PREFACE.

THE desire to know of the principal incidents in the lives of our progenitors, as well as the places of their births, and their origin, has induced a goodly number to make such researches for personal accounts of those persons and families who migrated to this country and became the first permanent settlers, as the records preserved have afforded; though in many cases these investigations have discovered but a meagre account, yet they have nevertheless encouraged the compilation of many of the family genealogies that have been published.

It is the purpose of this work, "Old Families of Concord, Massachusetts, and their Descendants in Part to the Present Generation," to give genealogies of some of the families who first settled there, and of their descendants; but it is in no wise intended to give an account of Concord, its settlement, history, or growth, excepting as may appear in the personal relations of some herein noted.

The genealogical tables begin with items respecting the families of Barrett, Blood, Brooks, Brown, Bulkeley, Buttrick, Conant, Davis, Farrar, Flint, Hartwell, Hayward, Hosmer, Hubbard, Jones, Minott, Potter, Prescott, Wheeler, Willard, and Wood, all of whom were known early in the settlement.

"The plantation of Musketaquid (Concord) was settled by Rev. Peter Bulkeley, from Odell, England, associated with Simon Willard, a merchant from Horsmonden, England, who brought with them about twelve families, other families joining the plantation within a few years succeeding. Excepting Bulkeley and Flint, they were plain people, of humble station in their own country, and of small means, who hoped in the New World to better their condition, and to enjoy unmolested the simpler form of religious worship that their tastes and consciences approved."

The original homes of the pioneers had been widely separated: Rev. Peter Bulkeley came from Bedfordshire; Simon Willard, James Hosmer, and probably Luke Potter were from Kent; William Buttrick, from Kingston on Thames; and Thomas Flint and William Wood, probably from Derbyshire.

To make a record of the descendants of any one of these families to the present time, extending as it does over a period of more than two hundred and fifty years, and to make such a record tolerably complete, is a matter attended with much difficulty. As much as could be obtained from imperfect records, and that which has come from various other sources, are recorded. That the early settlers in many cases are not directly connected with English ancestry is readily explained by the experience of Samuel Gardner Drake, as given in his "Founders of New England":—

"Whoever goes to England expecting to find the genealogy of any particular family settled in America at an early date, is pretty sure, in at least nine cases out of ten, to meet with disappointment. The reason of this uncertainty is easily explained. In the first place, persons who emigrate are not often possessors of real estate, and hence deeds and wills seldom furnish indications referable to them; they leave no deeds or wills in the fatherland by which they can be traced. In the next place, very few emigrants from England were landholders, for the reason that for ages little or no land has been for sale in quantities within the reach of persons of moderate estates. As the great body of emigrants to New England took no pains to transmit to their descendants any account of their ancestors, or even the places whence they came, it is pretty evident they had nothing to expect from the one, or any special regard for the other."

PREFACE.

"Thus genealogy becomes a science, and the learned pursued it as a useful and necessary branch of knowledge; and as such it is generally pursued. There are those who pursue it with a notion that they are heirs to a great estate in England, left by some unknown ancestor. They may thus add something to the science of genealogy, and enlarge their own knowledge, while they will find no necessity to enlarge their pockets."

Many works of this class have proved a disappointment to those for whom they were primarily designed, owing to the complicated manner of indicating the succession of families. The compiler believes that his simple method of tabulating the records (patent applied for) will make it an easy matter to trace out the direct lines of descent, and the collateral branches as well. A particular advantage, aside from the readiness with which family connections are traced, is that all the essential genealogical facts of each family are discovered at the first glance, while the blank spaces indicate if any data is wanting. In these blank spaces the names or dates missing may be written, if ever ascertained; or in the cases of the persons now living, the records of the facts of marriage and death may be inserted as they occur; and there is added also to the volume several pages in blank, particularly intended to be used for the record of future generations of any families that the possessors of the volume may wish, together with any biographical notes desired for preservation.

The compiler desires particularly to acknowledge his indebtedness for the very considerable assistance rendered to him by Mr. Charles Francis Potter, of Boston, to whose indefatigable efforts (and at his own expense) many of the complete records of families in the work are due; and to Mr. George Tolman, the accomplished genealogist of Concord, for his valuable aid, not forgetting also Shattuck's "History of Concord," and Walcott's "Concord in the Colonial Period,"—works to which every one must refer for information respecting Concord and its history.

³ Numbers for reference to each name.

⁴ Places and dates of births. The places are in the State of Massachusetts, unless otherwise noted

⁵ Dates of deaths.

⁷ To whom married.

⁸ Year of birth - year of death.

⁹ The numbers at the end of the lines, indicating heads of families, refer to their direct ancestry family.

¹⁰ Numbers following names in this manner indicate where the name may be found recorded in full.

OLD FAMILIES, CONCORD, MASSACHUSETTS.

BARRETT.

HUMPHREY BARRETT¹ settled in Concord in 1639; admitted a freeman, May 6, 1657. It is supposed that he came from the county of Kent, England. There came with him a wife and three sons, John, Thomas, and Humphrey, Jr. Respecting the son John, it is not definitely known where he settled. Shattuck supposes him to have been of Marlboro. The records of probate, however, show that John Barrett of Marlboro had a brother William Barrett of Cambridge, and Thomas Barrett of Marlboro, formerly of Cambridge.

Thomas Barrett, here mentioned, in his will, Jan. 16, 1672, made a little before his death, names brothers John and William, and a sister Lydia Cheever. As Humphrey, Sr., had a son Thomas, who was drowned in the North River at Concord, in 1652, leaving a son Oliver, who died in 1671, and a daughter Mary, who married James Smedley, both of these children being mentioned in the wills of Humphrey Barrett and his wife Mary Barrett as their grandchildren, it therefore follows that John Barrett of Marlboro was not a son of Humphrey Barrett of Concord.

Humphrey Barrett's farm was some three hundred acres or more; his house-lot of twelve acres was near the centre of the town. The old house was on what is now known as Monument Street.

HUMPHREY BARRETT, JR.⁴, born in England, 1630, and came to Concord with his parents. He married Elizabeth Paine in 1661; issue by this marriage, a daughter Mary, who married Josiah Blood⁵¹. His wife, Elizabeth Paine, died in 1674, and in 1675 he married Mary Potter⁵⁴⁵, a daughter of Luke Potter, one of the first settlers in Concord. Thus Humphrey Barrett, Jr., and Mary Potter, his wife, became the common ancestors of the Concord branch of the Barrett family of New England. Their sons, Joseph and Benjamin Barrett, married the sisters Rebecca and Lydia Minott, respectively, daughters of James and Rebecca (Wheeler) Minott⁵⁰¹ of Concord.

Humphrey Barrett, Jr., was a deacon of the church in Concord; admitted a freeman, May 24, 1662; was deputy and representative to the General Court, 1691, and ensign of the foot company. Major Gen. Gookin, in 1685, reported to the General Court that the Concord train band "had but one commissioned officer that officiates in that company, viz., Left. Buss, who is very aged, and not well able to conduct the affairs of y^e great company, therefore, having informed himself as the fittest man to supply the place of ensign for that company, did propose to the court, Humphrey Barrett, who was a freeman, and of y^e church at Concord, a sergeant of that company, that the court would make him ensigne of Concord foot company." He was appointed and approved of Oct. 14, 1685.—Walcott's Colonial Period.

CAPT. JOSEPH BARRETT⁹, the eldest son of Humphrey Barrett, Jr., was one of the original grantees of Grafton, Mass., having granted to him May 7, 1728, 121 1-2 acres of land. He was a farmer, as well as largely engaged in the business enterprises of the day. He was town treasurer, 1634 to 1739; commissioned captain of foot company, May 7, 1732. He married Rebecca Minott⁵⁰⁶.

BENJAMIN BARRETT¹⁰ was also one of the original grantees of Grafton, receiving 131 1-2 acres of land, April 25, 1728. He was a farmer, and engaged in business enterprises with his brother, Capt. Joseph Barrett. His wife was Lydia Minott⁵⁰⁷.

LIEUT. OLIVER BARRETT¹⁴ was born in Concord; moved to Bolton, Mass., and settled where the place is now known as the Barrett Homestead. He was a farmer, and served as a lieutenant in the Revolution. He married Hannah, daughter of John and Mary (Brown) Hunt.

JOHN BARRETT¹⁷ was in the fight at North Bridge, Concord, April 19, 1775. He married Lois, daughter of Joshua and Lydia (Wheeler) Brooks, and lived in Concord.

DEA. THOMAS BARRETT²⁰ was engaged with his brother, Col. James Barrett, largely in business affairs, accumulating thereby a considerable property. He was a man noted for his piety and mildness of manners. "On the morning of the 'Concord fight,' the British seized and abused several aged and unarmed men; among these was Dea. Thomas Barrett. Not daunted by the scenes of that morning, he spoke of the mother country's unkind treatment of the Colonies, and protested against the violence of the soldiers, who threatened to kill him as a rebel; he calmly replied, 'You need not take that trouble, for I am old and will soon die of myself.' Touched by this reply, they said, 'Well, old daddy, you may go in peace.'" — Harper's Magazine, 1875.

The epitaph on his tombstone thus records his virtues: "In him the Christian graces shone uncommonly bright. Unfeigned love and distributive charity ran through his sentiments and actions. The blessing of the widow, the fatherless, the poor, and those ready to perish, came upon him. His talents as a deacon and private Christian were superior, and so exercised as to leave behind him a sweet remembrance of his name; so nearly did he imitate his Saviour, that it may be said with truth he had the spirit of Christ, which the judgment-day, we trust, will better show than any human testimony."

His wife was Mary Jones⁴²⁸¹. He was born in Concord in 1707, and died in 1779.

COL. JAMES BARRETT²¹, of Concord, Mass., "the distinguished commander of the Provincial troops in the 'Concord fight,' April 19, 1775, where the first forcible resistance was made to British aggression." Col. Barrett occupies a very interesting and prominent place in the Revolutionary history. From his lips proceeded the first orders to an American force to march against and engage the soldiers of the king. He was in command at the North Bridge on the 19th of April, 1775, by virtue of his commission, and where was presented every characteristic necessary to constitute a battle. The historic record says that after the council of officers and citizens on the hill had "resolved to march into the centre of the town to defend their homes, or die in the attempt," "Col. Barrett immediately gave orders to march by wheeling from the right." That he comprehended the magnificent results that were to follow from those brief authoritative words, that he saw in those few hundreds of militia and minute-men the aroused and advancing ranks of freedom, and in that threatened bridge their narrow and inevitable way, would, perhaps, be too much to claim; but we may presume that he who so immediately proceeded to carry into effect the resolution of his fellow-citizens, his imagination kindling with gleams of those visions that drew from Adams, as he heard the guns at Lexington, the exclamation, "Oh, what a glorious morning is this!" felt that the order involved far more than its immediate and obvious consequences. His affidavit, four days after, on the 23d of April, made when it was still doubtful in what light the transaction would be received by the government, is simple and bold, reading like a military despatch: "I, James Barrett, of Concord, colonel of a regiment of militia, in the county of Middlesex, do testify and say, that on Wednesday morning last, about daybreak, I was informed of the approach of a number of the regular troops to the town of Concord, where were some magazines belonging to the Province, where there was assembled some of the militia of this and the neighboring towns. I ordered them to march to the North Bridge, so called, which the regulars had passed and were taking up; I ordered said militia to march to said bridge and pass the same, but not to fire on the king's troops, unless they were first fired upon. We advanced near said bridge, when the said troops fired upon our militia, and killed two men dead on the spot, and wounded several others, which was the first firing of guns in the town of Concord. My detachment then returned the fire, which killed and wounded several of the king's troops."

Col. Barrett was a son of Benjamin and Lydia (Minott) Barrett, and his wife was Rebecca Hubbard⁴⁶². The following in reference to Col. James Barrett is from Shattuck's "History of Concord": "Having early in life embraced those principles of religion which are calculated to make men respected, useful, and happy, and having arrived to mature age in an important period of our history, he received from his townsmen frequent marks of their confidence in civil and military life. In 1768, he was chosen representative to the General Court, and was re-elected each year until 1777. He was also a member of many of the county and State conventions held during that important period, and a member of each of the Provincial Congresses. When it was decided to collect and deposit military stores at Concord, Col. Barrett was appointed to superintend them, and aid in their collection and manufacture. He accepted the office of colonel of the regiment of militia organized in March, 1775, and was in command on the 19th of April, though then sixty-four years of age.

"Of the various committees chosen by the State, county, or town, for raising men, procuring provisions, etc., he was usually a member." He died April 11, 1779.

REBECCA HUBBARD (BARRETT)⁴⁶²⁻²¹, the wife of Col. James Barrett, was a woman of great energy, moral and intellectual worth. The following is from "Harper's Magazine," 1875: "Capt. Parsons, with the other three companies, proceeded to Col. Barrett's, one mile and a half to the northwest, to destroy the stores there; they reached his home about eight o'clock, and just after Col. Barrett had left on his return to the rendezvous. Capt. Parsons said to Mrs. Barrett, 'Our orders are to search your house and your brother's from top to bottom.' She was requested to provide refreshments for the soldiers. . . . Mrs. Barrett was offered compensation for the refreshments, but she refused to take any, remarking, 'We are commanded to feed our enemies.' They threw some money into her lap, which she finally retained, saying, 'This is the price of blood.' . . . She had concealed some musket balls, cartridges, and flints in casks in the attic, and covered them with feathers; they were not discovered. Mrs. Barrett was a great-granddaughter of Rev. Peter Bulkeley, the first minister of Concord."

BROOKS.

THOMAS BROOKS⁹¹ was a freeman, 1636, and came to Concord about that time, having, as it is believed, come from London, England. He was representative in Concord seven years. His daughter Mary married Capt. Timothy Wheeler⁶²⁹ of Concord.

JOSHUA BROOKS⁹³, of Concord, married Hannah, daughter of Capt. Hugh Mason of Watertown. "He was a tanner in Lincoln. He is the ancestor of nearly all of the name in Concord and Lincoln." His son, Noah Brooks, married Dorothy Potter⁵⁴³. His daughter, Grace Brooks, married Judah Potter⁵⁴⁶.

BROWN.

THOMAS BROWN¹²⁵ was in Concord about 1640, but from what part of England he came is not definitely known. His son Thomas¹³¹ was town clerk of Concord.

BULKELEY.

REV. PETER BULKELEY¹⁶⁷ came from Bedfordshire, England, 1635. He was associated with Major Simon Willard in the settlement of Concord. They brought with them from England twelve other families.

BUTTRICK.

WILLIAM BUTTRICK¹⁹³ came to Concord in 1635. "He served the town for many years honorably as a sergeant, a post then of distinction." His son Samuel married Elizabeth Blood⁴⁷, and they were the grandparents of Major John Buttrick²¹⁷.

MAJOR JOHN BUTTRICK²¹⁷ "was one of the officers in command on the 19th of April, 1775, and his name will be handed down to posterity with distinguished honor for the noble stand he took, and the bravery he manifested in leading a gallant band of militia-men on to meet the invading enemy at the North Bridge, and for beginning the first forcible resistance to British arms. He then returned the fire by commanding his own company to fire, saying, 'Fire! fellow-soldiers; for God's sake, fire!' and discharged his own gun the same instant. He was buried in 1791, with military honors."

CONANT.

LOT CONANT²²⁷, a great-grandson of the celebrated Roger Conant of Salem, Mass. He came to Concord soon after 1700. His son, Silas Conant, married Lois Potter⁵⁶⁷.

DAVIS.

DOLOR DAVIS²⁵³ came, it is probable, from Kent, England. He was in Cambridge, 1634; removed to Concord from Barnstable in 1655. His wife was Margery Willard⁶⁹⁷, a sister of Lieut. Simon Willard⁶⁹⁸.

SAMUEL DAVIS²⁵⁹ settled in the part of Concord which was afterward set off as Bedford. He was a freeman, March 21, 1689-90. His son, Eleazer Davis²⁴⁸, married Eunice Potter⁵⁴⁹.

