered the Cedarville Academy in 1852; connected with the Associate Reformed, now United Presbyterian congregation of Cedarville, March, 1856; entered the Sophomore class at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, September, 1856; graduated June, 1859, in a class of thirty-four members; taught school first near FOOT NOTE.—*Militia called to defend Cincinnati against an attack by the Rebel General, Kirby Smith.

Selma, Greene county, Ohio, and second in the old home district for one year; entered the Theological Seminary at Xenia, Ohio, November, 1860; was with the "Squirrel Hunters" at Cincinnati, 1862, when rebel General Kirby Smith threatened to burn the city; attended three years at the Seminary at Xenia; taught school again in the old home district, 1863-4; served three months in the Christian Commission during the spring of 1864 at Nashville, Columbia and Chattanooga, Tennessee, and had charge of their office at Huntsville, Alabama; attended the Theological Seminary at Allegheny City, Pennsylvania, the winter of 1864-5; was licensed in the Second United Presbyterian church, Xenia, Ohio, March 28th, 1865, by Xenia Presbytery; preached in Lake, Monongahela and Wheeling Presbyteries during the summer of 1865; received and accepted a call to Waterford congregation of one hundred and sixty-five members in Erie county, Pennsylvania, and was ordained and installed December 19th, 1865, on a salary of $800; married by Revs. W. A. Campbell and W. H. Haney, February 14th, 1866, to Mrs. Maggie J. Dunlap, (nee Frazier,) of Cedarville, Ohio, daughter of J. F. Frazier, a dry goods merchant, and niece of Rev. James A. Frazier, a missionary to Damascus, Syria. She was born in Decatur, Brown county, Ohio, April 23d, 1840. Her mother died when she was seven years old, and she removed with her father and family to Cedarville in 1849. She was first married by Rev. James A. Frazier, April 25th, 1861, to Wm. M. Dunlap, of Cincinnati, where they resided till his death, August 20th, 1861, and she then returned to her father's house in Cedarville.

After her marriage to Rev. H. P. Jackson, they lived in Waterford, Erie county, Pennsylvania, until September, 1869, when, on account of impaired health, he demitted his pastoral charge, preached his farewell sermon to the Waterford congregation (which they published in pamphlet form,) and removed at once to Xenia, Ohio, where they resided during the winter, and on February 25th, 1870, they removed to the old homestead farm near Cedarville, and lived with his mother.

Here for four years and in Cedarville for one year he lived, and farmed, taught school, preached in many vacant congregations, and was Superintendent of the Cedarville Schools for several years. In the spring of 1875, his health being restored, he accepted a call from Carmel United Presbyterian congregation of 130 members, and removed his family to Hanover, situated on the hills overlooking the Ohio River, Jefferson county, Indiana, and began his work as pastor January, 1876. He was installed April 12th, 1876, receiving a salary of $900 and a parsonage. Here he resided and preached fourteen years. While there he was Stated Clerk of Indiana Presbytery thirteen years, and Moderator of Second Synod of the West at Springfield, Ohio, in 1881. In September, 1889, he demitted his charge of Carmel and in November removed his family to Greenfield, Highland county, Ohio, where he took charge of the United Presbyterian congregation in that town. He is a Prohibitionist. Their children are six in number:

1. Wm. M. Dunlap, (step-son,) born in Cedarville, Ohio, February 17th, 1862. He was educated at Hanover College, Indiana, and is the editor of a newspaper called the "Western World," in Sea Haven, Pacific county, Washington.

2. Lilla Corinne Jackson, born December 23d 1866, in Waterford, Pennsylvania. She was educated at Hanover College, passing to the Sophomore class, and became a member of Carmel United Presbyterian church, May 2d, 1880. She now resides in Greenfield, Ohio, with her parents.

3. Robert Stuart Jackson, born in Waterford, Pennsylvania, July 5th, 1868. He was educated at Hanover College, passing to the Junior class, and was a member of the Union Literary Society. He became a member of Carmel church, August 3d, 1884. He is now clerking in McQuiston's book store, Monmouth, Illinois.

4. George Whitney Jackson, born near Cedarville, Ohio, March 28th, 1870. He became a member of Carmel United Presbyterian church, August 3d, 1884. On June 5th, 1886, while out hunting in the woods, three miles west of Hanover, he met with a very serious and dangerous accident. In discharging his gun it exploded, the breech-pin crushing his forehead and burying itself in his head. From this dreadful wound he (almost miraculously) recovered. He also attended Hanover College to the Junior year, and was a member of the Union Literary Society in the college. He is now in the Senior class of Monmouth College, Monmouth, Illinois.

5. Mabel Snow Jackson, born near Cedarville, Ohio, March 29th, 1872. She became a member of Carmel United Presbyterian congregation May 2d, 1885. She would have entered the Freshman class of Hanover College, September, 1889, but removed to Greenfield, Ohio, and entered Senior class of the High School there, and graduated June 6th, 1890, in a class fifteen in number.

* 6. Bertha Rogers Jackson, born near Cedarville, Ohio, December 24th, 1874. She became a member of Carmel United Presbyterian congregation May 6th, 1888, and is attending the public schools of Greenfield, Ohio.

VI. RACHEL JACKSON, born in Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, February 17th, 1796; married February 17th, 1815, (being nineteen years old,) to Judge Samuel Kyle, a farmer near Cedarville, Ohio. He was for thirty years Associate Judge of the Court in Greene county, Ohio, and for many years County Surveyor. He was a ruling elder in the Associate Reformed, now United Presbyterian congregation of Cedarville. He was first married to Ruth Mitchell, by whom he had six children. After his first wife's death and the year after Robert Jackson and family moved to Greene county, he married Rachel Jackson. She connected early in life with the Associate Reformed church, and with her, Judge Kyle lived the rest of his days. He died February 25th, 1857, at his home, one mile south of Cedarville, and she died at the same place March 16th, 1858. They are buried side by side in the cemetery, one mile north of Cedarville. Their children were fifteen in number and all remarkably tall. The shortest of the sons that grew to maturity was six feet, and the tallest was six feet seven inches. Some say "Judge Kyle had seventy-five feet of sons!" That is measuring posterity by feet. But we can truthfully say Judge Kyle and wife trained their children so thoroughly in the doctrines of the Bible and the Gospel, that all became useful citizens and active members of the church. Judge and Rachel Jackson Kyle should have a monument erected on their graves by the county, for the excellent training of so many of her useful citizens. Their children are fifteen:

1. JANE KYLE, born near Cedarville, December 18th,

1815; married March 17th, 1842, to John S. Williamson, a farmer and member of the Associate church of Ceasar Creek, now Jamestown, Ohio. She died August 29th, 1854, leaving three children:

1. Catharine Ann Williamson, born near Jamestown, Ohio, July 26th, 1843; married by Revs. W. H. Haney and H. P. Jackson, October 28th, 1868, to Robert M. Jackson, farmer near Cedarville. They are members of the First United Presbyterian church, Xenia, Ohio. Postoffice address, Cedarville. No children:

2. Samuel Kyle Williamson, born near Jamestown, Ohio, October 26th, 1846; married by Rev. Samuel Wilson, D. D., November 6th, 1872, to Belle Collins, near Xenia, Ohio. He was a soldier in 1865, Company A, 185th Ohio Volunteer Infantry. They reside on their farm, two miles south of Cedarville, their postoffice address. They are members of the United Presbyterian congregation of Cedarville, Ohio. Their children are six in number:

(1.) George S. Williamson, born April 17th, 1874; died May 10th, 1874.

8. TARLETON D. BULL, born March 1st, 1845, in Wisconsin; married first, April 29th, 1869, in Denton county, Texas, to Mary Montgomery. She was a member of the M. E. church, and died January 22d, 1871, leaving an infant:

Sarah A. Bull, born January 11th, 1871, in Eastland, Texas. She is a member of the M. E. church, and resides at home with her father.