SIMON DAVIS²⁷² married Hannah (Potter) Brown⁵⁵². He was a grandson of Lieut. Simon and Mary (Blood) Davis²⁶⁸⁻³⁶.

FARRAR.

JOHN FARRAR²²⁷ and JACOB FARRAR²²⁴ were proprietors in Lancaster, 1653.

GEORGE FARRAR²⁹⁵, son of Jacob Farrar of Lancaster, settled in Concord in 1692. He lived upon land then owned by his father, which land is still owned by his descendants, being now in the town of Lincoln. He married Mary How. Of their sons, George married Mary Barrett¹¹, and Samuel married Lydia Barrett²².

DEA. SAMUEL FARRAR³⁰³ lived and died upon the home place in Lincoln. Was a selectman of Concord in 1754, and after the town of Lincoln was set off from Concord, he was town clerk and representative for many years of the new town. He was chairman of the first committee of correspondence, and of the Middlesex Convention of Aug. 30, 1774; also a member of the first Provincial Congress, which met Oct. 11, 1774. He took part in the "Concord fight," April 19, 1775, although being then sixty-six years of age. He was the youngest son of George Farrar, who settled in Concord, 1692, and succeeded him as deacon of the church. His wife was Lydia Barrett²².

JUDGE TIMOTHY FARRAR³¹⁹ of New Ipswich, N. H., graduate of Harvard College, 1767. "He taught school in Concord, Lincoln, and Framingham, then settling as a teacher in New Ipswich in 1770, also becoming a freeholder there in 1771. His farm and the school divided his attention till the War of the Revolution brought to him public trusts, 1774 to 1775. He was first selectman, and town clerk, Jan. 24, 1776. He was commissioned Justice to the Court of Common Pleas; the youngest of the twenty-nine appointed at that time. From April, 1778, to May 20, 1782, he was a member of the convention for framing a new constitution; from 1779 he was one of the thirty-two councillors till the new constitution went into operation in June, 1784. Appointed March, 1791, to the bench of the Supreme Court. Appointed Chief Justice of that court, 1802, resigning in April, 1803, and accepting a reappointment to Court of Common Pleas, continued until 1813. In 1816 he retired from the judiciary, after a continuous service of over forty years. During this time he had been Presidential elector four times, and in 1804 was appointed a trustee of Dartmouth College, holding this office for more than twenty years. He was repeatedly nominated and urged to become a candidate for Congress, and for governor of New Hampshire. He lived to be one hundred and one years seven months and twelve days of age, outliving all his collegiate contemporaries, and all the ante-Revolutionary graduates of Harvard College, the one hundred and fifty-three officers of the civil list in 1776, and the thirty-two councillors of the Revolution."

JONES.

JOHN JONES⁴⁷³ came from Cambridge to Concord about 1650. His eldest son, Samuel Jones, married Elizabeth Potter⁵⁴⁴.

MINOTT.

JAMES MINOTT⁵⁰¹, a grandson of George Minott⁴⁰⁴, married Rebecca, daughter of Captain Timothy Wheeler⁶²⁸. He lived in Concord, practised medicine, was a captain, justice of peace, representative, and eminently a useful citizen. He had a family of ten children, some of whom by marriage became connected with the Adams, Barrett, Brooks, Brown, Prescott, Wheeler, and others of the old families in Concord.

DEA. GEORGE MINOTT⁵³⁰ of Concord. He married, successively, Rebecca Barrett¹⁸⁹⁶, Elizabeth Barrett⁸⁴⁹, and Mrs. Lydia (Barrett) Mann¹⁵⁵⁹. He commanded a company in the Revolution at the taking of Burgoyne, and at several other engagements. He was made a deacon of the church in 1779, and served in that office until his death.

POTTER.

LUKE POTTER⁵³⁶, born in England about 1608, was among the original settlers of Concord, taking up land in the south quarter. His house-lot consisted of six and one half acres on both sides of Heywood Street (then known as "Potter's Lane"). His wife Mary died in 1644; he married a second time the same year, Mary, daughter of Walter Edmunds. He was one of the first deacons of the church, and took an active part in the affairs of the town, during the fifty years succeeding its settlement. It is only by his son Judah, who married Grace Brooks¹⁰³, that the name Potter is perpetuated in the records of Concord. Of his other children, Mary married Humphrey Barrett, Jr.⁴, Dorothy married Noah Brooks¹⁰², Elizabeth married Samuel Jones⁴⁷⁴, and son Samuel married Mary Wright, and was killed by the Indians in the "Sudbury fight"; he died without issue. Luke Potter died in 1697.

PRESCOTT.

JONATHAN PRESCOTT¹⁵⁷⁸ was the ancestor of the Concord branch of this distinguished family.

COL. CHARLES PRESCOTT⁵⁹⁶, who married Elizabeth Barrett¹⁶, was born in 1711, and died in 1779. He was a selectman in Concord six years, and represented the town nine years in the General Court. Also a colonel of militia, serving three years in the War of the Revolution. He was at times a justice of the peace, and always an influential and highly honored citizen, holding many important trusts.

RUSSELL.

JAMES RUSSELL⁵⁶², a son of James and Susanna (Farrar) Russell of Concord, and great-grandson of Benjamin Russell, who came to Concord in 1860 (he being a son of William Russell, who settled in Cambridge in 1640), built a house in the south part of the town, which is still standing; that location is now in the town of Carlisle. James Russell married Lydia Potter⁵⁶².

WILLARD.

MAJOR SIMON WILLARD⁶⁹⁸ was one of the distinguished leaders in the first settlement of the town of Concord. He came from Kent, England, and was associated with the Rev. Peter Bulkeley in the first purchase of the land from the natives.

BALL.

REV. GEORGE S. BALL⁷⁶⁰ of Upton, Mass., a Unitarian minister, born in Leominster, Mass., graduated at Meadville Theological School in 1847. He was ordained over the society at Ware, remaining until 1849; in 1850, at Upton, Mass.; and next as associate pastor with Dr. Kendall at Plymouth, Mass., returning in 1856 to Upton. Chosen representative from Upton and Northbridge in 1861, he resigned from this office to serve as chaplain in the 21st Regiment. After the war he was again a representative, also a State senator. He was a member of the commission to revise the Constitution in 1852.

BARRETT.

PROF. ALBERT TENNISON BARRETT²⁹⁵⁹ of Winchester, Tenn., a graduate of University of Rochester, 1869, receiving the highest award then given at the University, viz., the first prize, "Davis Gold Medal." Since 1871, he has been Professor of Mathematics in Mary Sharp College at Winchester, the eldest college for women in America, requiring a long course of Latin, Greek, and higher mathematics to obtain a diploma. He received the degree of LL.D. from the Southwestern Baptist University at Jackson, Tenn.

AMOS BARRETT²⁸¹², of Kingsville, Ohio, was born in Paris, Oneida Co., N. Y. His parents removed the winter after his birth to Pomfret, N. Y., near his paternal grandparents' residence. At the age of fourteen he was removed with his parents to Kingsville, Ohio, and lived in that place until his death. In 1827 he married Annis M. Brown, of Fredonia, N. Y. They raised a family of six sons and four daughters.

ters, all of whom are now living, excepting two daughters who died in childhood. His early life was devoted principally to farming; later in life he engaged in manufacturing, trading, and fire insurance. He never lost sight of the fact that a thorough education was the greatest boon that he could bestow upon his children, and to this end he worked with all his ability, with the prayerful and devoted co-operation of his wife. He joined the Baptist Church while young, and always remained a devoted and consistent member, holding the office of deacon for many years. He was strictly a temperate man, never using liquor or tobacco in any form, an honest and an upright citizen, beloved and respected by all his acquaintance. In 1877 he celebrated his golden wedding, at the residence of his son, Rev. A. J. Barrett, D. D., of Rochester, N. Y., at which time he sang in a clear voice to his faithful wife a song composed for the occasion by C. W. Haywood, of Cleveland, Ohio, the music written by his son, Clinton S. Barrett; a part of this song is appended to this sketch. Amos Barrett died at his residence in Kingsville in 1886.

I.

Just fifty years ago, wife,
 You were my blooming bride;
 I led you to the altar, wife,
 My heart aglow with pride;
 I thought you fairer than the dawn.
 And purer than the snow;
 But you, somehow, are dearer now
 Than fifty years ago.

II.

Since fifty years ago, wife,
 Within our humble home
 What changes have we seen, wife!
 What sunshine and what gloom!
 But still, through all the varying scenes
 Of gladness and of woe,
 Your love shone bright, with calmer light
 Than fifty years ago.

V.

Just fifty years ago, wife,
 With faith in God's good-will,
 We took each other's hand, wife,
 To climb life's rugged hill;
 Now we'll go down the other side.
 With feeble steps and slow,
 While faith's bright star beams brighter far
 Than fifty years ago.

AMOS BARRETT,¹⁵⁶³ of Concord, Mass., was at the "Concord fight," in the ranks; he was afterwards a captain of militia in Concord. He moved after his marriage to Union, Maine, becoming one of the first settlers of that town.

REV. AMOS JUDSON BARRETT²⁹⁵², a graduate of the University of Rochester, N. Y., and has received the degrees of A. B., A. M., and D. D. He taught school in Nunda and Little Falls, N. Y., Kingsville, Ohio, and then in Rochester, N. Y. He is now the pastor of the Lake Avenue Baptist Church, Rochester, N. Y.

ASA BARRETT⁷⁴⁷ was born in Bolton, Mass.; removed to Lancaster, and for many years was associated with Ephraim Fuller in the manufacture of wire. He afterward moved to Baltimore, Md. He held a captain's commission in the militia of Massachusetts, and was drafted in the War of 1812. An active and useful citizen, who lived to the age of ninety-one.

DR. BENJAMIN BARRETT²⁵⁹⁴, of Northampton, Mass., a graduate of Harvard College, 1819, of Medical School, 1822. Afterwards he studied medicine with Drs. Warren and Jackson, beginning the practice at Northampton in 1823, and continuing until 1846. He was a member of the State Legislature, 1842 to 1844, and after this elected to the State Senate.

BENJAMIN BARRETT²⁶⁴⁶ served in the Revolutionary War, fought in the battles of Bennington and Cross Plains.

HON. CHARLES BARRETT¹⁰⁴⁸, of Grafton, Vt., is a graduate of Dartmouth, class 1852. He has represented his town in the General Assembly, 1861-62 and 1876-79; senator from Windham County, 1864 to 1869, and again, 1877 to 1882.

COL. CHARLES BARRETT¹¹⁷⁴, of Ashburnham, Mass. At the age of twenty-one he settled in Ashburnham, after completing his apprenticeship at the blacksmith trade in 1809, when there were but eleven dwelling houses in the village. He built a shop, and a dwelling in which he resided for twenty-nine years. In 1835, he built the house where his son, Col. George Barrett, now resides. He early in life identified himself with all the societies and organizations for the material and moral interests of the town. In 1824 he was elected colonel of the Ninth Regiment of Massachusetts Volunteer Militia. He was for many years a selectman and assessor, and in 1827 and 1834 was representative to the General Court. He was one of the principal promoters in building the Congregational church in Ashburnham, and was often chosen to fill various parish offices. After he was seventy years old he canvassed the town on foot to obtain subscriptions to defray parish expenses. He placed himself on the side of total abstinence as early as 1827 or 1828, and proved by his example that a man could perform a hard day's labor without alcoholic stimulants. He was a man of good morals and strict honesty, and set an example by his pure life worthy of imitation. About 1835 he gave up his business of blacksmithing, and was engaged as a contractor and builder, acquiring interests in many of the enterprises of the place, and for many years was proprietor of a grain mill. Col. Charles Barrett during his long life was always pleasant, courteous, and gentlemanly in his intercourse with his neighbors, possessed of an unselfish nature, a warm heart, and kindly feeling toward his fellow-men. Col. Barrett was a member of the Masonic order for some seventy years. When a young man he had his life insured for $1000, and when ninety-six years old, having outlived the limit of his policy, the company paid him the amount of his insurance.

CHARLES BARRETT¹⁵⁵⁹, of New Ipswich, N. H., "from his youth possessed an enterprising spirit, and while a young man, in connection with his brother, built the grist and saw mills in what is now Mason Village, N. H. In 1764 he came to New Ipswich, N. H. At the commencement of the Revolution, Mr. Barrett, by energy and industry, had made himself one of the most prominent men of the town; but, like several of our leading men, he had strong doubts of the measures then adopted by the ardent Whigs. Having always been accustomed to state his opinion boldly and fearlessly, he often became involved in controversies with many of the patriot party, and a large part of the people branded him as an enemy of his country; and at one time party feeling ran so high that his principles were discussed in town meeting. The people soon found that honest opinions, however strongly expressed, should not be punished; and as the honesty of Mr. Barrett's principles had never been questioned, he soon acquiesced in the measures of the new government, and paid his full share towards carrying on the war; he regained his popularity and the confidence of his townsmen. He was elected a delegate to the convention to ratify the Constitution of the United States, and was afterwards a member of the Senate; he served as councillor for one or more terms; was chosen representative, annually, for fourteen years, which, more than anything else, shows the confidence of his townsmen. Soon after the Revolution he obtained the grant of a township of land in Lincoln County, Maine, which was for a long time called Barrett's town; afterwards incorporated, and named Hope. Here he spent much of his time, and was the means of inducing many persons to emigrate there from this and the neighboring towns, to whom he freely distributed lands. In 1790 he was engaged with J. Jameson in erecting extensive mills on the falls of Georgis River. He also projected an extensive course of improvements of this river, so as to enable loaded boats to reach this township from the water. He built upon the river the first series of locks constructed in New England, and probably in this country. . . . He had an interest in the glass-house on the Mountain, and was one of the subscribers to the Academy, and made to it a donation of a tract of wild land in Camden, Maine, which was afterwards sold by him as agent of the institution. He may be said to be the father of the cotton manufacture in the place, as Mr. Robbins, a practical machinist, came here at his suggestion, and they, in connection with Benjamin Champney, erected the first cotton mill in the State. Though Mr. Barrett had received but a very ordinary education, he possessed a very strong mind, and had informed himself so as to converse well on almost any subject."—From Kidder's History of New Ipswich, N. H.

CHARLES BARRETT¹⁷¹⁴, of New Ipswich, N. H., graduated at Dartmouth College, 1794; "began a business life as a co-partner with Samuel Appleton. Mr. Appleton left the business for a wider field in Boston. In a few years after, he was followed by Mr. Barrett, whose ample means and business habits brought him an esteemed circle of acquaintance and friends. Here he pursued an extensive commercial trade through the trying times which our commerce passed, in that era of non-intercourse, embargo, and war, with varied success, till 1814, when he returned, with his family, to his native town, to enjoy once more the retirement of his beautiful mansion, which he had erected during the time of his former residence. In 1819, Mr. Barrett was induced to purchase an interest in the old cotton factory. Being associated with several gentlemen, he procured an act of incorporation, under the title of the "Water Loom Factory Company." Here they erected a large building. This promising to be a good investment, two other companies were formed, of which Mr. Barrett was the head and principal manager. These establishments were built near the High Bridge and at Mason Village, with which he was connected during his life. Mr. Barrett's life was an active one; like his father, he disliked to see an idle man. He was the principal in establishing the bank, and it was mainly from his exertions that the Unitarian church was erected, as also many other public improvements. He was elected to fill various town offices, and for many years was the town's representative in the General Court."—From Kidder's History of New Ipswich, N. H.