T. D. Bull married second time, February 7th, 1879, to Sarah A. Brown. He is engaged in the livery business in Desdemona, Eastland county, Texas; is a non-church member and a Democrat. He was a Confederate soldier for three years and nine months. He enlisted first in the 18th Texas Cavalry, March 17th, 1861, and was dismounted at Little Rock, Arkansas. At Pine Bluff, Arkansas, his regiment was nearly all captured, and afterward he was transferred to the 29th Texas Cavalry Regiment, Company E, Col. Demorses, Gano's Brigade, Maxey's Division, General Price's Army of Cavalry, and remained in that regiment till the close of the war, west of the Mississippi River. He was in thirty-seven engagements, and was not wounded or captured. The following are some of the battles in which he took part: In Arkansas, Pine Bluff, Elk Horne, Saline River and Poison River. In Louisiana: Mansfield. In Indian Territory: Cherokee Nation. While engaged in this last named cavalry conflict, his horse stood on his father's grave. There his brother George was captured and was a prisoner two years. His company went into the war with one hundred and eleven men, and came out of the war with seventeen men. T. D. Bull rode the same horse all through the war, and brought him home with him. When he arrived at home he was penniless, having suffered untold hardships and privations. They have four children:

1. Walter T. Bull, born May 19th, 1880; died May 14th, 1882.

4. Wm. Cleveland Bull, born November 19th, 1888.

This closes the genealogy of Robert and Elizabeth McCorkle Jackson's posterity.

JAMES R. JACKSON.

CHAPTER IV.

By JAMES R. JACKSON.

THIS brief history and genealogy of JAMES JACKSON's family was prepared by his grandson, James R. Jackson, who now lives on the farm in Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, on which his father, grandfather and great-grandfather all lived and died. It is as follows:

David Jackson's son, JAMES, was born August 7th, 1762. In his early life he learned the blacksmith trade, and at the age of twenty-eight years, was married to Rachel McCalmont (this name has been changed by custom in the family to spell McCommon.)

Rachel was born February 5th, 1766. The date of the marriage of James and Rachel is February 4th, 1790. In the year 1790, James bought a farm from one John McConcle, containing one hundred and seventy-two acres, situate in Colraine township, Lancaster county, Pennsylvania. James, being a blacksmith by trade, built a shop on the farm, where he and his sons carried on the trade for sixty years in connection with the farm. James and Rachel were members of the Union Presbyterian church. Rachel died November 25th, 1836, and was buried in what is now called the old graveyard at Union in connection with the church. James died May 10th, 1842, and was buried in the old graveyard by the side of his wife. It may be said of James and his wife Rachel, that they lived the life of the righteous—looking for better things—training their children in the fear of the Lord, and gathering them all into the church before they departed. The family of James and Rachel consisted of six sons and two daughters. The oldest:

1. MARY was born November 30th, 1790. She did not marry, and lived all her days on the place where she was born, and died June 21st, 1873, aged eighty-two years, six months and twenty days.

2. DAVID, the second child, was born October 22d, 1792. He was married three times. First to Ann Black, in 1823. He had two sons by this wife, Robert M. and George B.

Robert was born April 17th, 1824, and married Rachel E. Jackson in 1862. He died July 17th, 1870, leaving a family of three daughters and one son, viz: Ella May, Ida Lial, Francis Annie and James Chester. Robert died and was buried at Maryville, Nodaway county, Missouri. His family are all living, and at present reside in Lancaster City, Pennsylvania.

George B. was born December 12th, 1825, and was married to Mary Wilson. He was connected with the Oxford Presbyterian church. He died ———, and was buried in Oxford Cemetery.

Ann Black, wife of David Jackson, was born April 24th, 1805, and died October 24th, 1827. David was married second time to Mary Kelton, November 11th, 1830. He had one son by this wife.

James K., now of Philadelphia, who was born August 14th, 1831. He was married to Ella E. Cann. She died June 8th, 1881. They had two daughters:

Mary H., born August 6th, 1867, and died May 19th, 1870.

Florence M., born May 26th, 1871, and lives in Oxford, Pennsylvania.

Mary, second wife of David Jackson, died October 25th, 1831.

DAVID was married third time to Eliza Cunningham. He had no children by this wife. David died January 6th, 1856. He was connected with the New London Presbyterian church, and was buried in the graveyard there.

3. ELIZABETH, third child of James and Rachel, was born December 17th 1794, and was married to Arthur Andrews, February 13th, 1816. He was born August 5th, 1788. They had two sons and four daughters:

Jackson, the eldest, was born November 25th, 1816, and was married to Mary Vanderslice, of Dauphin county, Pennsylvania. They settled in Kansas, and are living at present at Dearing, and have the following family:

Augustus Guy, Frank Vanderslice, Harriett Eleanor, Arthur, Jane, John, Wilson and Richard.