CHARLES BARRETT¹⁷²² was born in Boston, Mass. At the age of five he had a severe illness; the medicine given to him destroyed his hearing. He was educated at the asylum for deaf-mutes at Hartford, Conn. In 1852, when the "New England Gallaudet Association of Deaf-Mutes" was formed, Mr. Barrett was chosen its treasurer; which office he continued to hold, by repeated election, until his death. He was of a particularly sunny and genial temperament, uniformly lively and happy; honest and upright in his dealings, he won the confidence and esteem of all. He was married to Abby Beals Harrt of Boston. She was remarkable for her great fidelity and charming manner of interpreting the conversation of those about them to her husband. Her father, Edmund Harrt, was the builder of the frigate "Constitution"; he also designed and superintended the building of the "Boston" frigate, 1799. Mr. Barrett was for a short time engaged in business in New Ipswich, N. H., whither his parents had removed, occupying a brick house in Bank Village, erected for him by his father at the time of his marriage. At the death of his mother, he came into possession of the Barrett homestead at New Ipswich, and occupied that until 1848, when he sold it to his brother George, and removed to Boston. The following beautiful tribute was paid to his memory, at the time of his death, 1862: "To all who were permitted to know him, his short and comparatively uneventful life suggests many sweet and beautiful memories, — memories of gracious, kindly intercourse, of serene cheerfulness, of Christian content. Kind and courteous to all, conscientious in the discharge of his duties, it was in the sacred circle of home that the purity and beauty of his character shone with the brightest and clearest light. He was indeed the sunshine of that home, gladdening all who entered it, lavishing warmth and light with an unconscious bounty that was its chiefest charm. Nature had been so bountiful to him in the rich gifts of the heart and soul, that one scarcely remembered his privations. The closed avenues shut out much that might have pained his childlike gentleness of heart and tarnished his rare purity of soul; while in the sweet and sacred silence his spirit grew like a white flower in the deep, quiet woods, reaching towards the great source of light and life. The flower has withered and fallen to the earth, but the mortal germ within still lives to bloom and flourish in the new world and the new life."

CAPT. CHARLES BARRETT²³⁵², of New York, engaged at the age of fourteen as a sailor, continuing upon the sea for nine years until 1844. He graduated at Yale College, 1852; after this taking a three years' course at Union Theological Seminary. From 1855 to 1876 he was a ship-master in the India, China, and Pacific trades. He was in the fleet at the taking of Fort Fisher, as a delegate of the Christian Commission, the only man serving therein without pay. He is now conducting a Christian mission in the city of New York.

CLARENCE TYNAN BARRETT²³²³ entered the service of the United States on the 2d of August, 1862, as second lieutenant of the One Hundred and Fifty-sixth New York Volunteers; promoted to adjutant, rank of first lieutenant, Jan. 31, 1863, and to aide-de-camp, rank of captain, May 27, 1864, for gallant and meritorious service during the campaign against the city of Mobile and its defence; promoted Nov. 26, 1865, to brevet major. He resigned from the service, and now resides at West New Brighton, N. Y.

CAPT. CLINTON SAMUEL BARRETT²⁹⁵⁵, of Chattanooga, Tenn., was educated principally at the Academy, Kingsville, Ohio; subsequently a student in Nunda, N. Y., Literary Institution, in which institution he was promoted to the faculty. Capt. Barrett served in the army, Company II, Fifteenth Missouri Volunteers, then joining the United States Military Telegraph Corps, remaining until the close of the war. Is now travelling passenger agent for the St. Louis, Missouri and Southern Railroad, and also general land agent for the Fort Smith and Little Rock Railroad.

DANIEL BARRETT¹⁵⁶⁸ settled in Camden, Me., about 1792, where he purchased of Wm. Molineaux on Beauchamp Neck, built a house, and afterwards married. He was of a retiring disposition, and seldom allowed himself to be put forward for any public place. He was noted for his upright character, sound judgment, exactness, energy, and industry. He was a class leader in the Methodist Episcopal church for many years, or until his death. He was largely interested in farming, stock raising, and the manufacture of lime, owning several lime-kilns and wharves, and also in ship-building, building and owning several vessels, among which was the brig "Eagle." His greatest undertaking was the building of a turnpike around Mount Beatter, one that will remain a monument to his industry and perseverance, as he has expressed it in one of his deeds, "as long as oaks grow and water runs." He obtained a charter, June 23, 1802, of the General Court of Massachusetts, which was entitled "An Act authorizing Daniel Barrett to make a Turnpike Road over Megantehook Mountain, in the town of Camden, in the county of Lincoln." This roadway he kept in repair and collected the tolls until 1834, when he sold it to the towns of Camden and Lincolnville.

EZRA BARRETT¹¹⁷⁹, born in Ashby, Mass., settled after his marriage in Warren, N. H. He was for many years a deacon in the Congregational church. He was greatly esteemed for his thorough Christian and business integrity, dignified and gentlemanly deportment. He was extensively engaged in the manufacture of various farming implements for the New England market, in use at the time, he having invented the Concord scythe snath, and also a lathe for turning wood by a pattern. He was much interested in common schools, and in improving the construction of their houses. He published a singing book for Sunday-school use. His wife was Rhoda Johnson, a daughter of Col. Reuben and Rhoda Johnson. He died in 1843.

EDWARD HARRIS BARRETT¹²⁸⁹, of Minneapolis, Minn., settled in Springfield, Ill., and lived there until 1854, when he removed with his wife and three sons to Minnesota Territory. He built the first log-cabin on the prairie west from Winona, then a town of three buildings, — a frame hotel, a log-cabin serving as a dwelling, a store and post-office (the mail being often carried in the postmaster's hat), and an unenclosed warehouse. The Indians had been taken from that part of the prairie the previous year. Mr. Barrett's cabin was, like all others in the new country, nightly filled with Eastern travellers, curious to see the wonders of the far-famed Territory. During the prevalence of cholera in the spring of 1855, a large colony of Dunkards emigrated from Indiana, and many died on the way and after reaching Minnesota, before they could provide comfortable shelter. Four of a family, with six children, died at Mr. Barrett's in four days. The funeral, the first public religious service held in town, was at the cabin, and was succeeded by a weekly Sunday school, organized and conducted by Mr. Barrett, and Sunday services by the pastor of the colony and various preachers of any denomination who came around. The first day school met there, also the earliest town meetings, courts, and elections, Mr. Barrett holding several town, county, State, and United States offices. He left his farm to obtain better school and religious privileges, and moved farther west, to Wasioja, in 1866, thence to Minneapolis, where he and his son Frank had previously established the Asbestine Stone Company, for manufacturing artificial stone.

GEORGE MINOTT BARRETT¹⁰⁶³, of Grafton, Vt., was clerk for many years in Grafton for his uncle, Capt. John Barrett, and succeeded to the business, which he conducted for nearly fifty years successfully, and gained the esteem of all that had relations with him. He died in 1883.

GEORGE BARRETT¹⁷¹⁸, born in New Ipswich, N. H., was for a time clerk for his cousin, Henry Melville, in Nelson, N. H., where he lived for several years, then returning to New Ipswich, where he for a time kept a store. He afterwards removed to Boston, entering into a copartnership with Silas Bullard (they were agents for the sale of cotton goods which were made at the factories in New Ipswich, Mr. Barrett's father being a large owner in these factories), continuing until the death of Mr. Bullard, in 1835. He resided in Boston seven years after his marriage, then returning to New Ipswich, living at the family mansion until the death of his mother. He succeeded Mr. Ainsworth as cashier of the bank at New Ipswich, and retained that position until illness obliged him to resign. After his election, he removed to the Bank Village, where the bank was then located; it was removed to its present location about the year 1845. Soon after this his brother Charles removed to Boston, and as it was George Barrett's great wish to own Forest Hall, the family homestead in New Ipswich, he purchased it, and lived there the remainder of his life. Although devoted to his business, he found great pleasure in beautifying his fine country home. All kinds of country pursuits gave him keen enjoyment. His business qualifications were very fine, and his honesty and uprightness were such that persons often said of him, "His word is as good as his bond." A man of kindest heart and most generous impulses, and all of the many whom he numbered among his friends entertained for him the highest esteem and regard. One of his marked tastes was his great love of Shakespeare. He read and reread Shakespeare's plays, and could recite whole pages from his works. He died in 1862, after a painful illness of two years, which he bore with great fortitude. His wife still survives him, and lives in the old homestead, Forest Hall. A very pleasing incident in Mr. Barrett's life was his interview with Samuel Appleton, Esq., of Boston. Mr. Appleton's letter, and Mr. Barrett's account of the interview, are as follows:—

BOSTON, May 27, 1850.

GEORGE BARRETT, Esq.

Dear Sir,—I will thank you to call on me, at my house in Boston, as it is convenient for you so to do (it may be, perhaps, for their interest), respecting the descendants of my early friend, your grandfather, the late Hon. Charles Barrett. Please write me and say when probably you will call on me.

Very respectfully,

Your friend and humble servant,

SAMUEL APPLETON.

"On receipt of the above, I made arrangements and started for Boston. I called on Mr. Appleton, and he said: 'Your grandfather met me in the street, when I was young and very poor, and took a fancy to me (for what reason I do not know, nor can I conceive to this day). He had large quantities of land in Maine, and sent me, with others, to settle the town of Hope. The others were to pay one hundred dollars each, for their farms; mine he gave me, but I did not like it, and returned. He still fancied me, and told me he would put me into trade. He did. He built a store for me, lent me sufficient money, gave me an unlimited letter of credit on Samuel Parkman of Boston, took me with his own family to board, and told me that if I lost the money he was satisfied; if I never paid him for board he was satisfied; that I might pay him part of profits, if I pleased, or not. In fact, left it all to me to do as I pleased. Mr. Barrett was the origin of the wealth of our family, for if it had not been for him, I probably should never have gone to Boston.' He then inquired how many heirs my father's sister, Mrs. Dana, had. I told him five. He knew we had but three. He then said: 'I want to make some small presents on account of my early friend, your grandfather, the Hon. Charles Barrett, and I propose five thousand dollars for yourself, your brother Charles, and Mrs. Hersey.' He handed me a check for that amount on the Columbian Bank, and the following receipt, in his own handwriting, to sign:—

Received of Samuel Appleton, Five Thousand Dollars, which sum is given, as he says, for the kindness and patronage he received from my grandfather, the Hon. Charles Barrett, in early life, when he was young and poor. I promise to pay over to my sister, Mrs. Hersey, one third of it, and to my brother, Charles Barrett, one third. It will stand thus:—

For Mrs. Hersey	$1,666.67
For Charles Barrett	1,666.67
For myself, George Barrett	1,666.66
	$5,000.00

BOSTON, May 29, 1850.

"He also requested me to see Gen. James Dana, my cousin, and tell him to call, and he would receive a check for five thousand dollars."

The following notice appeared in the Boston Daily Advertiser: "Samuel Appleton, Esq., has recently bestowed ten thousand dollars upon the descendants of an early friend. It is pleasing to record this act of private munificence, which reflects so much honor upon the heart of the generous donor."

GEORGE MINOTT BARRETT²¹⁵², of Staten Island, N. Y., settled at first in Malden, Mass. He was connected with his brother William's dye-house, and about 1818 visited Staten

Geot Barrett

George W. Barrett

Island, N. Y., in company with his brother William, Wm. Tileston, and Farnham Hall, for the purpose of selecting a suitable location for erecting a dye-house. They purchased about sixteen acres of land on the north shore of the island, and immediately commenced to erect suitable buildings, organized and commenced work 1819. In 1824, the business having proved successful, was organized into a stock company, under the name of the "New York Dyeing and Printing Establishment," under which name the business is still continued. Mr. Barrett was appointed chief superintendent, and held the position for many years, being a director until his death.

GEORGE HUBBELL BARRETT²⁹³⁷ of Oakland, Cal. He left his home at the age of fifteen; attended school at Kingsville Academy one year; he taught school during two winters, and was a part of the time a clerk in a store in Springfield, Pa., until he was eighteen years of age; he then moved to Wisconsin, from thence to California, and there engaged in farming. In the time of the War of the Rebellion he was orderly sergeant of cavalry in the Home Guards, the State having armed ten thousand men for home safety, in the absence of the regulars. He moved, in 1875, from San Pueblo to Oakland.

HUMPHREY BARRETT⁷⁸⁸ was born at the Barrett homestead in Bolton. He was for many years successful at the watch-making trade. He moved to Lancaster, where he was the postmaster for more than thirty years, and at the same time continuing in the watch-making trade. In 1884 he went to Eustis, Fla., and died there the following year.

HUMPHREY BARRETT⁸⁵³ owned and lived upon the farm where his ancestor, Humphrey Barrett, settled in 1640. A farmer, managing his farm with prudence and economy, making the returns profitable. He was assessor of taxes 1783, town treasurer 1792-93. He died in 1827, without issue, willing nearly all of his property to his nephew, Albert B. Heywood.

HENRY BARRETT²³⁸² of Malden, Mass., after the death of his father in 1834, formed a company with his brothers William and Simon H., and Henry Jaques, to continue the dyeing business at Malden. Upon the death of William, about four years later, the company was reorganized, with Mr. Barrett and his brothers Simon H., Augustus, and Aaron as members. About 1844, Simon H. and Augustus relinquished their interests, after which time Mr. Barrett and his brother Aaron carried on the business until the death of Aaron, 1878; Mr. Barrett continuing it alone till the present time, his son, Richard S., now having the principal management of the business. The works were removed in 1882 to Somerville, Mass. Mr. Barrett was for several years president of the Middlesex Savings Bank, and has been personally interested in the welfare of his native town.

HON. JOSEPH BARRETT¹⁹¹¹ of Concord, Mass., a grandson of Col. James Barrett, of Revolutionary fame; his mother was Miliscent Estabrook, granddaughter of Rev. Joseph Estabrook, who was for years a minister of the town, and whose ancestry traces back to the Rev. Peter Bulkeley, the first minister in Concord. He received such educational advantages only as were afforded by the common schools, with the addition of a few months spent at the Westford Academy. While yet a boy he gave promising indications of the physical powers that he was to be so noted for in after years. When about fifteen years of age, with his father upon his back, a man who weighed two hundred and sixty pounds, he forded the Assabet River. He learned the trade of leather dresser in New Haven, Conn., of his brother-in-law, and carried on that kind of business in Concord before his majority. Appointed deputy sheriff of the county and keeper of the jail at the age of twenty-five. In this capacity he became familiarly known, it falling generally to his lot to arrest the desperate characters. Many stories are told of his fearless courage and feats of strength required in executing the duties of this office. He was also, about this time, elected captain of the military company known vulgarly as the "Old Shad," then in a state bordering on insubordination, and under his discipline reduced to perfect subjection. In 1822 he became the owner of the famous "Lee Farm," of four hundred acres; added to this was one hundred acres of outlying land; this, with his large sheep farm in New Hampshire, made him one of the most extensive farmers of the State, keeping hundreds of sheep and cattle; scores of horses and oxen grazed upon his hills or labored in tilling his lands. He excelled in his various undertakings; his product of wool was of the finest, winning the first prizes at the fairs; and in the great ploughing matches with the farmers, "Squire Joe," as he was familiarly called, was sure to come out ahead. He made large quantities of cider each season, often five hundred barrels or more. As instances of his strength, it is told that he could lift, unaided, a barrel of cider over the wheels and into his wagon. He one time shouldered and carried up two flights of stairs a bag containing over eight bushels of shelled corn. Though upwards of six feet in height and weighing about two hundred and fifty pounds, he handled pitchforks, hoes, and other small tools about his farm with great strength, but with ease and natural facility: could dance as lightly upon the floor as those of slighter build; and it was his wont to enter church during prayer-time without disturbing the worship. He was always very active in the town offices: was chairman of the board of assessors, chairman of the board of selectmen, president of the fire association, and fire-warden, president of the Middlesex Agricultural Society, and held other minor offices. In 1831 he was elected to the State Legislature, and again, frequently, in subsequent years. In 1845 elected Treasurer and Receiver-General of the State, and was re-elected four times, being in the office at the time of his death. Joseph Barrett was a Concord product, purely; all his ancestry in this country were of Concord origin, or settlers of the town.

A man of temperate habits, warm-hearted, generous, and possessing those traits of character which endeared him alike to both family and friends. He died suddenly, of heart disease, in his seventy-first year, in 1849.

HON. JONATHAN FAY BARRETT²¹²⁴, of Concord, in his youth attended Mrs. Bliss' private school in Concord. While in attendance there he was the playmate and classmate of Judge Hoar; the friendship then formed was firmly cemented in the intercourse of riper years. At a public meeting, held in the Concord Town Hall during the congressional contest between Judge Hoar and Gen. Butler, Mr. Barrett's love and esteem for his old schoolmate manifested itself in an eloquent and fiery attack upon the Judge's maligners, which few who heard will ever forget. He was one of the famous class of Harvard College, 1837. In 1855, Mr. Barrett, with Thomas W. Pierce, and other Boston capitalists, became interested in railroad enterprises, and went to Galveston, Texas, where he originated and afterwards became the president of the Buffalo Bayou, Brazos and Colorado Railroad, running between Galveston and Harrisburgh, and now a part of the great Texas Central Railway system. In religious matters he was somewhat of a free-thinker, but friendly to the church and its people, and an attendant at the Unitarian church in his native town for several years.

ISRAEL BARRETT²⁶⁴⁵, of Oneida County, N. Y., served in the operations against Nova Scotia in Capt. Ward's company, and was taken prisoner September, 1775; he also served in the War of the Revolution.

JAMES BARRETT¹⁸³⁹, the eldest son of Col. James Barrett, was born in Concord, in the old block-house now known as the Prescott Barrett Homestead, and made famous as the hiding-place for military stores on the 19th of April, 1775. He certainly began life in an exceedingly small way, for it is related that at the time of his birth he was placed, without squeezing, into a quart tankard; but, like the oak, he was not daunted by so small a beginning, for on arriving at manhood he measured fully six feet, being broad-shouldered and strong. While a young man he worked on his father's farm, getting his education from the schools of the town. July 4, 1758, being then twenty-five years of age, he married Miliscent Estabrook, granddaughter of the Rev. Joseph Estabrook. He settled on the farm now known as the Geo. M. Barrett Homestead, the house he built, where he ever afterward lived. He assisted his father in the preparations to resist the British in 1775, and was a participant in the "Concord fight." Hearing that a company of the invaders were on their way to search his house and that of his father, and realizing that his wife and seven little children were left unprotected, he mounted his horse and rode with all speed to their assistance. On reaching home, he found his house locked and its occupants gone. It seems his wife, hearing that the enemy were coming, had gathered her husband's papers, and their little stock of silver, placing them in a bushel basket, then depositing the baby on top she started with her burden for the woods, followed by the rest of the children, where her husband found her. A kind and indulgent father, his children were brought up in the strictest manner. A religious man, he believed and insisted that no work should be done, other than was necessary, after sundown on a Saturday, but that the evening before the Sabbath should be spent in prayer and meditation. He required all his household to attend church, and his daughters were never allowed to receive callers on Sunday. He was an extensive farmer, and one of the leading men of the town; he transacted a good deal of legal business for his neighbors, as lawyers were then a rarity; he was noted for his business ability and strict integrity. He was a justice of the peace, and a member of the first, last, and most of the intermediate Revolutionary committees of correspondence. He represented his town several times in the General Court. He died in his sixty-fourth year, and was buried in the Hill burying-ground.

MAJOR JAMES ATWATER BARRETT²¹¹⁸ served throughout the Rebellion, having enlisted in July, 1861, as first sergeant in Company H, Forty-eighth Regiment, New York Volunteer Infantry, and was mustered out Sept. 1, 1865. Sergeant Barrett was promoted to second lieutenant Dec. 29, 1862, and to first lieutenant July 23, 1863; receiving then a furlough of two months, he visited his home in Concord, Mass., returning to his regiment in September. He was wounded in battle June 2, 1864, at Cold Harbor; then, after a furlough of three months spent at the North, he rejoined his regiment at Petersburg, Va. Captain Barrett married Jane Farmer¹²⁶². He died at his home in Brooklyn, N. Y., Dec. 14, 1885.

CAPT. JOHN BARRETT¹⁰²⁵. Born in Mason, N. H., he lived during his minority upon his father's farm, removing to Grafton, Vt., about 1805, then engaging in mercantile business with Nathan Wheeler. He at once took an active part in the affairs of the town; he was chosen a selectman in 1807, and for several years succeeding; chosen a representative to the General Assembly in 1811, and re-elected five terms. The business copartnership of Wheeler & Barrett continued about ten years, after which Mr. Wheeler remained at the old stand, and Mr. Barrett built the brick building (now the town house), which he occupied as a store until 1828, when he retired from business, having accumulated a handsome property, and gained a thorough and honest business reputation. Always an active member of the Congregational society, he became a member of the church in 1833. When that society was divided, he was prominent as a member of the South Congregational Society, contributing a large share of the funds required in building the church. He was State senator, 1841 and 1842. He died in 1856.

Comrade

REV. JOHN BARRETT¹¹¹⁶, familiarly known in life as Father Barrett, a faithful minister of the Gospel, graduated at Williams College, 1810. He was employed for a time by the Evangelical Society, and was ordained at Mesopotamia, Ohio, 1827. He died without issue, in 1849.

JOHN LYMAN BARRETT¹¹³⁴ of Greeley, Col., a graduate of Burr Seminary, Manchester, Vt., 1847. He taught school several years in Georgia and Louisiana; was admitted to the bar, 1855, beginning law practice at Farmersville Union Parish, La. He was a member of the Constitutional Convention of Louisiana, 1868, and removed to Greeley, 1874.

REV. JOHN P. BARRETT²⁵²⁹, of Farmington, Ill., fitted for college at Watertown High School, graduating from Harvard College, 1864; spent one year at Andover Theological Seminary, when ill health compelled him to abandon study. From 1865 to 1876 he entered into business connections at Boston, St. Louis, and Chicago. In 1877 he graduated from the Chicago Theological Seminary, and was ordained and settled as pastor of the Congregational church at Manchester, Iowa, 1877; at Hennepin, Ill., 1881; thence to Farmington, Ill., where he is now preaching. He also served for a short time with the Christian Commission.

CAPT. JOHN MILLER BARRETT¹⁵⁷⁵ of Baltimore, Md., a captain of militia, and took a prominent part in the defence of Baltimore in the War of 1812, raising a company of his own, which did valuable service, in recognition of which Congress gave him a commission in the Regular Army as lieutenant, Fourth Regiment. He was stricken with yellow fever, and died, leaving an enviable reputation as a soldier. His monument at Baltimore bears the following inscription: "John M. Barrett, Lieut. 5th Reg. U. S. Infantry and Commissary U. S. A., died in passage from New Orleans to Mobile, Oct. 16, 1819. A defender of Fort McHenry and Lieut. of the 38th U. S. Infantry of the line during the War of 1812."

JOHN LEAHY BARRETT¹⁵⁷⁸, of Baltimore, Md., resided in New York City from 1844 to 1869, when he returned to Baltimore and engaged with his brother Minott in the gilding trade. He is now retired from business.

LIEUT. JONAS BARRETT¹¹⁶², born in Concord, settled in Ashby (then Townsend) in 1760, when the town was a wilderness; built a log-hut and began clearing his farm; in 1764-5 he built his dwelling-house, which is still standing. Lieut. Barrett was one of the leading men of the town: he was a selectman of Townsend, 1767, and in May, 1768, was elected selectman of the new town, Ashby, and re-elected 1773 and 1774; assessor, 1769; treasurer, 1771 to 1774; town clerk, 1772-74; constable, 1775. He died in Ashby, 1803.

JONAS STONE BARRETT¹⁶²¹ is mentioned in the "History of Belfast, Me.," as having a peculiar religious belief, which he set forth in a pamphlet entitled "New Views of the Bible, and its Abuses by the Priests," which was published in 1842. He removed to California, and died there in 1864.

CAPT. JOSEPH BARRETT¹⁰¹² removed from Concord to Mason, N. H., before that town was incorporated, and settled upon the farm which is still owned by his descendants. He was an industrious farmer, and had the esteem of his fellow-citizens. He was town clerk fourteen years, first selectman fourteen years, town treasurer twelve years, and representative four years. He died in 1831.

REV. JOSHUA BARRETT¹¹¹⁷, a graduate from Dartmouth College, 1810. He studied theology and engaged in preaching and as a missionary, and was ordained over the Second Church at Plymouth, Mass., Jan. 11, 1826. He died 1868.

REV. LUTHER G. BARRETT²⁵¹⁸ at the age of ten went to reside with a relative in Sturbridge, Mass. Here, at the age of twelve, he was converted and baptized into fellowship with the Baptist Church. At sixteen he entered the High School in Watertown, his native place, thence to Harvard College, graduating in 1862; also graduated from the Newton Theological Seminary, class of 1865. While a student at the seminary, he spent most of the winters 1864 and 1865 in the service of the Christian Commission, in the army before Richmond; was ordained to the ministry at Watertown, Sept. 7, 1865. Ill health now compelled a rest, during which he made the tour of Europe. In September, 1867, he accepted the pastorate of the Baptist church in Weston, Mass.; called to Winchester, Mass., 1870; in 1875 to a Baptist church in New York City; in July, 1878, to the church in South Abington, Mass.; in July, 1880, of the Pleasant Street Baptist Church, Concord, Mass.

MYRON ERASTUS BARRETT²⁹⁵⁰ of Niles, Mich. He was a teacher of writing in Cochrane Commercial College, in Detroit, Mich., in 1856, and afterwards established a college at Kingsville, Ohio, conducting it successfully until it was destroyed by fire. He then moved to Niles, Mich., and is principal and proprietor of Barrett's Commercial College, St. Joseph's, Mich.

COL. NATHAN BARRETT¹⁸⁹⁴ was the second son of Col. James Barrett, born in Concord, and was the first of the name on Ponkatasset Hill, or Barrett's Hill, as sometimes called, he having come into possession of this estate in 1761. He married Meriam, a daughter of Dr. Simon Hunt, and raised a family of fifteen children, all of whom grew to manhood and womanhood. He was a man of high character, prominent in public affairs, public-spirited, energetic, and charitable. At "Concord fight" he was captain of the third militia company, and while in pursuit of the British was wounded in the arm. His great-grandson, Edwin S. Barrett, of Battle Lawn, Concord, has in his possession five commissions given to this ancestor, viz.: ensign's commission, dated March 26, 1776, from George III., by Gov. Francis Bernard: captain's commission, July 10, 1773, also from George III., by Gov. Thomas Hutchinson: major's commission, Feb. 14, 1776, signed by the Council of Massachusetts Bay: lieutenant-colonel's commission, May 3, 1779, also signed by the Council; and a further lieutenant-colonel's commission, July 1, 1781, given by John Hancock, the first governor. "On the retreat from Concord of the British, April 19, 1775, Major Pitcairn was wounded, and fell from his horse. The animal was captured by the Americans, and subsequently sold at Concord. On the back of his horse was Major Pitcairn's holster, containing his pistols. Capt. Barrett bought them, and offered them to Gen. Washington, then in command of the Provincial army around Boston. Gen. Washington declining to accept them, Capt. Barrett then presented them to Gen. Israel Putnam, who used them until the close of the war, when they came into the possession of the general's son, and were by him willed to a grandson of the general, John P. Putnam. These were exhibited at the Centennial. They are about one foot in length, made of steel, with flint-lock attachments of the Revolutionary period."

NATHAN BARRETT²¹⁴⁰, known as the second Nathan Barrett, was born on Ponkatasset Hill, in Concord. He was not, like his immediate ancestors, active in the military calling, being affected with a slight lameness. As an energetic business man he had few superiors; with a strong mental grasp, he was equal to all emergencies of life; his counsel and advice were always in demand. Benevolent in disposition, ever ready to aid the needy, he died greatly lamented. His wife was Mary Jones⁴²⁹¹.

CAPT. NATHAN BARRETT²¹⁵⁵, the third Nathan, and the last of his race on Ponkatasset Hill. Capt. Barrett carried on during his life the large farm left to him from his ancestors, and the title of "Honest Nathan" was given to him by his neighbors and friends. Being kind-hearted, charitable, and a thorough Christian gentleman, he earned the high esteem of his townsmen. He was twice married: first to Mary S. Fuller, and a second time to his cousin, Lucy A. Barrett²⁵¹⁴.

COL. NATHAN BARRETT²²¹⁵, of Staten Island, N. Y., was a colonel of New York militia about 1830. He was a Christian and a philanthropist, highly esteemed and beloved. It was due to his exertions that the county house of his county was greatly improved.

NATHAN M. BARRETT²²⁸³ was a soldier in the War of the Rebellion: enlisted in Company I, One Hundred Fifty-sixth Regiment New York Volunteers, serving three years and four months. He was at the battles of Winchester, Fisher

Hill, and Cedar Creek. At Augusta, Ga., he received, with several others, a commission as first lieutenant from Gov. Seymour of New York, as a complimentary testimonial. He was discharged Nov. 15, 1865. In 1866 he crossed the plains, and for two years thereafter was engaged in gold mining.

NATHAN F. BARRETT²³²⁶, of New York, enlisted in the One Hundred and Fifty-sixth Regiment, Company I, New York State Volunteers, Sept. 19, 1862; served in the Nineteenth Army Corps in Louisiana under Banks through the Port Hudson and Red River campaigns. He joined Sheridan's army at Washington, about August, 1864, and was in the Shenandoah campaign throughout. He was wounded at Cedar Creek in the left arm: joined Sherman's army at Savannah, and was in a division of Nineteenth Army Corps which relieved Gen. Geary at Savannah; was again in Sherman's army at Goldsboro, N. C., and was there at Johnston's surrender. Mustered out of service at Hart's Island, New York, Nov. 9, 1865, holding commissions of second and first lieutenants and sergeant-major. He is now a professor of landscape engineering. He designed the well-known town of Pullman, Ill.

MAJOR OLIVER BARRETT⁷⁴⁴, of Bolton, lived in the old Barrett homestead; held a major's commission in the militia of Massachusetts, and filled various offices of trust in the town and parish.

DR. PERRY GORDON BARRETT²⁵⁵¹ graduated an M. D. at the Buffalo, N. Y., Medical College, then settled at Walnut Creek, Kan., remaining there until after the death of his first wife. He entered the United States Army in 1862, at Corinth, Miss., under contract until a vacancy for surgeon should occur. His first commission was assistant surgeon of the Seventh Ohio Volunteer Corps. He was taken a prisoner at Rogersville, Tenn., and incarcerated in Libby Prison, at Richmond, Nov. 10, 1863. His treatment while a prisoner was such as characterized that infamous prison. Gen. Neal Dow and Col. Streight were prisoners on the same floor at the time, in other departments. He remained for three weeks in Libby Prison, until his exchange. After a furlough of two weeks, he was ordered to join the command, near Knoxville, Tenn. He attempted to do so; the deprivations and cruelties of his prison life had so affected his health that he was obliged to go into the hospital at Camp Nelson, near Lexington, Ky., and did not recover till the following spring, joining the command at the time of the exciting chase after Morgan and his command, June 13, 1864. At the time of his promotion to the position of surgeon of the Thirty-first United States Colored Troops he was ordered to join the forces then commanded by Gen. Grant, before Richmond and Petersburg, Va., where he remained in service until after the surrender of Lee. After this, his regiment was ordered to Texas, remaining during the summer on the east bank of the Rio Grande, at various points for a distance of two hundred miles; returning with his regiment to Hartford, Conn., Dec. 1, 1865, where he was mustered out of service. He resumed the practice of medicine at Erie, Pa., 1867, thence removed to Hood River, Oregon, in 1871.