Joseph, Elizabeth's second son, was born November 17th, 1818, and was married to Mary Seymore, of Virginia. He has the following family :

William, Nancy and Kate. Joseph died December, 1889.

Rachel, Elizabeth's third child, was born March 22d, 1821, and was married to David Cochran, and has the following family :

Mary, James Edwin, Annie, Hannah, Arthur, Robert Frank, Jennie and David. Their postoffice address is Cochranville, Chester county, Pennsylvania.

Mary, Elizabeth's fourth child, was born August 12th, 1823, and died February 1st, 1831, aged about seven years.

Harriet, Elizabeth's fifth child, was born June 19th, 1826. She is not married and lives at Cochranville, Chester county, Pennsylvania.

Elizabeth, Elizabeth and Arthur's sixth child, was born June 11th, 1829, and died April 25th, 1882.

Arthur Andrews died September 19th, 1828, and Elizabeth, his wife, died April 2d, 1862, aged sixty-two years.

4. SAMUEL JACKSON, James and Rachel's fourth child, was born May 21st, 1797, and was married to Mary A. Moore, January 17, 1828. They both sleep in the cemetery at Marion, Iowa, he having survived her about three years. The following are their children :

Robert Moore, James Reid, Wm. Whiteside, Margaret Jane, Rachel Ann, Samuel McCommon, Spencer Black, David Albert and Mary Elizabeth.

Robert Moore was first married January 7th, 1857, to Debbie A. McClellan, at West Brandywine, Chester county, Pennsylvania. She died, leaving a daughter, Ada Estelle, now a teacher in the city schools of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and a son, Samuel McClellan, now living in Coldwater, Comanche county, Kansas, and is engaged in the real estate business.

Samuel M. was married to Miss Zelma Pennington, in June, 1889.

Robert Moore was married second time, May 22d, 1867, to Rebecca J. Cooper, of Milledgville, Mercer county, Pennsylvania. Their children are :

Wm. Thompson, now attending Coe College, Robert Charles, and John Edwin, both attending the City High School.

James Reid, Samuel's second child, is supposed to be dead. He left home about 1860 for Pike's Peak. He wrote letters to his friends at home for about two years, then ceased. Since that time his friends have never heard a word from him, though every effort has been made to do so.

Wm. Whiteside, Samuel's third child, lives in Maryville, Nodaway county, Missouri. He keeps a livery and feed stable. He married Rebecca Andrews, and had one son:

Wilmer A., who died in 1887, aged twenty-five years.

Margaret Jane, Samuel's fourth child, was born March 31st, 1835; married Dr. David R. Hindman, January 3d, 1861, and lives in Marion, Iowa. They have had six children; two daughters and one son are living:

Mary E., Clara Eldora, Minnette Irene (dead,) Carlos Jackson, Samuel Paul (dead,) and Maggie Ann (dead.)

Rachel Ann, Samuel's fifth child, never married and now lives with her sister, Mrs. Hindman.

Samuel M., Samuel and Mary's sixth child, is a bachelor and lives at Greensburg, Kiowa county, Kansas. He is in the real estate business.

Spencer B., Samuel's seventh child, was married to Mary Blackman, by whom he had six children, three girls and two boys:

Hallie E., Roy H., Frank R., Harry E., Mary Spencer and Jessie. The last named is dead. His wife also is dead. He lives in Sioux City, Iowa, and is in the real estate business.

David A., Samuel's eighth child, has been married twice, but has no children. His home is in Sioux City, Iowa. He is a general agent for the Northwestern Fuel Company.

Mary E. Elizabeth, Samuel's ninth child, is married to J. C. Vaughn, a farmer. They live near Sioux City, Iowa, and have had eight children, five boys and three girls—one boy and one girl are dead. Their children's names are:

Mary Blanche, Clifford William, James Lutta, Harold

Pearl, Samuel, Anna Irene, Campbell J. and Fern Elizabeth. Of these James and Anna Irene are dead.