CAPT. RICHARD BARRETT²¹²⁵, of Concord, Mass., derived his education from the public schools of the town, spending his spare time upon his father's large farm, taking a great interest in its affairs. He joined the Concord Artillery in 1837, thus following in the footsteps of his forefathers; elected captain at the age of twenty-two, and holding that position nearly all the time until 1871. At the time of election to the captaincy of the Artillery, there was great rivalry existing between it and the Infantry, both famous organizations, thus necessitating incessant labor and energy in each of the captains of these organizations to endeavor to bring his company to the head. At the time of his father's death, in 1849, he became the owner of the "Lee Farm," which he sold some years later. He was in the grain business in Boston, and subsequently in the lumber business at Manchester, Vt., returning to Concord in 1855. In the War of the Rebellion he was captain of the Concord Artillery, Company G, Forty-seventh Regiment Massachusetts Volunteers, in the Department of the Gulf, under Gen. Banks. Returning in 1863, he occupied a position in the United States marshal's office in Boston. In 1864 he became secretary and treasurer of the Middlesex Mutual Fire Insurance Company, still occupying the position; twice elected to the Legislature, in 1859 and 1879; always a Republican, and a loyal supporter of his party. In early life, he was one of the selectmen, and for many years chairman of the board of assessors. He was greatly interested in the Middlesex Agricultural Society, and for some years its treasurer. Capt. Barrett resides on a fine farm, situated at the foot of Ponkatasset Hill, about one mile from the centre of the town.

CAPT. RICHARD FAY BARRETT²¹³⁰, of Concord, Mass., spent a few of his early years with his uncle in Providence, going from thence to New York City, where he remained several years, then returning to Concord to take a position in the Middlesex Mutual Fire Insurance Company's office, and is now the assistant secretary of that company. Capt. Barrett was for several years captain of the Concord Artillery and Infantry Company attached to the Fifth Regiment Massachusetts Volunteer Militia. He has held the office of selectman and other town offices.

ROSWELL BARRETT⁷⁹³ of Bolton, Mass., a farmer, land surveyor, and justice of the peace, residing upon the Barrett homestead in Bolton. Mr. Barrett taught school for twenty-five years, and for more than forty years has been a member of the school committee, and has also held nearly every office within the gift of the town and parish. He married his cousin, Sarah Josephine Barrett¹¹.

DEA. SAMUEL BARRETT¹⁵⁶² of Concord, Mass. The following is from the New England Chronicle, Dec. 14, 1775: "We hear from Concord, that a fine laboratory for gun making is set up there, by Dea. Barrett, where every branch of that business is carried on; as the laboratory has the advantage of a water power, the boring, grinding, and polishing are done by that means."

MAJOR SAMUEL BARRETT²⁷¹⁷ of Jamestown, N. Y. During his minority he resided with his sister in Newfane, Vt., who had married Eli Crosby, Esq. He settled in Jamestown in 1816; after his marriage he was for a time landlord of the Cass House, a hotel then standing where now is the Jamestown House. Major Barrett soon became a leading citizen, and was a prominent man in all business matters pertaining to the town during his long life. When a young man he was a candidate, in opposition to the late Gen. Rissley, for the office of sheriff, on the Clintonian ticket. He was at times member of various mercantile copartnerships, one of the directors of the Chautauqua County Bank at the time of its organization. In 1835 he was elected president of the bank, to succeed Hon. E. T. Foot, its first president, who then resigned; this position he retained to the time of his death. For several years supervisor of Jamestown, and one year member of the State Assembly; filling all of these various positions creditably. A man of useful common-sense and sound judgment, of unquestioned integrity in public life, commanding also the confidence and respect of his associates in all the relations of life. He celebrated his golden wedding in 1868.

STEPHEN BARRETT¹⁸⁹⁹, of Concord, Mass., was a farmer and kept a tannery. He was a selectman, 1802 to 1807, and deputy representative, 1811.

STEPHEN BARRETT²⁵³⁵, of Shirley, Mass., learned the trade of tanning with his father. He bought a tannery in Shirley in 1801, removed there and continued in the business until his death.

STEPHEN BARRETT²⁶⁴³ of Sangersfield, N. Y. He was one of the original settlers in Paris, N. Y., being the third person to locate there in 1789. He remained in Paris six years, and then moved to Sangersfield, N. Y. He was a selectman in Paris, also justice in the town of Mohawk. He was a soldier in the War of the Revolution for three years.

STEPHEN BARRETT²⁸⁰³ moved with his parents in 1804 to Chautauqua County, N. Y. He was a soldier in the War of 1812, in Capt. Martin B. Traft's company, of New York State Militia. He moved with his family to Kingsville, Ohio, in 1821. In 1838 he moved, with a wife and nine daughters, to Beloit, Wis., near which place he had taken up a claim of land the previous year. One of his first efforts, after settling in his new home, was to aid in the organization of a Baptist church, his family making more than one half of the original membership. He and his wife continued to be members of this church until their death. In 1861, having been prosperous in their undertakings, they gave up housekeeping and lived until their deaths with their children. They were buried in Silver Lake Cemetery, Portage, Wis. Mr. Barrett was familiarly known as Dea. Barrett. Having a very large number of friends and acquaintance, his aid and counsel were sought by those in need, and none ever left him, on such occasions, regretfully. He lived a truly religious life.

PROF. STEPHEN P. BARRETT²⁹⁵³, of Lincoln, Neb., received his early education at the Kingsville Academy, beginning teaching in 1851, and taught in their order at the following places: Plymouth, Ohio, Raysville and Waterbury, Pa., Geneva and Harpersfield, Ohio, and in 1855 in Nunda, N. Y., Literary Institution; following this he entered the University of Rochester, graduating in the classical course July, 1859, degree of A. B., subsequently, in 1864, the degree of A. M. He was principal of boys' school, Chattanooga, Tenn., two years; public schools, Buchanan, Mich., seven years; schools of the "Dalles," Oregon, four years; Baker City Academy, Oregon, three years; and now principal of High School, Lincoln, Neb.

CAPT. THEODORE A. BARRETT²⁴⁵² of Brooklyn, N. Y. Mr. Barrett, when a boy, worked upon his step-father's farm and in the office of the Yeoman Gazette until about 1834 (his father was at one time editor of the Yeoman Gazette and Concord Freeman, published at Concord, Mass.), when he ran away from home and shipped in the United States Navy at Charlestown, and was drafted to the frigate "Potomac," for the Mediterranean station; arriving at that station, he was promoted to ship-yeoman. He followed the sea, being promoted in the various grades and given the command of a ship in 1844. In 1861 he took the command of a steamer to be fitted out to capture blockade runners. Before the day he was to report for duty, he was attacked by inflammatory rheumatism, and compelled to resign the command.

WILLIAM BARRETT²¹⁴⁸, of Malden, Mass., served an apprenticeship at the clothing trade with a Mr. Minott of Billerica, where he learned something of the trade of dyeing. After finishing his trade he went to Charlestown, Mass.; here he made the acquaintance of a Mr. Thompson, an Englishman, who was in the dyeing business in a small way. Mr. Barrett engaged with him and gained a thorough knowledge of the business, and afterwards came to have an interest in the business. Mr. Thompson neglected the work, being a man of unsteady habits. Mr. Barrett then determined to start for himself alone, and looking for a suitable location for the growing business, he removed to Malden in 1804, and established his dye-works in that place. About 1808 he engaged in copartnership with Meshack Shattuck, as Barrett & Shattuck. This firm was dissolved at the death of Mr. Shattuck (by suicide), Dec. 11, 1811, Mr. Barrett continuing alone until his death. In 1816 all of his buildings were burned, they being of wood; he immediately rebuilt of brick, and of considerably enlarged capacity. His profitable business he left to his sons. Mr. Barrett was a public-spirited man, and took a forward part in any enterprise for the benefit of his town.

BROWN.

REV. ADISON BROWN³⁴⁰² graduated at Cambridge, 1826. He studied for the ministry at the Cambridge Theological School, and was settled over the Unitarian church and society of Brattleboro, Vt., 1832. He was a faithful pastor and well-beloved minister of the church for many years; his health failing, he was obliged to relinquish preaching for a while. Recovering his health partially, he established a school in Brattleboro, which he carried on for some years. He then became editor of the Vermont Phoenix, and was connected with that paper till nearly the close of his life. He never relinquished the ministry; he loved his profession and continued to preach, as opportunity offered and health permitted, up to within a year or two of his death, which occurred in 1872. He was an upright man, respected and loved by all who knew him.

AMOS BROWN³³²⁷, of New Ipswich, N. H., was a farmer, and for a few years after his marriage he kept a store on the turnpike near his residence. In religious belief he was a Baptist, and for many years was a deacon of the Baptist church, thus following in the footsteps of his father. He was always particular to have daily family worship. He married his cousin, Hannah Brown³⁰³², who was always a faithful sympathizer with her husband in his religious opinions. Both were constant in attending church. Amos Brown did much toward the support of the church. He built a Baptist church mostly at his own expense, and paid largely toward the support of the minister. He was for some time a selectman of his town.

LIEUT. CYRUS BROWN³¹²³ was a civil engineer. He entered the Union Army soon after the breaking out of the Rebellion, and was promoted to the office of lieutenant in the One Hundredth New York Volunteers. He was wounded at the storming of Fort Wagner, near Charleston, S. C., July 18, 1863; he remained on the battle-field all night, protecting himself by burrowing in the sand; was captured by the Confederates in the morning and taken five miles to Charleston, where his shattered leg was amputated. In five days he was exchanged and taken to a hospital near New York, where he died Aug. 13, 1863.

LIEUT. CYRUS W. BROWN³⁰⁹⁴, of Joliet, Ill., entered the Union Army in 1862. In 1863 he received his lieutenant's commission in the Third Pennsylvania Colored Regiment. He served in the approaches that compelled the evacuation of Fort Wayne, Morris Island, in 1864; also was with Gen. Seymour's expedition into Florida; he served as an adjutant in the regiment. He has been four years State's attorney for Mill County, Ill.

CAPT. GUY A. BROWN³⁰⁸¹, of Lincoln, Neb., is reporter for the Superior Court of Nebraska and State librarian. He enlisted in the Union Army, 1862, and served therein till the close of the war. He was a captain in the Ninth New York Artillery.

HERMAN BROWN³⁴⁰³ was for many years deacon in the Baptist church, following thus in the footsteps of his father and grandfather. His high religious and moral character was made known by his life and works.

REV. JOHN BROWN³⁰²⁵ received a good education in the grammar schools of Concord. He was a Baptist, and frequently in his early life preached in various places, whenever he received a call to do so. He removed, in 1817, from his farm in Sharon, N. H., with his family to Alexander, N. Y.

JOHN W. BROWN³⁰⁷⁰, of Batavia, N. Y., is a farmer. Has been elected several times to minor offices in his town, and five times to the office of supervisor; and has for two terms represented the county in the State Legislature.

JOHN J. BROWN, M. D.³¹¹⁶, of Sheboygan, Wis. Educated himself for a physician, and practised medicine for several years. He has made several trips to tropical climes to gather specimens of conchology and botany; has devoted part of his time to teaching; has taken an active part in public questions and occupied places of public trust.

REV. JOHN S. BROWN³⁴⁰⁵ of Lawrence, Kan. A graduate of Phillips Academy, Exeter, N. H., and Union College, 1834. He taught school until he was settled as minister over the First Congregational Society and Church at Fitzwilliam, N. H., in 1844; removing from thence to Ashby, Mass., and with his family, to Lawrence, Kan., in 1857.

REV. JOSEPH BROWN³⁰³⁰ was educated for the ministry, and settled first in 1795 in Shapleigh, Me., over the Congregational church. He removed to Alfred, Me., in 1805; to Cavendish, Vt., about 1812, continuing in the ministry until his death.

JOSHUA L. BROWN³⁰⁶⁷ was at first a farmer, afterwards studied law, and held successively the office of deputy county clerk, county treasurer, county judge and surrogate.

CAPT. JOSIAH BROWN³⁰²³ was a man of marked ability and influence, a true patriot and devoted Christian. He was at the battle of Bunker Hill, and his company was the last to retreat before the British regulars. He often related the following incident. He said: "After we had orders to retreat, a brave youth of seventeen, who had fought by my side all day, had just loaded his gun and returned the ramrod to its place, when a British officer rode up flourishing his sword, and exclaimed, 'My boy, lay down your arms; we've won the day!' The young brave, nothing terrified, drew up his gun and shot the officer down, and retorted, 'Then G—— d—— you, you've lost it!'" and fled amidst a storm of bullets fired at him, escaping without harm." Five of his children settled in Whitingham, Vt., viz., Josiah, Joseph, Jonas, Amos, Nathan, and Sarah, who had married her cousin, Reuben Brown. These families were all farmers, men of note and influence at that age, taking an active interest in the current events of the time, and did much towards supporting institutions the best calculated to promote permanent good to the people.

REUBEN BROWN³⁰³³ moved with his family from New Ipswich, N. H., to Whitingham, Vt., about the year 1800. He lived in Whitingham till somewhere near 1811, then removed to Canada, and lived in Brownsville, a town named after Reuben Brown, that part of the country being newly settled; he bought four hundred acres of good land, became prosperous and raised a large family. He married his cousin, Sarah Brown³³²⁶.

REV. NATHAN BROWN, D. D.³⁵¹⁴, was born at New Ipswich, N. H., June 22, 1807, and died in Yokohama, Japan, Jan. 1, 1886. His boyhood was passed in Whitingham, Vt., whither his parents removed the year after his birth. Here his scholarly instincts began to develop in childhood, accompanied by an unusual concentration of character. A strict conscientiousness showed itself as a marked trait almost from infancy. His relations to the unseen Father and the realities of the spiritual life were early revealed to him, and at the age of nine he was baptized on profession of his faith by Rev. Jonathan Wilson. To these gifts were added a powerful physical constitution, strengthened by the out-door labors of a farmer's son. When sixteen years of age he entered Williams College, and graduated at twenty, in September, 1827, the valedictorian of a class of thirty members. The three following years were mainly occupied in teaching. From 1829 to 1831 he was associated in the Bennington Seminary with his college friend and classmate, Rev. James Ballard, whose sister Eliza, daughter of Capt. William Ballard of East Claremont, Mass., he married May 6, 1830.

During the year 1831, Mr. Brown was editor of the Vermont Telegraph, a religious journal published at Brandon. While there the way was opened for his entrance upon the foreign-missionary work, and the following winter was spent in preparatory study at Newton, Mass. He was ordained at Rutland, Vt., Aug. 15, 1832, and sailed for Burmah on Dec. 22 of that year, reaching Calcutta in May, and Maulmain in June, 1833. The next year he made a missionary tour up the Irrawaddy as far as Ava, distributing Christian books and tracts, and found the people generally ready to receive them, though in some cases the heathen rulers manifested hostility. Being appointed to establish a new mission in Assam, Mr. Brown left Burmah in August, 1835, and travelled inland up the Brahmaputra River seven hundred miles from Calcutta to Sudiya, a post near the northeastern frontier of the province, which it was hoped would prove a stepping-stone to China, whose seaports were then closed against foreigners. He labored in Assam for twenty years, mastering the language without dictionary or grammar, and enduring, with his heroic wife, the perils and hardships of pioneer missionary life, in a region then beyond the safeguards of civilization. Among their experiences in India were a night attack and massacre at Sudiya, by the Khanties, in January, 1839; the sickness and death of their three eldest children (one of whom they buried at Maulmain on the day of their departure); the desecrated grave of their first-born thrice opened by robbers for treasure, and left to wild beasts; repeated personal illness from fevers of the country and cholera; until at last, with health broken down, Dr. and Mrs. Brown returned to America in 1855, leaving behind them many weeping converts as the fruit of their sufferings and labors, and those of their associates. In addition to his other manifold missionary labors, Dr. Brown had translated the New Testament into Assamese. As a translator, he worked from the originals, with conscientious fidelity as to both text and translation, and his versions of the New Testament, both in Assamese and Japanese, while based on the requirements of the best modern scholarship, have already passed the tests of time and service. As an Oriental linguist, his characteristic was a comprehensive grasp of varied languages in their relationships to each other, resulting from patient research and an intuitive apprehension of lingual affinities. Among the languages to which he had given special study during this period of his life were the Burmese, the Shan and its cognates, and the Sanscrit, with several of its living dialects, including, of course, the Assamese. As a missionary, his scheme of work was thorough and far-reaching, taking into account the intellectual, social, industrial, and moral elevation of the races for whom he labored. Discovering the foundations of the heathen religions to be based on a corrupted fabulous literature, he early apprehended the importance of undermining those foundations by planting the seeds of scientific, historic, and religious truth; and relied on the press and schools as next in importance to the living preacher. With this view, he established The Orunodoi (Dawn of Day), an attractive monthly illustrated magazine, in the Assamese language. While broad in aim, he was remarkably practical and thorough in details. In Burmah and Assam he travelled from village to village, distributing tracts, becoming acquainted with the natives, and preaching; winning the affection even of fierce savages of the hills by his gentle, mostentatious friendliness. His return to America, which seemed the overthrow of the hopes of a lifetime, proved ultimately to be the introduction to a second and not less important mission, in behalf of the enslaved blacks of his own land. In 1856, Dr. Brown was called to the editorship of The American Baptist, an anti-slavery journal in New York City; which post he held for fifteen years, during the stormiest period of the nation's history. His instincts and convictions had always been on the side of freedom: from early manhood he was an abolitionist; and he took up this new duty with all the zeal and religious enthusiasm which characterized his missionary work in foreign lands. His editorials, before and during the war, attracted attention by their vigor and clearness. Recognized as one of the leading spirits in the anti-slavery movement, he was appointed in 1862, with Cheever and Goodell, to wait upon President Lincoln and urge upon him the emancipation of the slaves. During this period of his life, after the assassination of President Lincoln, he wrote an allegorical history of the Civil War, entitled "Magnus Maharba." Meanwhile his interest in philological studies continued unabated, and he organized an association called "The American Philological Society," one object of which was to promote a system of scientific phonetics adapted to all languages. In this phonetic form, as well as in the ordinary spelling, "Magnus Maharba" was published.

In May, 1871, Dr. Brown lost the devoted companion of his toils, whose health had not, like his, recovered from the effect of the sufferings she had undergone. The awakening of Japan and calls for missionaries to that country soon led the veteran to resume his life-work as a foreign missionary; and in 1872 he was designated by the Baptist Missionary Union to Japan, for which field he set sail from San Francisco, in January, 1873. He had married, in July, 1873, Charlotte Amelia Worth, widow of William Marlitt, Esq. She, with her two little daughters, accompanied him to Japan. Although now sixty-five years of age, he entered upon and completed this third great work of his life with unabated energy; and in August, 1879, his translation of the New Testament, from Greek into vernacular Japanese, was in print. This he afterwards revised and published, both in the vernacular and scholars' editions, and issued other Scriptures and tracts, being assisted for a time in the work of publication and distribution by his son, William Pearee Brown. He believed the Kana, or vernacular, to be the chief reliance of the missionary press, in reaching the great mass of the people; and his publications, in this character, as well as in Romanized Japanese, have had a large circulation.

At the close of the year 1885, his Japanese Hymn Book was completed, forming an appropriate period at once to his missionary, linguistic, and literary labors. The poetic "gift and faculty divine" was his, and in the intervals of his multiplied duties, bursts of sacred song welled up from his loving and enthusiastic spirit in the Eastern tongues, which had become to him like his own; and they are sung, to-day, by converts from heathenism, in Assam, Burmah, and Japan. At the age of nineteen, while still an undergraduate at Williams College, he had written that heart-stirring reveille, "The Missionary Call," which strikes the key-note of a life of remarkable unity and completeness, inspired throughout, from youth to age, by a single controlling principle, "the love of man, founded on the love of God." The following is the correct text of the poem as originally published:—

My soul is not at rest. There comes a strange
And secret whisper to my spirit, like
A dream of night, that tells me I am on Enchanted ground. Why live I here? The vows
Of God are on me, and I may not stop
To play with shadows, or pluck earthly flowers,
Till I my work have done, and rendered up
Account. The voice of my departed Lord,
GO TEACH ALL NATIONS, from the eastern world
Comes on the night air, and awakes my ear.

And I will go. I may not longer doubt
To give up friends and home and idol hopes,
And every tender tie that binds my heart
To thee, my country! Why should I regard
Earth's little store of borrowed sweets? I sure
Have had enough of sorrow in my cup
To show that never was it His design,
Who placed me here, that I should live in ease,
Or drink at pleasure's fountain.

Henceforth, then,

It matters not, if storm or sunshine be
My earthly lot, bitter or sweet my cup;
I only pray, God fit me for the work;
God make me holy, and my spirit nerve
For the stern hour of strife. Let me but know
There is an Arm unseen that holds me up,
An Eye that kindly watches all my path,
Till I my weary pilgrimage have done;
Let me but know I have a Friend that waits
To welcome me to glory, and I joy
To tread the dark and death-fraught wilderness.

And when I come to stretch me for the last,
In unattended agony, beneath
The cocoa's shade, or lift my dying eyes
From Afrie's burning sands, it will be sweet
That I have toiled for other worlds than this;
I know I shall feel happier than to die
On softer bed.

And if I should reach heaven;
If one that hath so deeply, darkly sinned;
If one whom ruin and revolt have held
With such a fearful grasp; if one for whom
Satan has struggled as he hath for me,
Should ever reach that blessed shore, oh, how
This heart will flame with gratitude and love!
And through the ages of eternal years,
Thus saved, my spirit never shall repent
That toil and suffering once were mine below.

WILLIAM R. BROWN³⁴⁵⁶, of Larned, Kansas, has held the positions of district judge, member of the House of Representatives at Washington, and register at United States Land Office at Lawrence, Kan.; a graduate of Union College, 1862.

WM. G. BROWN³⁵¹⁷ of Stevens Point, Wis. He was fitted for college at New Hampton, N. H., and at Bennington Seminary, of which latter institution his brother, Rev. Dr. Nathan Brown, was then an associate principal. He entered Williams College in 1833; poor health prevented his finishing the course. He taught school at Bennington, Vt., Shelburne Falls and Holyoke, Mass., and in 1840 became editor of the Vermont Telegraph, afterwards of the Voice of Freedom, both anti-slavery papers, published at Brandon, Vt. 1856 to 1858 was editor of Chicopee Journal, published at Chicopee, Mass. He is the author of several poems that have attained a wide circulation. The best known of these poems are "A Hundred Years to Come" and "Mother, Home, and Heaven."

CHURCHILL.

GARDNER A. CHURCHILL¹⁵¹³, of Boston, Mass., was appointed an acting ensign, United States Navy, 1862, and served in the navy for three years. He formed, in 1866, with Mr. H. T. Rockwell, the firm of Rockwell & Churchill, printers, of Boston. He moved to Dorchester, 1868; has represented that town two terms in the Legislature, and was one year trustee of Danvers Hospital.

CROSBY.

SAMUEL COBB CROSBY²⁷²¹, of Jamestown, N. Y., came to Jamestown in 1832, and for a year thereafter was employed as a clerk in the post-office, E. T. Foote being the postmaster. Subsequently he was in business with Mr. N. Lowry; afterwards kept a general store, firm name S. C. Crosby & Co.; also for a time engaged in business with his brother-in-law, Zalmon Keeler. In 1855 he went out of the mercantile trade; subsequently, however, in 1863, he, with the late Bradford Burlin, established the first coal-yard in Jamestown. This was an experiment. Previous to this, wood had been the only fuel used in this section. Mr. Crosby has held offices of public trust during the years of his active business life, all of which were faithfully administered.

DANIELS.

FRANCIS DANIELS¹⁰⁴⁵. In his early days he was a merchant near Plainfield, Vt. For nearly twenty years he was engaged in the cotton trade in Mobile and New Orleans, returning to reside in Grafton, Vt., about 1850. He took an active interest in local affairs, and was a generous supporter of all public enterprise which seemed worthy in his judgment. His private benefactions to the poor were liberal and frequent. He contributed largely to the support of the Congregational church. He was an ardent Republican of the original abolition type. He represented his town in the State Legislature, 1858-59, and again in 1863-64, serving a part of the time on the Committee on Banking. At the beginning of the war he advocated strongly the policy of arming the blacks, and in the latter part of the summer of 1861, at a public meeting in Grafton, Vt., he introduced a series of resolutions, requesting President Lincoln to arm the blacks, and advocated the measure in a spirited speech. He died in Grafton, 1877. His wife was Lucy Barrett¹⁰⁴⁵.

FRANCIS BARRETT DANIELS¹⁰⁴⁹ of Dubuque, Iowa, graduate at Phillipsburg Academy, Andover, Mass., class 1867, Harvard College, class 1871, and Columbia College Law School, class 1874. Is practising law at Dubuque, Iowa, where he was a Presidential elector in 1880.

DAY.

LIEUT. MURRAY SIMPSON DAY¹⁷⁷¹, of the United States Navy, was a son of Hamibal Day, and son-in-law of Gen. George S. Greene. From 1873 to 1876, Lieut. Day, by consent of the United States government, served the Japanese government in organizing and starting a government Coast Survey similar to the United States Coast Survey. Lieut. Day died Dec. 27, 1878, on board the United States ship "Vandalia," on the voyage from Gibraltar to New York.

DANA.

HON. SAMUEL DANA¹⁷¹⁵, of Groton, Mass., was identified with the history of his native town for nearly fifty years. He studied law at the office of his father and Judge John Lowell in Boston; was admitted to the bar in 1789, and opened an office in Groton, where he gained an extensive practice, becoming a leader of the Middlesex bar. Butler's "History of Groton" says of him: "He was a popular speaker, able advocate, and successful practitioner. Mr. Dana was the first postmaster of Groton. There was a mail once in each week; the quarterly receipts for the first year (1800) amounted to three dollars. He was also captain of the North Company in Groton, composed of Democrats, the South Company being Federalists, commanded by Hon. Timothy Bigelow, who was the lawyer usually pitted against Mr. Dana in the more important suits of the day. He was appointed county attorney for the county of Middlesex in 1807, holding the office for four years, when he received the appointment of chief justice of the Court of Common Pleas, holding the position for ten years. He was representative to the General Court for two years, 1802-3, and was elected to the Senate for nine successive years, during eight of which he was president of that body. In the fall of 1814 he was elected a representative to fill the vacancy in Congress, and was a delegate to the convention for altering and amending the State Constitution in 1820-21. In 1825-26 he again represented the town in the Legislature. He removed to Charlestown in 1808, where he, with his family, resided for five years. Mrs. Dana's health being delicate, and she being unable to bear the east winds, he returned to his native town, purchasing a farm of some three hundred acres, upon which he introduced the most approved agricultural implements. He was one of the first members of the Middlesex Agricultural Society at Concord, Mass. He was also much interested in the growth of wool, and in company with others imported the first merino sheep into this country. He spent the winter of 1824-5 in Washington, and there organized the New England Society for the Improvement of Wool. Mrs. Dana is remembered as being tall and singularly graceful in her movements, and noted for her beauty of form and feature, her culture and refinement, lovely disposition, and powers of conversation." He died in Charlestown, Mass.

HON. JAMES DANA¹⁷⁴⁴ of Boston, Mass. Mr. Dana graduated at Harvard College, 1830, and is a counsellor at law in Boston. He was mayor of the city of Charlestown for three years, beginning in 1858. During his term of office the Mystic Water Works, for the supply of Charlestown and contiguous municipalities, was established, also the Charlestown Public Library. He was appointed clerk of the courts in Middlesex County, to fill a vacancy, and served until his successor was elected and qualified. He held a commission as an officer in the Massachusetts State Volunteer Militia for twelve years, viz., commander of the Charlestown Light Infantry, brigade-major on the staff of Gen. Joshual Butterick of Concord, colonel of Fourth Regiment of Infantry, and general in Third Brigade, Second Division.

GEN. JAMES JACKSON DANA¹⁷⁴⁷, of Washington, D. C., received from President Franklin Pierce a commission as lieutenant in the United States Fourth Regiment of Artillery, and was engaged in operations against the Seminole Indians in Florida, and in the disturbances in Kansas, and subsequently served at various points with his regiment in Nebraska, Minnesota, and Utah. At the outbreak of the Southern Rebellion he was appointed regimental quartermaster, and ordered from Camp Floyd, Utah, where he was serving with the light battery of his regiment, to headquarters at Fort McHenry, Baltimore. He was soon after appointed assistant quartermaster, with rank of captain United States Army, and placed in charge of the transportation branch of the Washington quartermaster's depot, covering an area of more than one hundred acres, on which were the extensive stables for thousands of horses and mules, hospitals for the treatment of the wounded animals, shops and storehouses where army wagons, ambulances, harness, and articles pertaining to land transportation were received, stored, repaired, and manufactured, and issued to the Army of the Potomac and the troops around Washington. His official expenditures were by the millions, and his employees numbered upwards of five thousand. The lamented Gen. Reynolds, commanding the First Army Corps, having applied for him as chief quartermaster, with rank of colonel, on his staff, he was so appointed, and was engaged in the campaign of Chancellorsville, and at Gettysburg, where Gen. Reynolds received the untimely fatal shot. Capt. Dana was brevetted major, lieutenant-colonel, colonel, and brigadier-general for faithful and meritorious services in the quartermaster's department during the war, and was promoted major and quartermaster, Jan. 18, 1867, and lieutenant-colonel and deputy quartermaster, Feb. 13, 1882. Gen. Dana served after the war in charge of a division in the office of the quartermaster-general; subsequently as chief quartermaster Department of the Lakes, of the Department of Arizona and New Mexico, in charge of the clothing depot at Schuylkill Arsenal, Philadelphia, and as depot quartermaster at sundry places. He was also in charge, at Nashville, Tenn., of the investigation of claims of loyal citizens for property taken by and used for the armies of the United States in Tennessee during the Rebellion; afterwards he served as chief quartermaster, Department of the South, whence he was ordered to duty in the general office at Washington. On the 9th of April, 1885, having reached the age of sixty-four years, by operation of act June 30, 1882, he was retired from active service, holding at the time the rank of lieutenant-colonel and deputy quartermaster-general, United States Army.

EVERETT.

COL. JOHN M. EVERETT¹⁴⁰⁹, of Foxboro, Mass., was a farmer; he also held a number of public offices: colonel of the State militia, justice of the peace, trial justice, and a member of the board of selectmen and school committee; in 1846 was representative to the Legislature. In 1850 he made a survey of Foxboro (his native town), and from it drew a map of the town. In 1871, feeling the effect of age upon him, he sold his farm and removed to Wrentham, and soon after became blind. After submitting to several painful operations, three of which were unsuccessful in bringing sight, discouraged by his friends and knowing that his chances were small, he again sought Dr. Sprague of Boston, for the fourth time, and returned to his home rejoicing with sight restored.

FOSTER.

ISAAC FOSTER¹¹⁸⁴ after his marriage moved to New York State in 1817 to the town of Aurelius, where afterward Fosterville, a village of the town, was named for him and his brother. Mr. Foster opened the first store in Fosterville in 1819. He was a justice of the peace for eleven years, and was the first postmaster of Fosterville.

FLETCHER.

HON. JOHN FLETCHER¹⁷²⁶, of Acton, Mass., was a member of the State Legislature, 1862, State Senate, 1870 and 1871.

REV. JAMES FLETCHER¹⁷²⁴, of Acton, Mass., a graduate of Academy at New Ipswich, N. H., Dartmouth College, 1843, Andover Seminary, 1856. Mr. Fletcher has been engaged as a minister in the Congregational society, and also a teacher in academies and seminaries in the State. He married Lydia Middleton Woodward, daughter of Rev. Henry Woodward, one of the first missionaries to Ceylon, and a granddaughter of Prof. Bessaleel Woodward of Dartmouth College.

FROTHINGHAM.

REV. WILLIAM FROTHINGHAM¹¹¹⁹, a graduate at Harvard College, 1799, in the class with Channing, Tuckerman, and other distinguished Unitarians. He kept a school at Lexington for a time, was licensed to preach June 9, 1801, and ordained pastor of the church at Saugus, Mass., Sept. 26, 1804, remaining there twelve years, and in July, 1819, he was installed over the Congregational church at Belfast, Maine, where his ministry continued twenty-seven years. His wife was Lois Barrett¹¹¹⁹.

GREENE.