5. EBENEZER JACKSON, James and Rachel's fifth child, was born June 26th, 1799, and married Susan Johnston in 1832. They had one son and three daughters :

James R., the oldest, was born May 5th, 1833, and lives on the farm where his great grandfather died in 1811, and followed by his son James in 1842. It was then occupied by his sons Ebenezer and Robert, and after their deaths it came into the possession of James R., the only son of Ebenezer and Susan Jackson. He was married December 29th, 1887, to Sarah L. Holmes, of Oxford, Chester county, Pennsylvania, and he is a ruling elder in the Union Presbyterian church, Lancaster county, Pennsylvania. Postoffice address, Colraine, Pennsylvania.

Mary E., second child of Ebenezer and Susan, was born May 10th, 1835. She married Arthur Andrews, October 7th, 1857, and died at Maryville, Nodaway county, Missouri, August, 1875, and is buried in the cemetery two miles north of the town. She was connected with the Presbyterian church there.

Rachel E., third child of Ebenezer and Susan, was born May 27th, 1837, and married Robert M. Jackson, April 4th, 1861. They had three daughters and one son:

Ella May, Ida Lial, Frances Annie and James Chester.

Rachel's husband died July 17th, 1870, and was buried in the first burying ground at Maryville, Missouri. She then returned with her children and now resides in Lancaster City, Pennsylvania.

Susan M., Ebenezer and Susan's fourth child, was born August 3d, 1841, and married J. Patterson McCommon, February 16th, 1869. They live near Union, Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, and have six children:

Mary, Elouise, Emma, Howard, Norman and James Clyde.

William, who died when he was nineteen years of age, and Harry, who died when he was ten months old, and two daughters, Frank J. and Mary B., both of whom are living.

7. JAMES JACKSON, seventh child of James and Rachel, was born March 19th, 1803; was never married, and died at his father's house July 1st, 1832, and was buried in the old graveyard at Union.

8. ROBERT JACKSON, eighth child of James and Rachel, was born August 13th, 1807; was never married and lived all his days on the farm where he was born. He died March 23d, 1873, and was buried in Union Cemetery, near his home.

CONCLUSION.

MANY things which would be a pleasure and profit for us to know about our father's fathers have disappeared from the recollection of the living. And to preserve some scattered and fading memories of our ancestors and kindred, this is made and printed. Most of it will interest few persons—so the demand for it will be limited. Let each one give it to his grandson, or to another's grandson, and tell them to add another chapter, and give it to his. Of what use is it? Much every way to you and to me. To cherish the memory of our ancestors is a characteristic which distinguishes man from the brute. The horse or cow is fond of a companion, but indifferent and forgetful when breath has left the body. Let us manifest the spirit of the human by treasuring the memory of our kindred in blood. Some may wish to forget their friends and relatives, because their lives and characters were immoral. But not so with us. Some of them might have been better—none were too good, but the very great majority of them were honored and useful citizens and church members. There are among them professional men—ministers, lawyers, doctors and teachers; business men, bankers, merchants, dealers in commerce; laboring men, mechanics, farmers, railroaders, telegraphers; soldiers, judges, legislators. One, General Andrew Jackson, was distinguished above the rest in that he was twice chosen President of the United States, in 1828 and 1832. And a few poured out their life blood for their country's welfare, and others defended their country's honor.

Some have been poor, others rich; some have been learned, others of limited education. None have been specially distinguished by fame, save "Old Hickory;" but, as far as known, no one of this great family ever breathed within a prison as a criminal or a defaulter. They paid their bills. One has said: "I do not care what a man does, so he always pays his bills." Some of our friends, perhaps, could not always do so, but they fixed it without going to Canada. "O friends! be men; so act that none may feel ashamed to meet the eyes of other men. Think each one of his children and his wife, his home, his parents, living yet or dead." And remember the only way to have a friend is to be one.

This is the generation of the Jacksons, whose blood (if not crowded out with stronger blood by intermarriage) flows now in many individuals' veins, who are scattered far and wide on the face of the earth. We have gathered many of their names, and a brief, imperfect history of each into this book. But on the Great Day of final accounts, when "the books shall be opened," the names of all will be found written, and a correct and full record of each revealed. O! that it could be said of each one of the "Jackson Family" as in Psalm 24:

"He shall from Jehovah the blessing receive,
The God of salvation shall righteousness give;
For this is the people, yea, this is the race,
The Israel true who are seeking thy face."