CHARLES THURSTON GREENE¹⁷⁶⁹ was a member of the Twenty-second Regiment New York State Militia in service of the United States, also second lieutenant Sixtieth Regiment New York Volunteers, aide-de-camp to his father, Gen. Geo. S. Greene; assistant adjutant-general, 1863. He was in many of the important battles, and lost a leg at the battle of Chattanooga, Tenn., while leading the Third Brigade, Second Division, Second Army Corps, past the batteries at Ringold. He was appointed captain and brevet major in the Regiment of Veteran Reserves for gallant service, and when the regiment was disbanded, he was placed upon the retired list of the army, with the rank of captain mounted.

CAPT. FRANCIS VINTON GREENE¹⁷⁷³ was a cadet at United States Military Academy, West Point, 1866 to 1870, at the head of his class each year; lieutenant of engineers, captain engineers, United States Army; assistant astronomer and surveyor on the location of the northern boundary line between the United States and Great Britain; military attaché to the United States Legation at St. Petersburg. He has been assistant engineer for the city of Washington since 1879. In addition to his official reports on the movements, organization, etc., of the Russian army in the campaign of 1877-78, he has published "Army Life in Russia." "The Mississippi Campaign of the Civil War."

GEN. GEORGE SEARS GREENE¹⁷⁴³ was born at Apponaug, Warwick, R. I., May 6, 1801. He is a descendant in the sixth generation from Major John Greene, deputy governor of Rhode Island, whose father, John Green, Sr., came from Salisbury, in England, in 1635, settling in Warwick, R. I., 1643.

Gen. Greene graduated at the Military Academy, West Point, 1823, second in his class, with rank of second lieutenant. Lieut. Greene left the army in 1836 and became a civil engineer, building many railroads in the States of Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New York, Maryland, and Virginia. In 1856 he served in the Croton Aqueduct Department in the city of New York, building the reservoir in Central Park, raising the High Bridge, and increasing its capacity for bringing water into the city.

Gen. Greene was appointed brigadier-general of volunteers, United States Army, April 28, 1862. He commanded his brigade at Cedar Mountain, Aug. 9, 1862, and was in command of the Second Division of the Twelfth Army Corps in the battle of Antietam, Sept. 17, 1862. Also commanded his brigade at the battle of Chancellorsville, May 1 and 2, 1863; and at Gettysburg, July 2, 1863, with a portion of his brigade he held the right wing of the Army of the Potomac, at Culp's Hill, against a fierce onslaught of more than a division of Confederate troops, thereby averting a terrible disaster which would have resulted from turning the right wing of the army. He was transferred to the Western armies in September, 1863, and in a night engagement at Wauhatchie, near Chattanooga, on Oct. 28, 1863, he was dangerously wounded by a rifle bullet passing through his face and breaking the bones of the jaw. This wound disabled him from active service until January, 1865, when he rejoined Sherman's army in North Carolina, and participated in the engagements preceding Johnson's surrender. He was appointed brevet major-general for his distinguished services, March 13, 1865, and retired from the army in 1866. In 1867 he became chief engineer and commissioner of the Croton Aqueduct Department, and remained such until 1871, when he became chief engineer of public works in Washington, resigning from that position in 1872. He was president of the American Society of Civil Engineers from 1875 to 1877, and since that date has been engaged as consulting engineer on various engineering works.

GEORGE SEARS GREENE, JR.¹⁷⁶⁶, of New York, is a civil engineer, and has been engineer in chief, Department of Docks, New York City, from 1875 to the present time.

SAMUEL DANA GREENE¹⁷⁶⁷, midshipman U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., 1855 to 1859; passed midshipman, 1859, to August 31, 1861, when he was promoted lieutenant U. S. Navy; second in command of the iron-clad "Monitor" under Lieut. Worden, and in command when Lieut. Worden was wounded in the fight with the rebel iron-clad "Merrimac." He was attached to the "Monitor" till she sank off Cape Hatteras. He was lieutenant-commander and commander, and constantly on duty until his death.

GOWING.

JOHN KENDALL GOWING²⁵⁴⁹, of Shirley, Mass., was a prominent resident of Shirley during his life. He was a selectman four years, was county commissioner, and represented his town in the Legislature one year.

HALL.

EVELYN MAY BARRETT HALL²⁷⁵², wife of Elial F. Hall, was of unusual mental endowments; she was thorough in her knowledge, unostentatious in her bearing, and possessed great character as well as the gentlest of spirits. She was a dependence wherever she was placed. Having no children of her own, her sympathy and help went out in a large measure to the families of her brothers and sisters, and entered into the charitable work with which she was connected in New York City. Her aid here was invaluable. The influence of her character among working women, whom she met with from week to week, was said to have been wonderful for good. She had many devoted friends among these women, who loved her and gained great strength and practical knowledge from her for their common needs. She said to her sister shortly before her death, "This work of mine is not finished; I shall take it with me into the other world." She had a rare gift for literary work, and wrote many valuable articles, notably the description of the first company that navigated Chautauqua Lake. It will find an honored place in the archives of the country. Dr. Taylor, her pastor, closed in the brief funeral service with the following words: "She so gentle, so even-tempered, and so cultured, tried to walk with God."

HOSMER.

REV. GEORGE WASHINGTON HOSMER⁴²⁰⁷ was born in Concord in 1803. He studied first at the school in Concord, then taught by the Rev. Samuel Barrett (afterwards minister of the Chardon Street Church in Boston); here he prepared for college, and was admitted to the Freshman class in Harvard College, 1822. He taught a school during his college term in Wayland, Lincoln, and Bolton to help pay his expenses. After graduating he taught school successfully at Plymouth, for about one year, then entering the Divinity School at Cambridge; after this he preached for seven years at Northfield, Mass. He succeeded the Rev. James Freeman Clarke at Louisville, Ky., in 1835. He removed to Buffalo in 1836, and there continued a successful pastorate for thirty years. He became the president of Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio, in 1866, occupying the chair for seven years, when he removed to Newton, Mass., becoming pastor of the Channing Church.

MAJOR JOSEPH HOSMER⁴¹⁹³ of Concord. "In the great events of the Revolution he acted a conspicuous part, always in favor of liberty. Whilst the preliminary measures were under discussion, one of the townsmen made a powerful speech, in which he attempted to ridicule the doings of the 'Sons of Liberty.' Mr. Hosmer immediately replied in a strain of natural, unaffected, but energetic eloquence (for which he was afterwards distinguished), which particularly attracted public attention, and introduced him to public favor. He was a militia officer on April 19, 1775, and the first captain of the Concord Light Infantry Company, and was afterwards promoted to major. He was a representative five years, a senator twelve, being always an active and influential member. He was appointed sheriff of the county in 1792, and sustained the office fifteen years. Major Hosmer was endowed by nature with strong, active powers of mind; and the character he formed enabled him to meet all events with that fortitude which is an earnest of success. Ardent without rashness, bold without presumption, and religious without fanaticism, he was eminently a useful man."

PROF. JAMES KENDALL HOSMER⁴²¹⁷, a minister at Deerfield, Mass., 1860 to 1866 corporal Fifty-second Regiment Massachusetts Volunteers, 1862-63; professor Antioch College, Ohio, 1866 to 1872; State University, Mo., 1872 to 1874; at Washington University, St. Louis, 1874.

HUBBARD.

EBENEZER HUBBARD¹⁸⁶⁴, of Concord, Mass., lived where he boasted that his grandfather had entertained Washington. 'He was always greatly disturbed in mind because the monument to commemorate the fight at North Bridge was not placed on the opposite side of the river, where the Americans stood that April morning. In his will he left one thousand dollars toward the cost of another monument on that side (which has resulted in the present statue of the minute-man). He also placed six hundred dollars in the hands of the town clerk to build a bridge on the site of the old one." He died unmarried.

HUMPHREY.

JOHN HUMPHREY¹³⁹⁸, a graduate of Bridgewater Normal School, 1855, enlisted in United States Navy, at Charlestown, Mass., June, 1861; subsequently detailed to United States steamship "Cumberland," which started for the scene of action, stopping to bombard Forts Henry and Hatteras, and then proceeded to their station off Newport News at the mouth of the James River, where they were placed with the United States steamship "Congress," to guard the river, and where the historic action took place between them and the rebel iron-clad "Merrimae," and where he fell, one of the first victims; his remains were not recovered.

WILLIAM S. HUMPHREY¹⁴⁷⁸, of Bridgeport, Conn., engaged in 1835 in the india-rubber trade, then in its infancy. In 1849 he visited California. Returning in 1852, he became superintendent of a rubber packing and belting factory in Newtown, where he remained several years. In 1865 he established a business of making steam boilers in Bridgeport, Conn., a successful business, in which he continued until his death, which resulted accidentally from the falling of a tree.

HUNT.

REUBEN HUNT¹⁸⁵⁰, a son of Simon and Mary (Raymond) Hunt. He was one of the founders of the Congregational Unitarian church in Charlestown; he died in 1816. During his life he had accumulated a large property. His wife was Rebecca Barrett¹⁸⁵⁰.

SIMON HUNT⁸⁶⁸, born in Concord, Mass., 1784, and removed to Camden, Maine, in 1806, where he resided until his death in 1865, a period of nearly sixty years. During the War of 1812, while a British squadron was riding at anchor in the bay, he ventured out in a small boat to reconnoitre the English men-of-war. He was captured, and imprisoned for one week. His wife, Hannah B. (Rogers) Hunt, died in Camden in 1882.

SIMON HUNT⁹⁹⁷, of Hudson, Wis. He was born in Camden, Maine, in 1826, received an academic education at home, learned the trade of shoe-making in Georgetown, Mass., removed to Missouri, 1851, and is now engaged in business at Hudson, Wis. His wife, Jane C. (Arey) Hunt, a very estimable lady, died in 1883.

JONES.

CHARLES AUGUSTUS JONES⁴⁷⁷³ was born in Wakefield, Mass. He was engaged in the hotel business all his life, having been some years steward of the old Winthrop House in Boston, before it was burned. He was proprietor of the Norfolk House for twenty-five years. It was his pride during many years to say that he was the second oldest hotel-keeper in Boston, Harvey D. Parker being the oldest. He was connected with the Masonic order, and a member of the Joseph Warren Commandery of Knights Templars. Mr. Jones lived in Boston from 1836 to the time of his death, excepting about two years spent in New York. He came to the Norfolk House in 1859. He married Isanna Brigham, and their only daughter married William Warren Davis of Boston.

ELNATHAN JONES⁴⁶⁹² of South Acton, Mass., of the house of Tuttle, Jones & Wetherbee, which was established nearly fifty years ago, and now so well known in South Acton and its vicinity. Mr. Jones was several years in the employment of this house before being admitted to the partnership. He is a man of very successful business abilities, and of the highest integrity; has held some of the minor offices in his town, and has been always deeply interested in the welfare of the Universalist society. His fellow-citizens would have often been glad to elect him to office. He has, however, discouraged all such prominence.

LEWIS.

BETSEY L. (BARRETT) LEWIS²⁸¹⁷ of Lewiston, Wis. She married Edward F. Lewis, and in 1849 they moved to what is now Lewiston, her present home (the town taking its name from that of her husband). At that time the country was in the possession of the Indians, and was before the government had made its survey of the lands. She shared with her husband a conscientious and an active life, both in public and private stations. Mr. Lewis was elected sheriff of the county in 1857, and soon after the breaking out of the war was appointed provost-marshal of the congressional district, and held the office until the close of the war. He died in 1885.

FRANKLIN FILLMORE LEWIS²⁸³¹, of Portage, Wis., finished his education in the State Normal School of Wisconsin. He taught school for a time, and was principal of the public schools of Whitewater, Wis., and is now engaged in the manufactory with his brother at Portage, Wis.

JUDSON ADONIRAM LEWIS²⁸²⁸ enlisted in Company G, Second Regiment Wisconsin Volunteers, at the beginning of the Rebellion; being then under age, his name was taken from the enlistment. The year following, having gained his parents' consent, he again enlisted, and in Company C, Twenty-third Regiment Wisconsin Volunteers. He was with the regiment during its marches and engagements in Kentucky, Tennessee, Missouri, and Mississippi. He was at the siege of Vicksburg, in 1863, and on May 22, at the time of a charge upon the enemies' works, he was shot in the head and killed. He was color-bearer of his regiment at the time. He was buried with others of the killed by the enemy.

STEPHEN BARRETT LEWIS²⁸³⁰, of Portage, Wis., graduated from the State Normal School of Wisconsin, 1874. He was elected principal of the schools of Clinton, Wis., the same year, and continued in this position for nine years. After this he engaged in the woollen manufacture at Portage, Wis.

MILES.

CAPT. CHARLES MILES¹⁵⁵⁸ of Concord, Mass., the husband of Ruth Barrett¹⁵⁵⁸, was in a company of ninety-four minute-men in the Revolution. He commanded his company in the "Concord fight," into which he said he "went with the same seriousness as if he were going to the house of God." He was also in command at Ticonderoga.

MARTIN.

MRS. LIZZIE EDNA (JONES) MARTIN¹⁶⁶⁸, of Boston, Mass., is an artist and teacher, well known to art lovers of Boston and New York, having been engaged in the work for more than ten years. She has instructed pupils from all parts of the Union in oil, water-color, and china painting. Some of Mrs. Martin's productions have become celebrated, not alone in her own country, a few of her exquisite flower pictures having been collected by London houses to be lithographed for art studies.

MATSELL.

GEORGE WASHINGTON MATSELL²⁵⁰¹, born in New York City, Oct. 25, 1811, and was a pupil of Coates Academy, in that city. At an early age, as a sailor boy, he made several voyages to the West Indies and China. In 1826, he was apprenticed, as designer of patterns, to Messrs. Barrett, Tileston & Co., of the New York dyeing and printing establishment of Staten Island. From 1837 to 1843 was major of the Sixth Infantry of the State of New York; in 1840 appointed police magistrate at the Tombs, New York; after holding that position for five years, was appointed, in 1845, chief of police by Mayor Havemeyer, and under whose able administration he originated the first police system in the United States, bringing together all the information on the subject, from whatever quarters it could be found. From these sources, and from his own practical experiences and observations, was drawn up, in 1845, the first manual of rules and regulations of the police department in the United States. He held the office of chief of police, continuously, under the mayoralties of Havemeyer, Meckle, Brady, Havemeyer (second term), Woodhull, Kingsland, Westervelt, and Wood. He was admitted as a counsellor of the Supreme Court of the State of New York. In 1857 he retired to his farm in Iowa. In 1873 he was appointed superintendent of police, when the Hon. Wm. F. Havemeyer was re-elected for the third term; and in the same year was appointed by him police commissioner, and elected president of the board of police. He died at his residence in Fifty-eighth Street, New York City, and was buried in Trinity cemetery on the bank of the Hudson River. His wife was Ellen M. Barrett²⁵⁰¹, daughter of George M. Barrett²¹⁵².

NOURSE.

MAJOR BARNARD NOURSE⁷⁴³ was born in Bolton, where he afterwards lived during his life. He was a farmer, and served for several years as a representative in the State Legislature, and held a major's commission in the militia of Massachusetts. He married Hannah Barrett⁷⁴².

CALEB NOURSE⁷⁵⁰ of Bolton. He was a school teacher for many years, in the latter part of his life engaging in farming. He held nearly every office in his town, — an honored citizen. He died in 1884.

Charles F. Potter

Henry Potter

PIERCE.

REV. JOHN DAVIS PIERCE²⁶⁹⁰ of Ypsilanti, Mich. From the age of two years until twenty, he lived with a paternal uncle in Worcester, Mass. After this, obtaining employment as a farm laborer, he saved one hundred dollars; with a like sum, given to him by his grandfather, he started out to acquire an education. The 14th of December, 1817, he walked fourteen miles, buying a Latin grammar on the way, and taking his first lesson in Latin that evening, under Rev. Enoch Pond. He entered Brown University the following September, and by close application, graduated in 1823, in the first eight of his class of thirty-six. He was settled as a pastor in Oneida County, N. Y., in 1823, remaining until 1829, when the Masonic and anti-Masonic contest rendered it necessary for him to close his pastorate. He received a commission from the Home Missionary Society in 1831; in July, of the same year, removed to Marshall, Mich., laboring there as a missionary until July 26, 1836, in which year he was appointed superintendent of public instruction. His first work in this office was to draw up a plan for the organization of the primary schools and of the State University, and the disposal of the primary school and university lands. He presented this plan to the Legislature in January, 1837, when it was adopted with very few amendments. He held this office for five years. In 1842, he returned to the Christian ministry, and continued therein until 1847, when he was elected to the State Legislature; was chairman of the Committee on Federal Relations in the House. He introduced and succeeded in carrying a resolution instructing the Michigan delegation in the national Congress to oppose the introduction of slavery into the Territories. He also prepared and carried the homestead exemption law, the first law of this kind enacted in the United States. In 1850 was a member of the convention for framing a new constitution for the State.

POTTER.

DEA. CHARLES FRANCIS POTTER⁵²¹¹ of Boston, Mass., born at Concord, and is a descendant from several of the earliest families that settled there; of these, his grandmother was Lucy Hosmer. She was a daughter of Nathan Hosmer, whose wife was Bulah Hosmer, both descendants of James Hosmer, who first settled in Concord. His great-grandfather, Jonas Potter, married Persis Barrett, daughter of Col. James Barrett. Judah Potter, the son of Luke Potter and grandfather of Jonas, married Grace Brooks, daughter of Joshua and Hannah (Mason) Brooks. Mr. Potter is a man of high business integrity and perfect uprightness. Entirely free from all questionable indulgences, his moral and Christian character are without a stain. A Universalist in faith, he honors his profession, and devotes himself assiduously to the promotion of church interests. As an indication of the esteem in which he is held by his Christian acquaintance, it may be noticed that he has been an officer in the Universalist Sunday-School Union, embracing nearly twenty different schools, for twenty-seven years, including the secretaryship for ten years, and all the subordinate offices at different times. He is now president of the Union, and has been often called to preside over other bodies, in which duties he displays rare abilities. Mr. Potter was a deacon in the Universalist church at Brighton.

HENRY POTTER⁵⁰⁰⁶, of Cambridge, Mass., was born in Concord, and was a resident of Cambridge for nearly half a century, and was always an active promoter of any enterprise calculated to benefit his city. One of the original charter members of the Cambridge Horse Railroad Company, and some time its president, it was mainly through his influence and subscriptions that the North Avenue and Arlington branch of that road was built. He was also associated with the birth and growth of the Cambridge Gas Light Company and Water Works, and to the stock of both companies subscribed largely. Mr. Potter was likewise one of the organizers of the Cambridge Market Bank, of which he was president for many years. He was also president of the Harvard Manufacturing Company, and had held the offices of president and director in many institutions, but at the time of his death had relinquished all of these positions excepting the chairmanship of the trustees of the Cambridge Horse Railroad bonds and director in the Gas Light Company, the latter company stoutly declining to accept his resignation, but relieved him from all labor connected with the position. Mr. Potter is remembered as a very benevolent man, always ready to give from his means to the deserving poor, and bestowing his bounty liberally. He was also well known as a merchant of Boston, of the house of Potter & Demmon. He retired from active business in 1865. Mr. Potter married, in 1843, Abigail Livermore Giles, daughter of Capt. Benjamin and Nancy (Williams) Giles, born in Beverly, Mass., Feb. 10, 1811 (see "Giles Memorial," p. 69). Nancy Williams was a daughter of Elisha Williams, who was born 1757, "graduated at Yale College, 1775, received the degree A. M. from Harvard and Yale, and who served on Gen. Washington's staff for a time, and later in life became pastor of the Baptist church in Beverly and died there, 1845" ("History of Williams Family," pp. 165-168, and Bond's "Watertown Genealogies," p. 349). Abigail Livermore, wife of Elisha Williams, born 1758, died 1817. She was eldest daughter of Dea. Elijah Livermore, 1730-1808, a native of Waltham, deacon, chairman, and selectman for a long period. He removed to Livermore, Me., in 1779, of which town-ship he was chief proprietor and first settler. He was emphatically the father of that town, and a man of great worth. — Bond's Watertown, p. 346.

HENRY STAPLES POTTER⁵⁰¹¹ of Boston, son of Henry and Abigail Livermore (Giles) Potter of Cambridge, is one of the leading merchants of Boston, his house standing at the head of the canning business in New England.

SAMUEL POTTER⁵¹⁶⁹. At the time of the "Concord fight," April 19, 1775, he was a lad about seven and a half years of age. His father lived about one mile from the centre of the town, and one and one half miles from the battle-ground. When the British soldiers were scattered over the town on their errands of destruction, as some of them approached the house where he lived, his mother took him and the other two children (both girls) back of the house and hid them in the bushes. Small boy though he was, he took his father's gun, and when the soldiers passed through the house and out at the back door, he raised the gun to fire at them. His mother was quick enough to put her hand under the hammer to prevent the gun from discharging, thus, probably, saving their own lives.

SAMUEL POTTER⁵¹⁸⁶ was early in life engaged in the manufacture of powder, in which business his rare ability and skill have gained for him the reputation of being the most skilful manufacturer of gunpowder in the country. For nearly forty years he was superintendent of the American Powder Company's Works at Acton, Mass., and for many years was one of its directors. His hair-breadth escapes from death by the explosions at the works were many. Scores of instances could be recounted when he had just left or was about to enter a mill before an explosion took place, which would have blown him to atoms. He passed through all of these dangers, and lived to a good age. All honor to his name and race.

SILAS WARREN POTTER⁵²¹² was all through the War of the Rebellion; he was left for dead on the battle-field of Shiloh, but discovered to be alive the next day by a passing straggler, a Massachusetts man, who had known him at home. He was a prisoner at Libby Prison, and in company with two other prisoners dug a subterranean passage and escaped. Afterwards a captain in the Fifty-ninth Veteran Regiment of Massachusetts; was severely wounded in the head at the battle of the Wilderness. His wounds and shattered constitution were afterwards the cause of his death.

RUSSELL.

JAMES SULLIVAN RUSSELL, A. M.⁵⁰⁶⁸, of Lowell, Mass., now nearly eighty years of age. He studied at Brown University; from this institution he received the honorary degree of A. M. He taught school in the various towns in the State, finally becoming teacher of mathematics in the Lowell, Mass., High School; continued forty-three years, retiring in 1881.

WILLIAM LAMBERT RUSSELL, M. D.⁵⁰⁶⁴, of Barre, Mass., a graduate of Harvard College, is an educated physician; his wife, Mary Ann Warren, is a descendant of Gen. Warren.

SAWYER.

JOEL SAWYER⁷⁸⁶ of Bolton, Mass., a watch-maker, which trade he has followed for many years; later in life he has given his attention to that of millwright, having achieved considerable reputation by the thoroughness of his work. He married Sarah Barrett⁷⁸⁶.

DR. LEVI SAWYER⁷⁴⁹ was a native of Bolton, Mass.; he studied medicine, and practised in South Carolina and Georgia; afterward returning to Bolton, he continued his practice until his death in 1841. His wife was Hannah Norse⁷⁴⁹.

SEVER.

COL. JOHN SEVER¹⁷³⁹ of Kingston, Mass. Col. Sever was a leading merchant, ship builder and owner. He was one of the originators and the first president of the Old Colony Railroad. He was very actively engaged in the construction of this road, his services in amicably settling land damages, and in other departments of the road, were valuable and duly appreciated. He was a successful business man, and had few superiors in Plymouth County. He was colonel of a regiment of Massachusetts militia.

MARTHA SEVER¹⁷⁵⁴, with her sister, Ann D. Sever¹⁷⁴⁹, volunteered as hospital nurses in 1864. Martha died at the Military Hospital, Beverly, N. J., in 1864. The Grand Army Post of Kingston, Mass., is named in honor of her memory, — "The Martha Sever Post." Her name is also inscribed on the soldiers' monument erected at that place. Her sister continued in the service at the hospital until it was abandoned.

SPALDING.

DR. EDWARD SPALDING¹⁰³⁹ of Nashua, N. H. A graduate from Dartmouth College, 1833. Studied medicine with his father and at the Harvard Medical School. Graduated an M. D., 1837. He has practised in his profession from that date to the present time in Nashua, N. H. Has several times been a member of the city government. Elected mayor in 1864; also elected a trustee of Dartmouth College in 1866. He assumed nearly the entire expense of publishing a history of his native town, Amherst, N. H. He married Dora Everett Barrett¹⁰³⁹.

SWAIN.

CHIPMAN SWAIN¹⁹¹⁸. Until forty years of age lived in the house in which he was born, and for fourteen years was sheriff of Windham, his native county, in Vermont. 1842 to 1845 he was superintendent of the State Prison in Windsor, Vt.

In 1855, at the age of sixty, he removed to Delton, Wis., and entered with much ardor in the work of making him a new home; and thus his life was one of constant enterprise and faithful activity until his death.

JOSEPH SWAIN¹⁹⁰³ was son of Rev. John Swain, who was a noted divine of his day, and for the most part of his life was settled in Wenham, Mass. The great-grandfather of Rev. John Swain was Jeremiah Swain, Jr., who, with his father, came to this country and settled in Reading, Mass., about 1640. He was a major and a noted Indian warrior.

Elizabeth Chipman, the mother of Joseph Swain, was the daughter of John and Rebecca (Neale) Chipman. John Chipman was son of John Chipman, who came from Dorchester, England, 1631.

Hope Howland, the wife of John Chipman, Sr., was the daughter of John and Elizabeth (Tilley) Howland.

John Tilley and wife and their daughter Elizabeth and John Howland came to this country in the "Mayflower."

PRESCOTT SWAIN¹⁹²¹ of Bronxville, N. Y. Mr. Swain, after the death of his brother James, assumed the name of James, and was known the greater part of his life as James Prescott Swain. He presented to the town of Concord, Mass., some relics of the Revolutionary War, at the centennial anniversary of the "Concord fight," April 19, 1875; he was present on that day, when he contracted a severe cold, from which he died, April 27, 1875.

COPY OF A LETTER FROM JAMES P. SWAIN TO CHARLES THOMPSON, ESQ.

BRONXVILLE, N. Y., March 24, 1875.

CHARLES THOMPSON, Esq.

Dear Sir, — About one hundred and one years ago, Dr. Warren sent a young man, his nephew by marriage, Joseph Swain, son of Rev. Joseph Swain, of Wenham, to Concord, to take charge of the rebel armory. After repairing the guns generally in use, he attempted to make some new ones. For this purpose he returned to Salem to the edge-tool factory of Mrs. Proctor, where he had previously had charge, and secured such tools as were to be had; and among them this anvil, which I now, through you, present to the town of Concord. On this anvil the first gun-barrel was welded in Concord.

Col. James Barrett and his son James had, during the French war, furnished, through the commissary department in Boston, oat meal and some other provisions. This continued on until near 1774. It was a common occurrence for a young staff officer to come to Concord on this business, and while waiting a reply would amuse himself by talking loyalty with James Barrett's oldest daughter, Melisent, to hear her rebel replies. He asked her what they would do if it should become necessary for the Colonies to resist, as there was not a person who even knew how to make cartridges. She replied that they would use their powder-horns and bullets, just as they shot bears. "That," says the young man, "would be too barbarous; give me a piece of pine, and I will show you how." After whittling the stick to the proper form, he took these scissors, which I now present to the town of Concord, and cut the paper for the pattern cartridge.

The sequel shows how apt a scholar she was, for all the cartridges were made under her superintendence by the young ladies of Concord; her only male assistant was her younger brother, the late Major James Barrett, who drove the last load of cartridges from the house after the British came in sight on the 19th of April, 1775. After the war, Joseph Swain returned to Concord and married Melisent Barrett, and took these relics to Halifax, Vt., where I came in possession of them.

Yours,

JAMES P. SWAIN.

This letter is copied in manuscript, and in a frame with the scissors mentioned fastened thereon, is now hanging in the Public Library at Concord.

TRUE.

DR. HENRY AYER TRUE¹⁸³⁵. A graduate of Bowdoin College, 1832. Studied medicine with Drs. Esterbrook of Camden and McLean of Topsham, Me. Attended lectures at Boston and Brunswick, at which latter place he received a medical degree. He was appointed assistant superintending physician of the McLean Asylum at Somerville, Mass., and afterwards was a druggist at New York City. He removed to Marion, Ohio, where ill health obliged him to abandon an extensive medical practice.

TAYLOR.

J. S. D. TAYLOR¹⁰⁴⁷. A graduate of the University of Vermont; studied law, and admitted to the bar; principal of an academy at Plattsburg, N. Y., and for some years before his death was associate editor and proprietor of the St. Albans Message. He died in 1873. His wife was Susan Hall Barrett¹⁰⁴⁷.

WHITE.

JOHN H. WHITE²⁷⁵¹ of New York City, "who married Lucy E. Barrett²⁷⁵¹, was a native of New Hampshire, but in his early boyhood his parents settled in Hoosic Falls, Rensselaer County, N. Y., where he was brought up, and which he always regarded as his country home. He was a graduate of the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, at Troy, N. Y. He was admitted to the bar in this city in the winter of 1848. In the fall of 1849 he was elected to the Assembly from the First Assembly District of this city, his first vote having been cast for Henry Clay. In 1850, Mr. White was elected school commissioner for the first ward. In 1852 he was the Whig candidate for the office of judge of the Marine Court, in 1854 for the office of recorder, and in 1856 for the office of city judge. People addressed him as Judge White, and he was very generally known by that appellation. He was the only Republican member of the Assembly from this city in the Legislature of 1870. He became a candidate only five days before the election, and it was universally conceded that he was the only Republican who could carry the Eleventh District, which he represented. Mr. White was an active and zealous member of the Republican party during the Rebellion and since that time. For ten years successively he was a member of the Republican general committee of this city. He was a member of the Union League Club, and was one of the founders of the Masonic Lodge known as Kane Lodge. Mr. White was frank, impulsive, sympathetic, generous, and magnanimous even to a fault. In his political, professional, and social relations he was always ready to take the side of the weaker, and to strike rapid and vigorous blows on that side, without pausing to calculate the chances. In his conflicts at the bar he often broke through technicalities and achieved victory, where others, of more erudition but less courage, would have failed. It was this trait of his character which attracted to his side such a host of warm friends and admirers from all classes of people, as was amply attested by the large attendance at his funeral. By his integrity and industry he built up a flourishing business, and left a competency to his family. He will long be remembered in the metropolis as an able lawyer, a loyal and upright citizen, a fearless enemy of injustice and oppression of every kind, a prompt and energetic man of business, a sincere and faithful friend, and a cultivated and conscientious Christian gentleman." — New York Daily Register.

WHITNEY.

LUCIUS WHITNEY¹³⁵⁹ served during the War of the Rebellion, enlisting as a private in the Seventh Kansas Cavalry Volunteers, and rising through the several grades to first lieutenant and R. C. S. of the regiment. He was upon detached service as staff officer for Col. Hatch, now of the Regular Army, also for Gen. John McNeil. He was also placed in command of the Gratiot Street Military Prison at St. Louis, Mo., and was for some time provost-marshal of the western district of Missouri. After the war he was postmaster nine years at Morris, Ill., and is at present postmaster at Billings, Montana.

WYMAN.

SAMUEL WYMAN³⁰³⁶, who married Polly Brown, was a farmer and lived in Cavendish, Vt., and later in life moved to Granville, N. Y., and died there in 1855.

WOOD.

EARL S. WOOD¹⁵⁰⁷ of Bridgeport, Conn. Mr. Wood enlisted for three years in the War of the Rebellion, in Company A, Twentieth Regiment Connecticut Volunteers, Col. Ross commanding. In April, 1864, his regiment was assigned to the Third Division, Twentieth Army Corps, under Gen. Hooker. For two weeks his company lay in the front line of intrenchments before Atlanta, within range of the rebel rifles. On the night of Sept. 1, 1864, the rebels evacuated Atlanta. Mr. Wood was one of the detachment sent into the city, to whom the mayor of Atlanta surrendered the city.
